国家出版基金项目
NATIONAL PUBLICATION FOUNDATION

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

مانا س

MANAS

BOOK TWO

SEMTAY

Volume Two

Singing: Jusurp Mamay

Editing: Chinese Translation Committee of Manas

Translating: Hongyan Li, Gary, Gregory·B·Meeks

XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING GROUP

XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING HOUSE

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

ماناس

MANAS

BOOK TWO

SEMTAY

Volume Two

Book One

Manas

Book Two

Semtay

Book Three

Seytek

Book Four

Kenainym

Book Five

Saiyit

Book Six

Aslebacha and Bekbacha

Book Seven

Sombilek

Book Eight

Chigetai

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

ماناس

MANAS

BOOK TWO·SEMTAY

| Volume Two |

Singing: Jusurp Mamay
Editing: Chinese Translation Committee of Manas
Translating: Hongyan Li, Gary, Gregory·B·Meeks

XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING GROUP
XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING HOUSE

Volume Two

Semtay Defeated Formidable Enemies Chinkogeo and Toltoy

Krichorao and Toltoy Confronted Each Other for the First Time 401

Old Courtier Baytikai Patiently Admonished Chinkogeo to Retreat 439

Chinkogeo Died in Bozwurchuk Battle 459

Three Heroes Fought in Jetsu and Krichorao Killed Toltoy 478

Semtay Returned to His Hometown with His Wife Ayichulek 510

Kunwuerbayi Attacked Kankoler

Toktosart Betrayed and Turned into a Spy 517

Kunwuerbayi Attacked Talas at Night and Semtay Was Encircled 538

Krichorao Sneaked into the Enemy Camp to Get Information at Night 562

The Two Choraos Fought Bravely and Kirgiz Gathered to Face Enemy 595

The Heroes Protected Talas

Two Armies Pitted against Each Other at Kankoler Plain 623

Young Baytaylak Began to Display His Talent 643

Krichorao Cut Kunwuerbayi Wound 653

Semtay Mounted the Horse and Went out to the Battle 675

Kunwuerbayi Fled and Karamark Rendered Tribute and Sued for Peace 689

Kairimubayi Conspired to Revolt in Collusion with Enemies

Kairimubayi Colluded with Karakuli 705

Kairimubayi Borrowed Troops from Jafan in the East to Help Him 713

Kairimubayi United Mardhan to Invade Talas 723

Semtay Went out Alone and Caused the Trouble

Semtay Slept in the Fields and His Horse Was Stolen 739
Karakuli Plotted a Failed Attempt to Kill Khan and He Died..... 748
Two Choraos Were Wrongly Accused and Swore and Bakay
Could Not Explain in a Word 764

Semtay Defeated Formidable Enemies Chinkogeo and Toltoy

Krichorao and Toltoy Confronted Each Other for the First Time

It was just five months,
To the time Chinkogeo restricted.
Chinkogeo and Toltoy discussed:
"The due date is coming,
We should send a messenger to negotiate."

They felt anxious,
They called in their subjects,
To pick an eloquent person as a messenger,
To negotiate with Akun Khan.
They wrote a letter,
Sealed at the end of the letter.

Chinkogeo said to the two messengers:
"If Akun Khan keeps his promise,
Let him agree on our terms immediately.
If Akun Khan continues to cheat us,
Ask him to meet us in the battlefield.

"If Akun Khan continues deceiving us,
I will ride my black-spotted horse,
Burst into his city of golden gate,
Smash his city.

"We will attack him like an eagle to catch a bird,
We will defeat him and drive him crazy,
We will level his beautiful homeland to the ground.
He must respond in three days,
Otherwise I will burst into his home,

Ayichulek is the apple of his eyes,
I will grab her arm and rob him off her,
Carry her on our saddle,
Let him know my power.

"We not only take his daughter away,
But also rob his livestock and treasure.
If Akun Khan makes a mature consideration,
He should be friendly and kind to us.

"We will cross our arms in front of the chest,
Present him the betrothal and fat sheep and become relatives.
We will drive as many livestock as he likes,
Till he feels satisfied."

Silver-tongued Jamanak,
Eloquent Salamart,
They did not rest on their way,
They did not play on the way either,
They came to the Akun Khan's city gate directly.

Akun Khan's guards,
Took these two eloquent messengers,
These two scouts,
To the front of Akun Khan.

Salamart and Jamanak,
Lowered their heads and bent their bodies,
Came in the palace and greeted Akun Khan.
Two messengers were both eloquent,
Their eloquence surprised everyone there.

Messenger Salamart came up and said first:
"My Khan, are you healthy?
Akun Khan, my Khan like an ocean!
You are a Khan the fine horse is unable to carry!
You are a famous and majestic Khan!

You are perfect and flawless!

"We know your daughter Ayichulek,
She is beautiful and extraordinarily smart.
Our Khan Chinkogeo,
He will bow to you and visit you,
Ask your permission to marry your daughter.

"This is the letter our Khan gives you,
How do you think about the marriage?
Khan, we respect you very much,
Please give us a definite answer.
You know Toltoy Khan is hot-tempered,
You should make your decision quickly!"

Dignified and kingly Akun Khan,
He did not withdraw his stretched legs,
He did not open his closed eyes.
Akun Khan, not in an old age,
Made a cough,
Then he lifted himself and straightened his back.

Exposed his white teeth,
He said to Salamart:
"Among my subjects,
There are two wise men.

"One is Ajebay,
The other one is Tumanbay,
You go and discuss with them,
You will get your answer.

"If they say marry,
No one dare say no.
If they say no,
No one dare say marry."
Akun Khan finished what he wanted to say,

Then he sent a servant,
Invited those two wise men,
To come to meet the messengers.
Ajebay and Tumanbay,
They read the letter presented by the messengers,
And remembered it in the heart.

Ajebay stood up,
Said to the messengers:
"We will wait for you in front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Please let Toltoy and Chinkogeo come,
We will discuss then.

"If we are willing to marry Ayichulek to him,
We will propose our terms immediately.
If we are unwilling to marry Ayichulek to him,
We will decide a place for the battle between us."
The messengers got their reply,
Then they whipped their horses and went back to their camp.

The messengers told Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
What Akun Khan and Ajebay said,
Word for word.
It was late at night,
People went to sleep.

Larks sang pleasantly,
The light of the dawn appeared.
Ajebay and Tumanbay,
Went to negotiate as messengers.

Tirmechyk and Karlek,
Went together with them.
They received the respect,
They were helped with holding their reins and off their horses.

In front of Bozwurchuk mountain,

By the edge of Jedigair,
Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Were there with two of their attendants.

Ajebay and Tumanbay,
And their two companions,
They sat there face to face,
Eight people sat in a circle.

The battle flag was hanging high on the spear point,
Chikogeo started to say:
"Widespread troops come from Jedigair,
Hero Toltoy also comes to honor us.
In order to marry beautiful Ayichulek,
We bring lavish betrothal and numerous livestock.
Please give us a clear answer.
If you do not keep your words,
If you cheat us,
Do not blame our mercilessness,
Bad luck will descend on you."

Ajebay heard what Chinkogeo said,
He replied like this:
"In the past, when Manas was alive,
Almanbet and Chuwak were with him.

"They captured Kunwuerbayi and Georoy's camels,
That was a long group lined up by a thousand single-hump camels,
They carried gold, silver, and jewels,
And a lot of tea.

"They led the captured camels,
Tied wood bowl-size cotton,
On the head of Almanbet's yellow spotted horse,
And came to our Khan.
They held a grand ceremony for Semtay and Ayichulek,
And made a marriage proposed by pointing at the belly.

The lavish gifts they brought,
They sent to people like water.

"Now, I have heard Manas' son Semtay,
He has grown up to a giant and fears nothing on earth.
I also heard that he is merciless and crude,
No matter to his families or to others.
I also heard of this damned guy,
He acts on his own will.
I heard he wears the armor and goes to battle,
Kills enemies bravely and mercilessly.

"I heard he drinks blood as water,
He is famous around as a bloodsucker.
I heard he does not take pity on his families,
He lives in this world as a curse-eater①,

"I think we should get his response first,
Then we can get rid of our worries!"

As soon as Ajebay finished his words,
Chinkogeo started to say angrily:
"When Manas died and people buried him,
Aweikai, Kobosh and Jagurp Khan,
Tussled like tearing a sheep,
Measured with horsewhip,
And divided Manas' inheritance.
They also tried to destroy the golden cradle,
And kill Manas' little son Semtay.

"It was Bakay who gave them the idea,
Let Kanikai take two Chanachy② horse milk,
Rode two weak and bony mares,

① Curse-eater: It refers to the person who has no family love.

② Chanachy: Kirgiz language. It is a leather bag made of a whole goat skin that is not cut open. It is used to put the milk and food.

Fled to Kara Khan's city,
They protected Semtay by this way.

"Divided and divorced people would be in the wolf's mouth,
Maybe they have already become wolf dung.
Their bones have been eaten by falcons,
And have become falcon droppings.

"You fear the spirit of Manas who has died long ago,
You fear his offspring while his corpse has decayed too,
Toltoy and I are two living unparalleled heroes in the world,
Why do not you fear us?"

Messenger Ajebay, at the moment,
Talked to them in a good temper:
"Chinkogeo, if you say like this,
I will bring Ayichulek,
To your front! "
Tumanbay then stood up,
Spoke loudly and seriously:
"If Ayichulek says she marries,
No one dare say do not marry!
If Ayichulek says she does not marry,
No one dare force her to marry!"

"You force our girl to marry you,
Did we kill your people?
And you want us to pay back by our girl.
Did we ride your single-hump camel to death,
And you want us to pay back by our girl?

"I would rather die,
Than suffer such humiliation from you!
In broad daylight,
You dare to act on your own will,
You just do what you want!"
Ajebay and Tumanbay finished their words,

And galloped their horses away angrily.

Four-wing black-spotted fine horse,
Chinkogeo rode on it.
Before the two messengers went too far,
He chased after them.

Chikogeo stopped the messengers on their way,
And spoke in a harsh tone and stern expression:
"If you are willing to marry Ayichulek to me,
Please say it clearly.
If you are unwilling to marry Ayichulek to me,
Please give me a definite answer too!

"Do not try to delay by playing tricks,
Please tell your intension clearly to me,
Stamp the palm-size seal on the paper,
Then talk about your return."

Ajebay felt angry about Chinkogeo's words,
He responded loudly:
"How can a tiger take a road back?
How can a hero deny his own words?
Forgive my bad memory,
I forgot the seal at home.

"Tomorrow early morning,
If I do not bring Ayichulek in front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Let the blue sky above our heads punish me!
Let the earth full of trees and grass punish me!"

Chinkogeo heard Ajebay's swear,
Spoke to him angrily:
"I will kill you if you cannot keep your words!"
He reined his horse and turned with a great rage.
This caused troubles that were hard to solve.

Ajebay and Tumanbay,
They became enemies with each other like cat and dog.
They did not talk to each other at all,
They whipped their steeds and returned home.

Tumanbay arrived at Akun Khan's palace first,
He dismounted his horse in a hurry,
Walked up and greeted Akun Khan:
"My ocean-like Khan, Akun Khan!
My giant the horse cannot carry, Akun Khan!
You sent me as a messenger,
Went to negotiate with Chinkogeo and Toltoy.

"But my big brother Ajebay,
He dreams to ride Chinkogeo's black-spotted horse.
My big brother Ajebay,
He dreams to be the master of your city.
He will catch your only daughter Ayichulek,
And takes her to the front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Presents her to Chinkogeo and Toltoy."

Heard what Tumanbay said,
Akun Khan's face turned black with rage,
White beard was quivering,
He was wet all over.

Right at the moment,
Ajebay also arrived,
And he stood by their sides.
"Hey! Ajebay,

Is what Tumanbay said true?
If what he said is true,
Ajebay, what on earth are you thinking about?"

Ajebay was good at sophistry,
He had a silver tongue.

Now he stuck at nothing,
He shouted at Akun Khan:
"You such a shrunken old man,
You get mad at me with no reason,
You such a dirty old man,
Do not get excited, calm down!
You such a hairless old man,
Do not talk nonsense here!

"Ferocious enemies have come to Bozwurchuk mountain,
Their troops spread all over the earth.
Akun Khan, if you do not give up Ayichulek,
Your subjects will be in trouble!
Akun Khan, if you really care and love Ayichulek,
You should present her to Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Then we can have peaceful lives.

"Akun Khan, please think about it,
Your palace becomes increasingly shaky,
If you still favor Ayichulek,
You will face endless disasters!

"Akun Khan, otherwise, you find a threshold,
Let us take her to a place no one can find and hide her.
Akun Khan, otherwise, you find a cave,
Let us take her there and hide her in the cave."

Heard Ajebay's blame,
There was a scene of chaos in Akun Khan's mind.
More and more people gathered outside,
The noise was like the roaring flood,
And was like the gust blowing from the valley.

Tumanbay saw what happened,
He went to Ayichulek's palace right away.
Ajebay chased after him tight,
Tumanbay had no time to dismount,

He shouted outside of the palace:
"Hey, Ayichulek, my colt!
Please come out as soon as possible if you are at home,
I have something urgent to report to you!"

Her face was as round as the sun,
Her face was as bright as the moon,
Her black eyes were like shining diamonds,
Her white cheeks had no freckles,
Her figure was as perfect as a white deer,
Her white teeth were exposed as she smiled.
Ayichulek came to the door with light steps,
Stepped out of the door quietly.

Without avoiding Ajebay,
Tumanbay started to talk to Ayichulek.
He told Ayichulek word by word,
How Ajebay swore to Chinkogeo,
That he would take Ayichulek to Bozwurchuk mountain,
And present her to Chinkogeo and Toltoy.

Super smart Ayichulek,
Stretched her body like a parrot,
She said with a smile:
"Big brother Ajebay, please tell me,
Do you intend to send me,
Your sister Ayichulek to Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Is it the purpose you come here?

"Big brother Ajebay, I tell you,
If you do not think about the result,
And act on your own will,
I will punish you one day!"

Ajebay said at the moment:
"Ayichulek, you listen to me carefully,
There is a troop coming to your city,

It is not a few, they are thousands of troops.

"They hold six-bullet guns,
Carry steel sword on the shoulders.
People are scared and scatter,
No one dare get close to Chinkogeo.
They will step on our bodies,
They will occupy our homeland.

"I have noticed these ruffians' intentions,
I had to stop them with lies.
I said I bring you to the front of Bozwurchuk mountain tomorrow morning,
I swore to them and then I can come back safely.

"Ayichulek, why do not you marry?
Is not there a good man you like?
Even if there is no your Mr. Right in the world,
Ayichulek, you can fly into the sky,
You miss Semtay,
Why do not you go and find him?"

Not in a hurry,
Ayichulek said sweet words:
"Two brothers, please dismount!
Come in and have some hot tea.

"If you think it is ok,
Let's do as you said.
If your ideas are all right,
I will follow your and my father's decision."

Ayichulek led in the front,
She opened the door of the palace.
Surprising thing went into their eyes in the palace.
Ajebay and Tumanbay,
They were shocked and speechless.

In the spacious courtyard,
There were fourteen big horses,
Each of them was great.

Among fourteen fine horses,
There was one outstanding,
It had brocade horse cloak on,
The feedbag was made of Manat fabric.

Its chest was as wide as a hunting dog,
Its hips were as straight and flat as a board.
The magic steed Buruler was strong like a wall,
Only the lucky hero could ride it.

It was the life of the hero,
It was the wings of the hero.
If anyone saw Buruler,
He must want to see it for a second time.

It was a magical horse,
No horse could compare with it.
In the hard battle years,
It was a fine horse that could go thousands of miles.

It stood behind those fourteen horses,
Its ears stood and its neck bent like a bow.
It was a violent-tempered horse,
There was no bone-hood between its hooves.
Fourteen horses were all perfect,
Anyone who had seen them praised them.

Ajebay and Tumanbay,
Walked in the courtyard curiously,
Ayichulek said to them:
"My Kokuli①, my Samay②,

①② Kokuli, Samay: It is an argot of Kirgiz language. It could translate as my forehead hair and my temple hair. It refers to the closest people. Here it is the nickname of the heroes that Ayichulek gave them.

You two are from Argen tribe and Nuoyi tribe,
You are both the offspring of the lion.
My majestic Khan, my backbone,
If you are still clear-headed,
Please open your eyes,
I have something to tell you.

"I heard that,
Ajebay wants to take charge of my father's city.
I also heard that,
Ajebay wants to ride Chinkogeo's black-spotted horse.

"I also heard,
He wants to take me, Ayichulek,
To the front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Present me to Chinkogeo and Toltoy."

Ajebay and Tumanbay did not walk into the palace,
They did not know who was living in the palace.
When the door of the palace opened,
Ajebay fixed his eyes and watched carefully,
In the splendid palace,
Heroes were living there comfortably.

He saw the great figure of the hero,
He saw the figure of the lion.
Ajebay was so surprised,
He talked to himself:
"Two handsome young men are alike as two rabbits[①],
Very handsome and awe-inspiring,
They are flawless.
In front of a group of girls,
The two heroes sit there.
Are they the devils that come to the earth?"

① Are alike as two rabbits: in Kirgiz language, they always use rabbits to describe people or subjects that are alike.

On the gold bed,
A dragon-like figure was lying there,
He was a giant like a lion.
Seeing his majestic expression,
Ajebay felt scared from the bottom of his heart,
It seemed his life was going to an end.

His face was extraordinary,
It was as bright as the moon.
Ajebay watched aside,
His pink cheeks were shining.
Ajebay watched from the front,
It was too bright to open his eyes.

Two valiant warriors served on both sides,
Did not allow others to get close.
Ajebay did not notice at all,
The person in front of him was Semtay Khan!

Hero Semtay stood up and walked out of the door,
Two warriors followed him tight,
Carried their arms with dignity.
Semtay's majestic manner,
Made them paralyzed with terror,
They even could not say a greeting word,
It was like their tongues were tied up.

Ajebay and Tumanbay were haunted with fear,
They sneaked out of the palace,
Climbed on their horses and ran back.
They looked back from time to time.
Semtay said to his two warriors:
"Oh, my fellows,
Do you hear what I heard?
Do you notice what I noticed?
Do you hear,

What Ayichulek has said?

"In front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Ajebay and Chinkogeo,
Have discussed what they want to do.
Which one of you is willing to go there?
One goes and scouts the enemies' situation,
Rides on Buruler.
The other one stays here with me.

"On your way,
If you meet Shihay's son Chinkogeo,
Just cut his head off and let the blood flow."

Heard what Semtay had said,
But lion Krichorao,
Shined brightly in his mirror-like eyes,
He felt happy about Semtay's words:
"Big brother, let me go!
How can I stay here?
If I meet Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
I will demand an answer.

"If they treat me with cold shoulder,
I will kill them!
Our ancestor was Manas,
Manas' offspring,
How we can spare enemies easily!

"My horse steed still needs two more days' rest,
Let it sweat and rest.
Aweikai's horse Aktilk,
Is now glowing with energy,
Let me ride it!

"Even if I meet powerful enemies,
Even if I meet the lion who carries spear.

Even if I meet hostile Khan,
Even if I meet challenging warrior.
Even if I meet wildly arrogant ruffians,
I will compete with them.

"I will skin them,
I will pull their tendons out,
Their magical steeds,
I will take away and present to you!"

Heard what Krichorao had said,
Semtay smiled with his white teeth exposed.
In front of Ayichulek,
He kept praising Krichorao:
"What a loyal and kind person!
His father was the Khan of Kakan,
He gave up the throne and came to us,
His deeds spread all over the world.
My father and his father are brothers,
He and I drank milk from the same mother,
He and I are like siblings and we share everything."

Then he turned round and said to Krichorao:
"My steed Buruler,
My warrior, you ride it!
Burum coat armor my father left to me,
My lion, you wear it!
It is a magical gown that no bullets can pierce through.

"My wise warrior, my colt!
Please listen to me carefully,
It is like millions of troops when you are by my side.

"You are my support, my warrior,
You are more than millions of troops when you two are with me.
Today, the place we live is not our home,
It is a strange place.

Kanchorao, you do not stay here,
You drive the horses to the pasture quickly.
Ayichulek has prepared well,
All the food you need on the way.

"Warrior Krichorao, mount the horse, do not worry!
The warrior, set out now, do not hesitate to leave!
I wish you a safe trip when you are going to leave!
If you meet ferocious enemies,
You should fight bravely and make their blood flow,
Let your name spread among people.

"Fourteen horses I raise,
Are all very human.
Buruler under your bottom,
Is the mount my father Manas chose for me.

"Buruler was tamed carefully,
It is right its time for a good run.
It will not feel tired when climbing up the hill,
It will not be exhausted no matter how long it gallops.
No matter climbs up or down the hill,
It will go fast and steady.

"Its neck bottom is straight and its neck is low,
Its pasterns are as big as bowls.
Its shanks are like steel,
Buruler is a magic steed.

"If you get injured in the battle,
He will not let the enemies bully you,
It will not leave you in the wilderness,
It will carry you back home anyway.

"Even if you die in the battle,
It will not abandon your body.
Although it is an animal,

It grows to fifteen Ayis[①],
It is like a loyal warrior,
It keeps its promise,
It waits for me patiently,
It is loyal and has no complaints.
I have you, two dependable warriors,
And my only mount Buruler.

"Krichorao, my warrior,
You ride on Buruler steed,
Carry the weapons,
You go on the way as you like.
If you meet Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
You can punish them severely and let them cry."

Got the praise and permission of his big brother,
Clever Krichorao,
Was very happy when he heard he could go and fight against enemies.
He had full of smile on his face,
He ran to Buruler without thinking anything else.

He tightened the girth,
The gold saddle the late king left,
He put it on the back of the magic steed.
The pommel was a statue of the head of a running musk deer,
The gullet was made of pure gold.

Warrior Krichorao was ready to set out,
Semtay gave the order again,
To butcher the yellow-head goat,
And held Sadaha ceremony for him.
He ordered those warriors to work busily,
To prepare all the things he asked ready.

① Ayis: It is the way Kirgiz people to calculate the teeth of the horses. Five years old is one Ayis, six years old is two Ayis, and seven years old is three Ayis. And the like, fifteen Ayis refers to nineteen years old.

"Kanchorao, prepare the livestock,
Pray and give good wishes to Krichorao.
Super hero Krichorao,
He will ride to the place far away.
You two are close like brothers,
As long as you are here, he will always help you."

Got the order from the Khan,
Kanchorao was absolutely obedient.
He rushed busy here and there,
His lion-like waist bent,
He did the preparation without a rest.

He found a yellow-head goat to do Sadaha,
He brought a white-forehead cattle.
Lion Semtay butchered a white mare,
To worship Manas' spirit.
Butchered white-forehead cattle and yellow-head goat,
Divided and presented to the fellow villagers,
Prayed for Krichorao.
In order to wish a safe trip to the warrior,
He threw gold on the way.

The young Khan Semtay,
Did Sadaha for Krichorao,
He hung his belt on his neck,
Prayed solemnly for Krichorao.

Right at this grand moment,
Lion hero Manas Khan,
And his companions and friends,
All appeared around him.

Manas, like Oboler mountain,
Rode on Achura steed,
There was a young man with a red mole on his forehead,
Led the horse and walked in the front.

Two grey rabbits looked the same,
Went tight beside both the stirrups.
Two black-striped tigers with their tails up in the air,
Roared and walked on its side.

A whip-size striped white snake,
Twined around his waist three rounds,
The snake's head was by the side of his ear.
It breathed fire out of its mouth,
Venomous smoke and fire flamed out of its eyes.
A giant dragon rode on clouds,
Wheeled above the hero.

There was a pretty girl,
Her forehead was shining with a ring of light.
She wore Shawkulio① flower crown on her head,
Long hair fell loosely on her shoulders,
Her face was like red pomegranate.
She stood behind the lion,
Her hands were on the lion's shoulders.

Sixty big and tall male argali,
Walked on both sides of the hero.
They walked one by one,
It was like an extraordinarily grand picture.

Panthers, pythons, tigers,
Grey rabbits, magic steeds, and kids,
They all became Krichorao's companions.
The lady sage was his patron goddess,
He had more patron gods around him,
There were more than sixty gods around him.
The patron gods of lion Manas,
Were the backbone and power of his offspring.

① Shawkulio: It is a kind of tall hat inserted with feather on the top which is made only for maidens.

Semtay was very happy,
He saw Krichorao off on the journey.

The sharp steel sword to kill enemies hung on the waist,
Sire spear to pierce enemies held tight in the hand,
Crescent battle axe was with him,
Ackelty gun was on his broad shoulders.
All weapons were with him,
Krichorao set out in high spirit.

Krichorao was ready to set out,
Semtay talked to him again:
"On your way,
There is mountain with endless rising peaks,
Ferocious enemies are right by the side of the mountain.
Chinkogeo and Toltoy who will fight against you,
Are on the way to Kangayi.

"Krichorao, you should be strong,
Spear the enemies bravely.
Break their ribs,
Puncture their livers.
Freak the enemies out,
Let enemies all die in front of you,
Let them notice that,
'The warrior is so brave, the Khan will be more powerful'".

"Bozwurchuk mountain we mentioned just now,
Is the place they will negotiate.
The low-lying grassland of Tarmalsaz,
By the side of Taldusu river bank①,
There is an old water mill,
It is a place where enemies always go.

"You should be cautious about these places,

① Taldusu river bank: Kirgiz language, it means the river bank with full of willow trees.

Do not dismount and rest there,
Do not go to sleep off guard.
If you dismount and sleep there,
Disaster will descend on you.
Do not be reckless,
Warrior, you should remember this clearly."

Received Semtay's pray and warn,
Krichorao parted from Semtay Khan.
Brave and majestic,
The hero protected by the gods was like a tiger,
Krichorao whipped and galloped to the front.

Krichorao arrived at the front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
By the side of Taldusu river bank,
He thought, "This is the place where they negotiate,
This is the place where enemies' blood will flow,
Let me ambush here!

"If I meet ferocious Toltoy,
I will fight him till death.
If Chinkogeo comes to my face,
I will cut his head off and take it back.

"I will twist off enemies' necks,
Let their blood flow.
It does not matter if my end is coming!
I will take it if the disaster descends!"

Krichorao's heart,
Beat like it was going to fly.
He walked through all highs and lows,
Watched the hoof marks carefully,
He found no sign of anyone's arrival.

"Do these guys come?
I will wait here till next morning.

If no one comes in the morning,
I will get someone to send a message,
Tell them I have arrived here."

Krichorao turned his horse round,
Tied the curb rein on the pommel.

Krichorao walked and talked with girls and married ladies recently,
He did not get enough sleep.
He was quite worn out by his journey today,
He did not get a good rest either.
He grasped the pommel and felt tired,
Opened his eyes wide and watched ahead.

He held the spear in his arms,
Pillowed his head on the horse saddle,
Went to sleep in an instant.

Now, let us put this aside,
Sing about the situation of Chinkogeo and Toltoy.

Chinkogeo said one day:
"Hey, Toltoy, my friend,
You are an unparalleled hero with giant strength,
Your name spreads everywhere.

"Since we two become friends,
You stand the test at the crucial moment.
I take you as my support,
You help me fulfill my promise.
"Because of your support to me,
I can fulfill everything as I wish.
I threatened Ajebay,
I scared him to death.

"They did not tell all the truth,
They still cheat us.

We cannot give up halfway,
We should go and check the situation today.

"About Ayichulek,
Is there any news?
We must scout the reliable information,
Then we can set our minds at rest!"

When Chinkogeo said these words,
Toltoy nodded and agreed on him.
He did not think about it carefully,
He did not notice it was a trap his friend made for him,
So he made up his mind recklessly,
In order to get the news of Ayichulek,
He mounted and set out on his journey by himself.

Now I will sing about Toltoy's story,
Please listen carefully.
This is a famous hero,
There are a lot of his stories to tell.

He was a strong giant with black beard,
He once made surprise attacks to Karamark people.
Enemies attacked by him,
Lost their lives one after another.
Heroes that went against him,
Were all defeated.

Among Karamark people,
No one dare battle him.
Ever-victorious Toltoy,
No one could defeat him.

Kontukchu of Kerzlbash,
Heroes of Yindistan and Iran,
Some were killed and some surrendered.
In order to keep themselves alive,

They paid tribute to Toltoy,
Presented livestock, gold, and silver to him.

Kontukchu contested with Toltoy,
And lost his life in Toltoy's hand.
Toltoy killed Kontukchu,
People showed more respect to Toltoy.

In Yindistan and Iran,
No one could defeat him.
Rivals who fought against him,
All died in his hands.

He was a giant with red beard,
Once he challenged Krim people.
Krim and Urum people,
With red noses and blue eyes,
The crowded people,
He almost killed them all.
Toltoy was savage and violent,
He went smoothly everywhere.
He was a valiant and fearless giant,
He never felt scared when he faced strong enemies.

This over-confident Toltoy,
Now was going to challenge Semtay who had Shayli god's help,
He only could bring himself the disaster.
In order to fulfill Chinkogeo's wish,
He brought disaster to himself,
This is what people said about him.

Hero Toltoy thought again and again,
He discussed with Chinkogeo:
"Ajebay and Tumanbay,
Till today they do not give a specific answer.
Chinkogeo, I have a doubt in my heart,
Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,

Can she transfer into a white swan,
And fly into the sky?
Maybe, Ayichulek,
Has invited Kaleday from Karamark?

"Maybe, Ayichulek,
Has sent a message to Kazakh people.
Maybe, Ayichulek,
Has sent a message to Koshaoyi's son Jalgazek.
Does she call all them in to deal with us?

"Hey, Chinkogeo!
This is my wild and groundless guess.
Why not say a word?
Ajebay may have cheated us.

"Ajebay said in the Beyginning,
Ayichulek and Manas' son had engaged by pointing belly.
Has she sent message to Semtay?
Has she brought him here already?

"Semtay grows up lonely,
Has he returned to his homeland?
Kanikai had been a widow for too long time,
Has she returned to her people?

"Has she invited the old man with long beard and sweet words?
That is the wisest Bakay Khan.
Is she butchering animals,
And welcome the heroes she invites?

"Hey, Chinkogeo!
Ajebay and Tumanbay,
Do they cheat us with lies?
Instead, they invite powerful troops,
Decide to fight us till death.

"Have they invited reliable heroes?
Have they already take countermeasures?
It makes me annoyed and worried.
I will go to Bozwurchuk mountain in person,
To scout the situation."

Toltoy finished his words,
And he ordered to saddle his horse Surkoyun.
He wore steel helmet and coat armor,
Tips of the cyan battle boots pointed to the sky.

He carried sharp spear,
Firelock on his shoulder,
Crescent battle axe on his waist,
Iron scepter also on him,
The sword clanged on his waist,
Ice-like iron belt was shining.

Damned Toltoy,
Flames burned in his eyes,
His neck stretched out long and thin like a goose.
He watched around on his horse,
He would go and scout the situation by himself.
Surkoyun steed galloped its hooves,
Hero Toltoy made up his mind.
"If I meet enemy's spy,
I will make him groan like a fly,
Send him to a place where it is impossible for him to come back!

"If anyone dare challenge me,
I will bite him into pieces and swallow him!"
Arrogant Toloty whipped,
Galloped to the place afar.

Hero Krichorao was still in his dream,
He was on horseback,
Held the spear in his arms and snored loudly,

He knew nothing like a drunk person.

The moon was high in the sky and shined,
It was the time two or three days before the full moon.
Bagersh's son Toltoy,
Was sneaking close to Krichorao.

Under the cover of the night,
Cunning Toltoy tried to hide himself.
His figure appeared and disappeared in the sight,
Frightened heart beat in his chest.

Intelligential Buruler,
Saw Toltoy,
It snorted loudly.
Sleeping Krichorao,
Opened his sleepy eyes.
He did not find anything suspicious,
So he went to sleep again.

Buruler neighed and dug the ground hard with its hooves,
Woke his master from his sleep again.
Krichorao shouted impatiently:
"Damned beast,
Annoy me from my sleep!"

Krichorao rubbed his eyes,
He looked to the front,
It seemed a mountain was moving toward him.
It was like a mountain, but it was like a person too,
Mountain or person,
Hard to distinguish and it got closer.

Krichorao became awake suddenly,
He opened his bright eyes.
He grasped tight the spear in his hand,
And flapped Buruler's rein.

He shouted the name of lion Manas,
As loud as a thunder in the sky.
The warrior as big as a kneecap[①],
Faced mountain-size Toltoy,
Did not fear at all and fought against him bravely.

Valliant Toltoy,
Did not fear and flee in front of Kunwuerbayi.
He once fought against numerous rivals in the battlefield,
He made countless heroes scare to death.

Now, Krichorao rushed to him,
His majesty was blown away.
Faced with Krichorao's sudden attack,
He was scared and lost his mind.

It seemed he saw a giant dragon,
He could not find the way to flee,
He had no time to consider his fame,
He turned the horse round in a hurry,
Whipped the right leg of the horse,
Fled away in a panic.

Almanbet's son Krichorao,
Did not stop but attacked bravely.
This young man had no sense of the depth,
He chased after the enemy without stop.
He did not know where the spear could prick,
He did not know how to make enemy injured either.
Warrior Krichorao said to himself:
"He is as big and strong as a mountain,
No matter where the spear pricks on his body,
As long as the spear point goes in his body,
He must be injured."

① As big as a kneecap: It is a normal modifier Kirgiz people use. It refers to young kids.

This bold young man,
Grasped the spear in his hand again.
He did not aim at the target,
But pricked his spear out hard.
The kid blessed by Shayli god,
He pricked in a hurry.

The spear point stabbed in Toltoy's right kidney,
His kidney got injured.
The sharp spear point did not go in completely,
Toltoy did not fall off from his horse.

Surkoyun steed under Toltoy's bottom,
Sweated and fled in a panic.
Buruler chased it tight,
Opened its big mouth and galloped its hooves.
The deep pits the hooves dug out,
Were as big as a ground stove.

Gusts of dust rose up behind him,
Covered the earth like dense mist.
Krichorao only cared for killing the enemy,
He forgot the rein in his hand.
The rein entangled the fore legs of the horse,
Buruler had to stop.

Timid hero Toltoy,
Did not dare watch back.
Toltoy's waist was bleeding,
He felt dizzy on the way.

"What a lousy luck I have,
I come to this fate without even a single attack.
I believe what Chinkogeo said,
But it makes me injured bad!"

Wounded Toltoy,
Felt dizzy and lost his strength,
His body shook on Surkoyun.
He had no time to tighten the robe edges,
They waved with wind on both sides.

Toltoy shouted at the top of his voice:
"Hey, Chinkogeo, where are you?"
Toltoy let the rein of Surkoyun off,
Went into his own camp yurt exhaustedly.

The fore leg of Buruler was entangled with the rein,
The warrior untied it and mounted again.
Krichorao blessed by Shayli god whipped the horse,
Continued chasing Toltoy Khan.

What I sing are the stories of heroes,
There are all kinds of interesting stories.
No matter where the warriors come from,
Once he prefers life to dishonor,
He is not qualified to be a hero.
Although Krichorao was too young,
He did not fear the death at all.
Compared with those veteran heroes,
He was a little arrogant.
But Toltoy just acted like a woman today,
Krichorao chased tight after him.

Young hero Krichorao met a fight for the first time,
He cherished such a wish:
"Mountain-size hero Toltoy,
I will prick him off his horse,
I will push his head into mud,
I will let him get killed.

"I will tell my beautiful sister-in-law Ayichulek,
What I have done today,

Let it spread among the pretty girls and married ladies,
And report to Semtay Khan and ask for the reward!"

When he remembered those girls,
Krichorao had no time to watch around.
When he remembered Semtay,
Krichorao forgot everything.
He galloped Buruler forward,
Left dense dust behind him.

When he almost caught up with Toltoy,
He was ready to bend and prick him,
Jedigair people Toltoy,
Toward flood-like soldiers,
Toward crowded people,
Toward camps that were like dense mist,
Toward horses that spread all over the earth,
Dashed in and hid himself.
Toltoy escaped from his spear,
Young Krichorao felt disappointed.
Toltoy shouted loudly,
People who heard it felt scared.
When they saw he was red all over with his blood,
It made people frightened.

Shihay's son Chinkogeo,
Came to Toltoy in a hurry.
He held the rein of Surkoyun steed,
Questioned hero Toltoy in the face:

"Toltoy, who slashed your steed?
Toltoy, how you can abandon your heroic manner.
Why do you cause such a trouble?
Do not you feel ashamed?
Why do you make it public?
Toltoy, why do you shout so loud?
Toltoy, why do you cry so loud?

What scared you and make you flee back?

"Even if your hand is cut off,
It only falls into your sleeve,
Even if your head is broken,
It only falls into your hat.

"Now, look, you are in such a tight corner,
You do not have a heroic manner at all!
You should go into the earth, Toltoy,
This is because you are too arrogant!
No matter how brave you are when you fight,
You should put up a strong resistance,
You cannot let the soldiers we enrolled,
Lose their morale by seeing your failure.

"You should die first if someone needs to die,
You stop shouting.
Even if it will take your life,
You should come back and hide quietly.

"Jedigair people spread over on the earth,
They see you are in a panic,
They are scared to flee back,
How I can stop them from fleeing!"

What Chinkogeo said was harsh and heartless,
Toltoy could only care about his life.
Toltoy was bleeding hard,
He was at death's door.

Chinkogeo helped Toltoy off the steed,
Called in all people who knew medicine to discuss,
Found many herbs that could cure the gunshot wound,
Badger's bile,
"Red medicine" from high mountains,
All medicines were prepared well,

And ground them into powder carefully,
Then boiled into ointment.

Doctors unbuttoned Toltoy's clothes,
Checked his wound.
Smeared the black ointment,
On the skin of his wound,
Then bound up the wound carefully,
Let Toltoy rest quietly to recuperate.
They brought yellow-head baby goat,
Held Sadaha ceremony for him to drive out evil spirits.
In the afternoon,
Toltoy's pain disappeared gradually.
He turned up and opened his eyes,
His heavy heart took a turn for the better.

Courtier Baytikai was a white-beard old man,
He was with a lofty virtue worthy of respect,
He was wise and famous around,
Once he was the leader of a tribe,
Once he wore an iron helmet and a suit of armor,
He rode on a wind-chasing horse and went all around the world.

Baytikai came to the front of Toltoy,
Said to Toltoy like this:
"Are you ok, Toltoy?
You are a person born for the honor,
But you fled in a panic,
You almost lost your life.

"What dangerous situation did you meet?
What on earth did you see?
How can you fall prey to panic as a Khan?
How can you act like this as a Khan?
How can you lose your courage and dignity?
How will people think about you?"

Toltoy responded:
"I have scouted for many times before,
I have never met such a dangerous situation.
In Akun Khan's city,
Who dare chase my soldiers?
Who dare prick my ribs?
Who dare hold the spear and fight against me?
Who dare come out and challenge me?

"This time, I went to scout,
I met a red-faced young man.
He rode on Buruler,
The horse tail was tied up high.
The red-face young man,
Is about fourteen or fifteen years old,
He shouted Manas in his mouth,
His voice roared like thunders,
It was really scared.

"I observed him carefully:
Two grey rabbits with the same look,
Ran tight to the sides of his stirrups.
A black-spotted panther roared,
Followed him tight.

"A naked and barefoot little boy,
Held the rein and walked in the front.
A young girl in red,
Stood on the horseback behind him.

"There were sixty male argali,
Thirty in a group followed on both of his sides,
Made the noise of clip clop;
A short-tail cyan hunting dog,
Ran in front of him.

"I saw all these strange scenes,

I had no time to think,
I only could try to flee as soon as possible.

"Uncle, I feel disappointed to myself,
I was scared to death as I saw that.
I am a mountain-size hero,
But I was pricked by the kneecap-size boy.

"The spear stabbed into my ribs,
Pricked my liver.
I lost my mind at the moment,
I only thought about fleeing away immediately.

"I whipped my horse and ran desperately,
When I went to Bozwurchuk mountain,
Rushed to our own people,
I dodged my life into the camp.

"The enemy I met this time is very crazy,
If I do not have such a good horse,
I cannot come back alive.
This is all what I saw,
It made me ashamed and embarrassed this time!"

Baytikai heard all what he said,
Then said with a heavy heart:
"Are these all true?
If all that you said is true,
The red-faced boy that rode Buruler and held the spear in his hand,
Rushed to you and pricked you,
Was not on the alert,
Before he met you,
He just slept sounding like a drunk person,
He could defeat you like this,
It meant he got the perfect luck.
He is not their Khan,
He is only a kneecap-size warrior.

"It seemed smart Ayichulek,
Had already flown in the sky,
And sent the message to Manas' son.
Heroic Khan Semtay,
With his spreading troops,
Probably had come here.

"Only his patrolled warrior,
Could hurt you like this,
Could make you feel scared!
This is damned Manas' offspring,
They become stronger and stronger!

"Probably the eagle came here,
I guess it was Almanbet's son Krichorao,
Who pricked his spear out when he chased you,
And stabbed it into your ribs and hurt you.
Did he really do this?
We need to watch carefully.
Do not let Jedigair's offspring,
Be humiliated and killed.

"We should go back now,
Tell our people,
That Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
Does not want to marry Chinkogeo!"

Old Courtier Baytikai Patiently Admonished Chinkogeo to Retreat

The result old courtier Baytikai divined,
And his admonishing words,
Was not satisfied with Chinkogeo,
He did not listen at all.

Baytikai could not do anything about it,
For this over-confident son of bitch,
He had to tell him,
The detailed story of the past.

That was in the time of Manas Khan,
Kazakh Bokmulon,
Held the ceremony for his adopted father Koktoy Khan.
On the ceremony for Koktoy,
Guests from all around the world gathered there,
I was there too,
I remembered a lot of it like it happened yesterday.

Karamark people Kunwuerbayi,
Asked for the horse Manikair.
Manikair steed was the mount of Koktoy,
It was a famous fine horse.
He took a lot of gold and silver,
He said a lot of ugly words.

He threatened: If we did not give Manikair to him,
He would kill our people.
He said, he would invite giant Niskara,
He would call Karamark people and Khitan people in,

They would rob and slaughter Arashi people.
He would spare none of us,
His purpose was to take Manikair steed away.

Livestock were butchered twice in the ceremony,
All food was eaten.
Bokmulon could not preside at the ceremony,
He could not straighten out the confusion,
All the people were at a loss over what to do,
They were in a panic.

Khans gathered together,
Sat in a half moon shape,
Discussed about the countermeasures.
Koshaoyi said courageously with sufficient reasons:
"Hey, kids,
Jagurp's son Kangkoer,
Well-known lion Manas,
I have told you to invite him but you did not allow,
Then you have what we met today.

"You do not listen to what I said,
Forget my words, but what can we do now?
Let them do it if they rob the meat!
It does not matter if they rob all the meat,
But if they rob Ayinla and our livestock,
What will it be?

"Bokmulon has a lot of livestock,
But he takes his wealth too seriously,
He thinks his livestock are more precious than people,
It must bring disasters to him.

"The wealth is the dirt in hands,
It will bring fatal disasters.
Where are the livestock if there are no people?
Do not let wealth and livestock become the burden and the sore point.

If people only care about the wealth,
It will make people lose life.

"We have no idea now,
Except inviting Manas and asking him to preside at the ceremony,
If he does not want to preside at it,
The ceremony is impossible to be continued,
Arashi people will be in big trouble."

What Koshaoyi Khan said,
Received the agreement from all leaders.
Ayidar, who had forehead hair,
He rode on Manikair steed,
Wore the long robe made of Manat fabric,
Galloped at top speed to invite hero Manas.

Wise uncle Koshaoyi,
Wrote a letter to Manas,
He gave it to Ayidar and ordered him to present to Manas.

Young man Ayidar, had forehead hair,
Rode on Manikair and set out.
When he met dense woods,
He bent over close to horseback and ran fast;
When he met high mountain and deep valley,
He sat straight and whipped his horse.

In the afternoon,
Ayidar arrived in Samarkand city.
In front of the city gate Manas built,
He met the guard Seritaz.
He said Manas was a hot-tempered person,
He told Ayidar to be careful.
Ayidar was reluctant to go,
Seritaz gave him a piece of advice:
"If you want to achieve your goal,
You'd better pay a visit to Kanikai first,

And let her hand the letter to Manas."

Energetic-looking madam Kanikai,
Handled affairs neatly all the time.
Kanikai reported to Manas:
"Ayidar rides Manikair and comes here,
He brings this urgent letter Koshaoyi wrote to you.
He said there is something extremely urgent,
He needs to report to you in person.
Ayikoler hero Manas,
How to deal with it?"

Heard what Kanikai said,
Manas was very angry at the moment,
He shouted for a while.
Then he calmed down,
Finally he decided to go and preside at the ceremony.

Hero Manas was majestic like a giant dragon,
Forty warriors went around him.
The warriors wore the same red cloaks,
They were all as strong and powerful as the lions,
Rode their horses and galloped in Kokdobie prairie.

Koktoy's son Bokmulon,
Walked up and welcomed him immediately.
He dismounted and crossed his arms over his chest,
Leant over to greet Manas.

This stupid idiot said:
"Kunwuerbayi from Kangayi,
Asked for Manikair steed,
I refused to meet his demand,
He smashed forty of our big pots,
Ate the meat of forty mares.
He also threatened to dye the prairie with our blood,
And slaughter Arashi people.

Although we have presented them fine horses and treasures,
They still act on their will,
They make troubles and make the ceremony unable to continue."

Heard Bokmulon's complaints,
Manas was filled with righteous indignation,
He blamed Bokmulon severely:
"Oh, Bokmulon, you should be punished,
If you give him Manikair steed,
You'd better say Manas has died,
You'd better say heroic Arashi people,
Have all died.

"In the funeral of Krim from Yirijar,
In the horse race of six hundred horses,
Manikair steed got the first place.
In the funeral of Turumhan from Tulajar,
In the horse race of nine hundred horses,
Manikair got the first place again.

"Manikair is the magic steed of Kazakh,
Why cannot Kazakh Khan ride it?
Why do you present it to Karamark people?
Do they decide your destiny?

"You cannot give Manikair steed to him,
Do not say let Manas die,
Powerful Arashi people are here,
Facing ferocious enemy Kunwuerbayi,
Do not feel scared!"

Hero Manas was majestic with great dignity,
He tried to reassure the public first.
Forty warriors were powerful,
As burning flames.

Forty warriors were with impressive looks,

Their actions were brave and outstanding.
Forty warriors dressed the same,
They wore red clothes made of Manat fabric.

They were heavily armed,
They all rode grey horses.
Any bastard that dared to challenge them,
They beat him down and punished severely.

They showed their heroic manners,
And astounded the world.
Manas announced in a loud voice:
"Kirgiz People Karamark people separate from each other,
Any bastard dares to say no,
Lash him mercilessly."

People divided to two groups,
Then they calmed down.
Karamark and Khitan people,
Every one of them,
Was driven into Tikaichy's Yirijar valley,
Locked them there and did not allow them out.
Like the surging waves washed the mountain away,
Hero like Manas,
Who else see in all ages?

Hero Manas presided at the ceremony,
He announced the horse race loudly.
He shouted: "All horses for the race come out!"
He said, people who had horses came out,
No matter Kirgiz or Karamark,
As long as he won,
Manas would cheer for him loudly.

Eagle Manas administered the justice,
There was no hero in the world equal to him.
There was no person present that opposed him,

People who dare to oppose would have no good end.

There were six thousand horses in the race,
They lined up like the wild geese.

"Manikair cannot enter the race!"
Karamark people put forward the requirement.
Manas was broad-minded and generous,
He agreed on their requirement.

There were one hundred and forty four tribes coming to the ceremony,
According to the number of people of each tribe,
More than one thousand and five hundred people were selected.
Ayidar led them,
And drove the horses to the start point of the horse race.
When all the horses started,
Hero Manas put horse horse-size gold,
Into the big pouch,
This is the reward to the winner in the horse race,
There were totally forty thousand gold coins.

He announced loudly:
A hundred and ten horses would get the reward.
That was what I saw by my eyes,
Kangkoer like him,
I had never seen after him.

Manas put those sheep head-size gold,
Into the small pouch.
He announced:
"Two giants come and wrestle,
One from each side,
The one wins gets the gold!"
Arashi and Kangayi people present,
Heard clearly the loud announcement Manas had made,
Giant Oronko walked out from Kangayi people.
But Arashi people kept silent,

People felt scared to do it.
Fearless Manas said to the leader Koshaoyi:
"Uncle, please stand out,
No one will do it except you!"

Koshaoyi did not hesitate at all,
Katahan's son braced up,
Tied his belt tight,
Walked into the center of the wrestling area.

In the vast pasture of Tikaichy,
People were crowded there.
Arashi people and Kangayi people,
Watched the wrestle there.

Koshaoyi stood in the wrestling area,
He found his wrestling leathers pants did not fit him.
Manas asked Ajibayi took out the new leather pants Kandahay,
His wife made it by herself.

But it was too short for Koshaoyi,
Manas asked him to take it off,
He and Ajibayi stretched the leather pants,
Then it fit Koshaoyi perfectly.

Koshaoyi was very surprised about it,
He asked Manas:
"My kid, bless you, who made this?"
Manas laughed and said:
"Uncle, your sister-in-law made it."

The old sage Koshaoyi reached out his hands,
Prayed for Kanikai to have a son.
Kirgiz and Karamark people present,
All reached out their hands and prayed for Kanikai.
Because of the pray from both Kirgiz and Karamark people,
Hero Semtay then was born.

Two giants Oronko and Koshaoyi grappled with each other,
Grabbed each other's waist and twisted hard.
They tied their sleeves and clothes edges high,
Wiggled and tried to lift the other one up.

Koshaoyi suddenly felt no pain from his waist in the grapple,
He went into sleep comfortably.
Oronko took the chance and lifted Koshaoyi high over his head,
He wanted to throw him to death on the rock.

Right at this crucial moment,
Manas shouted loudly: "Koshaoyi, grab tight!"
And pierced his skin with the spear.
Koshaoyi woke up suddenly and felt brave,
His feet touched the ground safely.

He carried Oronko up at his convenience,
Oronko was thrown on the ground mercilessly,
When Koshaoyi walked out of the wrestling area,
He kicked Oronko's head.

Numerous Karamark people let their horse reins off,
They kicked up a fuss and complained:
"It is common to throw a giant on the ground,
But kicking the head never happens before.
What is the rule to kick other's head?"
People shouted and crowded into the wrestling area.

Hot-tempered lion Manas,
From the sheath by his side,
Drew out the sharp sword,
Karamark people became quiet immediately.
But they still complained in their hearts:
"Wait and see, do not be so cruel!"
Karamark and Khitan tribes,
They could not understand each other.

Russian and Baran people,
Their languages were different.
Manas gave out the order again,
The wrestling between giants continued.
Niskara from Khitan,
Was ready to stand out,
Among numerous Arashi people,
No one dare come out and compete with him.

Hero Agersh was together with girls and married ladies,
They played the game of attending the wedding.
He heard the call from hero Manas,
He went to the wrestling area immediately.

Although he was short as an elbow,
His courage was like the rock,
His body was as hard as iron and with full of energy.
He had countless experiences of wrestling,
As a Kirgiz wrestling giant,
He would wrestle with Niskara.

Two giants grabbed each other's waist,
They used too much force and their feet stepped into the earth.
Muscles on their shins were torn,
No one could throw the other one on the ground.
Hero Agersh and Niskara,
Pulled and pushed with full of their strength.

Agersh could not stop from loud laughing,
He was like a drunk.
He slung himself on Niskara and grappled,
He was like playing with those girls and married ladies,
He did not take the wrestle seriously.

When Manas saw this,
He was not satisfied with it at all.
He rode on Karlkaman black horse,

Came to the side of Agersh,
Gave Agersh a severe lash on his bottom.
How could Manas' leather whip lash lightly?
The whip gave Agersh energy.

Agersh stopped from laughing,
Concentrated on the wrestle.
He lifted Niskara up high,
And threw him on the ground cruelly.
Niskara fell flat on his back to the ground,
Agersh turned round suddenly,
He stepped over Niskara's head,
His foot kicked Niskara's head.
Hero Agersh did not turn back,
Walked out of the wrestling area with his chin up.

Karamark people shouted again,
Kunwuerbayi seized the chance and made the trouble,
Hero Manas was merciless,
He did not foster evil!
Koshaoyi and hero Agersh,
Got the reward.

The wrestling just finished,
The martial arts contest was going to Beygin.
Manas announced:
"Heroes that attend the contest come out now!"

Kunwuerbayi came out for the contest in person,
The sturdy body sat on the strong horse.
He tied iron belt on his waist,
His big and tall figure was like Oboler hill.

Let me tell you the information of Kunwuerbayi,
Listen carefully and you will understand.
Kunwuerbayi was the leader of Karamark people,
His power was unable to measure.

He could defeat one hundred people,
He himself could make one thousand people surrender.
Wicked Kunwuerbayi,
No one dare fight against him.
He looked down upon Khitan people,
He thought they even had nothing on the bottom of his pants leg.

He was alive with ambition,
He led troops and occupied Beygin city.
He took Aisan Khan's palace,
He mounted the throne to be the Khan.

Who went to fight against Kunwuerbayi,
People looked at each other and waited.
Hero Koshaoyi said to Manas:
"It is your time to show off."

"Achura goes to the horse race,
How do I fight without my horse?
I did not predict,
That Kunwuerbayi enters the contest in person."
Manas felt very anxious.

Ajibayi told him at the moment:
"Among Ayidar khan's subjects,
One of them has a brown horse,
It is the best horse for you to ride!"

Worried hero Manas,
Heard there was a horse for him,
He did not ask who the master of the horse was,
He went to the place where the horse was tied right away.

He untied the reins on the post calmly,
He led the horse away regardless of anyone to stop him.
Sorandick Khan's son Almanbet,
Called hero Ajibayi.

Almanbet asked him:
"My old horse,
Is taken away by that person.
I see he is an extraordinary lion,
He is brave and strong,
Please tell me, Ajibayi,
Who is this extraordinary hero?"

Ajibayi told him:
"You are right,
He is hero Manas!"
Almanbet said:
"This horse is over forty years old,
It is an old horse that needs rest.
It is a horse that does not move if you do not whip,
It is a horse hard to go fast.
I do not stint this horse,
It is not good for Arashi people.

"Please tell hero Manas,
Do not spare his energy to whip the horse,
Let it prance and gallop,
Let it sweat and stretch its legs,
Then ride on it and fight the enemy!"

Kunwuerbayi rode Arlkara steed,
Hero Manas rode Keljeran steed,
Fought each other aggressively.
Seeing the violent fight,
Both Karamark and Arashi people,
Felt scared and quivered.

They fought each other violently,
They contested for another round,
Both of them reined the horse suddenly.
Arlkara was a great horse,
Keljeran also turned round agilely,

Two horses were both magical steeds.

Hero Manas faced Kunwuerbayi,
He did not fear at all like a lion.
Kunwuerbayi was also great,
He was a paralleled hero,
They were neck and neck and hard to defeat the other.

At the moment Kunwuerbayi was turning round,
Manas pricked his spear out swiftly,
Toward Kunwuerbayi's waist.
Kunwuerbayi almost fell off the horse,
Karamark and Khitan people felt worried.

Kunwuerbayi was a great man,
He was a real powerful young man.
He tied himself tight on the saddle with iron chains and steel wire,
His body would not fall off from the saddle.
Alkara horse carried him and ran to the side,
Kunwuerbayi escaped from a disaster.

Manas won the contest,
Kirgiz people cheered and applauded.
Kunwuerbayi bled and his face was pale,
He did not get the prize,
But he kept his life.

Hero Bagersh shouted at the moment:
"Hero, reward! reward!"
Manas was generous,
Sheep-head-size golds,
He gave them all to people around.

The contest of shooting ingots,
Manas also got the first place.
Niskara was a master diviner,
Once Kokcher as his translator,

To all heroes of Kirgiz, Khitan,
And Karamark,
Read their fortune by reading their faces.

"Among six Khans,
Hero Manas is the most perfect one,
He is an invulnerable hero,
I have never seen such a great man!"

Horses in the race almost came back,
People crowded on the green river rapids.
There was a passage between the crowds,
The racing horses could go through.

Georoy's horse Achybudan,
Manas' horse Achura,
Ran side by side and knocked each other's bit,
Galloped ahead together.

Ayidar let himself go,
Stabbed the bottom of Achura,
Achura acted like a gust,
Arrived at the flagpole first.

Forty thousand gold coins put in the big pouch,
Were destined for Achura,
But now Georoy robbed it.
Lion Manas was very angry about it,
A conflict then started.

Georoy said without showing any weakness:
"Manas, you take it if you are capable.
Do not bark like a dog,
If you are not capable,
You just waste your energy to shout."

Georoy was ready to leave,

Manas went to his face,
Lashed Georoy's face with his whip,
Till Georoy's face was covered with blood.

Georoy did not have time to wipe his face,
He whipped his horse and fled toward Beygin city.
Manas waved his whip and chased after him tight,
Ajibayi followed him,
Also chased tight.

Manas held the spear and pricked Georoy's back hard,
Georoy was pricked and fell off his horse.
Manas did not deal with Georoy on the ground,
He galloped his horse and chased Achybudan steed.
Achybudan was going to climb over the hill,
Manas had to take out Ackelty magic gun,
And shoot Achybudan to death.

Georoy seized the chance and wormed into the woods,
He dodged the disaster of death.

Baytikai finished the story of Manas,
Then he persuaded Chinkogeo again:
"Semtay comes today,
He was born under the pray of all people.
He is like his father Manas,
He is a brave and fearless giant.
Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
Is Manas' daughter-in-law they had decided long ago.

"You want to marry Semtay's fiancée in hope,
He will not let us off when he comes.
Since the hero who will marry Ayichulek has come,
Let's go back and do not provoke a bloody war.
"Manas' son Semtay,
Is not a hero to be defeated easily.
Semtay is like a mountain,

You do not try to overthrow him easily.

"Warriors Krichorao and Kanchorao,
They are as good as you.
Toltoy, Chinkogeo only knows empty shouting,
He is no match for them.

"If we have to go,
We can go and scout in the front,
To distinguish the horse hoof tracks.
If the black mane wolf really comes,
We will be scared to death by his majesty.

"Manas' son Semtay,
He has a magic steed,
Its name is Tayibruler,
It was born for Semtay specially.

"Till it gets twenty years old,
Till Semtay grew up,
No one had the chance to see it,
It was herded in remote mountains all the time.

"There is candle flames shining in its ears,
It is a magic steed born in the whirlwind.
Once it steps on,
There will be a stove-size pit on the ground.
If it goes forth and back in a place,
The place will turn into a valley.

"Kids, if you think what I said is right,
Please do not go.
Do not do those unreasonable things,
Do not bring your people disaster and plague.
Brave Toltoy and Chinkogeo,
Please take my advice."

Baytikai just finished his words,
Toltoy stood up and said:
"Hey, Chinkogeo,
My hero!
What courtier Baytikai said is right,
We should retreat immediately!

"Last time, when people gathered,
And held funeral for Koktoy,
I followed my father Bagersh,
I was a little kid that only knew how to ride a horse and play.

"At that time, you had a smell of horse shit,
You were just a hard labor that helped butcher sheep and boil meat.
Now, you Beygin to boast,
How dare you say you can compete with Manas.

"Ayichulek had engaged with Semtay by pointing belly,
It is not easy you rob him of her.
My friend, listen to me,
I advise you to go back and do not ask for trouble."

Chikogeo jumped up after hearing his words,
He was angry with a cold face:
"What I want to do today,
Is the thing the hero has done.
Do not mention his son is Semtay,
Even it is hero Manas himself,
I dare to compete with him.

"This is what a warrior has done,
Do not mention that nobody Semtay,
Even it is hero Manas himself,
I dare to contest with him on martial arts.

"Although you were spoiled in the past,
You still go around the world and experience a lot.

At Koktoy's funeral last time,
I took charge of dividing the horse meat.
I was afraid to make Burum gown dirty,
So I changed an old clothes.
You probably saw me at that moment.

"Toltoy, if you want to go back,
Just take the vow back which we bit the bullet and made,
You take the girl Ackoyun and all my livestock away.
Do not let me, Chinkogeo, live anymore,
Cut my belly and throw me into the river.
Baytikai, please cut my head off,
Do not leave me a complete body."

Toltoy dare not take back their vow,
He dare not take his troops and go back.
He hated to part with the beauty Ackoyun,
He could not cut Chinkogeo's belly.

Hero Toltoy shouted angrily:
"All mount your horses, start off now!"
Troops of Jedigair,
Spread all over the earth.

Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Baytikai and Salamart,
And hero Jamanak,
Five heroes set out immediately,
They arrived at the front of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Watched the marks of horse hooves.
They saw Buruler's hoof prints there,
They knew Semtay had arrived there.
Baytikai said to himself:
"I advised but he does not agree to give up,
Damned Toltoy,
Why he does not cut Chinkogeo's belly open!"

They were all silent,
Baytikai said to them this way:
"Do you see?
This is Buruler steed's hoof print!
The place the steed stepped,
Left a deep pit like a kitchen stove.
The place it stamps back and forth,
Has turned into a deep valley.

"If you compete with Kangkoer Semtay,
Our blood will flow here for nothing.
Hero Toltoy,
You are going to bury us alive here."

Baytikai finished his words,
He took a breath and died right away.
Toltoy was very sad,
Others were sad too,
They had no idea at all.

Let us put this aside,
Listen to the story,
About how Krichorao killed Chinkogeo.

Chinkogeo Died in Bozwurchuk Battle

He did not pricked Toltoy down,
And did not attack the enemy troops by himself either,
Krichorao regret very much,
He breathed heavily with anger,
It annoyed him a lot.

Krichorao resented himself:
"My horse is magic Buruler,
My weapon is incomparably sharp,
My sword cuts the iron like cutting mud,
But the enemy runs away from my sight.
What can I do now?

"Yesterday, My majestic big brother,
Prayed for my journey,
Is his prayer useless?

"I did not cut the enemy's head and take it back,
I did not kill the enemy bravely,
I did not try my best for my big brother,
I did not get enemy's information,
What can I report to Khan?
I am just called a hero,
Why do I have so many troubles?

Krichorao thought like this,
He rode on the horse and continued chasing.
He caught a Kangayi person on the way,
Made the person tell him a lot about the enemy's situation,

He knew the detailed enemy situation,
Then he cut that person's head off.

He turned the head of his horse round immediately,
Ran back all night without a rest.
When the sun came out in the east,
He returned to the city of gold gate,
Walked into Ayichulek's palace.

Krichorao reported to Semtay:
"My dear big brother,
Buruler's bit is too hard,
I am not capable of riding it to the journey,
I did not want to ride it but you did not agree.
Big Akorlbok coat armor,
Is too wide and too big for me,
I did not want to wear it but you did not agree.

"I went to Bozwurchuk mountain to scout enemy situation,
A figure came to me at night.
His high prestige made me shocked,
My heart beat hard.

"My hands were shaking,
I pricked the spear toward him in a hurry,
I shouted Manas in the mouth,
And rushed to the enemy.
The mountain-size enemy,
Ran away from my hand.

"I went on scouting the enemy situation,
I caught one enemy,
I got the enemy situation from him.
He said, Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Are their leaders.
Salamart rode the black-spotted horse,
Fearless Jamanak,

They are all brave and skillful heroes.

"He also said, tomorrow morning,
Toltoy will lead his veteran generals,
And a flood of troops,
Come and attack Akun Khan's city.

"Your warrior, me, does these things,
When you sent me to scout.
This is what I need to tell you,
I have reported you all I saw."

Got the enemy information Krichorao reported,
How Kangkoer Semtay could still sit there silently!
He said: "I will go to fight immediately,
I will cut the heads of Chinkogeo and Toltoy off!"

He saddled his horse and carried all arms,
Krichorao and Kanchorao accompanied him.
Brave Khan Semtay and those two heroes,
Galloped toward Bozwurchuk mountain.

Semtay's mount was Tayibruler steed,
Krichorao's mount was Aktilk steed,
Kanchorao's mount was Surtilk steed.
They two were Semtay's capable assistants,
They followed Semtay and rushed to the battlefield.

Three steeds were all good at running,
Three eagles were like three bright stars at night.
When the sun came out,
They came on the top of Kokbelis mountain.
They held the telescope,
Watched the enemy in their sight.

Jetsu was crowded with Jedigair people,
Numerous troops and horses spread over the earth.

They marched along the mountain slope,
Countless colorful battle flags waved in the sky.

They lifted the telescope again,
Watched the spreading troops.
The sword Manas left to him,
Was sharpened on both sides.
Facing enemies all over the mountains,
The blood-sucking sword,
Made a swooshing sound.

Lion Krichorao,
Let the enemy off carelessly yesterday,
His temper was like burning in the fire.
He loaded his gun,
Prepared the fuse to light,
Twisted it thinly with his fingers.
Three heroes were like Yurkoer[1],
They were filled with the same hatred and ready to fight.

Warrior Kanchorao was full of righteous indignation,
He shouted abuse to the shameless enemies:
"I will take the enemies' arrogance down,
I will destroy the invading enemies,
I will shoot Chinkogeo's black-spotted horse to death!"

When Semtay heard what Kanchorao said,
He stopped two warriors immediately:
"Do not panic, my warriors,
You must prick the enemy down with the spear,
Do it with only one prick.
Even if you cannot,
Do not shoot surprise fire,

1 Yurkoer: It is Kirgiz language. Ancient Kirgiz people believed the brightest star in the sky, It was the Kimah in Twenty-eight Stars. Here it refers the three heroes to three stars. It is one of the common rhetoric skills in Kirgiz language to compare the heroes to the sun, the moon and the stars.

This is the rule passed down from our ancestors.

"Do not talk nonsense,
There are rules in the battlefield to talk."
What Kangkoer Semtay had said,
Two warriors remembered clearly in their hearts.

Enemies on the opposite mountain set up blue flags,
The flags waved in the wind,
Troops were lined up like wild geese.
Chinkogeo started the war,
This would be a cruel and bloody battle.

Blue flag was the symbol of Toltoy,
Every hero had his own color of flag,
Heroes all tried to show their braveness.
Tied up the belt ,
Toltoy was ready to rush to the battlefield.

Jedigair Khan Toltoy,
Gave out the order of setting out to Jamanak.
Jamanak rode on a short-tail spotted horse,
Stepped out of the troops and rushed into the battlefield.

He was running and shouting,
His shout was as loud as a thunder on a sunny day.
Salamart followed him,
Also stepped out and rushed into the battlefield.

Eagle hero Krichorao,
Rode on his horse and went to meet the enemies.
Chuwak's son Kanchorao,
Followed him to the battlefield.

They were brothers grew up together,
They once played together all the time.
Never said one was Kirgiz and one was Khitan.

Born brave Jamanak,
He was a young warrior with strong shins,
He held the blue-tasseled spear tight in the hand,
He was full of confidence to defeat them.

The young tiger Krichorao,
He was a lion of great strength.
He never retreated when he was in a battle,
He was a great hero.
He held the red-tasseled spear in the hand,
In high spirits and ready to fight.

Jamanak pricked his spear out first,
Agile Krichorao waved his battle axe in one hand,
And the red-tasseled spear in the other hand.
The spear Krichorao poked out,
Stabbed in Jamanak's chest severely,
The spear point reached his liver.
Self-assured hero Jamanak,
Fell off on the ground like tumbleweed.

Jamanak fell off his horse,
With his head straight into the mud.
Seeing Jamanak died on the spot,
Krichorao prayed to God solemnly.
He wanted to rush into enemy troops,
But he restrained himself from doing it.

Salamart came right after Jamanak,
He dare not fight and fled from the battlefield.
Warrior Kanchorao saw him,
So whipped the horse and chased tight.
The steed only made five big steps,
Kanchorao caught up with Salamart.

He focused on the Mongolian saddle,
Aimed at Salamart's bottom,

From the bottom of the waistcoat,
He poked the spear out with full of his energy.
Warrior Kanchorao shouted loudly:
"It is my show time!"

Salamart rode a black-spotted horse,
He was thrown dead on the ground like a crow.
Warrior Kanchorao turned his horse round,
Held the rein of the black-spotted horse in his hand.

Warriors Kanchorao and Krichorao,
Killed two heroes from Jedigair.
Two outstanding warriors,
Led the captured two horses and went back.

Numerous Jedigair people,
Could not get rid of these two devils.
For the heroes who killed these two devils,
They showed great hatred.
They reunited their troops,
Arranged the troops in order of battle again.

The sharpshooters who never missed a target,
Were arranged in one neat formation.
People who were good at using spears,
Were arranged in one neat formation.
People who did not fear death,
Were arranged in one neat formation.
People who were good at using battle axes,
Were arranged in one neat formation.

People who carried sharp swords,
People who poked the spear out and never drew back,
People who never showed their weaknesses to enemies,
People who never feared when faced with enemies,
People who never feared when they faced too many enemies,
People who were brave and decisive,

People who took death calmly,
Were arranged in neat formations separately.

These brutal and crazy people,
They even arranged old people who held a stick,
Patients who coughed,
In a neat formation.

They divided the troops into five formations,
Formed a vicious battle array.
They made every person who saw the array scared,
And thought he could not go back alive.

All horses had their tails tied up,
Jedigair people had prepared well for a battle.

Fearless hero Semtay,
Could not put out the angry fire when he saw this,
He wanted to catch all enemies alive.

Krichorao said to him right at the moment:
"My dear big brother,
Look, there are too many ferocious enemies,
We must defeat them separately.

"You go and defeat Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Kanchorao and I together,

Go and wipe out the enemies in the formations.
Khan, as long as I have any energy left,
I will cut their rising blue battle flag down."

Krichorao roared like thunders,
Kanchorao was filled with rage.
Toward the field of the enemies,
They rushed fearlessly.

Jedigair people with a blue battle flag,
Became a scene of chaos right away,
Flags knocked flags.
Spear handles knocked and clanged,
Guns shot intensely,
Horns deafened ears.

The fierce battle did not stop,
It lasted for fifteen days and nights.

The spear handles broke, they used axes to chop,
The spear points fell, they used hammers to punch.
Swords were waved,
Gunshots roared.
Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Swept away all obstacles in the front.

Brave and skillful Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Rushed into Jedigair troops again.
They fought for another half month without a stop,
The fierce battle was still not over.
Looking around,
Enemies were boundless like the flood.
With the fight over ten days,
It seemed none of enemies died.

Two heroes bent over and rushed into enemy troops,
The battle continued more violently.
One shot could kill two enemies,
Jedigair soldiers and horses fell down a lot,
Countless corpses spread like sheep crouching in the grassland.

Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Were brave and ever-victorious,
On the coat armors of two warriors,
There were full of arrows and bullets.
They took their gowns off and shook,

Bullets and arrows that fell on the ground were high to their ankles.
Jedigair people advanced one after another,
Their people were in an amazing amount.

Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Remembered their Khan suddenly,
They were worried about their big brother,
They went straight to look for Semtay.

Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
Were attacking Semtay fiercely.
Chinkogeo rode the four-winged black-spotted horse,
Hid behind the clouds and shot Semtay,
Others could not find where he was.
Toltoy was more ferocious,
He launched an attack crazily on the earth.

Semtay's Akorlbok coat armor was of full of arrows,
As dense as bull hair.
Fearless hero Semtay,
Did not scare at all.

Krichorao saw it,
The fire of rage burned in his chest.
He shouted in his full strength,
The shout of Manas,
Sounded throughout the earth.
He galloped his horse toward Semtay,
Stamped dense apricot trees down.

Toltoy's from Jedigair,
Shot his gun on the ground.
Shihay's son Chinkogeo,
Drew his bow and shot in the sky.

Arrows fell to the ground intensely,
Koychagar gun banged continuously,

Ochohur artillery banged without stopping.
People heard it all quivered,
Only fearless Krichorao,
Shouted and rushed ahead.

When Chinkogeo saw Krichorao,
He carried six pouches of bullets,
Tied them on the right side of the horse,
Climbed over Arat mountain which even argali could not climb over.

Semtay dodged the intense arrows and bullets,
Then praised from the bottom of his heart:
"All warriors and heroes I called in,
Who is braver than Krichorao?
All horses I gathered,
Which one can compare with my Buruler?

"Chinkogeo shot arrows from the sky like the rain,
Toltoy shot bullets as dense as sand on the ground,
It is blurred in my sight,
It is impossible for me to attack back.

"Krichorao, my warrior,
Thanks to your coming,
I can get out of the danger!"

Krichorao got angry when he heard this,
He blamed Semtay:
"He made ten shots, you did not shoot even once,
My Khan, are you sick?
We are the offspring of lion Manas,
The king's spirit and his world-spread fame,
Have you forgotten him?

"Ackelty gun on your shoulder,
Is the precious weapon he left to you,
As long as you shoot Ackelty gun,

You can protect yourself and defeat the enemy,
Why do not you use it just now,
Have you forgotten how to use it?"

Heard Krichorao's blame,
Semtay jumped off the saddle,
Took Ackelty gun off his shoulder,
Loaded it with bullets.
He gave the gun to Krichorao,
Wore Akorlbok coat armor,
To his father Manas' spirit,
He prayed solemnly.

Along the zigzag rode were full of cypress trees,
Old trees were still luxuriant.
Krichorao led magic Buruler,
Patrolled on Chararcha peak,
Monitored enemies situation.

Chinkogeo flew in the face of danger,
He went all over Arat mountain.
He prepared abundant bullets,
Now he hid behind the clouds.

He did not let others see him,
He shot sharp arrows secretly to the ground.
He shot with the bow of two shooting arrows,
He could shoot two arrows in one time.
The sharp arrows he shot,
Shot the neck of Almanbet's Sariala steed off,
The bullets he shot,
Pierced the waist of Kanikai's stallion.

Gun with seven bullets cracked,
Arrows flew in the air,
The bullets of Ochohur artilery flew everywhere,
Fourteen steeds were in great danger.

Ajibayi's old brown horse,
Was shot and full of blood.
Ten steeds were killed,
How miserable the scene was.

Heroes were very sad and angry,
Chinkogeo thought this way:
I always circle round them,
It is easy for them to find me.
They have gods to protect them and lead the way,
And the spirits of Manas and others also protect them,
I cannot hide in Arat mountain anymore.

Chinkogeo was ready to fly to other place,
He put the sharp arrows into the pouch and tied it tight.
Suddenly he saw Krichorao's white forehead in his sight:
"I want to kill this wandering warrior,
I will shoot him with a six-bullet gun.
I will find a chance and shoot through his head!"

Chinkogeo pulled clouds under his feet and watched carefully,
He aimed at the target and shot six bullets.
Chinkogeo shot sharp arrows with his bow,
And then he shot with a seven-bullet gun.

Chinkogeo shot bullets and arrows like a devil,
But he did not hurt Krichorao protected by gods at all.
Krichorao was born a warrior,
His courage was out of estimation.
Krichorao was born a hero,
His braveness was without peer.

He took up Ackelty gun,
Wiped the gun barrel with sheep tail fat,
Loaded the gun full with bullets,
Pushed three times with the iron stick.

Outstanding warrior Krichorao,
Stamped on the stirrups with full of strength,
He put Ackelty gun under his hips,
And on the horse mane.
His eyes did not blink,
He concentrated like he was made of iron.

Krichorao watched without turning a hair,
He searched carefully in the clouds.
The clouds in the sky moved,
He did not find Chinkogeo.

Damned Chinkogeo,
Finally he did not escape from Krichorao's eyes.
He showed up,
And the death was going near him.

Father left Ackelty gun,
It had round gunpoint and its head was like an apple,
No matter you shot straight or not,
It could hit the target.

White fuse lit with fire sparks,
Ackelty gun's bullets ran out,
The bullets were like having eyes.
Chinkogeo's four-winged black-spotted horse,
Its shoulder was shot off,
One wing fell off,
The black-spotted horse looped the loop and fell.
Shihay's son Chinkogeo,
Also fell by the side of a cliff.

Warrior Kanchorao shouted happily:
"Chinkogeo, you finally fall into my hands!"
Heard the shout of warrior Kanchorao,
Semtay felt surprised,

He ran there in a hurry.
Krichorao rode Buruler,
Followed the shout and ran there too.

Chinkogeo was at his last gasp,
He cried and lost his mind,
He threw himself in front of Semtay,
Begged Semtay to forgive him.

"You are the arrogant eagle flying in the sky,
I am a crow and cannot fly into the sky.
Hero Khan Semtay,
Please forgive me.

"You are a lion living on a high mountain,
I am a deer and cannot climb that high.
Hero Semtay,
Please forgive me.

"I will never walk in front of you again,
I will never gossip behind you,
I will do whatever you order me to do,
I will reach my neck out if you want to kill me.

"If I do evil things to you,
Let the blue sky above punish me,
Let the earth full of grass and trees punish me!
Let the lifeless Gobi desert punish me,
Let the surging river punish me!
If I break my promise,
Let your ninety supporters punish me together!"

Chinkogeo cried and begged for mercy,
He was like an old beggar of no moral integrity.
He staggered to the front of Semtay,
Knelt down and begged for mercy like a devil.
He carried his belt on his neck,

Cried and talked,
Asked for mercy and showed his regret.

Broad-minded Semtay,
He was a generous hero,
He did not know what was trick and plot,
He heard Chinkogeo was his subject,
He just forgave and was off guard.

Kindhearted Semtay,
He never guessed what tricks others cherished.
In all people's eyes,
He was a rare hero no one could compare with.

Heard Chinkogeo's begging,
Semtay kept silent,
He thought Chinkogeo really regretted.
Semtay said:
"Ok, I will spare your life!
As long as you make a clean break with your past errors,
You can stay with me."

Chinkogeo was evil-hearted,
Chinkogeo only planned for evil things,
Chinkogeo did not want to correct his errors,
He had full of tricks in his mind.
He buried his tricks deep in his heart,
He was looking for the chance to kill Semtay.
When Semtay was careless,
He seized the chance and lifted the battle axe in his hand,
Slashed at hero Semtay from his back.

Right at this crucial moment,
Krichorao came in.
Krichorao grasped Chinkogeo's wrist tight,
Then talked to Semtay as if nothing was wrong:
"My dear big brother,

Your wisdom is too high and deep to be measured.
Chinkogeo has surrendered to you,
He said he was your relative, and your brother,
Why do not you introduce him to me?
Maybe we are relatives,
Maybe we can become relatives.
We did not see each other for a long time,
Let us hug each other,
To show our missing affection."

Krichorao laughed loudly,
And said in a loud voice.
He walked up in a big stride,
Twined his right arm around Chinkogeo's neck,
Held Chinkogeo's shoulder in his left arm.

Chinkogeo looked puzzled,
He did not know whether it was true or not.
Krichorao lifted his clothes edge suddenly,
Held the gold-handle dagger in the hand,
Then drew it out of the sheath suddenly,
Clenched his teeth and stabbed toward Chinkogeo's belly.

Shihay's disobedient son Chinkogeo,
Fell on the ground and bled hard.
The bloodsucker brought the killing in the world,
Now he got the punishment and lost his life.

Krichorao killed Chinkogeo,
But his anger was still not perished.

But Semtay was not happy of it:
"I have forgiven him,
But you stab him to death!
Krichorao, my good brother,
You should not do it like this!"

Krichorao was born brave,
He said to Semtay with a smile:
"Big brother, you bring me the luck,
You have no reason to forgive Chinkogeo.

"For you, he is your relative,
For me, he is my enemy.
He and you have the same ancestor,
He and I are enemies to each other.

"You always forget if I do not remind you,
Who robbed you of your lover?
Who provoked the war in front of Bozwurchuk mountain?
Who threw you into the miserable fire?

"It happened just now,
He begged for your mercy,
And his axe was over your head at the same time.
If I came one step late,
You have already lost your life under his axe.

"My Khan,
You are kindhearted and generous,
But you should not give these to the evil person.
If you cannot distinguish it,
Big brother, you will not have a peaceful life,
White-hat Kirgiz people will not have peaceful lives either!"

Krichorao talked sincerely and sharply,
He clearly stated the right and wrong.
Krichorao's sharp words,
Poked Semtay's vital part,
It made Semtay flush with shame.
Although Semtay stopped Krichorao from talking,
Krichorao's words,
Had convinced him.

Let us put this aside,
Listen to how three heroes fought against Toltoy.

Three Heroes Fought in Jetsu and Krichorao Killed Toltoy

Kanchorao was young and aggressive,
The fire of rage in his heart was not put out.
He did not ask Semtay,
He did not care Krichorao.
He tied his wide iron belt,
Wore the shining helmet,
Carried the sharp battle axe,
He would go and kill Toltoy.

He shouted angrily,
His angry eyes had flames burning.
He opened his mouth,
Then he ground his teeth.

He put the breast protector in the front,
He wanted to go and kill the enemy of one mind.
He did not step on the iron stirrups,
Just jumped on the back of Chinkogeo's black-spotted horse.

Enemies spread over the earth inched forward,
Thick spear points shined under the sunshine.
Flocks of horses shook their tails,
Blue flags waved in the blue sky.

Kanchorao roared with great rage,
He was excited like a male camel in heat①.

① A male camel in heat: A male camel in heat is very wild and violent. It always sprays white foam from its mouth and roars, and also attacks people and other livestock violently. "Like a male camel in heat" is a common metaphor in Kirgiz literature.

He rushed to the enemies.
Jedigair people from Jetsu,
All quivered and felt scared,
When they saw awe-inspired Kanchorao.

Warrior Kanchorao shouted loudly:
"Jedigair people make Jetsu full,
Since you come and challenge me,
I will not let you go back home again,
You will not have chance to reunite with your family again!"
Warrior Kanchorao swore and shouted,
His temper turned more fierce and violent.

Kanchorao was of such a strong and stubborn character,
Even crows could not fly out from his palm.
He blocked numerous enemies' way of retreat,
He did not let even one enemy escape.

People who were good at using spears,
Giants who were good at swinging iron stick,
He killed them in groups before they ran away.

People who were good at using swords,
Shock soldiers who were good at leading an attack,
He killed them all.

Sharpshooters who were good at shooting,
Shooters who lit the fuses,
He killed them all before they pressed triggers.
Giants who held axes and considered themselves heroes,
He killed them before they entered the battle.

He killed all men in armors,
He made people in coat armors fall on one side.
He rushed and chopped in enemy troops,
All people that came to him,
He killed them one by one.

Brothers wept for brothers,
The enemies cried and shouted out in pain.
He did not allow a single enemy to be alive,
He killed them all.

The oncoming enemies,
He would swallow them one by one.
He waved his knife and rushed into enemy formations,
He destroyed enemy formations.
The enemies' dead day was coming,
He chopped them down in groups.

When Semtay saw this,
He appreciated Kanchorao's braveness.
Kanchorao drove Jedigair people,
Like he was driving herds of startled sheep.
He rode on the black-spotted horse,
Dust rose behind him shadowed the sunshine.

Blue flags fell down on the ground,
Kanchorao shouted loudly,
He killed more enemies.

Toltoy's troops were like flocks of crows,
Even though Kanchorao rushed and killed,
The swarmed enemies were still countless,
They feared the evil power of Toltoy,
None of them dared to run away.

Numerous troops and horses crowded together,
No one dare retreat,
It seemed they were surrounded.
Kanchorao rushed into them bravely again,
He whipped the black-spotted horse,
The horse was soaked wet all over.
"I will let this self-assured hero Toltoy,
See my heroic manner.

He has lost his major generals,
What can he do?"

Kokchybik gun Chuwak left,
Was on his shoulders,
It was a firelock everyone loved.
Kanchorao pushed the bullets in the bore,
With a sound of bang,
Dense smoke filled the air.
He made ten shots,
More than ten soldiers fell down.

Kanchorao ran to the other side and shot arrows,
He killed over thirty enemies,
Red blood flowed on the ground.
Kanchorao continued his fight alone,
He rushed and dashed in enemy troops.

"Jedigair people live in Jetsu,
You all come out!
Even if Yisfahan and Yindistan people join the battle,
I will kill them all together!
If I meet Toltoy,
I will kill him on the way."

Kanchorao roared like a male camel in heat,
And like an injured tiger too.
The spear shined in his hand,
Iron stick clanged on his waist.

Kanchorao was filled with great rage,
He spat saliva to his palm,
The sleeves rolled up above his elbows,
The black-spotted horse under his bottom galloped,
Clouds of clay rose behind him in the air.
He crossed six rows of big pits in a row,
As easy as crossing little ditches.

Kanchorao rushed into enemy troops again,
Numerous Jedigair people,
Were all scared out of their wits.

Merciless Kanchorao,
His temper was like a wild beast,
He was furious,
He was like a killer.

He shouted Manas in the mouth,
Reached the sharp spear out in his hand:
"Jedigair people, you have no way to retreat,
Do not dream to flee away."

Kanchorao continued chasing and killing enemies,
He held the sharp sword in one hand,
Held the crescent axe in the other hand,
Like a ferocious tiger coming down the mountain,
Every enemy he met was killed.

The sharp spear his father left,
Held tight in his hand,
Even if he pricked toward the black rock,
The earth could not bear its sharpness.
Even if Karamark, Khitan and Jedigair people,
Held the battle flags and resisted together,
They could not stop brave Kanchorao.

His vigor was like waves in the lake,
His coldness was like the wind on the prairie.
He rushed and killed enemies like a panther,
The same as his father Chuwak.

He never felt scared in front of enemy troops,
He never feared when faced countless enemies.
He was a handsome warrior,
He always left sorrow to enemies.

His words were always very appropriate,
He never ran off at the mouth.
He only talked when he found the right chance,
Otherwise, he did not say a word the whole day.

He never opened his mouth and laughed loudly,
He never exposed his teeth,
He showed the characters of the steady and modest.
No matter who was the person,
No one could know what he was thinking.

Hero Kanchorao, toward the thigh of the black-spotted horse,
Gave a severe whip.
He held the steel sword,
Tight in his hand.
The black-spotted horse under his bottom,
Held the bit in its mouth and galloped ahead.

Kanchorao sat straight with a cold face,
He stretched his duck-size neck,
His eyes were as red as fire.
He rolled up the sleeves high,
Showed his heroic manner.

Under the hooves of the black-spotted horse,
There were deep pits.
Every time he rushed into dense enemies,
Enemies' blood flowed on the ground.
Where there were stubbornly resistant enemies,
He would rush and advance there.
He waved the steel sword,
Drove the surging enemies.
When he met the oncoming enemies,
He let none of them be alive.

Countless Jedigair people,

Were unable to stop his braveness.
Kanchorao descended great sorrow and disaster,
To ferocious enemies.

Knocked the enemies off,
Made enemies pain and cry.
Enemies regretted for their coming,
A lot of people touched their chins and cried,
They could not escape from Kanchorao chasing.
Kanchorao was like furious storms sometimes,
He was like the falcon chasing crows sometimes.
Chased all over the top of Bozwurchuk mountain,
Then he chased along the mountain slope.

Like a cheetah,
Kanchorao chased enemies and made them run here and there.
He chased along the mountain slope,
Red blood dropped off from his sword blades.
Kanchorao chased the groups of enemies,
Like driving flocks of startled sheep.
Kanchorao killed enemies,
Like the wind swept the clouds away.

Extremely furious Toltoy,
Could not bear such an ending of being killed.
He wore layers of armors,
Rode on his Surkoyun steed,
Took heart of grace and came to fight.

Toltoy breathed heavily,
Blue-tasseled spear held tight in his hand,
His roar could deafen the ears,
Crescent axe hung on his waist,
Waved his sword in the hand,
Watched the defeated soldiers around him,
He felt depressed and he licked his lips.

Giant Toltoy,
Had uninterrupted success in all battles.
His braveness was unusual,
His fierce was beyond the normal people.
He never feared the death,
He never measured his own power either.

He reached his sharp spear out and knocked the ground,
Sparkles splashed on the spear.
Hot air sprayed out of his nostrils,
The steed under him was sweat all over.
Behind Toltoy,
The dust rolled and covered the sky.

Kneecap-size warrior Kanchorao,
Fought mountain size hero Toltoy.
Warrior and hero met face to face,
Their eyes were both as red as the fire.

The grey horse under Toltoy's bottom,
Raised its male argali-size chest up,
Opened its big mouth,
Sprayed white foams everywhere.

Toltoy's body was as big and tall as a mountain,
He was of infinite force and feared nothing on earth.
The place would have blood flowed once he saw it,
People would lose their lives once caught by him.

He wore the iron clothes,
He was just like a flying dragon.
He shouted Bagersh in his mouth,
The loud roar was like thunders rolled.
He rushed into the crowd,
Chased and wanted to kill hero Kanchorao.

Toltoy, God should punish him,

It was like he was the hero that defeated everything.
He was merciless in the charge,
He waved his blue-tasseled spear,
He tried to injure warrior Kanchorao.

Warrior Kanchorao was born brave,
He did not fear because of his young age.
He did not feel scared about this mountain-size giant,
He pricked his spear toward the rival.

Two spears clanged together,
Only in one round,
Two spears both broke and fell on the ground.
Two heroes were both bare-handed,
No one hesitated.

Kanchorao risked his life,
Lifted the cast iron hammer high in the hand.
Even the rock would be smashed to powder,
When the hammer punched.

Kanchorao said to Toltoy:
"Self-assured hero Toltoy,
Please open your eyes if you are brave,
Look, who is in front of you if you are courageous!

"I know you are good at fighting alone,
Let's fight alone.
If you are a true hero,
You will let me attack first,
If you are a coward like a mouse,
I will let you attack me first."
Heard Kanchorao's cynical words,
Toltoy was filled with rage right away.
Mountain-size great hero,
How he could bear a kid's mockery.

He held the shield in his hand,
Lifted the shield over his head with the spear shaft,
And put one side of the shaft against the saddle.
He stood in the center speechless,
Waited for Kanchorao's attack calmly.

Warrior Kanchorao feared nothing,
His face clouded like it was going to rain.
He lifted the hammer up with full of his strength,
Punched at Toltoy.

Toltoy deserved to be called a great hero,
He did not move and did not talk,
Even his bottom on the saddle did not move an inch.
He sat still on his horse,
He rocked steady like a sturdy column,
He sat straight with his head high up.

Kanchorao held the bit of the black-spotted horse,
Before Toltoy made a move,
He lifted the hammer with both of his hands,
Punched at Toltoy again.

Toltoy should not stand there according to the rule,
Kanchorao should not make attacks in a row.
Since he punched twice,
Then he punched the third time.

Warrior Kanchorao turned the horse round,
Made a loud shout like a thunder.
He shouted out Manas,
Then came to the front of Toltoy again.
The black-spotted horse just stood steadily,
Kanchorao stamped the stirrups,
Bit his lips and used full of his energy,
Made a third punch severely.

"Chinkogeo had been sent to the hell by Krichorao,
For his accomplice Toltoy,
How I can let him live in this world!"

Toltoy blinked his eyes unexpectedly,
He was totally sweated.
Surkoyun steed under his bottom,
Was the mount God bestowed him,
It carried its master out of the battlefield from the dust.

Kanchorao made three punches in a row,
But Toltoy returned safely.
Now it was Toltoy's turn,
He only punched once at Kanchorao,
The black-spotted horse ran out of the dust with an empty saddle.

Toltoy did not care whether Kanchorao was alive or dead,
In order to catch that black-spotted horse,
He galloped forward and chased it.

Disaster descended on Kanchorao's head,
He was punched and lay on the grass.

Krichorao whipped Buruler steed,
Ran to Kanchorao,
He tried his best to save eagle Kanchorao.
"Wish the spirit of my late father in the heaven,
Bless warrior Kanchorao alive!"

The black-spotted horse was fleeing in a panic,
Toltoy was chasing behind it.
Krichorao came across with the black-spotted horse,
Krichorao grasped the rein in his hand smoothly.

Krichorao led the black-spotted horse,
Came to the side of warrior Kanchorao:
"Kanchorao, are you ok?

My big hero, are you alive?
Does your body injure?"

Warrior Kanchorao stood up,
He held the half spear in his hand.
"I got a punch from Toltoy's hammer,
I was almost in heaven."
Krichorao looked at Kanchorao amiably,
Handed him the rein of the black-spotted horse immediately.
"Get on the horse, my warrior Kanchorao!"

Right at the moment,
Toltoy shouted angrily and rushed toward two warriors.
Seeing giant Toltoy rush to them,
Almanbet's son Krichorao,
Got excited immediately,
He whipped his horse and rushed ahead.

He fought with full of his energy,
He sweated all over.
His eyes splashed with fire,
His eyelashes could pierce through the rock.
He whipped his horse and fought against Toltoy,
Dust rose around them covered the blue sky.

Long black mane grew,
On warrior Krichorao's back.
Two tigers in front of him opened their mouths and roared,
And ground their teeth and made loud noises.

A bare-foot naked little boy,
Held the rein of his horse for him.
Sage helped him along his side,
Became his loyal companion.
A pair of same grey rabbits,
Walked closely by the sides of the silver stirrups.

Sixty male argali,
Wandered around him.
A spotted python,
Twisted around his waist for three times.
All protecting gods of Manas,
Now appeared together around him.

Manas rode on his Achura steed,
He looked majestic and stately.
It seemed he came to guide the warrior,
He followed tight by the side of Krichorao.

When talking about the lion's protector,
How we could finish it,
Sage Koshaoyi was also in front of him.
Two pretty girls,
Crossed their arms and stood in the front.
Right behind them,
Were lion Almanbet and Chuwak,
And brave superman Sirak,
They all came to accompany the warrior.

Giant Toltoy was a great hero,
He did not flee in a panic when he saw this situation.
Toltoy met the fight bravely,
He would use the artillery to challenge the hero.
Toltoy lit the artillery,
Blocked the road the warrior would go to.

He shot bullets sometimes,
And shot arrows sometimes.
He minded it was not enough,
He pulled out the long spear shaft.

"It is useless even if I prick their warrior down.
Semtay is on the back of Buruler steed,
I will poke him down to the ground with my sharp spear,

Avenge hero Chinkogeo.

"I will cut Semtay's head off,
Punish this self-assured hero.
I do not return to my hometown from here,
I will fight all the way to Kankoler prairie.

"I will cut Semtay's head off although he has many gods protecting him,
I will kill Manas' only son,
Manas' offspring,
I will remove him completely.

"I will rob Akun Khan of his daughter Ayichulek,
Take her to my home.
If I cannot achieve my vows,
I swear I will not be a man."

Toltoy thought this way,
He did not notice the disaster he would meet.
He looked down upon the young warrior in front of him,
It seemed he had thousands of troops behind him.

Toltoy chased Krichorao tight,
Two heroes met in the battlefield.
Toltoy's Surkoyun steed,
Was with bright piercing eyes and waving mane,
Sparks splashed under its hooves,
Like the flickering flint.
The horse galloped liked it was flying,
Like the rock throwing out.
Hero Toltoy rushed ahead,
He got close to hero Krichorao in a blink of an eye.
"I must kill this young man,
I will let his life end in my hand!"

Hero Toltoy shouted in a loud voice,

The blue-tasseled spear waved,
A giant with the strength like him,
Who dare challenge him.

Brave and strong Toltoy,
Lion hero Toltoy,
Although he fought alone by himself,
He was with the power of thousands of troops.

Hero Toltoy shouted in a loud voice,
The blue-tasseled spear waved ceaselessly.
Aimed at kneecap-size Krichorao,
He poked the spear out severely.

Warrior Krichorao was pricked off the horse,
He fell in the grass a rein far from the horse.
Bagersh's son hero Toltoy,
He was such a brave and courageous giant.

Hero Krichorao was so young,
But his riding was very skillful and adept.
Toltoy was drawing back his spear,
When he almost grabbed Buruler's rein,
Warrior Kanchorao seized the chance and whipped the horse,
Came and helped Krichorao.
Buruler was ready to run away,
Krichorao jumped up and sat on the saddle again.

"God Shayli once helped our fathers,
He should give us the strength!"
Kanchorao turned it over in his mind.
He pricked the spear out quickly,
The spear got energy of waterfall of mountain.

Pricked hero Toltoy off with the red-tasseled spear,
Was the wish and hope of the warrior.
Hero Toltoy did not move at all,

He did not lift his bottom even an inch.
He did not show any interest in Krichorao,
His braveness was hard to be measured.

Kanchorao rushed up from his side,
And poked the spear in his hand out quickly.
It was like biting by a flea,
Toltoy sat still.

Two warriors joined forces and fought against the enemy,
They grabbed their own spears tight in the hands.
They took turns and attacked,
They poked at Toltoy and made him open his mouth.

Facing two warriors' fierce attack,
Toltoy did not know how to be on his guard.
Toltoy was nervous and flustered,
He wiggled his body and tried to dodge from their attack.

Two warriors and Toltoy were in the thick of the fighting,
Semtay arrived,
At a place not far from two warriors,
His steed stopped its hooves from going forward.

Semtay whipped the steed,
But the musk deer horse stood still.
Semtay shouted in a hurry:
"Hey, my warrior, brace up!"
Semtay's loud shout,
Scared Toltoy.

Facing panic Toltoy,
Krichorao poked his spear.
Toltoy was born brave,
He pushed Krichorao's spear aside.

Krichorao was equal to the occasion,

He grabbed the spear Toltoy poked at him.
Toltoy was out of his mind,
He lost his spear in a panic,
He could only seize the chance and flee away.

Krichorao's heroic story,
Then circulated among the people.
Heroes' achievements should hand down to generations,
We should help them hand down.

Toltoy lost his spear,
He had had no power to resist,
He had to retreat and hide.
The heavy blow from Krichorao,
Wiped his heroic manner away,
Toltoy lost his power of battling.

Toltoy was empty-handed,
He lost his majesty as a lion.
He turned his grey horse round,
Whipped its bottom hard.

He did not have the strength to wave the axe,
He had no spear to wave,
Facing those three courageous heroes,
He did not have the courage to sound the drum.

The sharp spear in his hand,
Was taken away by Krichorao.
He drew the sword out of the sheath,
But he did not find a chance to kill his rival.
He wanted to light the fuse to shoot,
But he could not find the gunpowder.

Looked at the prestigious warriors,
Toltoy fled to Orolmo mountain and hid.
Surkoyun steed had its bald tail drooped,

Toltoy shook on the steed back.

Seeing Toltoy's embarrassed look when he ran away,
Jedigair people stared openmouthed:
"Our Khan fled in a panic,
Our leader has died!
These three peerless heroes in front of us,
Who else dares to challenge them!"

The old and the young, they all gathered and shouted:
"We want to return to our hometown!"
Jedigair people rushed and fled away.

Warrior Kanchorao was filled with great rage,
Whipped at the horse bottom,
Came to Jedigair people.
He persuaded them to put their arms off,
But none of them listened to him.

He was a fierce wolf in the night,
Rushed and stabbed in the crowd of fleeing people.
Facing Kanchorao's wrath,
No one dare stop him.

He whipped the black-spotted horse,
He rushed and dashed in enemy troops.
The point of the spear turned blunt,
He held the sword in his hand.
He killed enemies and made achievements,
He became a famous peerless hero.

No sword blades were left,
No spear points were left,
Only wood handles were left.
They could not control their rage,
They killed enemies that resisted one by one.

Stories of heroes killing enemies,
People compiled them to epics and handed down.
Warriors Kanchorao and Krichorao,
They got the renowned name Kangkoer.

Jedigair people divided inside,
Seven men of Jezkanpire[1],
All came and helped the warrior to fight.
Among Jedigair people,
The shout of the name Manas broke out.

Jezkanpire's seven sons,
Split out from Jedigair people,
They were all elites heroes in their places,
No one could compare with them.
If hero Toltoy died,
These seven brothers would administer Jedigair.

Jezkanpire's seven men,
Were heroes local people respected.
They came out and controlled the situation,
Then people stopped fleeing.

Jezkanpire's seven warriors,
They discussed with Kanchorao,
Let soldiers unsaddle their horses,
Arranged them well and let them go back home.

Hero Toltoy had fled away,
People lost the confidence toward him completely.
A lot of people sighed for Toltoy's destiny,
People who got benefits from Toltoy,
Gathered together and cried sadly,
They prayed to God for his safety.
Jezkanpire's seven sons,

1 Jezkanpire: It is the name of a Kirgiz tribe.

Administered Jedigair people from then on.

Semtay had never been to this place,
He had never met people here before.
Semtay divided Jedigair people into seven tribes,
Jezkanpire's seven sons,
Were named Khans of each tribe.
But some people still stood there and did not move,
They still kept their hopes in Toltoy.

The news of Toltoy's flee,
Passed to Ayichulek,
Chulek and girls and married ladies,
They talked and laughed at him.

Toltoy was scared and fled,
Toltoy was unlucky,
Toltoy was scared away by the young men,
He was looking for a way out at this crucial moment:
"Where am I going to do?
Do I go Jelipinish?
Do I complain to hero Jalgezkoz[①],
My miserable experience?

"Do I go round Arat mountain,
And go to Andijan?
Do I turn my way to the foot of Tianshan mountain,
Cross Tashkent,
Cross the forest and hills,
Flee to famous Yindistan?

"If I cannot get rid of their chasing,
Can I go across the ocean?
Do I go along the road to Beygin city,

① Jalgezkoz: Kirgiz language. Jalgez means alone. Koz means eye. Namely, it refers to a person of one eye. It is the single-eyed hero in the legend.

Ask Kunwuerbayi for a shelter?
Complain to him my hardships,
And present my beloved grey horse,
To Kunwuerbayi generously?

"Do I turn the way to Kashgar,
But there is no hero I can ask for help!"

Four corners of the world,
Toltoy considered four times again and again,
He still did not find an appropriate place to go,
He felt depressed.

Finally, Toltoy fell prey to panic,
He ran directly to Akun Khan's city.

When he went upward to the hill,
Buruler could not catch up with Surkoyun.

When he went downward the hill,
Buruler surpassed Surkoyun steed.

Then he got to valleys and dangerous roads,
Surkoyun steed was out of sight.
When he got to the beach of rocks,
Buruler caught up with it again.

Toltoy whipped his horse and ran over all mountains,
Finally he arrived in vast plains.

Mountain size hero Toltoy,
Talked to himself:
"Akun Khan is a kindhearted person,
Can he plead for mercy for me?

"Even if Semtay does not forgive me,
Akun Khan will wash my corpse clean,

Bury me and let me rest!"
Toltoy did not open his eyes,
He followed his thought and went to Akun Khan.

Krichorao was like a hungry lion,
He chased after Toltoy with full of his strength.

Ayichulek flew in the sky,
She saw they were chasing on the ground,
She landed by the sides of girls and married ladies,
She said to the girls:
"Girls, come to me quickly!
You all go to the road now,
Block the road,
Khan Toltoy is fleeing toward this way,
You just go laugh at him."

Heard what Ayichulek asked them to do,
The girls ran to the side of the road.
Some of them lay on their stomachs on the wall,
Played with each other,
They were happy and noisy.

When Toltoy ran toward them,
And fled through them,
Girls and married ladies sneered,
They said in a loud and noisy voice:

"Hey, Toltoy, do not run away!
Toltoy, you are scared away by a kid,
How do you have face to see your people?
Do not your people laugh at you!

"You should worm your way into the earth!
Do not bump on the horseback,
Krichorao almost catch you,
You should roll up like a hedgehog,

Head into your hole!

"Our Khan brother-in-law Semtay,
He will not forgive you,
Even if you have a mountain-size body,
You are no way to compare with Semtay!

"Hey, Toltoy, how are you?
Where is your courage going?
You lost in Krichorao's hand,
How can you be a lion?
Do not boast anymore."

Heard those girls' sneers,
Toltoy was very angry,
It was like a knife peeling his face.
Toltoy regretted but it was too late,
Tolerated the girls' sneers,
He became more ferocious.
Toltoy turned his head back and watched,
It was not a mountain-size hero,
It was not Semtay Khan either.
He reined his horse right away.

Toltoy was very angry,
He looked backward.
He held the sword tight in his hand,
Drew his sword out of the sheath.
In order to win his dignity back,
Regardless of his life,
He was going to fight.

Krichorao caught up with him,
"Stop!" He shouted.
Toltoy wanted to win his honor back,
He rushed to Krichorao and fought.

Two heroes met together,
Two swords clanged together.
The swords were broken,
They picked up axes,
Chopped at each other with axes.

The handles of axes broke,
He picked up spears.
They roared like thunders and reached their sharp spears out,
One poked hard and one tried to defend.

Spears in their hands broke,
There were knives, hammers, and staggers.
They changed different kinds of weapons,
Until all weapons were broken.

The coat armor that bullets could not pierce through,
Was torn into pieces.
The flat ground was stepped into low places,
And low places were stepped into hills.

They fought round and round,
Fought against each other in turns,
Their shouts were loud enough to wake the dead,
People who saw them all felt scared.

They were merciless,
They both wanted to put the other to death.
They were as crazy as male camels in heat in fall,
Their eyelashes did not move at all to plot the other one secretly.

Two heroes stared at each other,
People who watched aside,
Seemed lost confidence of their own destiny.

They competed on the horse day and night,
Grasped each other's collar,

With full of their strength.

They grasped each other's collar for a while,
Then reined their horses and got close to each other,
Grabbed each other's hands and dragged,
They breathed heavily with all of their energy.

They bent over and pulled and dragged,
Kicked horse belly hard with the heels,
Just let go and then tussled together again.
They knocked each other with their horses,
Horses breathed heavily and felt exhausted,
All hooves sank into dirt deep.

Heroes' weapons were abandoned in the wilderness,
Their horses sank into the dirt.
They both dismounted,
Competed with each other on the ground.
They took off their coat armors,
Got close to each other.
They grabbed each other's belt,
The giant hands were full of strength.

They used all their strength,
Tried to lift each other from the back of their waists.
They exhausted all their means,
Tried their best to lift each other.

They were thirsty and their faces were pale,
Their sweat ran like water,
They were wet all over like they had taken a shower.

Sweat sprayed like spring water,
Eyes blurred and mind fogged,
Toltoy was without equal rivals in strength,
It seemed he had endless energy.

Krichorao could not bear the rival's fierceness,
He was almost out of breath.
He looked exhausted in his eyes,
And his face was pale.

Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
Mink hat was on askew on her head,
She walked to Krichorao and said:
"Young tiger, what's wrong with you?
Where is your heroic manner?"

Krichorao heard her words,
He was encouraged with full of energy.
His face turned pink,
Sweat ran on his back,
Hot air sprayed out of his mouth and saliva fell on the ground.

Girls wandered to one side slowly,
Silk clothes waved in the wind,
Married ladies worried and lost their energy,
Girls made big noise by the side.

Krichorao made a loud shout,
It was as loud as bell ring,
The warrior took heart of grace again,
His voice resounded over people's heads.

Right at the moment,
Semtay also arrived.
Only at this moment,
Toltoy really felt he was facing the death.

"Do not let me see Akun Khan.
Does the death come to me?
He did not plead mercy for me,
Does it mean it is my end today?
Krichorao brought the disaster to me,

Is he going to cut my head off?"

When Toltoy thought about this,
He lost his mind.
What was it if it was not called losing his mind?
He quivered all over and felt weak in his hands.

"The lion's son Semtay,
Do not kill me now."
Toltoy continued thinking about this,
He looked around in a panic.
Toltoy was near the death,
He tried to find a chance to flee.
Krichorao noticed it,
Rushed between Toltoy's legs suddenly.
He lifted Toltoy from his crotch,
Then threw Toltoy hard to the ground.
Krichorao was born smart,
He sat on Toltoy's chest immediately.

Right at the moment,
Semtay shouted to him:
"Warrior, let him off, quick!"
He shouted loudly.
"I am going to plead for mercy for him!"
Ayichulek also came in a hurry.

At the moment Semtay and Ayichulek,
Were walking toward him from the distance,
At the moment the hero said "Let him off!"
And wanted to plead mercy for Toltoy,
Krichorao had drawn the short sword out,
Aimed at Toltoy's neck,
Stabbed in hard.
Mountain-size hero Toltoy,
Was sent to the other world.

Semtay arrived at the moment,
"My brave hero Totloy!
My friend Toltoy,
You should not come here."
Semtay turned round and cried to Krichorao loudly:
"Krichorao, you made an enemy!
Krichorao, you start a feud!
Toltoy had a sin not unto death!

"Krichorao, you did not ask me,
You made the decision by yourself and killed him, Krichorao!
He does not cherish evil thoughts,
You do not understand him, Krichorao!

"You are young and act recklessly,
You killed him for nothing, Krichorao!
He was cheated by Chinkogeo,
But you put him to death, Krichorao!

"Poor Toltoy,
How good it is if you let him be alive,
He is one of my subjects.

"My father Manas,
He and Bagersh were the closest in relation.
Numerous people in Jedigair,
They did not rob any of my land.

"Krichorao, you were enchanted by the devil,
You did it wrong before I came!"

Semtay regretted,
But he could not make Toltoy back to life again.
He blamed young warrior Krichorao,
It did not help anyway!
Hero Khan Semtay,
Made arrangements for Toltoy's funeral,

He washed Toltoy's body,
Wrapped it with white silk.

Semtay buried Toltoy's corpse with his own hands,
He still could not calm down.
Semtay was very sad,
He cried loudly to mourn him.

"He is my uncle,
As long as I am still alive,
After this year, in the fall next year,
I will hold a grand ceremony for him,
Hold all kinds of recreational actioities,
Make it bigger than Koktoy's ceremony,
Now I will Beygin to prepare it."

They lived there,
They had nothing to do except eating.
Among girls and married ladies,
They had no mood to play with them.

Krichorao was so bored,
He began to talk wildly:
"You marry beautiful Ayichulek as your wife,
Famous horse is put aside,
The trophy Surkoyun steed,
What is your plan?
Whom do you want to give the horse to?"

Captured trophy Surkoyun steed,
Two warriors neither gave way to the other one.
They quarreled over one horse endlessly,
Not over one beautiful girl.

They discussed with each other in the past,
They both married beautiful girls,
One was Kaliman, the other was Begmujan.

In this anxious human world,
More treasure brought more desire.

Facing beautiful girls,
Warriors did not quarrel but let the other choose first.
Facing a fine horse,
Warriors like brothers refused to yield an inch.

As a heroic nation on the horseback,
Horse was the wing of the hero.
In their deep hearts,
Fine horses were more precious than girls.

Semtay said to these two warriors:
"Your former horses,
Are Aktilk and Surtilk.
I consider you two warriors,
As important as my eyes.
Do not make your relation as cold as ice,
Just because you two scramble for a horse,
It does not matter to whom the horse belongs.

"Since you quarrel over it without a result,
It is better to have a contest.
The reward for the first place,
Is the grey horse you are fighting for.
The reward for the second place,
Is the black-spotted horse flying in the sky.

"Who gets the first place,
Take the grey horse.
Who gets second,
Take the black-spotted horse.

"Warriors, live in harmony with each other,
Two warriors, let's Beygin the contest!
I will be your judge."

When two warriors heard it,
They ran to their horses gaspingly.
They carried their own saddles,
Went to saddle their horses in a hurry.

Two warriors jumped onto their horsebacks,
Galloped toward Bozwurchuk mountain.
Two warriors whipped their horses,
Ran shoulder to shoulder,
The bits of these two horses,
Got close to each other.
Warriors competed hard,
Tried to get that fine horse.

Two heroes rode at a killing speed,
They whipped their horses continually,
White musk deer horse and grey musk deer horse,
They ran and sweated all over.
Two horses galloped like the lightening,
They arrived at the foot of Bozwurchuk mountain in a blink of an eye.

Semtay was fair and just,
He opened his round eyes.
Who would be the first?
He kept a close watch to their race,
Two horses looked at each other and galloped fast.

Krichorao's horse ran on one side,
Kanchorao's horse ran on the other side.
Krichorao's horse ran in the front,
Kanchorao's horse ran right behind it.

Kindhearted Semtay,
How could he know Kanchorao would blame him over this issue?
He threw the sheep-intestine-size rein,
To those two warriors.

Right at the moment the rein was going to fall,
Warrior Krichorao ran in the front,
Before the rein fell on the ground,
He grabbed it in his hand smartly.

"Semtay prefers Krichorao,
He looks down upon me,
He threw the rein of the grey horse,
To Krichorao's side!"
Kanchorao did not get the grey horse,
He buried a seed of hatred toward Semtay in his heart.

Time would try all,
Semtay and Krichorao,
Would know one day the evil thoughts buried deep in Kanchorao's heart.

Semtay Returned to His Hometown with His Wife Ayichulek

In Akun Khan's city,
Flames of war had been put out.
Semtay and Ayichulek,
Spent their honeymoon there.

Good summer time had gone,
Cold winter was coming,
Lion hero Semtay,
Was ready to return to his hometown Talas.

Lion Semtay,
Rode on his steed Buruler,
Carried the grey-white falcon and advanced in the front,
His beautiful wife Ayichulek went shoulder to shoulder with him,
Two Choraos followed them tight.

They crossed Yurkainichy river,
And crossed some other big rivers and mountains.
Karakalpark people and Turkmen people,
Welcomed them warmly.

In Tajik and Yisfahan,
No matter where they visited and lived,
They accepted great respect,
They received gold and silver as gifts.

Semtay found the lost hawk,
Married the girl Ayichulek,
They got grand gifts,

They continued advancing to Talas.

Defeated ferocious enemies,
Gave a heavy lesson to them.
People along their way all came and congratulated,
Semtay returned to his hometown Talas.
Khans all came and congratulated,
Returned their acting power to him.

Manas' son Semtay,
Exhorted his people:
"Unity and harmony are the premise of happiness!"

He admonished his people:
"My father lion Manas,
His homeland is vast Talas,
Brave people with white felt hats,
Are his fellow people,
His people are heroic Arashi people.

"When my father Manas was alive,
He took the authority on the throne in his palace.
My uncle Bakay is the advisor,
Helped my father.

"Kirgiz and Kazakh have the same ancestor,
There were fourteen Khans united together,
Celebrated happy events together,
Worshiped ancestors together,
Went through thick and thin together,
Went for battles together.
In order to protect the land and people of Arashi,
They shed blood together.

"After my father passed away unfortunately,
Aweikai, Koboshi and Jagurp Khan,
Tore us apart mercilessly,

It hurts the feeling of all our people.

"Now the war has been over,
Kirgiz and Kazakh will never part again.
Fourteen Khans get together,
Unite together."

Separated hearts reconnected,
Broken relationships restored,
Separated people reunited,
Arashi people reunited.

Semtay was elected to be the Khan,
Talas people began their happy and rich lives.
"Unity and harmony are the premise of the happiness."
These words rooted deep in people's hearts.

Time flied,
Spring was coming,
Snow melted,
Trees blossomed.
People crowded,
Horses neighed.
People began to move to Arpa, Alayi,
Alayiku and Yuchytash summer pastures.

In the peaceful time,
Heroes Krichorao and Kanchorao,
They became leaders to administer people.

Beautiful married ladies were chosen,
Heroes were chosen from young men,
Totally forty pairs of men and women,
They would celebrate the happiness of moving.

Silk and iron chains tied as ropes to tie horses,
Forty horses were chosen,

They made delicious horse milk wine.

Set up six-stick swing,
Stepped with both feet and swung to the sky.
Played games Kumalak[①] and Take Palace,
Young people were contented.

Jamgerchy, Kanikai and Bakay,
The pastures they lived in,
Were at the edge of Samarkand.
They lived in Belsazkerchin prairie in summer,
Moved to Sarkasak pasture in fall.
And spent their winter in Kankoler,
There was a warm winter pasture.

Numerous handsome and respectable Nuoyi people,
They did not pray to God.
There was no poor,
People lived there happily.

Ayikoler's son Semtay,
He had nothing to do, he lived a carefree life.
Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Hunted and played in the pasture everyday.
People were happy everyday,
Cheerful chatting and laughing were everywhere.
Chanachy made horse milk wine,
They drank it as they wished,
Till the Celaeno hung high up in the sky.

They only cared for pleasure-seeking life,
The disaster would finally come to them.
For people who live and work in peace and contentment,
There must be someone chasing after them.

① Kumalak: One of Kirgiz chess games.

Kunwuerbayi from Karamark,
Would bring troubles for Kirgiz again.

Kunwuerbayi Attacked Kankoler

Toktosart Betrayed and Turned into a Spy

Karamark people Kunwuerbayi,
He was old enough that his hair had turned white.
He still buried the hatred to Khan Manas,
Deep in his heart.
He got the news from caravans,
He heard that lion Manas' son,
Semtay lived in Kankoler.

He also inquied news from businessmen,
Manas Khan's son,
Semtay mounted the throne of Khan.
He heard Chinkogeo and Toltoy,
These two were killed by Semtay.
Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
Married Semtay.
All information about Semtay,
Even some funny things,
He knew all of them clearly.

Kunwuerbayi was tempted by the devil,
The hatred in his heart was hard to control.
Rode on a vigorous black mane horse,
Carried the cyan tabacco bag,
Galloped to the west as fast as he could.

Kunwuerbayi said to himself:

"Do I go to Beshbalk[1] first?
There are many caravans coming and going,
I can ask for some detailed information.

"I need find a businessman,
Give him a lot of money to buy him over,
Then I will send him to Semtay,
Let him find Semtay's secret for me."

Kunwuerbayi rode the black mane horse,
He was big, tall and strong.
Kunwuerbayi rode Alkala steed,
He raised his waist straight arrogantly.

Among Karamark people with black-tasseled hats,
Kunwuerbayi was their backbone.
Among Karamark people with red-tasseled hats,
Kunwuerbayi was their Khan.

"God Eratnat[2], please bless me!"
He prayed to the god solemnly.
This merciless guy,
Was like a hungry lion.
This Oboler mountain-size guy,
Climbed over Kalat Mountain.

This damned arrogant guy,
Wore the breast protector,
Carried bullets and gunpowder,
Came to Beshbalk city.

Not long after he lived in Beshbalk,
He got the authority of this city.

① Beshbalk: Namely Beshbali. It was the name of a place of ancient Western Regions. It means five cities. It was located in Beiting Frontier Command supervision of Tang Dynasty.

② Eratnat: It was a god that Karamark people worshiped in the legend.

Right in those days,
He and Toktosart met one day.
Toktosart was from Artush,
His hometown was nearby Kashgar.
Among people of seven cities,
He went freely and no one blocked him.
Toktosart and Kunwuerbayi met,
They greeted each other and talked freely.

Kunwuerbayi said to me:
"Oh, Toktosart!
When leopard Manas died,
Did you go to his hometown?
You are one of Manas' true friends,
You should go to pray and mourn for him.

"You and people from seven cities,
Make friends and get along well.
You are a hero born brave,
No one dare block you wherever you want to go,
You are as bright as a star in the sky.

"Your roads are always clear,
Your business is well managed.
You never fear wherever you go,
You are so brave and strong.

"If you go to see Baran people,
They will welcome you.
If you cross ocean and go to Jafan,
People there will regard you as a friend.
The way is clear,
If you go to Beygin;
If you go to Kirgiz people,
They will praise you,
Who else in the world can be the same like you!

"This time, I beg you:
Please do me a big favor.
When I was still in Beygin city,
I asked for the information carefully.

"I heard that the hero's son Semtay,
He lives in his hometown leisurely now.
Semtay should die away,
But I heard he lives a happy and free life now!

"In the past, his father Manas,
Trampled upon my people,
We cannot let him come into his kingdom,
How about we killing him when he is still young?

"My Toko[①], you go to Semtay,
Scout his information for me.
You just live in Talas in winter,
I will wait for you here next spring!

"If Semtay has already been on guard,
I will not invade and harass his land.
If Semtay is not on guard at all,
I will punish this bloodsucker severely!"

Heard what Kunwuerbayi said,
Toktosart shook his head and answered:
"Manas is my true friend,
How I can do like this!
If I break my promise,
When I pass away in the future,
What should I do if I am punished?"

Kunwuerbayi said:

① Toko: It is the nickname of Toktosart. It was to show the affability. It is the simplified name.

"Toko, do not say this!
Your road is bright ahead.
According to their customs,
You go and pray for Manas' spirit,
Then you can take the chance and know Semtay's information.

"If you go to that remote place,
You can bring me back reliable news.
If you can help me with this,
I will give you sixty single-hump camels as a reward,
There is not even one double-hump camel,
The saddle pads will be beset with bronze.

"Now you and me make a decision on this,
You just prepare to set out.
All people come with you,
I will make an arrangement to see them off.

"Gold, silver and gemstones,
You pick them at your will.
If you do not like to take gold and silver with you,
You can take the goods in my storage with you.
All kinds of silk and fabric like Torhun① and Tuwar②,
And silk scarf Kirmiz③,
You can pick the precious material at will.

"Toko, set out now, dress up like a merchant,
Go and scout Semtay's information for me."

Sixty camels as a reward,
Precious gemstones, brocade, gold, and silver,
Toktosart was a merchant,
How he could resist such a generous offer.

① Torhun: It is one kind of gorgeous thin silk fabric and ready-made clothes.

② Tuwar: It is one kind of dense-textured silk fabric with one side smooth.

③ Kirmiz: It is the red silk fabric.

He was overcome with unexpected joy,
He changed his mind right away and decided to go.

He prepared for eight whole days,
He prepared everything he needed.
Toktosart's beard was fluffy,
Nasbye tobacco was spit on his beard.

What did Toktosart think now?
He had thrown what he said before far away.
He calculated in his mind:
"Gold and silver,
They have the same price everywhere.
I should take more silk and brocade,
I can make more money on this."

Next morning,
Toktosart took the silk and brocade,
Came to Kunwuerbayi's garden.
Kunwuerbayi was having breakfast,
The round dough was full in his bowl.

As soon as Toktosart stepped in,
He smelled the fragrance of the food.
Toktosart looked and it seemed new to him,
Kunwuerbayi enjoyed his food very much.

What kind of food was it?
Toktosart saw it for the first time.
Right at the moment,
The deft chef put the bowl in front of Tokto.

Tokto held the bowl and said:
"Look at the food, how pretty it is!
I have never eaten such good food before."

Kunwuerbayi said: "Help yourself!

This is called Wonton.
People from Beshbalk,
Are also good at cooking it."

One said he saw it for the first time today,
The other said: "Helped yourself to your content!"

They put bowls down after meal and walked out,
Kunwuerbayi and Toktosart,
Came to the horse stable.
Two animals were tied on the manger,
One was a white mule,
The other one was a Alkala horse.

Kunwuerbayi pointed the mule and said:
"Toko, please take this mule with you,
Use the mule to set your caravan off,
You will look more like a merchant.
This is one of my favorite livestock,
I present it to you and wish you a smooth trip.

"From Beshbalk to Talas,
It is a long journey,
It does not feel tired when you ride on it,
You will not be tired if it carries you.
If it needs a rest,
You just let it play in the dirt.

"It will take you to Talas,
It will only take seven to eight days.
It is ten times better than my Alkala horse,
It's small size is the only weak point it has.

"You try your best to collect information of Talas,
No matter Semtay is well prepared,
Or he notices nothing,
You must send me the news as soon as possible."

Toktosart and Kunwuerbayi,
Signed the treaty of alliance and cooperated.
Tokto led a group of single-hump camels,
Walked out of Beshbalk city.

Toktosart led the camels,
Came to WulanBay,
Passed Chaiwopu and Dabancheng,
Crossed Karashar and Korla,
Went toward Bashabegen.

Toktosart did not stop for a second,
Passed Kuqa and Kizilsu,
Crossed Baicheng and Aksu,
Passed Achal and Tumushowk,
And came to an important city Kashgar.

In Kashgar,
Toktosart had twenty four shops.
In all his shops,
There were plenty goods.
Toktosart sorted and counted his goods and money,
Then continued on his journey with the camels.

Went around Urukchati,
Along Yirkshitan,
He went ahead along Simhana,
Passed Andijan, Kokand,
Margalan, Amanshoru, and Namangan.

He did the business on his journey,
He spent the whole six-month winter on the way,
Till March next year,
He finally arrived in vast Talas Prairie.

Numerous Nuoyi people,

Were ready to move to summer pasture.

The place Toktosart arrived,
Was called Susamur hill.
There was a road leading to Kashgar,
Toktosart who came from afar climbed up the hill.
He lifted the telescope,
Watched toward Semtay's Ayinla.
Numerous Nuoyi people had many tribes,
Dense Kara Kirgiz people,
They all lived in this place.

Toktosart climbed over the hill,
Set up a tent and lived by the side of a river.
Toktosart wrote a letter,
Ordered a messenger to send it to Kara Kirgiz Khan.

The messenger took the letter Toktosart wrote,
Came to Khan Semtay's palace.
The guard of the palace,
Reported the news to Semtay Khan.

According to Semtay's order,
The guard presented the letter the messenger gave him.
Semtay was a famous Molerdo,
He opened the letter and read carefully.
He knew the messenger was not from Kangayi,
And was not a spy to scout the information either,
It was the name of a merchant on the letter,
It was a letter for greeting.

Young Khan Semtay,
Gave out his order:
"Call Kanikai nad Bakay in,
Ask them to meet me here quickly!"

Kanikai and Bakay Khan,

Was invited to the Khan's palace.
Semtay told them,
The greeting letter he got.
Bakay was like a leopard:
"Oh, my kid Semtay,
Toktosart wrote this letter,
He is like a bright star in the sky,
He and your father were true friends.

"If you can make him content,
He will find countless gold and silver for you.
Your father once did not let anyone else know,
Asked him to bury a lot of gold and silver.
Precious treasure your father left,
Only Tokto can help you find them."

Bakay Khan said these to Semtay,
His mother Kanikai continued:
"My only son Semtay,
When your father was alive,
He once went on expedition to Krim.

"He once declared a war to Urum people,
He once climbed over Kerzilkya hill,
He killed numerous Khitan people.
He once climbed over Oyormaartu hill,
And killed a lot of Kokand people.

"Your brave father Manas,
He once crusaded against many tribes,
And killed numerous people,
Because they all invaded Kirgiz once.
He once conquered seven cities,
Captured countless war trophies.

"Although your father had never been to Channel,
Had not been to Baran either,

He sent merchant Toko,
Brought him all kinds of priceless treasures back.
All these precious treasures,
Were buried underground.

"Now your fame and prestige,
Almost catch up with your father,
My only son, if you are safe,
Your happy life has come.

"If Toko finds those treasures for you,
You will have more than enough treasures to use in your life.
You should go and receive Toktosart,
Welcome him warmly!"

Madam Kanikai and Bakay,
Talked the detailed information of Toktosart.
Semtay showed great respect to Toktosart,
He would welcome Toktosart in person.

Semtay called Kara Nuoyi people in,
And numerous Kara Kirgiz people too,
They all lined up to welcome Toktosart,
None of men could stay at home.
Semtay wanted to fulfill his desire:
"As long as I make him content,
He will do good things for us!"
From Sire city to Susamur hill,
It was a three-day journey.
Semtay lined his people into two rows,
Arranged them along the three-day long way.

Kara Khan's daughter Kanikai,
She was a very smart woman.
She collected all kinds of birds' feathers.
She used the feathers of all kinds of birds,
Knitted a splendid carpet.

Semtay asked to bring the carpet,
Let Toktosart sit on the upper honor seat.
He did not let him take off the overshoes,
Did not let his feet touch on the ground.
People carried the carpet in turns,
Carried Toktosart to the front of the palace.

Came to a place voice could be passed,
Toktosart cried loudly.
Toktosart had wide shoulders and he was big and tall,
His beard was lack and his eyes were like the eyes of a baby camel.

Toktosart cried: "My Khan!"
His tears ran down and his voice was hoarse,
He cried loudly and sorrowfully.

People respected Toktosart very much,
They welcomed him into Kanikai's palace,
Entertained him very well.

Toktosart worshiped the spirit of Manas sincerely,
Kirgiz people gathered together,
All raised their hands and prayed for the lion's spirit.

By the side of Semtay's Ayinla,
They put up a yurt for Toktosart as his home.
Toktosart said with rich feelings:
"My friend leopard Manas,
Fell prey to Kunwuerbayi,
Madam Kanikai fled away and wandered,
Where did I go and mourn?
I did not come to pray for him,
I did not come to the funeral either.

"Semtay, you have grown up now,
I finally come to see you.

I was your father's friend,
I did not have any evil thoughts.
Please tell me your wish,
I must help you achieve it."

Semtay smiled with his white teeth exposed:
"I wandered in Buhara for twelve years after my father died,
I came back to Talas when I grew up.
The orchard and the palace my respectable father built,
Were almost wasted when I got them back.

"My father arranged a marriage for me when he was alive,
Over-confident Chinkogeo wanted to occupy my fiancée.
I fought against them in Jetsu for the sake of my happiness and dignity,
I buried Chinkogeo and Toltoy in the dirt,
And brought beautiful Ayichulek back to me,
I conferred Jezkanpire's sons as Khans there.

"Jamgerchy and Bakay are too old now,
In order to let them have a leisure life,
I conferred Krichorao and Kanchorao as Khans,
Let them assist me to administer here.
"My Ayikoler father,
You were his close friend in the past,
I heard that you helped my father to take care of,
My father's weapons and gold and silver.
My father and you are thick with each other.
I heard all the information,
I have no regret in my heart!"

Without hiding anything,
Innocent Semtay told his heart to Toktosart.
He had no evil thoughts at all,
He trusted his father's friend.

Toktosart stood up from his seat,

Stepped on the felt cushion.
Toktosart had no tears in his eyes,
His heart was as hard as rocks.

"Honorable Semtay Khan,
All you said is from the bottom of your heart,
I come from afar,
But you tell your heart to me.

"I felt die-away,
But you make my heart broken.
When your father died,
Your smart mother buried him in person.
Today I come to you,
For praying for the lion's spirit specially."

He took out the handkerchief he prepared,
Which was soaked with onion water,
He wiped his eyes with it,
Bean-size tears ran out of his eyes.

It seemed he missed Manas too much,
His tears ran to the upper side of his beard.
Without a trace,
Toktosart won Semtay's trust.

Toktosart went to the wilderness everyday,
He dug every place he buried treasures,
All treasures and weapons he buried,
He dug them out and gave back to Semtay.

Forty days passed fast,
Kirgiz people gathered together,
Drove their livestock to move to the summer pasture.
Kirgiz people who wore white felt hats,
Their life was rich and happy,
They did not need to add little animals into their property.

Jamgerchy, Bakay, and Kanikai,
Moved to Samarkand prairie.
For Belsaz prairie,
They complained the air was too thin there,
And there were too many mosquitoes and flies in fall.
They set their homes halfway up Belsaz,
Made milk tea and then put the honey in,
Their life was leisure and happy.

Semtay picked people to stay as his neighbors,
They were all young married ladies and young men.
Young married ladies were all pretty,
Young men were all strong and handsome.
There were no pregnant women among them,
There were no small kids either.
All yurts they lived in were luxurious,
They set up swings with silk ropes,
They played happily everyday.

Semtay had more majestic manner,
It's hard to describe him.
In this deceptive human world,
We had never seen such a lion.

He neither wore Akorlbok coat armor,
He nor carried the gun and the bow with him.
He neither held the sharp spear,
He nor carried his sword.

All the weapons,
He stored in the city.
His precious steed Buruler,
He put it in the summer pasture.

Semtay's Ayinla was honorably decorated,
White yurts were put up on both sides.

By the gate of Sire Korgan city,
Kanikai's palace was there.

Ayichulek's yurt,
Was put up in Tarmalsaz grassland.
Yurts for those forty young men,
Were right between these two houses.

Semtay picked forty fat mares,
They were all the first colts of mother mares.
He also picked eighty horses to milk,
His extravagant display was extraordinary.

He drank horse milk wine and reveled in playing,
Until the Pleiades rose up high in the sky.
Meat in pit pots were boiling,
Milk wine was in leather bags.

Kara Kirgiz people,
They even did not have a flea-size trouble.

Toktosart became their neighbor,
Lived together with them in the woods.
Hero Semtay,
Was always with Ayichulek.

To the palace where Chachykai lived,
He did not even take a look at it.
For Toktosart's conspiracy,
They did not notice at all.

Semtay lived a very leisure life,
After all Kirgiz moved,
Semtay stayed in the plain.

One day, Toktosart came,
He said to lion Semtay:

"I will go back to hometown,
I bother you too much these days!"

Semtay picked sixty single-hump camels,
Carried all kinds of goods generously.
There was a whole bolt of Burum fabric,
There was precious white cloth with black rim,
There were colorful gold, silver, and jewelry.
All kinds of expensive gifts,
Were put in front of Toktosart.
"This is your friend's Jirtesh[1],
Please take it with you!"

"Where does Semtay get all these treasures?"
Seeing the priceless treasures,
People were astonished with surprise.
These were the gifts to Manas' offspring,
From people of seven cities,
From people living in all places.
He received seven gifts,
He sent others only one gift.
He kept six of the gifts,
He only used one.

In the territory of seven cities,
His roads were always clear.
These precious treasures,
Were all from there.

Toktosart said at the moment:
"Hero Manas' son Semtay,
Listen to my words:
When broad-minded Manas was alive,
I served by his side all the time,

1 Jirtesh: According to Kirgiz custom, it is the cloth given to women who come to old people's funeral.

No matter what leopard hero Manas was thinking,
He would tell me.

"For his only son Semtay,
I will not stint any of my property.
Please tell me what you want,
No matter the stuff you need in life,
Or weapons you need to fight against enemies,
Do not hesitate to tell me,
I must try my best to do it."

Semtay laughed after he heard it,
With his white teeth exposed:
"My dear uncle Toko!
The brick-shaped tea is the specialty of Khitan,
There is a tea called Makoshan,
It is famous around the world.
It is very precious and rare.
For people from seven cities,
Please send one hundred brick-shaped tea every month,
Look, I make a trouble for you!"

Toktosart frowned,
His beard shook and his face showed an angry expression:
"When you were little and lived in Buhara,
You suffered too much.
You grew up lonely,
How do you become shortsighted?
One hundred brick-shaped tea is nothing,
If you invite fifty guests one time,
You will drink them all in a short time.

"Do not say it troubles me,
Let's do it this way,
I will send one thousand tea to you every month.
I will not charge even a cent,
I must fulfill your wish."

Semtay felt embarrassed,
He sat by the side quietly.
He said to himself silently:
"What Toktosart said is true,
He does not exaggerate at all.
On wide Kashgar streets,
He has twenty-four big shops.
He hires ten clerks in each shop,
All kinds of goods are full on his shelves.
Caravans that carry tea for him come one after the other,
So what does it matter he sends me some tea?"

Toktosart knew clearly in his heart,
There were countless benefits to do business with a Khan.
When making friends with a Khan,
He could not quarrel over the price.

Friendship between Toktosart and Semtay deepened,
Semtay held the hand of Toktosart,
Walked him to Susamur hill.
They farewelled with each other reluctantly.
Toktosart led his sixty single-hump camels,
Walked to the back of the mountain straightly.
He climbed over one hill,
And climbed over Susamur mountain,
Came on the road to Kashgar,
Marched ahead along the road.
He went out of Kirgiz area,
Came to a river called Nurkapu.

Toktosart chose one man as a headman from the crowd,
He gave the goods sixty camels carried to him.
"You cross Yurkainychy river,
Go direct to Chinacha.
Pass Karachy and Pishabur,
Then pass Afghan to Yindistan.

Exchange these goods for pearls and jemstones,
And Bulhon① and beaver skin,
Carry them back.

"Young man, you climb over Kergetdobet mountain,
You go back to Chahalk.
Yarkant is a flat area,
Khotan is a vast area.

"Camel drivers!
Do not miss your families living in the north,
I will always send greeting letters to them.
As long as you come back on time,
No matter gains or losses,
I will not blame you at all!"

Saw the camel group off,
Toktosart only had one white mule with him.
This was a gift from Kunwuerbayi,
It was a mule but it was as good as a horse.

Tokto tied his clothes up,
Tied his belt tight.
Toktosart was fully satisfied and content,
He loosed the bit,
Let the white mule gallop.

The white mule flew like a bird,
The white mule was faster than wind,
Toktosart was not lonely at all,
He was in high spirits.

At the place they met mud,
At the place they met rising dust,
At the place they met piled sand,

① Bulhon: It refers to the precious animal skin, i.e. mink.

At the place they met soft alkaline dirt,
Toktosart would unsaddle the mule,
Let it rest and play.

He did not let the mule eat grass,
He fed it full with wheat.
Big and tall Toktosart,
Rode on the short and small mule,
He wanted to surpass birds.

Passed Namangan, Hohan,
Crossed Andijan, Urukchati,
The mule flew like a bird.
He rode the white mule,
Galloped on the flat earth.

Passed Atushi, Malalbash,
From Tumushowk, Dolan,
To Ayikoli, Aksu, Baicheng,
From Kumsh, Kizilsu, Kuqa,
From Bashabegen, Korla, Karashar, Dabancheng,
To Chaiwopu that had too much alkaline and sand,
He passed all these cities.

He went through Wulanbayi,
And went directly to Beygin city where Kunwuerbayi stationed his troops.

Let us put insatiably greedy Toktosart aside,
Let's see how vengeful Kunwuerbayi,
Waited for Toktosart anxiously.

Kunwuerbayi Attacked Talas at Night and Semtay Was Encircled

Arokai's son Kunwuerbayi,
Was a lion born for avenge.
When someone sent him the news,
That Toktosart had returned,
Kunwuerbayi called the forerunner immediately:
"Invite him to come to me now!"

Toktosart came back from afar,
He dismounted the mule exhaustedly.
The mule he rode on was observable,
It matched its master very well.

People helped him off the mule carefully,
Escorted into a living room.
His butt was frayed broken,
His hucklebones were bleeding.
His quivered legs could not sit down,
He wiggled his body.

Toktosart cast a sidelong glance to the forerunner,
Complained Kunwuerbayi continually:
"Kunwuerbayi, you cannot die your boots!
Do not be Kaledayi[①] anymore, you should die!
Together with Kirgiz people,
You all should go under the earth!
You and Semtay should be rotted,
You and your white mule should die suddenly!

① Kaledayi: Official.

"I struggled back from afar,
I finally pay back what I owed you,
Since I do business,
I have never been wronged.

"In order to fulfill what you want to do,
My butt is frayed bloody.
It is too hurt to let me lie down,
Do I have to suffer this?"
Toktosart complained continuously,
Fell on the bed in the corner and even could not lift his head.

The forerunner had to leave reluctantly,
Reported to Kunwuer what he had seen.
Kunwuerbayi said helplessly:
"Ok, let Toko have a good rest!"

Before the sun rose next morning,
Kunwuerbayi paid a visit to Tokktosart.
When Kunwuerbayi greeted in high voice,
Tokto even did not raise his head.

Kunwuerbayi held Tokto's hands,
Greeted him and sent good wishes.
Kunwuerbayi asked one servant and twelve strong men,
To put a gold sedan out of the door.
They let Tokto sit in the gold sedan,
Carried him to Kunwuerbayi's gold palace.

Kunwuerbayi treated him warmly,
And comforted Toktosart.
When Kunwuerbayi asked,
Toktosart told him like this:
"Hero Kunwuer, I went there,
That Damned Semtay,
Is living there.
All his people,

Are moving to cool summer pastures.
Only Semtay and forty other families,
Stay outside of Sire city.

"He chooses beautiful women,
Keeping them around him.
Also chooses smart and agile young men,
And skillful and talented young men,
To stay with him.

"Ayichulek's palace yurt,
Is set on the edge of his Ayinla.
It is a single yurt there,
Semtay always lives there.
I stayed there for one month,
I never saw Semtay going to Chachykai's yurt.

"The coat armor arrows could not pierce through,
Spears, swords, and all kinds of weapons,
He stores them all in Sire city.
He does not have any weapons and armors with him,
He does not have Buruler steed with him either,
He is so careless.

"He sets up swings by the edge of the village,
Plays happily with young girls.
He thinks nothing,
He only knows to play to his content all the time.
He butchers one hundred mares,
Drinks and eats and plays.

"Kunwuerbayi, no matter when you plan to go,
You can find him easily.
To your enemy of a huge debt of blood,
You can avenge as you please.

"You do not need to trouble yourself to go everywhere,

He stays in Chulek's yurt everyday.
This is a hero off guard,
He enjoys his life wildly.
In that empty room,
You can drink with the hero to your content,
And talk with him freely."
Toktosart talked volubly,
With spittle sprayed everywhere.

Kunwuerbayi said after he heard that:
"My Toko,
Please take me to Kankoler!
Killed enemies are on me,
Occupied trophies are on you.
Surrendered enemies are on me,
Their treasures are on you.
The benefits you are looking forward,
Are coming to you."

Tokto shouted angrily,
He blamed Kunwuerbayi ceaselessly:
"Damned Kunwuer, you are black-hearted,
You break your promise by acting like this.
You consider me as an empty-handed hungry guy,
And a beggar wandering around!

"In seven cities,
No matter at the place lacking water,
Or at the place with plenty water,
As long as it is a place people can see the sunshine,
My property is countless there.

"No matter where I go,
I know Khans like you.
Even if I do not lead your troops to,
I can get abundant property.

"My butt is frayed broken, it is bleeding,
I even cannot sit.
Look, how do I have energy,
To take you to Kankoler?

"Kunwuerbayi, I believed what you said,
Then I suffered from the hardships in the world!
The emperor will not pity either,
If the majestic people suffer.
I suffered a lot on this journey,
But you talked it easily and happily.

"You fight against and capture each other both open and secret,
What does it matter to me?
As long as I am still alive in the world,
I only need one place to live."
Kunwuerbayi understood him,
He had nothing to do but to make other plans.

Now let me sing about Kunwuerbayi,
Let's see what evil plans he cherished.
Ancient Khitan's skills,
Who saw it at that time?
No one had ever seen it,
Let the flames obey people's wishes.

They built a tall tower with dirt,
There were zigzagged passages in the tower,
Which directed to the top of the tower.
They burned wolf dung on the tower top,
Let the dense smoke rise to the sky,
They called it wolf smoke.
Aisan Khan and Kunwuerbayi,
Delivered messages through the wolf smoke.
They figured out such a bright idea,
It was fast and convenient to deliver the news,
Khitan people's wisdom was admirable.

Karamark people's Khan Aisan Khan,
Saw the dense smoke rise in the sky,
He did not neglect it.
Anything Kunwuerbayi said,
This Khan should do it at anytime.
He gave out orders immediately,
Let all heroes gather in the capital city.

Brave heroes,
Warriors valiant like lions,
Kaledayi and Bek,
Officials administered people,
All came to Beygin city,
Listen to Kunwuerbayi's dispatch.

Merciless Kunwuerbayi,
He had thirty three giants of great strength,
Even if they met strong enemies,
He would not be scared and quivered.

He once killed enemies that hated him,
He made girls and women cry.
If he met enemies that dared to challenge him,
He made them die and dye the earth with their blood.

Aisan Khan stayed in Beygin city,
He continued send troops and generals to Kunwuerbayi.
Kunwuerbayi once explained to Aisan Khan:
"The stations troops use today,
You cannot let them be empty tomorrow.
Do not leave any soldiers in Beygin city,
Dispatch troops to me according to my requirement.
I will go on expedition to the remote west,
You take charge of everything here!"
Troops Kunwuerbayi led,
Were all veteran soldiers that feared nothing.

Kunwuerbayi of great strength,
Advanced toward Semtay's Kankoler.

Hero Kunwuerbayi and thirty-two heroes,
Led numerous soldiers,
Without dismounting and unsaddle,
Marched ahead day and night.

Heroes around him,
Many of them could call for wind and rain.
They could let snow flakes fall on horse ears,
They could let the horsetail have sunshine at the same time.

All places Kunwuerbayi and his troops passed,
Dust rose and flew from east to west.
They made dense smoke and fogs mixed,
And hung over the head of their troops.
They made cool west wind,
Brushed on their troops continuously.

They did not allow people to send news to the west,
They dodged from a two-hour storm.
Their troops advanced fast,
They did not allow them to rest.
Kunwuerbayi gave out the order:
"Attention, all Khitan people!
Make strict check of people passing by,
If anyone goes to the east,
Let them go freely,
The roads to the east are clear to go.
If you find people going to west at night,
Check them strictly and do not let them pass,
Do not let anyone send news to Semtay."

Khitan and Kirgiz people,
Hated each other more.
Disasters and misfortune,

Would descend over all people's heads.

In hot summer time,
In boundless Taklimakan desert,
There was no humidity at all,
It was dry and desolated.
When fall was going to come,
Kunwuerbayi arrived at Susamur mountain.

Kunwuerbayi gave out his order now:
"Heroes can call for wind and rain,
Please call the rain now!
Do not let the wind sweep the rain away,
Let the storm pour on the earth!
Let it turn sunny after a short heavy rain,
Let the sun shines over people's heads."
No matter what Kunwuerbayi said,
No one dare disobey.

There was a man called Niskara,
He was a Khan administered people,
He was of the same as Kunwuerbayi,
He was also a brave general.
Mountain-size Niskara rode a maroon stallion,
Came to Kunwuerbayi's camp.

"Hey, Kunwuerbayi, what's wrong with you?
Where did your wisdom go?
Hey, Kunwuerbayi, what's wrong with you?
Where did your ability go?
Your army is made up of Khitan people,
There are Karamark people in your troops too,
All these soldiers were born in plain,
The plain is as flat as a mirror.
Our battle horses have thin and long legs,
These are the information of our horses and soldiers.

"Hills we are going to climb over,
Are full of white clay mud.
Now you ask to call for the rain and then climb over hills,
Hero, how do our troops march in mud?"

Kunwuerbayi heard Niskara's words,
He shouted angrily:
"Muradler, where are you?
Come, bring your headmen and officials!
Hero Muradler, where are you?
Come, bring your veteran soldiers and capable generals!

"Hero Niskara comes,
He puts our people's difficulties in his heart.
Heroes, you all listen carefully,
I have something to tell you.
You are all my subordinates,
You are only under my command.
We march to Kankoler to revenge,
We will kill Semtay Khan.

"Since human appeared in the world,
People have been distributed in different parts of the world.
Since human had wisdom,
Cities have been built then.

"Ordinary people and fairies together,
Built grand Beygin city.
Thirty-five centuries ago,
This city was built.

"There are no people in the world,
Who have ever opened the gate of the city.
Kirgiz people Manas,
Once he conquered this city.

"He robbed of your girls,

He destroyed this city,
He robbed of your property,
He forced people to surrender.

"People who surrendered were set free,
People who resisted were all killed.
Khitan and Karamark people,
Dead bodies covered the plain and blood ran like rivers!

"Kirgiz people humiliated our people at their will,
Khitan and Karamark people ran our blood out.
Kirgiz people also destroyed,
The cities of Russia and Afghan.
Any place horses can arrive,
Was robbed and destroyed.

"When I recall the hard time in the past,
Angry fire burns in my heart.
We are near Kankoler,
Roads in Kashgar are wide.
We climb over Susamur hill from there,
We will arrive at a city of Talas.
The Khan who administers Kirgiz there,
Is hero Semtay.

"There is a man called Bakay in Kirgiz,
He has been to every place in the world.
He is the backbone of Kirgiz people,
He assists hero Semtay.

"In order to hide our trace,
I did not let the smoke vanish all the way here.
In the sky in the west,
I make it cloudy all the time.

"We have marched a long distance,
Today we come to Kankoler.

It is the time for us to revenge,
If any Kirgiz dare to resist,
Heroes, kill them mercilessly!

"Although I did not see it with my own eyes,
I heard from merchants,
To the south of Altay,
At the sunshine side of Gonnais,
Besides these places,
On the slopes of big Kankoler,
There is a grass called Kalderhan,
When the horse hooves touch this grass,
It will make a sound of bronze drum,
The noise will pass to very far places.

"I make the rain wet the grass leaves,
To make it quiet.
I do not want anyone to notice,
That we are going to kill hero Semtay."

Heard what Kunwuerbayi said,
Soldiers realized they were cheated.
Since they had left their homes,
No one knew where they would go!

Knowing they were going to die,
Soldiers all complained:
"If we are all killed,
Who can get Kunwuer's reward?"
Soldiers were all exhausted,
Their faces were pale.
They all huddled themselves up,
Blamed Kunwuerbayi:
"He kept the secret from us,
Kunwuer, you are a bastard with no good end!
Kunwuerbayi commands us,
He is ferocious like a wolf and cunning like a fox,

Who knows what his plan is?"

Soldiers mounted their horses,
Wore layers of armors.
Sharpened their swords and spear points,
Took the shields, climbed over short hills,
Marched toward Kankoler.

At a full-moon night,
Bright moon shined the earth,
People could see from a far distance,
Flat and wide Kankoler was in front of them.

Kunwuerbayi, who descended disaster to people,
Did not care the tiredness and clothes frayed,
He led his thousands of troops,
Made it at Kankoler.

In grand Beygin city,
There were countless Khitan people.
Anyone who went to invade Khitan people,
Would suffer from endless disasters.
They gathered abundant treasures,
They did not let others go into that city.

In famous Beygin city,
There were people from all tribes,
There were Karamark and Sart people too.
It is said there was a place called Kayinan,
There were numerous Khitan people living there.
It was a paradise for birds.
It is said that,
Kunwuerbayi wanted to ask for their help.

Between Urum and Khitan,
There was a big mountain.
Surging Mur river,

Was their boundary.
A part of Khitan people,
Lived in that place.

Numerous Karamark people,
And Kara Khitan people,
And countless Khitan people,
They occupied half of places in the world.

Among numerous Khitan troops,
There were thirty-two great generals,
Great hero Georoy was among them,
They were exhausted after a long journey,
They arrived in Kirgiz Talas plain finally.

Susamur hill Kunwuerbayi once climbed over,
Is still there now.

This is the story passed down from the past,
Please listen carefully.
If you see numerous Khitan people,
But they could not save their lives,
Then just dig the tomb for yourself.

Ferocious and mad enemies,
Challenged Manas' son.
Let enemies ride horses of big bellies,
Come toward Kankoler!
I will start the story from Kankoler.

Sire city Manas built it under his command,
No one could destroy it.
He once sent people into big mountains,
Found a diamond mine.
Hoes and drill rods used to build the city,
Were all soaked with diamond liquid.

Forty spans wide base was dug,
Hard rocks were put in,
Lime and gyp were fired,
Mixed with river sand,
Walls of the new city were built.
The city wall was twenty and a half spans wide,
And thirty-five and a half spans high.

Collected tendons of hunted beasts,
Collected tendons of livestock fell to death,
Collected tendons of butchered livestock,
Dried them under sunshine,
Ground them into powder,
Stirred in the basin with tree gum,
Then smeared it on the surface of walls.

Then used thirty different kinds of paints,
Painted it splendid.
"Even if all people gather here,
No dust will rise at all."
The grand city ancestors left,
Singers all praised it with their songs.

Sire city Manas left,
Now Semtay administered it.
Semtay lived in Kankoler,
He was always with girls and married ladies.
Enemies in this human world,
He put none of them in his eyes.
It seemed he had huge forces to protect him,
He lived there without a single worry.

Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
No matter when it was,
She always talked appropriately.

Ayichulek talked to Semtay:

"My respected Khan,
I heard that,
Madam Chachykai is a pampered woman,
It seems it is right!
I saw in person one time,
She came back from outside with a pale look,
You should butcher mares to drive out evil spirits for her.

"Since you married me,
You never go to her yurt again,
I also notice this.
My hero, Semtay,
You should go to see her!"
Semtay raised his head from the pillow,
Ayichulek's words hit the spot:
"Ayichulek, I take your advice!"

Free Semtay,
Always had the temper of a big husband,
He always cursed Chachykai.
If he remembered her once in a while,
He would wear his clothes and go to see her.

Semtay always put on a show of bad temper,
He always put Nas in the mouth,
Did not want to go out of the door.
Semtay came to Chachykai's palace,
He slept comfortably with Chachykai.

He put the sword back into the sheath,
Till midnight,
He sweated all over,
He cleaned himself with cold water and then quivered.

When they two were in deep sleep,
Ayichulek lived in Talmarl,
Opened her eyes wide and was not sleepy at all.

In such hot night, she was wetted with cold sweat,
It seemed a huge rock was on her chest,
It made her hard to breathe.

Silver moonlight shed the earth,
The room was bright like the day time.
Ayichulek was not sleepy,
She prayed for Semtay silently.

Chulek talked to herself:
"What's wrong with me?"

Ayichulek thought carefully,
A gust of hot air splashed on her face.
It was like the hot air man sprayed,
It was like what horse sprayed too.

"My hero Semtay,
He has been on expedition to many places,
Do enemies come and attack secretly tonight?
Do we fall into a disaster tonight?

"Do heroes that hold battle flags come?
Do generals for revenge come?
Do devils that tyrannize our people come?
Do Khans that bring disaster come?
All my thoughts,
Are they all my imagination?"

Ayichulek did not feel worried like a woman,
She opened the wood box by her bedding calmly,
She took out her white swan feather clothes,
Spread it on her gold bed.
Except her,
No one knew she would wear this clothes.

She held the sharp dagger in her hand,
Walked to the door of the yurt quietly.
She pried the felt wall up with the dagger,
Looked out through the felt crack.
Many horses of big hooves and short tails,
Stood by the side of her door magically.

Ayichulek became flustered suddenly.
What was it if it was not a panic?
She was like a white spray,
Flew on the top of the skylight gently.

She held the felt cover① on her head,
Fixed her eyes and looked outside.
Many people with ferocious looks wandered outside,
She recognized they were Khitan gangsters.

Fairy Ayichulek,
She wore her white swan feather clothes,
She could do as her will,
She could transfer into twelve different appearances.

Except the white swan which could fly,
No one knew her other transformations.
No one knew what she transferred into now,
But she had left her yurt quietly.

If you wanted to see her,
She had gone through enemies and lost her trace.
The mystery in it, no one could say clearly,
It was hard to explain with language.

When she walked to Ayinla,
Her lonely yurt had been circled by enemies.

① Felt cover: It is the felt used to cover the top of the yurt.

Ayichulek was calm,
Ayichulek was courageous,
Ayichulek knew the way very well,
She erased her footprints like a fox.

She rolled her horse mane hair up,
She bent her slim body over,
She did not let enemies notice her action,
She walked into Chachykai's palace quickly.

She walked in the door of the palace,
She reached her head in and looked.
Her sister① and Semtay Khan,
On the soft cushion made from cotton,
Like a pair of argali on hill,
Hugged each other's neck and slept on the gold bed.
This ill-mannered Chachykai,
She did not pull the felt cover back,
Did not close the skylight,
Just slept on the bed like this.

The moon in the sky shined,
The oil lamps shined with almost dried oil.
Even a silver needle fell,
You could see it shining.

Ayichulek walked near the bed,
She measured in her mind:
"My respected Semtay Khan,
My Khan, you sleep sound,
You are a firm and strong Khan,
I will wake you up from your good dream!"

She just reached her hand out,
Then she thought:

① Sister: It refers to Chachykai here.

"If I wake him up and tell him enemies come,
Does my Khan blame me?"

She was filled with anxiety,
She could not help looking back,
Her palace had been beseiged,
Karamark troops were everywhere like crows.

Ayichulek could not hesitate anymore,
She walked to Semtay with quick steps,
She tried her best,
But she still could not wake her Khan up.
She came in twice in a hurry,
When the third time she came in,
She remembered the time in the past:
"In vast Buhara,
In Kara Khan's hometown,
My sister and my Khan,
How happy they were when they played knuckle bones.

"When Khan's Saka① was upside down,
Sister asked him to admit defeat.
Let me wake up the sister first!
And let my sister wake him up."

Ayichulek came to Chachykai's side,
She grabbed Chachykai's shoulder gently.
Chachykai did not sleep,
She lied on the bed still.

She knew Chulek came in and went out several times,
She complained loudly:
"For whole three months,
I only have Khan come to me this one time,

① Saka: Kirgiz language. It means big knuckle bone hits small knuckle bone, then if it stands there with upside up and it wins. But if it stands upside down, it loses.

Cannot you restrain yourself for only one night!
You come for three times in one night,
Tell me, for this man,
When did I go to your place and disturb you?"

Chulek did not respond her but said:
"My sister, you sleep here,
You know nothing about what happened outside.
Now our Khan is still alive,
We two fight over him all the time,
If we lose our lion Khan,
We will be humiliated.

"My respected sister Chachykai,
Let's stop fighting over a man!
If Semtay dies suddenly,
What will be our future?

"Those Kirgiz men drink horse milk wine all day long,
Wear wide red silk pants,
Shake their pants bottom,
There will be more than one hundred from them,
Send matchmakers to us and want to marry us,
Wish us not to fall into such a situation.

"Now, there are numerous enemy troops outside,
They have besieged our palaces,
My sister, get up soon,
Go out and look with your own eyes."

When she heard enemies had come,
Chachykai's heart beat hard.
She had no time to wear her clothes and underwear,
Got up from her bed immediately.

Her clothes were hung on the bedside,
Ayichulek put it on her.

Chachykai reached her head out of the door,
Watched enemies' movement.

"Sister, brace up,
Enemies have not come into the city,
Please wake our hero Khan up,
Ask him to hide in the city for a while.
Do not consider about the property,
It will destroy you if you stint your property!"

Ayichulek finished what she wanted to say,
She walked out of the door in a hurry.
She bent over along the north side,
Went to wake all people in Ayinla.

"Run into the city now,
Do not care about your gold and treasures,
As long as you keep yourselves alive,
You can have more treasures.
Everything can be abandoned,
Do not bring yourself a disaster for the sake of the property!"

Ayichulek woke up all people in Ayinla,
Told them to run into the city.

People who had never been in a panic,
People who were brave,
Couples who were both deft,
People who were most capable,
They all had no time to wear their clothes,
They only wore the pants in a hurry.
People heard a disaster was on the way,
Who would still grab their property?

Cowards who were timid like rabbits,
Men who only knew eating and drinking,
They were all with bare upper bodies,

No one had time to feel shamed and embarrassed,
They all jumped out of their beds immediately.
Rushed into the town in a fluster.

Giant Kunwuerbayi and Niskara,
Oruokger and Muradler,
Descended a heavy disaster,
To peaceful Kirgiz people.

Men and women mixed together,
Elbowed their way and rushed to the city.
Plus forty-three women,
There were eighty-two people running into the city.

Semtay was their eyeball,
He was a headman leading them,
He was offspring of lion Manas,
They closed all city gates,
Some prayed and some sighed.

Semtay's grand treasures,
All stored in this city.
All women wore new clothes and changed five times a day,
They could use for more than a hundred years,
There would be still silk and brocade left.

Even if they ate five meals a day,
They still had abundant food,
It was more than enough for a hundred years.
They neither lacked food nor clothes,
Everything in the city was more than enough.

Manas was born extraordinary,
He built seven ponds in the city.
Piloted water from Burmatash,
Made water run to the ponds from underground.
Water stored in each pond,

It was sufficient for seven Khans' people to drink one whole year.
I do not exaggerate,
This is the information of the ponds.

The secret water entrance of ponds,
Only Kanikai and Bakay knew it.
In order to prevent the ponds from dry crack,
They did not put too much water in ponds.
The mystery in it,
Only Kanikai and Bakay knew.

Hot sun shined over the head,
There was less and less water in ponds.
Edges of ponds had saline alkali oozed,
Waterweeds grew full in ponds,
Even if you mixed the tea with honey,
It still had the smell of alkali.

People all suffered from diarrhea,
It was hard to tolerate the belly pain.

Like a reward to Kunwuerbayi,
Karamark butchered Kirgiz livestock at their will.
Like a contribution to Kunwuerbayi,
Kirgiz people's forty-two splendid yurts,
Were all occupied by enemies easily,
People were powerless to resist but groaned miserably.

Kunwuerbayi's troops,
Blocked all the roads in the city.
Those forty-two yurts around the city,
Were used as sentries.
Numerous Kirgiz people,
Fell into disasters.

Kunwuerbayi and Niskara,
Let their troops station in four directions and eight places.

They continued to fire their cannons,
To show their power.
They tried to make Semtay who was besieged in the city,
Feel worried and panic.

Karamark and Khitan soldiers,
They had more than one thousand people in one troop,
Everywhere in Kankoler,
There were enemy soldiers and horses.

Now, let's put this aside,
Listen to the news about Krichorao who lived in mountain.

Krichorao Sneaked into the Enemy Camp to Get Information at Night

Summer passed and fall came,
People began to move from summer pastures.
Enemies besieged Khan's city,
Hero Bakay knew nothing about it.

Warrior Kanchorao had no idea about it either,
Krichorao was worried like his heart was burning.
He could not fall asleep for several days,
Flesh on his shins jumped all these days.

Sleepiness pressed his eyes,
But his eyelashes could not push down.
Krichorao could not calm down,
He had a bad prediction.

Krichorao was anxious this day,
He got up early in the morning,
He shouted loudly to horse herdsman:
"Herdsman, herdsman,
Go and drive my horses,
Pick those four magic steeds for me,
I will go on a long journey!"

The most reliable steed Buruler,
The leading horse Surkoyun,
Black-spotted horse with wings,
Bakay Khan's white horse,
These four horses were the best,
They came in a blink of an eye.

In the days of frequent battles,
Fine horses were fed with concentrated feed,
Mixed with sheep tail oil,
Fine horses were all strong and fat.

Horse cloaks were all put on horses,
Cloaks were all buttoned up with silver buttons,
Except hooves and eyes,
Other parts of horses were all covered up.

Bullets could pierce through,
Arrows could not go through,
Sharp spear point could not prick through,
Sharp dagger could not stab through.

The saddle Manas left,
Had running forest deer head carved on it,
It was the saddle of magical steed Achura,
It fitted steed Buruler so well.

Tall horses were like mountains,
Horse waists were as elastic and soft as tanned skin,
Horse mane stood up like yurt top.
They were as strong as argali,
They pranced like fleas.

The magical steeds were free for several years,
They did not stop walking because of its fatness,
They were not weak and bony.
Wise Krichorao,
Fed these fine horses carefully.

When winter came,
People all moved to winter pastures.
Semtay, Bakay, and Kanikai,
Krichorao and Kanchorao,
They saved the fat of the livestock,

Then fed their fine horses with the fat carefully.

Bran and highland barley,
Were filled in Manat feedbag.
Once enemies invaded,
The horses could gallop to the battlefield.

Grass turned green and trees burgeoned,
Flowers blossomed and insects crawled.
Spring came to the pastures,
Mares bore colts in early spring,
People tasted delicious horse milk.

Fed horses with horse milk,
Horses became fat and strong.
Horses had thin waists and strong endurance,
Old horses' lungs were like colts' lungs,
These were the information of these four horses.

Krichorao was an expert of feeding and taming horses,
He nipped horse mouth with Jago[①],
He did not allow horses to eat and drink at their will,
He only allowed horses to wander in the pasture.
He did not allow horses to sleep all day long,
Did not allow horses to relax on the ground either.

Till the sunshine warmed the horses' bodies through,
Till the bones were full of energy,
Till the horses were good at running,
He tied the horses up and fed them.

Hero Krichorao,
He had six other young warriors to help him,
They chose mares that had not given birth,

① Jago: It is a bow-shaped wood circle that tied over horse mouth to prevent horse to eat grass without permission.

Let stallions carry the horse milk.
They took plenty of food,
They left Yuchytash pasture,
Drove their horses to Gulishe forest pasture.

In Gulishe forest pasture,
All livestock were herded here,
Kanchorao lived in this place,
He was the headman of this place.
When the evening was coming,
Krichorao arrived at the forest pasture.

Kanchorao was happy to see Krichorao,
He had Kymantay clothes draped on his body with sleeves empty.
He would crack a joke to Krichorao,
He grabbed a stick and rushed ahead:
"Catch him, kill this slave!"

Krichorao laughed:
"Naughty boy, what are you doing?
You are such a bloodthirsty warrior!"

Krichorao held the whip in his hand,
Immediately, stick and whip,
Flipped and knocked together.
Their stick and whip danced,
People present watched interestingly.

Two warriors missed each other very much,
They embraced and kissed each other's cheeks.
Kanchorao wanted to eat horse meat,
So he butchered a mare of empty embryo.

Kanchorao said to Krichorao:
"You are such an absurd guy,
You leave livestock in the pasture,
You leave your people and go to the place afar,

You will bring yourself a disaster.
Does any enemy invade?
Where are you going on your horse?"

Krichorao said with a smile:
"Oh, Kanchorao,
We followed him since we were eight years old.
Once we challenged many heroes and Khans,
Those self-confident heroes and warriors,
We knocked them down on the ground and stepped on them.

"Semtay divided six Khans' people in half,
Let you and me administer half of them.
He brought us up,
Let us be the Khan of Kirgiz people.

"Semtay is living in the village now,
His wisdom is abysmal.
Let's go and visit him,
I come to see you for this."

Kanchorao smiled when he heard this:
"That's great, my Krichoroa,
You come at the right time.

"You make a good suggestion,
Let's visit our lion Khan.
But, he is always drunk and dizzy,
If he gets angry and loses his mind,
We can do nothing about it.

"People address us as Khan respectfully,
But Semtay calls us servants.
If he dishonor us in front of others,
It will make us ashamed.

"In Ayinla where he is living,

Many Begans are joked by him,
I do not want to be like them.

"Let's go along the hill,
It is very hot outside now.
Let's invite old Bakay,
And ask him to go with us.
We cannot enjoy Khan's grace,
Only by ourselves."

Who knew how long the way they marched,
They finally arrived at Bakay's home one night.
Bakay ordered to spread the carpet and cushion,
Welcomed two warriors from afar.

Giant Jamgerchy and mother Kanikai,
And uncle Bakay,
Butchered mares that did not bear colts,
Treated two lions warmly.

Two giants were the honorable guests,
They rested in Bakay's home.
They told Bakay Khan,
The reason why they came.

Elder Bakay said:
"Oh, my two kids!
Feed horses carefully,
It is for the master to ride to Ayinla.
Sew the precious coat armor carefully,
It is for the master to wear in holidays.

"Let's ride on the magical steeds,
Let's bring weapons,
Let eighteen-year-old Baytaylak,
Follow us and take charge of horses.
"Let's mount our horses,

Go to visit lion's son Semtay.
Let's wish him safe,
Let's talk with him sincerely.

"Listen to what plan he has,
See what good idea he has.
If he does not have any plan,
We just play there happily!"
What uncle Bakay said,
They all agreed.

Bakay Khan led the way,
Took Baytaylak with them,
They led the mare that could not bear a colt,
Four of them went on the journey day and night,
To visit their Khan who lived in Ayinla.

Delicious horse milk,
Was carried on stallion's saddle.
They tied the chest protestors in the front,
They armed themselves well.
Agile and active young men,
Whipped and galloped away from their home.

They marched ahead freely,
What they encountered made them astonished.
They were going to climb over Botomoynok hill,
It was the place Manas welcomed Almanbet in the past.

Warrior Kanchorao took a lead,
His tall figure erected on top of the hill.
He rode the black-spotted horse in a great state,
He was with great strength and braveness.

When he climbed on the top of the hill,
He saw countless enemies in Kankoler,
He was surprised about what he saw,

"Ah!" he shouted loudly.

He saw enemies were full outside of the city,
They swarmed like surging waves in ocean.
He reined his horse and hid himself,
He quivered in a panic,
Fell off on the ground.

Krichorao followed him tight,
He grasped Kanchorao's clothes and asked:
"You push the panic button,
What horrible thing do you see?
What on earth do you see?
Tell me now!"

"Hey, Krichorao, my big brother!
Terrible thing happens here.
Pretty Kankoler prairie,
Grand Sire city our ancestor built,
We can see it from far away.

"Now, yurts disappeared,
Livestock is nowhere to see,
It seems enemies besiege the city,
I do not know what happened there."
Kanchorao was still suffering from the shock,
He told them what he had seen.

"What nonsense are you talking about, little guy?
You are such a coward,
You fell off the steed before you see clearly,
Do not you worry others will laugh at you over this!"

Their hometown was Talas,
They were familiar with everything there.
They four reined their horses and turned round,
They found a place to live in the mountain col.

They tied their horses well,
Did not let anyone notice them.
Then they climbed on the top of the mountain quickly,
Watched the situation down the mountain carefully.

This is the situation of Kankoler,
I can tell you if you want to listen to.
There were full of grass in the wide north side,
In gullies divided like fingers,
Different kinds of woods grew luxuriantly.

There was no cliff for bull in heat to scratch and play,
There was no rock for driving wood chock to tie livestock.
There was no big mountain to block the way,
There was no deep valley.

Full of birch trees and willow trees in plain,
River rapids connected with river rapids.
Clear spring water flowed through grassland at waterside,
Wild ducks flew up and wild chicken landed.

Amur honeysuckle, catalpa, and honeysuckle,
Distylium racemosum and aspens grew together,
Apple, dark plum, apricot, and desert date trees,
All kinds of trees grew together.
Wild trees grew in good order,
Like people grew them there.
Cypress and cedar trees were at the foot of the mountain,
Ripe walnuts fell off on the ground.

Beasts were in groups,
If a good hunter went there,
He could shoot four to five animals down by one bullet.

People who lived in this place,
Had no troubles and worries.

Nature blessed them,
They had such good fortune.

Clear spring water oozed out from underground,
Ran and converged into streams.
Brushwood grew full along the riverbank,
As high as a person,
It could be a good place to take shelter from rain.
They four at the moment,
Sat under the bushes and rested.

Genius leopard Bakay,
His wisdom was outstanding,
He held the crystal made telescope,
Watched to the direction of Kankoler carefully.

He leaned his body to the hill slope,
Said to them with sincere words:
"When lion Manas was alive,
We went on expedition to many places.
His son Semtay,
Also has the courage of fearing nothing.

"Only two places Channel and Baran,
We had never stepped on.
Enemies appear in our sight,
Seem different from them.
I want to watch carefully,
But I cannot control my running tears."

He stopped from talking suddenly,
Then he said surprisingly:
"Ah, kids, look,
Is that ferocious Kunwuerbayi?
I have seen clearly.
"They wear uniform armors,
With a split on the back,

And have buttons under the shoulders,
They are warlike Karamark people.

"They wear shoes on their feet,
Their shoes are made of cotton.
They wear hats with two hanging pieces,
With those two pieces hung on both ear sides.

"They pick and eat wild fruits once they see them,
They look for grass root and mix it with wheat.
Let's scout the information,
It seems there are Khitan people too.

"Wisdom belongs to young people,
Diamonds belong to mines.
My beloved young men,
What are your ideas?

"Probably ferocious Kunwuerbayi,
Is going to bring us a disaster.
We fought against them all the time in your father's time,
We made enemies with them from that time.

"Even if he cut Manas' head off,
They still have deep hatred in their hearts.
Maybe they come here,
For revenge."

When Bakay said these words,
Kanchorao shouted angrily:
"My uncle Bakay,
You had a chance to go to Beygin city in the past,
You once conquered their gold-made city.

"Now, they suffer hunger,
They come to our place from afar,
How can they stand our attack?

These slaves are coming to their end,
They are games God bestows us.

"The guys pierce through cow noses,
The guys have no idea of death,
These famous giants,
The giants who are too heavy for horses to carry,
I will kill them all,
The world will be safe and peaceful only in this way.

"Let's go attack them!
We should chase like falcons do,
Drive them out of our hometown Kankoler.

"When hero Manas was alive,
Almanbet and my father Chuwak were by his side.
Kirgiz people defeated Karamark people,
Even their capital city fell into our hands.

"Today, they come here furiously,
How we can refuse to drive these devils away!
We have sharp weapons in hands,
We have numerous powerful troops.

"Let me go by myself,
To fight against these enemies.
Among these Karamark people,
None of them can stop me."

Kanchorao just finished his words,
Krichorao began to talk:
"My hero, please wait for a second,
Do not desire to excel over others.
If it is Kunwuerbayi's troop,
They are not enemies easy to be defeated.
"There are many brave giants among Khitan people,
Karamark people are like fierce beasts.

Heroic ancestors galloped their horses on expedition,
Many of them lost their lives in strange places.

"If they are knocked down at one blow,
Where is your father Chuwak now?
My father Almanbet, Sirak, and lion Manas,
Where are they now?
We should think about it carefully!

"It is this ferocious Kunwuerbayi,
Brought us huge sorrow.
He even does not bury his soldiers' bodies,
Just deserts them in the isolated grassland.

"If this Khan of Datonsha[①] gets angry,
He will bring us disasters like flood.
If Kunwuerbayi gets crazy,
Who can stop him!
You talked carelessly just now,
It proves that you are childish and reckless.

"I have heard from old people,
Uncle Chuwak is hot-tempered,
Katkarlan's daughter Saykali,
Once pricked him off his horse to the ground.

"It was fortunate my father Almanbet reined his horse,
Saved him from the heroine's knife.
You are Chuwak Khan's son,
You should remember that only braveness cannot be a general!

"If you go so rashly,
You will definitely have no good end.
In order to defeat powerful enemies,
We must scout enemies' situation."

① Datonsha: It is a city of ancient Khitan people in Kirgiz legend.

Bakay heard what Krichorao said,
He praised him happily:
"Krichorao is right!
Who of you two,
Can speak Khitan language?
Who of you two,
Can speak Karamark language?
Who can go to enemies' camp,
To scout the situation of Kangayi people?"

Then Krichorao stood up,
He said with a smile:
"My father Almanbet,
He was Khitan Khan in the past.
He had the wisdom and majesty of a Khan,
He was born brave and strong,
He once defeated a lot of heroes.

"He invited a sage from fairies,
He collected forty-two human languages.
He once prayed to magpie's tongue tip[①]:
'Give it to my son as a souvenir.'
For the sake of letting me speak many languages.

"Arukai did not abuse me like a stepmother,
She sewed and kept the magpie's tongue tip in her apron.
'Give it to my kid!'
She asked madam Kanikai to put it in my mouth,
Then I have a good command of many languages.
I can speak Khitan and Karamark languages,
When I meet Manchurian and Sibie people,
I can chat with them freely.

① Magpie's tongue tip: In Kirgiz legend, there is one kind of magic to tie many kinds of languages together and hide them in magpie's tongue tip, and let kids eat it, then the kid will speak all these languages.

Afghanistan and Russian languages,
I speak more fluently than the native speakers.
Add them all up,
I can speak forty two languages.
Let me go to enemies,
I can scout enemies' situation."

Elder Bakay said at the moment:
"Ok, you can go, hero!
Wish you safe on your way."
Hero Krichorao had great skills,
Which are true and which are not,
I cannot distinguish now.

Hero Krichorao,
Took his little pouch with him.
When Krichorao was at home,
He also carried it all the time.

When he went to sleep every night,
He put it under his pillow.
When he went out to answer the call of nature,
He let a reliable person to take care of it.
When he rode on his horse and went out,
He tied it on the saddle.

This extremely precious pouch,
Now was tied on the saddle.

People discussed secretly:
"It may be Almanbet's coat armor,
He put it in the pouch and take care carefully!"
Actually Krichorao was not so mysterious,
Seven style clothes of seven cities,
He put each one of them in his little pouch.

Heard what elder Bakay said,

Krichorao opened his pouch:
"Probably they are Karamark and Khitan people!"
He took one clothes out of the pouch.
It had neat buttons sewed under the sleeves,
He put it on out of his clothes.

He put on a pair of cotton-padded shoes,
Put the wig on his real hair,
Then he wore a leather hat with hanging pieces,
He faced the sky and prayed,
He dressed himself up as Karamark people.

He did not wear Olbok coat armor,
He did not carry the crescent axe.
He had no fear in his heart,
He did not imagine of meeting a disaster.
The short sword his father left to him,
He hid it under the edge of his clothes.

Krichorao made a good preparation,
He acted agilely and skillfully.
Krichorao crossed the river rapids,
Came to the edge of the forest.
In the narrow gully in front of him,
There were hundreds of horses ate and played there.

Suddenly Krichorao saw,
A quilt was spread on the ground.
He dressed himself up as a man who was picking firewood,
He bent himself over like he was picking cow dung.

He picked firewood and cow dung,
And he let some firewood scatter on the road.
He did not care about the firewood that fell off,
He pretended he was picking up firewood carefully.
He tried all the ways,
Finally he came to the horses.

A herdsman was standing by the horses,
He surely had a clear Karamark look.
When krichorao recognized that person,
He dressed himself up as a Karamark person.
He came up with a bent body and said: "How are you?"
Karamark did not respond,
And did not put his hands on his chest to greet him either.

But that man said to him:
"Do not get close to me,
Stay there and tell me what you want to say.
Our headman warned us again and again:
'Do not greet each other when you meet a stranger!
If you all do not know the coming person,
Just kill him with your sword.'

"I do not know where you are from,
My companions are not with me now,
If you get close to me,
I am coming to claim your life now!"

Almanbet's son Krichorao,
He was extraordinarily brave,
His heart was as hard as rock,
But his words were sweeter than honey.

He was like a Karamark person,
He spoke their language fluently:
"Hero, do you understand me?
I come especially to you,
Do I come to kill you?

"I was a Khitan people from afar,
I only had one bony and weak donkey,
Cultivated a half acre land and lived a hard life.
My wife and I grew vegetables for a living,

None of three meals in a day we could eat full.

"One day, soldiers with short guns came,
People were all in a panic.
Soldiers held spears in their hands,
Wore yellow clothes.

"They were all tall and sturdy,
They rode on their horses and gobbled their food.
They did not know food was valuable,
They let their food drop on the ground.

"I thought when I saw it:
How freely the soldiers live,
They are happy when they eat full.
They do not know what misery is,
They enjoy their good luck everyday,
I admired them and wanted to be a soldier like them.

"One day, I ploughed in my land,
Soldiers with guns came to me,
They did not talk to me,
But dressed me up with soldier's uniform.

"They gave me gunpowder and gun,
Then you talk to me.
'Go to fight against Burut① people,
We can get treasures for nothing!'

"I was grateful at that time,
It was a blessing to me.
But in that fierce battle
I fell into Burut people's hands.

① Burut: Namely Kirgiz people. It is how Mongolian people call Kirgiz people. It means mountain herdsmen.

"Unfortunately, I became their slave,
From then on, the Burut people,
Only asked me to work and did not allow me to rest.
'Go and pick firewood to boil water!'
They made me exhausted all the time.

"I was unlucky,
But who could listen to my misery?
I could not go back home and see my family,
I had to continue the life like that."
Krichorao talked to him,
And he almost cried.

The herdsman saw this man was very poor,
He came up to comfort him.

Lion's son Krichorao,
Followed Karamark people's habit,
Put tobacco brought from Andijan,
Into his bronze smoke pan.
He lit it with a flint and took a drag on it,
Then the smoke was full around them.

He knocked the ash out and put new tobacco leaves in,
He handed with both hands the smoke pan to the Herdsman,
Then lit it with the flint at flattery.

They smoked in turns,
Talked each other's secret.
"I was Niskara's subject,
I came here long time ago.
I heard it is called Kankoler here,
There are all Burut people here.

"The leader of Kara Burut people,
It is said his name is Semtay,
We bring countless troops here,

To especially fight him.

"I am a headman of one thousand people,
I take charge of feeding these horses,
The horses eat grass here,
I live in the valley in forest.
If I can go back home alive,
I must go and visit your family!"

They sat close to each other,
Krichorao grabbed him by the neck suddenly,
He did not know how much time had passed,
The herdsman lost his last breath.
Krichorao pulled him into a deep gully,
Took his new clothes off,
And buried him deep in dirt.

Krichorao got the news,
He wore the herdsman's new clothes,
Wise and brave Krichorao,
Went back to see Bakay in high spirits.

Elder Bakay and warrior Kanchorao,
Were sitting on the hilltop.
They picked a grindstone,
Sharpened their swords and spear points brightly.

Krichorao walked to them,
About an arrow distance from them,
Kanchorao saw a figure moving,
Suddenly he was so worried that his heart almost jumped out.

"I will go and stab him to death!"
He grasped the sharp spear immediately,
He was in a panic.
"How cannot you recognize me?
You are such a rash guy,

Are you blind?
Or you are haunted by ghosts?
You are a bored slave,
Do not get crazy, calm down.
You should be calm, do not panic!"
Heard Krichorao's blame,
Kanchorao stopped his steps.

"I have scouted the news,
It is Karamark troop.
Semtay Khan and our people,
Have moved into the city,
They are safe now!

"Enemies are continuallg gathering,
More and more are coming.
How do we react?
We should make up our minds and act now."

Hero Krichorao said all these words,
He reported everything he saw to Bakay Khan.

Bakay Khan said at the moment:
"As the saying goes, 'Wisdom belongs to youth,
Diamonds belong to mines!'
What idea can I have at my age?
Kids, let's talk about your ideas.

Kanchorao said rashly:
"If only Karamark enemies come here,
Let's shout loudly and strike back.
Kangayi people are strong and fierce,
We should fight to the bitter end with them by our swords.
If the life God gave us is coming to an end,
Let's contribute it to the fight with enemies!

"Our Khan has been besieged in the city,

How can we fear enemies and hide in the mountain?
Even if they have food to eat,
Where do you find water to drink?"

Heard what Kanchorao just said,
Krichorao stood up slowly and said:
"Forget it, my hero,
Let's not listen to your nonsense.
You do not need to worry our Big brother's safety,
Do not bother yourself to think either.

"Uncle Bakay and mother Kanikai,
They were afraid the ponds would dry and crack,
They had stored water in the ponds long ago.
Hero, listen to my words carefully,
Then consider it with your heart.

"I make a rough calculation,
Water in the ponds is enough for three months' usage.
Now, we two are both here,
We have fourteen Khans' troops,
The urgent matter is how to rescue our big brother.

"If you think my idea is appropriate,
We can deliver a message to Khan.
My sacred uncle Bakay,
You point a day to gather the troops,
Then send Baytaylak to deliver the message.

"When fourteen Khans' troops gather,
Let's hold our battle flags,
Lead troops to fight against and kill all enemies!

"Before the troops come here,
We cannot just wait here with worry,
We should go to enemies,
To scout how many troops they have!"

"Great, that's great, kids!"
Bakay could not help praising them.
Hero Krichorao wrote the letter right away,
He set a deadline for Khans of eighteen days.

He stated clearly in the letter,
"Anyone who does not lead his troops personally,
Will get a severe punishment from our Khan!
For the sake of Khan Semtay's safety,
Everyone should bring all your troops!
In order to let Khan Semtay rest assured,
You should bring all your subjects here!

"No later than eighteen days limitation,
No one can delay!"
Krichorao finished the letter,
Bakay exerted himself and sealed it.

They took magical white flying horse,
Sent Baytaylak to deliver the message.
Young hero Baytaylak,
Led the white flying horse in one hand,
Held letter in the other hand.

It seemed he had many companions going with him,
It seemed he has a hundred guards around him.
Baytaylak did not say a single word,
He did not ask how he would go and how he would come back,
He did not ask how to deliver the message either,
The young warrior just whipped and galloped to the place afar.

If you ask where did fourteen Khans live,
To Yisfahan in the west,
To Khitan people's places in the east,
There were thousands of miles between them.

Baytaylak was alone by himself,
But he was full of courage.
The magical steed ran forward fast,
A pall of dust rose behind it.

He whipped the magical steed,
The steed galloped like the bird was flying.
Sweat ran down along the legs of the steed,
Young kid rushed to the place afar.

Experienced heroes,
They did not wait without doing anything,
Hero Krichorao was busy here and there,
He tightened his belt,
Carried his sheathless sword,
Went to scout Khitan camp by himself.
He went to many places on foot,
Till the day got dark,
He finally found Kunwuerbayi's tent.

There was a crystal clear spring,
Water gurgled in the reeds.
The spring water was sweeter than the tea,
Only Khans could drink it in the past.
Ayichulek's yurt,
Was near the spring.

Kunwuerbayi was savage with great strength,
He was a merciless bastard,
He was a cunning and ferocious Khan.

He tied the huge tent of his temporary palace,
On the back of an elephant,
Carried it to Kankoler prairie,
It was as big as a hill when it was set up.

Old people had such a saying:

Reeds are the biggest among plants that could not move,
Fish are the strongest among animals that could move.
Interesting stories are too many, which do I tell first?

Smart warrior Krichorao,
Wormed his way into reeds secretly,
He fixed his eyes on the tent,
He was going to watch Kunwuerbayi's place thoroughly.

Krichorao was born brave,
He took out the telescope,
His father Almanbet left to him,
Held it in his hand.

It was a telescope he could hold with one hand,
Its splendid shell was admirable,
The telescope was made of twelve crystals,
Its lens had seven layers of crystal.

It could turn the thirty-day distance,
To ten-arrow distance in its lens.
The cover of it hung on the neck like a spell,
Its handle was hard red steel,
It was too magical to measure.

Krichorao aimed at the tent,
Opened his eyes wide and observed:
"If I can find a place to go in,
I will go at night to punish him!"

Outer of the tent was wrapped with fabric,
Inner was covered with steel wire,
The steel wire net was not formed with single wire,
It was knitted with three wires.
The pole of the tent was made of cast iron,
It was erected on the crouching cow size lead,
The bottom of the tent was fastened with five layers of iron chains.

Such a strong tent,
Who had the courage to burst by force?!
If Krichorao walked in the tent,
Terrible misery was waiting for him there.

The tent had seven doors,
People went in and out through these doors.
Only giant heroes with great strength,
Could push the door open grudgingly.

Between Khan's throne and the kitchen,
A magnificent bed-curtain was hanging there.
The cook boiled water and cooked,
Lived on one side of the bed-curtain.

The tent had six rooms in it,
Each room had a doorframe.
Guards held six different weapons in their hands,
Stood by the side of the tent.

Cruel warriors,
Held iron hammers and spear in the hands,
They made ten circles around the tent,
Guarded the huge tent.

When hero Krichorao saw this,
He felt a little panic in his heart.

A person carried a gourd and walked out of the tent at the moment,
He passed by Krichorao.
Because Kunwuerbayi,
Found this spring was better than wine.

When the person reached the gourd into the spring,
Krichorao pranced and pressed on him,
Lifted the legs of that person and pushed him into water,
The poor person lost his breath immediately.

Krichorao pulled the corpse into the grass,
Took off the clothes,
And put it on him,
Carried the gourd and walked in the tent.

When he stepped in the tent,
Krichorao thought:
"Look, how I can act in such a fluster,
I should calm down and think carefully.
Let reckless me be withered,
I should not act so rashly.

"There are twelve boxes in the tent,
They all look the same.
Which one contains tea,
Which one contains crystal sugar,
And which box is other food in?

"Why do not I figure this out first?
I should ask these questions first,
Then kill that person.

"Now I cannot go back,
I have to abide my destiny.
I put poison in the tea,
Let me poison these ferocious wolves to death!"

Krichorao passed six doors,
Came to the kitchen close to the throne.
Charcoal was burning in the stove,
A teapot was on the stove.
Kunwuerbayi sat in the throne,
He talked to his people:
"Kangayi people,
Every of you should be cautious,
Here is called Kankoler,

Here belongs to ferocious Kirgiz people.
If Semtay gets angry,
He will make you all bleed.

"Now we besiege him in the city,
Kaledayis, please remember,
Semtay is a hero Khan not easy to be defeated.

"Sulaba's① offspring lives here too,
He was born combative and aggressive.
He is Sorandick's son,
He came to this world for fight.

"Almanbet fled away from Beygin city,
He left his own people,
He led Kirgiz people and surrounded Beygin city,
He made us suffer and lose our power.

"Once we sent them two beautiful girls,
One is Aisan Khan's daughter,
Her name is Birmiskarl.
Almanbet married her,
And their son is Krichorao.

"I heard he speaks forty two languages,
I heard he is of great strength and braveness.
I heard he is cunning and full of tricks,
I heard he is a general that never misses the target.
"I heard when he was fourteen or fifteen years old,
He pricked brave Toltoy off to the ground.
I heard he killed Chinkogeo.
Threw Chinkogeo into hell.

"I heard he is an extraordinary giant,
I heard he can bring his enemy a disaster.

① Sulaba: Sulaba's offspring is Krichorao. Sulaba is the family name of Almanbet's ancestor.

I heard he is brave but not reckless,
I heard he is braver and smarter than Bakay.

"All Khans present,
Please be very cautious.
If we become a little slack,
He will take care of us.
If we are careless,
He will kill us all.

"If you meet a stranger,
Do not talk to him!
If you see someone suspicious,
Do not talk about secret with him.

"If any of you two are together,
Once you meet a stranger,
Do not let him go,
Just kill him without hesitation.

"This is my advice to you all,
Please remember it clearly!"
This damned Kunwuerbayi,
He warned his Khans to be more cautious.

In a short time,
Water in the teapot made a noise,
Hot air steamed out of the pot spout,
Water in the teapot was boiling.
Look at agile Krichorao,
He was calm and handy:
"Let me get some tea!"
He opened one box smoothly,
He did not know in which box the tea was,
He opened the box with nang in it.

Kunwuerbayi should be burned to death,

He talked to Khans,
But his eyes had seen clearly what happened:
"I have said just now,
Almanbet's son Krichorao,
He is full of cunning tricks and of great skills.

"Has he already killed the person that makes tea?
Has he already come in to replace the tea person?
If he pretends to be my tea man,
Now his deadline is coming!

"Once I warned the tea man again and again,
No matter what stuff,
He cannot put in the wrong place,
Does he forget my warning?

"Look at his fluttered movement,
He does not know where is tea and where is nang.
Executioners, go now,
Cut his head off for me!
Kill this degrading guy,
Throw his body to the wilderness!"

Twelve Vicious executioners,
Hung ears and noses on their necks,
To be their amulets.
When they got Kunwuerbayi's order,
They rushed ahead excitedly.
Krichorao played it cool-headed,
He straightened his back in majesty,
Walked past twelve executioners,
And walked toward Kunwuerbayi.
The warrior was like a big mountain,
He did not show even a trace of panic.

Kunwuerbayi saw Krichorao clearly,
He shouted with a surprise:

"I have just told you,
His right shoulder is broad,
He is a giant that can destroy Weilat.
His left shoulder is powerful,
He is a hero that can defeat Solun people.
He is strong and of peerless strength,
He is a hero no one can defeat!

"His mouth is as big as a dragon's mouth,
His eyes can spurt fire.
He is a crude man that makes you bleed,
Go and catch him, now!"
Kunwuerbayi was scared out of his wits,
He shouted with a broken voice.

The executioners swarmed up,
Every of them was of an unkempt appearance like devils,
They held huge iron hammers in their hands,
Hammers were of the size of twelve-fence yurt.
People would be scared to death as seeing this,
No one could still be alive!

Facing such situation,
Even an iron-made man,
Would quiver all over.
But brave Krichorao,
Did not fear at all!
"I will rush to Kunwuerbayi,
Prick his chest and cut his head off!"

The executioners blocked his way in the middle,
He could not get close to this old dog.
He had no way to retreat,
He looked around and got an idea.

In the tent with six doors,
There was only one light shining.

He knocked that light down with his dagger,
The huge tent suddenly turned dark.

Krichorao pretended to be a Karamark,
Spoke Karamark language.
Then he pretended to be a Khitan,
Spoke Khitan language.

People shouted: "Catch him, quickly!"
He also shouted: "Catch him, catch that bad guy!"
Krichorao became the person to catch himself,
He shouted loudly and rushed out of the tent.

"It goes to this point,
What should I do now?
I can go to Burmatash,
To see the bronze water channel there!"
Krichorao did not stop at all,
He wormed into the dense reeds.

Kunwuerbayi had a foresight on things,
He knew the importance of the water channel.
From sixty tribes of Khitan people,
He picked five to six strong men out,
Sent them to guard the water channel everyday.
These strong men collected wild fruits and grass roots,
Chatted and ate.
Krichorao dressed him up as a supervisor,
He came to these strong men in a great state.
People who guarded the water channel stood up respectfully,
Krichorao read them a lecture like an imperial envoy:

"I sent you to guard the water channel,
I thought you are all capable.
I never thought you are off guard,
You only know to eat.
What have you done here,

I come to check today personally,"

Krichorao walked straight to them,
In a great rage.
He lifted the iron lid of the water channel,
Threw it far away.

Before these men realized the truth,
He pushed them all into the water channel.
He wanted to let Semtay know,
He, Krichorao, did this,
Heroes to rescue their Khan had come.

Krichorao wormed into grass,
Dense reeds covered him well.
When the dawn was going to come,
Krichorao went back to Bakay.

Let the heroes have a rest!
Let's listen to the story in Sire city.

The Two Choraos Fought Bravely and Kirgiz Gathered to Face Enemy

Leopard hero Krichorao,
Made some trouble for Kunwuerbayi.
Before the sunrise he went back,
Reported to Bakay what happened last night.

Brutal and merciless Kunwuerbayi,
Burned with a frenzy of rage and shouted.
In an instant,
He called all the giants in.

Kunwuerbayi quivered all over angrily,
His unruly beard shook.
Without asking for the facts,
He killed sixty guards,
Made a shocking massacre.

Kunwuerbayi gave out an order:
"Ankush's son giant Ketan,
Giant Kazan rides black horse,
Giant Mangush,
And Karamark giant Kaman,
Are these people's offspring here?
Report me the number of your people.

"You replace those sixty guards,
Guard my tent.
Burut people crept in last night,
You all should know how dangerous it was.

"My Karamark fellows,
If you continue to act like this,
You will have no chance to return to Beygin city safely,
Do not imagine you can return your home.

"In order to wash your mistakes away,
Go and catch Semtay for me.
If you cannot do this well,
I will let you all be done for."

Kunwuerbayi shouted at the top of his voice,
Khans were all scared.
They blinked their begging eyes,
Lost their minds,
Did not know what to do.

They prayed to gods in their hearts,
Wished to get rid of the disaster.
They had no idea,
They totally lost their minds.

"We have not seen Burut people,
But Kunwuerbayi would kill us before we see them.
If he kills all his soldiers and generals,
Will he go to the battle by himself?"

No one dare show their true feelings,
They just lowered their heads and talked to themselves.
They nodded their heads and agreed,
No one dare expose an expression of unwillingness.

Brave but rash Niskara Khan,
Dropped his clothes on the shoulder.
He jumped up like a hungry tiger,
The light of hatred flashed in his eyes.

He shouted angrily:

"Warriors can fight Burut people,
Please go and take actions without hesitation!
Warriors can descend a disaster to Burut people,
Please go and take actions without hesitation!

"Giants that wave iron hammers come out,
Sharpshooters that never miss targets come out,
Warriors good at pricking spears come out,
Warriors good at shooting Ochohur artillery come out,
Sharpshooters that shoot Jazhayil gun come out!

"Let's launch a fierce attack to burut people,
Let's stamp Burut people's pastures flat,
Let's rob all livestock of Burut people.

"Warriors that can shoot bows come out,
Warriors that can shoot Koychager gun come out,
Giants good at boxing come out,
Lions that can swallow Burut people come out!

"Let's destroy Manas' palace,
Let's erase the name Talas from the world!
Let's tie and kill Semtay,
Let's present Ayichulek to Kunwuerbayi!

"Heroes,
Do not wait,
Take your troops and set out.
Let's get the reward from Kunwuerbayi,
Let's enjoy the benefits and honor of conquerors!"

Niskara just gave his order out,
Sire city was besieged by enemy troops for ten circles.
Giants that waved iron hammers were in the front,
Battle axe warriors followed tight,
Then warriors that held spears followed tight too.

Enemy soldiers held all kinds of weapons in their hands,
They were militant and in high spirits.
They all calculated in their hearts,
They would fulfill Khan's wish and win the first merit.

"We will destroy Burut people's palace,
We will catch their Semtay Khan.
Do not let Ayichulek transfer to swan and fly away,
We will present her to Kunwuerbayi Khan.
With the pride and smile of the winner,
Let's accept Kunwuerbayi's reward!"

Khitan people knew no fear of death and shouted:
"We will break through the city wall!"
They waved their yurt-size iron hammers,
Punched the city wall hard.

Crescent axe men rushed up,
Chopped the city wall with their axes severely.
Iron hammers and axes clanged,
The noise was like beating on cast iron.

They would destroy the city Manas built,
How stupid and arrogant they were!

In a blink of an eye,
Six thousand giants swarmed to the city gate.
Karamark people acted like their lives were enough,
They were in a mad rush to be the first.
They waved their cast iron hammers,
Punched the city gate with huge noises.

Semtay was playing chess at the moment,
He heard people shouted, horses neighed, and city gate clanged.
He lifted his head up impatiently,
Said to the warriors by his side:
"Go up to the city wall and take a look,

Ask them stop punching the gate and city wall,
These donkeys that make noise outside,
Drive all them to the place far away for me!"

Warriors felt lonely for a long time,
They ran up onto the city wall,
Shot dense arrows like rain to enemies around the city.
Enemies had no shelters,
They covered their faces and scattered.

Suddenly the noise of gunshot appeared,
That was from Karamark who stood at the back,
They lit Ochohur gun in a hurry,
Shot bullets like hail.
Kirgiz hiding behind the battlements were untouched at all,
But their six thousand soldiers that attacked the city were hurt severely.

If you were there at the moment,
You would see the bustling situation.

Ochohur Artillery cracked,
Gunshot banged,
Arrows swooshed.

Bullets Koychager gun split the sky like shooting stars,
Bullets of Jazhayli gun fell into the city like rain.
The noises of guns and artillery continued day and night,
Flames lit up the sky.

Mountains shook and the earth quaked,
There was no such battle before it in the world.
Smoke covered everywhere of the world,
People were almost choked to death.

Right at the moment,
Semtay Khan walked out of his palace.
He walked up onto the high city wall with strides,

Checked the disaster Karamark made.
Khan Semtay watched carefully,
He felt the situation was really bad.

Khan gave an order to Ayichulek right away:
"Hey, my beloved wife Ayichulek,
You get ready to fly out of the city,
Send a message as soon as possible,
To Bakay Khan and Jamgerchy Khan,
And two Khans Kanchorao and Krichorao.

"We cannot let enemies trample our homeland Talas underfoot,
We cannot let enemies trample on our people.
Kunwuerbayi and Niskara,
Wushan and Muradler,
We must catch them all alive!

"Saddle Buruler for me, it never gets exhausted,
Bring it to me as soon as possible.
I will avenge my father and ancestors,
Drive ferocious enemies away.

"For the sake of hero Almanbet and Chuwak,
For the sake of brave Muzburchak and Sirak,
For the sake of majestic Khan Kokcher,
Let's cut Kunwuerbayi's head off,
Let's worship my father and others' spirits with his head.

"We want to revenge,
It is the best time now.
Let my unde wipe his hatred away,
Let my mother get comfortable.
Manas' only son Semtay,
Will let Kirgiz people live a happy and leisure life.

"Ayichulek,
Flutter your vigorous wings,

Do not wait,
Fly now."
When Semtay said these words,
It is a pity you were not by his side,
You did not hear it.
It is a big regret.

Old hero Bakay Khan,
Was discussing with heroes.
A light flickered in the sky,
Ayichulek came to them.

Who else in the world was as firm as her,
Beautiful Ayichulek,
Had married Khan for several years,
But she still did not see Semtay's elders.

She made Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Block in front of her face[①],
She sat by the side of them quietly.

Ayichulek talked in a low and powerful voice,
Delivered them the information of the city.
"Enemies that come to invade are Kangayi people,
Kunwuerbayi is their headman.

"We have got rid of enemies safely,
We hide in the Sire city now.
Our ancestors stored treasures in the city,
We enjoyed ancestors' blessings.

"Now water in the pond has turned foul,
We are lacking water in the city.
I wear my swan feather clothes,

① Block in front of her face: It is a Kirgiz custom. When the new daughter-in-law comes in, she cannot face the elders straight. She only can talk to the elders face to face when the elders permit her to.

And fly in the sky,
In order to deliver the news to you,
I come to honorable Bakay Khan.

"Kunwuerbayi can foretell things,
He knew I am coming to you.
He ordered Shipshaydar's son Kogeojash,
To hide on the way I would pass at night,
He hid above clouds and under stars.
When I fly toward here,
He shot secret arrows to me.

"I almost fell into trouble,
My tail was almost pierced through.
When the sharp arrow flew to me,
I leaned to one side and grabbed it in my hand.

"If my tail was pierced through,
How I can arrive here safely.
I flew over Almalulak,
And flew over Shunkartash.
I saw flames flickering here,
So I come here and find you all."

Ayichulek told the heroes,
Semtay's order word by word.

Krichorao said after he heard it:
"I have turned on the water to the city,
Please be at ease!
Karamark's blood is a good medicine."

Khan Bakay coughed,
Welcomed Ayichulek in a loud voice:
"My precious daughter-in-law Ayichulek,
You do not need to hide your face in front of us from now on.
"I sent warrior Krichorao,

To scout news of enemies.
Enemies that invade Kankoler,
Are Karamark and Khitan people.
Their headman,
Is Kunwuerbayi from Kangayi.

"According to Krichorao's scout,
Enemies have fine weapons.
Elephants they ride have snouts like swords,
Soldiers are countless.
But they do not have enough food,
They dig grass roots to satisfy their hunger.

"I think over and over again,
We cannot fight against enemies alone,
How do we avenge if we do not have powerful troops?
I have sent Baytaylak,
To deliver news to fourteen Khans.

"Ayichulek,
Not long from now,
Our troops will arrive here.
How can Kirgiz unite and fight back together?
Warriors,
Please bring your ideas forward!"

He was with simple and hot temper like his father was,
He had not fought against enemies for a long time,
He was impatient to wait for going to battle earlier,
Chuwak's son Kanchorao said:

"We cannot just sit here leisurely,
Before fourteen Khans' troops come.
It is impossible to measure how ferocious enemies are,
Enemies do not have kind hearts.

"Do not they rob and kill my Kirgiz sisters and brothers?

Do not they kill one by one,
Infants and new mothers,
Old women and young beautiful girls,
Girls who wear hair decorations and have mouths like thimbles,
And willow twig like young men?

"If you all think it is appropriate,
Let me and Krichorao fight first.
Before our reinforcements come,
Let us descend a disaster to arrogant enemies,
Let Karamark people know how powerful we are.

"When forty Khans' troops come,
We will rush to enemy troops together,
Kill all enemies like cutting watermelons.
If Krichorao and I are safe and sound,
We will send Buruler steed into the city,
Give it to lion Semtay Khan."

Heard what Kanchorao said,
Uncle Bakay,
Ayichulek and Krichorao,
All nodded and agreed:
"His words are reasonable!"

Krichorao said at the moment:
"Dear sister-in-law,
Please go back,
Report our idea to Khan.
Kirgiz people of white felt hats are his strong backbones,
The spirit of Manas is his protector.

"And leopard uncle Bakay,
Elder giant Jamgerchy,
Besides these old heroes,
He also has us young men following tight.
As long as we are alive,

We will defeat enemies.
We will make the rampant enemies,
Die like they eat poison.
We will make enemies smashed to pieces,
We will take Kankoler prairie back,
We will descend disaster,
To these arrogant enemies forever.

"We will even up with crazy Kunwuerbayi completely,
For these ferocious enemies,
Drove out Talas completely!

"Let them pay back eye to eye,
To avenge our late king lion Manas,
To avenge Almanbet and Chuwak!
Please report what I said to Semtay Khan."
Ayichulek heard what they said,
She stood up and left.

Kanchorao announced in a loud voice:
"I am going to fight a battle!
I am going to catch enemies!"
Kanchorao rode the strong black-spotted horse,
Wore the round helmet,
Held shield on his back ,
Hung chest protector in the front,
Held steel sword in his hand,
Hung crescent axe on his waist;
Sharp spear pointed up to the sky,
Battle flags waved high in the sky.

Krichorao came up and persuaded:
"Let me go first!"
Kanchorao ignored him totally,
Whipped his horse to the battlefield.

Warrior Kanchorao fought against ferocious enemies alone,

Bakay Khan and Krichorao,
Came to the mountaintop and watched.

Kanchorao's blood boiled with indignation,
He had started to fight.
He shouted the name Manas loudly,
Rushed into Khitan troops bravely.
But none of the enemies stepped back,
Kanchorao did not make good preparations,
He was swallowed up in the enemy troops.

Till the sun set and night came,
Kanchorao was still nowhere to be found.
Krichorao wanted to go and rescue Kanchorao several times,
But calm Bakay stopped him from doing it.

Till the second evening,
The black-spotted horse flickered flames,
It rushed out of the enemy troops like wind.

The damned horse,
It ran into the grass on the hill slope.

Krichorao was burning with anxiety,
Like he was going to chase after injured argali.
He rolled his clothes bottom up high,
Climbed up on a hill in a hurry.

When Krichorao watched,
Kanchorao only had one axe handle in the hand,
Blood ran out of his mouth continuously,
Fine beads of sweat oozed out on his nose,
He passed out with no energy.
Saw Kanchorao's situation,
Krichorao walked up in strides,
Held the rein of black-spotted horse in his hand.

The stories of heroes,
Are impossible to be finished!
Krichorao ran toward the hill,
Brought the prepared safflower water,
And Sahasa[1] flower powder,
Let Kanchorao drink and smell.

Young and strong Krichorao,
He put Kanchorao on horseback,
He was not sweating and not out of breath,
He led the horse down the hill,
Went to wise Khan Bakay.

Bakay walked to them,
He said when he came to them:
"Kids, be careful."
He helped Kanchorao get off the saddle gently.

Kanchorao was helped off the horse,
He could not stand still and stepped backward,
He almost fell on the ground.
Bakay put Kanchorao's arm over his shoulder,
And took Kanchorao's coat armor off carefully.

Bullets did not pierce through the coat armor,
Bakay shook the coat armor,
Arrowheads and bullets shot in the coat armor,
All fell on the ground,
Buried Bakay's feet immediately.

If you bent over and looked at the moment,
There were alfer bullets and cast iron bullets,
There were lead bullets and bronze bullets,
There were a lot of bullets from six-shoot guns,
Most of them were sharp arrows.

① Sahasa: Kirgiz language. It is the name of one medical herb.

Bakay carried the silk coat armor,
Came to the horse and said:
"My kid, do not stand here,
Go and get the battle drum,
Collect horse urine with it."

Krichorao brought him the horse urine,
Did not know what Bakay wanted to do.
Bakay cut a piece of saddle cushion off.

They poured the horse urine on the saddle cushion,
Then pressed it tight on Kanchorao's chest,
Let Kanchorao suck the horse urine,
They put Sahasa flower powder on his nose,
Kanchorao then lay down and went to sleep.

Bakay said worriedly:
"If he suffers severe internal injuries,
He will die before all stars come out tonight.
If he does not have bad internal injuries,
He will be fine when he gets up."

Till the midnight,
Kanchorao's nose began to breathe,
White and hot foam came out of his mouth,
Beads of sweat appeared on his forehead.

His body moved a little,
He shook head ceaselessly,
Finally his bright eyes opened.
Krichorao got so excited,
He walked up to Kanchorao and watched.
Kanchorao braced up and raised his chest,
He said with a broken voice:
"At the crucial moment,
This bad horse always makes me embarrassed.

"Although I come back alive this time,
I really do not like this horse at all.
If I have any chance,
I will exchange it with a better horse.

"Although I come back safely this time,
I lose my face in front of enemies.
When I rushed into enemy troops,
No enemy dare come up and stop me.

"Numerous Karamark started running away,
They made a way for me and hid on both sides.
I galloped my horse,
Got to the hill-size tent soon.

"I shouted the name Manas loudly,
Rushed to the enemies bravely.
When I was marching ahead,
A huge horse appeared in front of me.
I had never seen the person on the horse before,
But others mentioned him a lot,
I thought he must be malicious Kunwuerbayi.

"He rode on a steed whose hair was as black as otter skin,
Carried plenty bullets and gunpowder,
Wore layers of armors,
Battle axe on his waist and sword in his hand,
Chest protector in the front.

"If I met him in a narrow place,
I must be scared out of wits!
His beard had turned white,
I watched carefully and he was indeed a hero.

"Who else can he be if he is not Kunwuerbayi?
Enemies see red the moment they meet,

I will take a bath in his blood!

"I gave my horse a hard whip,
I did not fear and hesitate.
Held the huge axe in my hand,
And cut toward the enemy's head.

"I never imagine his black horse,
Could dodge to one side.
My damned black-spotted horse,
It did not rush ahead but stepped backward.

"My axe did not cut Kunwuerbayi's head,
It was this damned horse's fault.
If I cut Kunwuerbayi,
Your warrior, I do not have any regret!

"No matter how powerful Kunwuerbayi is,
As long as the axe cut his horse,
He must leave his horse and fall to the ground.
Even if this darned guy does not die,
He will at least paralyze.

"My axe fell on the ground,
Punched a deep pit.
This incapable nag,
It made your warrior angry!"

Kanchorao talked about his battling experience,
He gave a long sigh and lowered his head.
Kanchorao continued his talk:
"Malicious Kunwuerbayi freaked out,
He did not come to me and make trouble again.
I did not treat him as a human being,
I totally ignored him!

"I have told you my battling experience,

Now I have no regret.

"I pricked enemy with armor down,
I made enemy with silk coat armor groan.
I killed enemy with sword,
I knocked enemy with long spear over.
I wiped enemy with long spear in the hand out,
I overturned enemy with red-tussled spear.
With my cyan-tussled spear,
I pierced through numerous enemies,
Made numerous enemies die.

"Enemies rushed to my face,
I threw them away like throwing wild doves.
I made giants bleed,
I made them bleed all over their faces.

"I fought against Jedigair people once,
That was in a very cold winter,
We killed Toltoy's troops,
We fought against numerous enemies there.

"Our battle axes turned blunt,
Our swords blades disappeared.
We launched attacks to enemies continually,
That was our first charge.

"It is a hot summer day today,
Blood set on sword blades.
My sharp sword turned blunt,
My spear turned dull.

"Knife blade has turned blunt,
Axe blade has frayed out.
There was no bullet in pouch left,
There was no arrow in arrow bag left.

"Dead horses exposed their white teeth,
Dead bodies were everywhere.
Fallen heroes with their beard tilted,
Spread all over the grassland.

"I made enemy troops scattered,
I made enemies' spirits greatly reduced.
Even if I fought against so many enemies,
I am still in high spirits.

"I was ready to get out of the battlefield,
I packed up my weapons,
Two arrogant enemies appeared in front of me suddenly,
I grabbed them by their necks,
Let them knock each other to death.

"When enemies shouted madly,
I kept a cool head.
When I opened my eyes,
I have already been by your side.

"I realized I have come back,
It makes me surprised.
Because my horse is not good,
I feel depressed.

"Flying in the sky and defeating enemies,
That is what woman likes to do.
Flying in the sky and shooting bullets,
Trying to turn enemies to ashes,
That is what a coward likes to do.
Only defeating powerful enemies face to face,
This is what a real hero likes to do!

"I made an empty cut with my crescent axe,
Because the nag is incapable,
It makes the hero regret,

Kanchorao in front of you two,
If he cannot kill the enemies,
He will be regretful for his whole life."

Kanchorao talked about his experience over and over again,
Poured out the discontent accumulated in his heart.

Krichorao tossed and turned the whole night,
He still calculated till the morning.
He got up the next morning,
Led his grey rabbit horse and saddled it:
"I will go and punish withered Karamark people!"

He prepared fast in high spirits.
He wore his armor and coat armor,
Carried the bow and arrows his father left.
Krichorao was in a great state,
He was brave and majestic when he went to battle.

Krichorao talked to himself:
"In front of our big brother Semtay,
I am afraid he will not be satisfied with what I do.

"Once big brother gave me precious blessings and prayers,
How ashamed I am if I let him down.
If I do not go to fight now,
Wise big brother will understand completely.

"Wives and old women all know how precious a needle is,
I cannot let myself be inferior than Kanchorao in big brother's heart."
Krichorao thought about this,
Whipped his horse and got ready to set out.

Warrior Kanchorao walked to him at the moment,
He warned Krichorao in a low voice:
"Hero! You make a wise decision to do this,
You must descend disasters over enemies' heads.

"If we stay here without any movements,
Kirgiz home will lose its master,
Would not it be robbed and trampled then?
Our livestock all over mountains,
Would not it be robbed at their will?

"If we rush into enemy troops,
Let the sword drink enemies' blood.
If they hear our angry shouts,
How they have time to rob our people and livestock!"

Krichorao said after he heard what Kanchorao said:
"Hero, what you said is right,
What you said is wise.
Hero, let me go!
Please wait here for my good news."

Krichorao set out after he finished his words,
His loud voice was like thundering.
Hot air sprayed out of his mouth,
Flames splashed out of his eyes.
He shouted the name of Manas loudly,
Galloped his grey rabbit horse ahead.

This was a guy regardless of the death,
He acted as fast as the lightening,
He rushed to Kangayi enemies without thinking anything,
His braveness freaked enemies out.

Enemies who came in his face were smashed,
Enemies who met him could not spare their lives,
No one dare challenge him,
He was like entering an unpeopled land.

This is a peerless warrior,
No one dare fight against him.

Krichorao forced his way everywhere in enemy troops,
Killed enemies at his will.

He lit the fire and descended disaster,
Over dense Kangayi people's heads.
He figured out enemies' actual strength,
He tried his best to kill enemies.

He chased fleeing Karamark people,
Like a ferocious falcon.
Where he whipped and galloped his horse,
Where the miserable shouts broke out.

Three days and two nights,
Totally five days and nights.
Such a cruel and hard battle,
No one could stand it except him!

Who else could be a hero if he was not?
Who could fight a five-day battle?
He was like a god,
He was a hero hard to find in the world.

Spear point was frayed out and axe blade was turned,
Sword was of no sharp blade.
Blood dropped down from the sword blade,
He could not kill more enemies.
He did not let enemies get close,
He drew the bow and shot arrows,
He shot forty to fifty enemies to death with one arrow,
Enemies were shot off their horses.

His arrows had been used up,
His life was at risk.
Heroic warrior Krichorao,
Gave up fighting and returned to the mountain.

Enemies noticed he had no arrows,
Turned their horses round and chased him.

People who were good at using axes,
People who were good at pricking spears,
People who were good at waving swords,
Like surging flood,
Chased after Krichorao tight.

Krichorao ran and fought,
He barely kept himself alive.

Bakay and Kanchorao stood afar,
Witnessed this hard battle.
They saw the grey rabbit horse running out of the crowd,
Pranced and galloped along the way.

It did not lower its head to eat grass,
Its head did not touch ground either.
It just ran forward fast sometimes and slow sometimes,
It ran directly into the mountain.

Warrior Kanchorao did not wait,
His injury did not completely recover.
He braced himself up,
Rolled his clothes edge up and breathed heavily,
Ran to Krichorao in a hurry.

Krichorao's feet got out of the stirrups,
His butt lifted from the saddle.
He reached his right hand to the back,
Grabbed the breeching tight in the hand.
He reached his left in the front,
Held the horse mane tight in the hand.
His head drooped weakly to one side,
His body tipped to one side of the saddle.

Kanchorao came up and thought:
"Let's support the hero with an iron stick!"
He put the crescent axe back,
Under Krichorao's armpit quickly.
He straightened the hero,
Let him sit upright on the horse.

Kanchorao grew up with him together,
He showed the love of a brother.
Kanchorao saved unconscious Krichorao,
Took him back to the safe place.

Right two or three days ago,
Krichorao took care of him,
Now, he treated Krichorao the same way.

Stories that happened in ancient time,
Make us sigh with feeling now.
As long as you help others,
No more than ten days,
Others will pay you back.

Five days and five nights of battle,
Made Krichorao exhausted.
When it turned white in the east,
Krichorao opened his sleepy eyes.

When he regained consciousness,
He calculated the scheduled time in his heart.
They made an eighteen-day limitation,
It was the last day that day.

Campfire leapt up at night,
When he was going to bed,
He heard the clop sound of horse hooves.

Krichorao was a hero hard to find in the world,

He mastered all kinds of skills.
He was of all ears and all eyes,
He could see what happened miles away,
He could hear what happened several arrow-shoot away.

He pressed his ear close to the earth,
He heard two horses coming fast.
He listened carefully again,
Then he leaped up quickly,
He knew it was the sound from the grey flying horse.

Even if there were one thousand horses galloping,
He could distinguish each of them.
The other one was the white boisterous horse,
He thought it must be Koshaoyi's son,
Jalgezack troops came.

The time of a meal passed,
It happened like he predicted.
Jalgezack and Baytaylak came in a hurry,
And greeted them warmly.

Uncle Bakay asked hurriedly:
"Kids, is it smooth for you?
Do your troops all come?"

"My dear father!
Fourteen Khans you called are all here.
All Kirgiz in this world,
Are facing a hard war and a test.

"There are two Khans standing by your side,
Other Khans and leaders,
They will call all heroes in to visit and greet you.
Jezkanpire's seven sons,
They are coming with Jedigair troops,
Our troops are spreading all over.

"Jalgezack is in front of you,
His troops are ready.
Yumaitay is going to guard the frontier,
His troops are ready too.
Almu Bay's son Berdikai,
His troops that set out first have arrived here.

"I come to report the news especially to you,
Kirgiz troops have all come.

"Renowned Jamgerchy,
This one hundred and twenty-four years old hero,
His braveness is peerless in the world.
He said, 'although I am in my latter years,
I am ready to go to the battle vigorously!' "

Bakay's son Baytaylak,
He did not have any brothers or sisters,
He was the eye of Bakay Khan.
Bakay heard the good news his son told him,
Saw his son's strong and energetic body,
His anxiety was eased.

The Heroes Protected Talas

Two Armies Pitted against Each Other at Kankoler Plain

At midnight,
Kazakh hero Berdikai,
Led his strong troops to their camp.

When he saw Berdikai coming from afar,
Uncle Bakay was very happy:
"Kanchorao, Krichorao,
Jalgezack,
Listen, I need warn you:
Karamark people are more than Kirgiz people,
You cannot attack by force,
To start an unevenly matched battle.

"To deal with cunning Kunwuerbayi,
We should set traps and ambush,
Let us punish them severely one by one.
We can write a letter to him,
Ask him to follow the battle rules,
To give us a favorable terrain.

"We send a messenger to deliver the letter to Kunwuerbayi,
Peremptory Kunwuerbayi will be carried away with joy,
He flatters himself that he can defeat Kirgiz troops.
Once he gives us a favorable terrain,
Then we must defeat him.
Does this work in your opinion?"

All people present agreed,
Wise Krichorao wrote the letter right away.

He appointed four attendants for Berdikai,
All heroes saw the messenger off.

Young hero Berdikai,
As a Kirgiz messenger,
Sent the letter to Kunwuerbayi.
To show respect to each other,
Was the courtesy of ancient people.
Even enemies did it to each other,
It is really a strange thing.

"Burut messenger comes!"
Guards reported to their Khan.
Kunwuerbayi said when he heard it:
"Muradler, go and welcome the messenger!
Although hero Manas passed away,
His renown is the same as mine.
He is not inferior to me at anytime,
You should show your respect to the messenger!"

Muradler obeyed Kunwuer's order,
Welcomed the messengers into the clean palace.
Let the messengers take a bath,
Let them wear precious new clothes,
Dressed them as pretty as fairy children.

Muradler led the messengers,
Came to meet Khan Kunwuerbayi.
In order to show Khan's majesty,
Let them salute Kunwuerbayi Khan.

They let them sit in chairs,
And taste their tea and dessert.
After the tableware was cleared up,
After the reception etiquette,
Almu Bay's son Berdikai,
Handed the letter to Khan.

Kunwuerbayi took the letter from Khan over,
Kunwuer made the Sadaha immediately,
Gave them six plates of gold.

Kunwuer tore the envelope,
Read the letter from start to finish.
Krichorao wrote the letter,
It was not long:
"We do not want to act like dogs and chickens,
Let's fight one-on-one heroically!

"Kankoler was our home,
But it fell into your hand now,
Our Khan is besieged by your troops,
Our people are driven away.

"You will not return our land to us,
You will not let our people return home either.
You come from Beygin city,
And say you will defeat Semtay Khan!

"Do you want to return our land to us?
Please read our letter carefully.
Do not make our messengers annoyed,
Let them return satisfactorily!"

Kunwuerbayi read the letter,
And understood what they meant.
This damned guy,
His face was distorted:
"This is Burhon god's blessing,
It is the death that drives them away!
They cannot master their land,
Why come and complain how poor they are to me?

"If Kirgiz live mountains,
It is hard to wipe them out,

It is better to let them come to the plain.

"Bakay Khan is old and weak now,
Young Kanchorao has not experienced much fighting.
Krichorao makes me worry the most,
Krichorao is skillful,
But I have thirty warriors to deal with him.
Thirty to one,
I do not think there will be any trouble!

"It is a heaven-sent chance!
I should let Kirgiz come to the plain.
Once they come out from remote mountains,
I will wipe them out easily!"

Kunwuerbayi did not doubt at all,
He believed Bakay's letter completely.
Kunwuer was very ambitious,
He wrote in reply immediately.

He did not say anything useless,
He sent the messengers back right away.
Kunwuerbayi told them:
"Here is my reply,
Take it back to your Khan as soon as possible!"

Messengers brought back the reply,
Presented the letter to the hero.
Bakay tore the envelope,
Read the letter carefully.

Kunwuerbayi wrote in the letter:
"What you said is reasonable.
Kankoler was your land in the past,
Now it is in my hand!
It is an undisputable truth.
"I list three terms to you:

Tomorrow morning, please watch carefully,
We will clear up our battle flags,
We will stick our spears in the ground.
Gather our guns together,
Put them all to the back of our troops.

"You have fourteen Khans' troops,
I will give you fourteen open roads,
Let your troops pass in front of us.
I will test your people,
I will check your officials.
This is my first term.

"Except hero Semtay,
Rest of you are all even inferior to my pants legs.
I never take you as human,
You all live to the north side,
I do not allow you to come to the south side.
This is my second term.

"Lion Manas is my contemporary,
Once he cut the mountain and got rocks to build the palace.
On the south side of Kankoler,
Sire Korgan city is grand and extraordinary.

"In this grand palace,
Although Semtay Khan lives in it,
I cannot give you the south side.
This is my third term."

After they read the letter,
They discussed,
From the dawn to the dark,
Till midnight.
At the moment,
Fourteen Khans' troops came on time.

Before people got up next morning,
Krichorao came to the mountain pass and watched.
Battle flags had been rolled up,
Spears had been stuck in the ground,
Guns all gathered at one side.
Enemy troops were in neat order,
Left fourteen openings there.

"These are openings for fourteen Khans' troops,
Kunwuerbayi keeps his words."
Krichorao praised him in his heart.

Krichorao led the troops,
Ordered them again and again:
"Generals, do not wait,
Ride your horses right now!
Soldiers, take actions now,
Whip your horses and pass those openings with great dignity!"

Giant Kunwuerbayi,
Heard Burut troops appeared,
He felt an irresistible impulse to smile,
He called diviner Niskara in.
They climbed up to the top of the tent,
Tried to find Kirgiz people's weak point.

Kirgiz troops passed the openings,
Soldiers in the front,
Put up tents quickly.

Kunwuerbayi asked Niskara in haste:
"Hey, Niskara!
What do you see?
What do you know?
Do not hold anything back and do not omit anything either,
Tell me clearly now.

"Among Kara Kirgiz people,
Does anyone dare to fight against us?
Among Kirgiz and Kazakh people,
Does anyone dare to challenge us?

"Who is their hero?
How many troops do they have?
You should tell me in details,
Do not omit anything!"

Niskara stood up as he heard this,
And reported to Kunwuerbayi:
"On Koktoy's ceremony in the past,
When all people gathered there,
I once read faces of all heroes to tell their fortune.

"I met eagle Manas for six times,
Among six Khans at that time,
No one was more prestigious than Manas,
No one was stronger and more ferocious than Manas either.

"Today, among Kirgiz people,
It seems I see the same situation like in the past.
Do you see Krichorao alone?
Are there many hero Krichoraos?
Wise Khan! Please watch carefully!"

Niskara requested like this,
Kunwuerbayi was very surprised.
Karamark's son,
Khitan commander Kunwuerbayi,
Was scared that his ribs jumped in his chest.

"Ah, Niskara,
Do not say the shocking words to me anymore.
"On Koktoy's ceremony that year,
You said you read face to tell fortune for Manas for six times.

No one could challenge him then,
He occupied the seat to hold the ceremony.

"Now your words are more surprising to me,
You said there were many hero Krichoraos.
I tell you there is only one Krichorao,
But you said you saw him at fourteen places.

"Krichorao is one person,
He is lion Almanbet's son.
If you want to know his background,
He is Khitan's offspring from origin."

Kunwuerbayi said like this,
He doubted what Niskara said.
"It is just Krichorao,
How he said there are many people?
Almanbet's son Krichorao,
He is a lion but not known by the world now!

"Is what Niskara said wrong?
Maybe what he said is right.
Krichorao learned all his father's magic and skills,
Is it good or ill luck to me?"
Kunwuerbayi talked to himself,
Then he lost in meditation.

Crowds of Kirgiz people came to the north side,
Put up many high tents there.

Lion like Krichorao,
Rode on the prancing Surkoyun steed,
Sent news,
To all Kirgiz Khans:
"I prayed to god sincerely,
Let the snow cover the earth,

Let the snow bury Kangayi people,
Then drive them out!"

Majestic Krichorao,
Came to the side of the big river directly.
He held the gem for praying for rain his father left,
It was taken out of a sheep belly so it had red spots on it.

He kowtowed to the sky,
Prayed twice.
Krichorao was with a serious expression,
He put the gem into water.

He dug a rectangle pit on the ground,
Clouds rolled in the sky,
Were all tied tight over the pit.
He stood in front of the pit,
Repeated the spell,
Scheduled to make it work at midnight.
He left the gem in the water,
Mounted and returned to his place.

Krichorao announced to his people:
"Heavy snow will fall tonight,
You need to clean tents for three times at night,
To avoid the snow crush our tents.

"If there is any spare bedding stuff,
Please put quilts on horses.
Tie horse legs with Chydier[①],
And tie horse reins tight on the poles."

People slept late did not sleep yet,
Chilly wind began to whirl.
Fierce wind began to howl in the valley,

① Chydier: It is a tackle to tie horse legs made of wool rope or leather strip.

Then heavy rain mixed with snow fell to the prairie.

Krichorao rode on his grey rabbit horse,
Wore his coat armor that no arrows could pierce through.
He visited fourteen Khans in their tents one by one,
Greeted them and wished them safe.

Clouds controlled by his magic,
Tossed and turned in the fierce wind.

Fierce wind howled,
Heavy snow whirled.
People who prepared in advance,
Cleaned their tents for two to three times.
People who did not clean their tents,
Had been buried under the snow.

Cold waves rolled,
Fierce wind sobbed.
When the day was getting bright,
"I will let the snow press down tight!"
Krichorao made a heavy rain fall.

The east turned a little white,
Three stars appeared.
Far-reaching and magic Krichorao,
He recited thirty-two prayers one by one,
Like untying the knot.

Clouds tossed in the sky,
Disappeared suddenly.
There was no cloud in the sky at all,
The sun smiled to the earth.
"Let me go and see the snow!"
Krichorao galloped his horse to the prairie.
When he passed the prairie,
The snow touched the horse belly.

The horse stirrups skimmed over the snow,
Three deep trails were left on the snow,
His horse could not go forward anymore.

When he turned his horse round,
Four-finger thick ice froze on him.
Hot summer turned into cold winter,
Bottom snow began to melt.
Ice as big as black alkali in the wilderness,
Or as big as pots,
Blocked the way and the horse could not go forward.

The sun came out in a while,
Sunshine spread all over the earth.
Krichorao observed carefully,
He intended to descend a disaster for Kangayi people,
But it was a trouble for themselves too.
Even Kirgiz troops had prepared for it,
The snow and the cold still made troubles for them.

Hero Kunwuerbayi wrote a letter,
Warned the messengers he sent:
"You should go and come back as soon as possible,
Bring me the reply back,
If you delay,
I will punish you all severely!"
Hero Kunwuerbayi gave out his order,
Sent out six messengers.

Guards guarded the camp gates,
Reported the news of coming messengers.
Krichorao walked out of the camp,
Came out to welcome the messengers.
Let the messengers wash and clean,
Let the messengers live in the splendid yurt.
Brought them tea,
And delicious food.

Krichorao led the messengers into the yurt,
Bakay sat in the throne.
People had prepared,
Let the messengers sit on the cushions.

Let the messengers tasted honey,
Held a feast to entertain them.
Cleaned Khitan style bowls and chopsticks up,
Finished Khan's etiquette,
The messengers presented the letter with both hands.

When the messengers handed the letter,
When the Khan took the letter over,
According to the rules ancient people made,
In order to show respect to Khan's letter,
They sent gold as an offering.

People who lived a hard life,
Got a reward for this.

Opened the letter and read it,
In Kunwuerbayi's letter,
He wrote like this:
"Warrior Krichorao,
I admire your lion-like braveness.

"I always thought in the past,
You, Krichorao, are alone.
Bakay has been old and weak,
And he has a lot of sadness and sorrow in his heart,
There is no person to help you.
Kanchorao is a baby eagle,
No one can discuss with you.

"Before my troops left for here,
I thought about Kankoler,

There would be no clouds larger than kneecaps.
I have no preparation at all,
I never know it is you that make me worried.

"Hero Krichorao!
I admire your skills very much.
Hero, I admire your magic,
Lion, I admire your braveness.

"Because you are alone by yourself,
You have such a weak point:
You made snow fall when you are not sure about the matter,
You let snow bury everything.

"Since you have better skills than me,
Why do not you descend snow at daytime?
Our weapons are all dirt-made firelocks,
You can let the snow wet the fuses,
Is it better if you want to threaten us?

"Our people never live in mountains,
We all live in the plain.
Our homeland is like this,
Why do not you drive us away?

"You make requests to me,
I have returned the north side of Kankoler to you.
Today, I sent my messengers,
I hope, before the snow melts,
Before people live a comfortable life,
Let us keep a temporary peace between us.
Till the snow melts and the earth dries,
Let's hang our flags high,
Beygin a battle of life and death!

"I can also tell you,
Niskara is our primary battling Khan.

Which Khan can manage yours?
Report to us now!

"We show our great respect to you,
We have nothing else to say except this."

Kirgiz Khan Bakay, his silver beard flapped,
Said to his people:
"Khans, please listen to me.
We both sides have our own heroes,
We both sides recognize lion heroes.

"On what lion Krichorao has done,
Hero Kunwuerbayi also agreed.
Kankoler is our land,
Kunwuerbayi has returned half to us yesterday.

"Kunwuerbayi seut his messengers to us now,
Let's accept their suggestions now,
The issue only can go well under this way."

Bakay Khan replied the letter,
He wrote at the Beyginning:
"I am Kirgiz Khan to manage the battle.
Jurjut① people's Kunwuerbayi,
We have dealt with each other for too long,
Once you trampled on Khitan people's Beygin city.

"You come and trample on our land today,
You come to make our people and home separated.
Did I pull your father Arokai's beard?
Did I descend a disaster to your people?

"Numerous heroes died in your hands,

① Jurjut: it is the name of a tribe. Because it is a tribe that are greedy and do not play fair, here it used to look down upon Kunwuerbayi.

I have not asked you to pay the blood debt!
Did I rob your tea mountain?
Did I eat your tobacco Nas?

"Did I knock your yogurt off?
Did I verbally abuse your parents?
Did I smash your Burhon god?
Did I take your Burum coat armor off?

"Why do you come and invade us again?
Do you live long enough?
Kunwuerbayi, think carefully,
Please leave from our homeland!

"I will catch your military horses,
I will capture your property.
I will descend a heavy disaster,
To greedy Jurjut people.

"Kunwuerbayi, do not be too high and mighty yourself,
Do not think you besieged our Semtay Khan,
We have no person to fight against you.
We still have Kanchorao and Krichorao,
They can fight against you.

"We have numerous Kirgiz people,
They will drive you out of our home.
If you do not retreat,
You will pay a heavy price on it.

"Otherwise, I will let you——
Pay back now,
The blood debt of our numerous heroes,
Like lion Almanbet and Chuwak,
Hero Muzburchak and Kokcher,
Hero Serik, Sirak and Ajibayi!

"Kunwuerbayi, do you want to deny it?
You cannot escape from the punishment of heroes' spirits!
You are a ferocious wolf that rushes into sheep,
You will not escape from hunter's trap!

"'Enemy cannot defeat united people no matter how powerful he is!'
This is the teaching of our ancestors.
Restless Jurjut people,
Please listen to my persuasion!

"Kunwuerbayi, if you can realize the result,
Please roll your hanging flags up.
Kunwuerbayi, if you resist to the end,
I will stand out and fight against you personally!

"Khans from Kangayi,
Khans from four Beygin cities,
Kunwuerbayi has bad luck,
He will use your blood to water the earth!

"You are such ungrateful people!
You are all cheated by him.
What I said is all truth,
I do not crack a joke at all!

"Niskara and Muradler,
Do not be cheated by Kunwuerbayi anymore.
You follow Jurjut people,
How many heroes have died!
"Who of you ever get any benefits from him?
What you have got is an endless disaster.
This is my sincere advice to you,
Let you avoid going to die."

Bakay Khan's words were with the force of justice,
Like the bullets shot toward enemies' heads.
The messengers bowed and agreed with admiration,

Took Bakay's letter away.

After seeing Kangayi messengers off,
Kirgiz people scattered too.

The messengers left Kirgiz camp,
They whipped their horses and did not stop,
Presented their Khan Bakay's replying letter.
Kunwuerbayi asked his servant,
To open the letter immediately,
Read the letter quickly.
When he finished reading Bakay's reply,
Kunwuer's face turned as black as a black pot.

Please listen to how Kunwuerbayi talked wildly:
"Bakay's beard turned white in the sun,
Leukoma covered his eyes.

"Bakay groans in the wind,
Half-dead Bakay,
Ungrateful Bakay,
Showing-off Bakay,
Look, what a reply this is!

"He wrote a letter to me first,
Asked me to return his land,
He cheated us!

"Bakay, Bakay,
Now you are not the hero that steps in my city,
Conquers my Beygin city!

"Wait, till the snow melts,
I will find a chance to deal with you!
I will pull your beard off one by one,
I will let you, a toothless guy,
Becomes a bald man with a clean chin.

"I will destroy your city,
Let Kirgiz people have no place to hide.
I will push your homeland down,
I will wipe you out completely,
I will pour liquid lead into Bakay's mouth.

"In order to avenge my dead heroes,
I will make Kirgiz people be my slaves,
Jamgerchy, Bakay,
Warriors Krichorao and Kanchorao,
And those self-assumed heroes,
I will send them all to meet Almanbet and Chuwak,
I will feel comfortable till then.

"I will destroy Talas by fire,
I will turn it into a wasteland even beasts do not go to.
Jamgerchy, Bakay and Kanikai,
I will put nose rings on them,
Pull them to Beygin city.

"The guy named Krichorao,
Is an unworthy descendant that betrayed Khitan ancestors,
His father and he pleased Kirgiz people shamelessly.
I will catch him and show him my real appearance.

"Niskara, Muradler,
Do you hear it?
He dares to call me Jurjut!
Old Bakay,
And the incapable people he leads,
And Kirgiz generations,
Make them homeless.

"I will drive them out of their land,
I will drive them into remote mountain,
I will let their women be my servants,

I will let their men be my slaves.

"I will destroy their home,
I will turn here into ruins.
I will give out an order,
Direct Kankoler river to other place,
Let Kirgiz land turn barren,
I will feel comfortable till then.

"I will send one thousand people who can call for rains,
Make it stop raining here for three years.
I will let the sun burn,
Turn Talas into a white alkali land.

"I will let his people hang bags on their necks,
Go everywhere to beg for food.
As long as I am still alive,
I will fulfill my wish.

"I will dig Manas' tomb,
I will knock Bakay's shoulders broken,
I will let crazy Bakay,
And his companion Krichorao,
Open their eyes and see my courage!
Kunwuer must fulfill his promise,
I will feel peaceful till then."

Merciless Kunwuerbayi shouted loudly,
His beard stood up like reeds.
Besides people from all places,
Thirty-two heroes and Khans,
Saw Kunwuer's black face,
All were scared with their clothes edges and sleeves shaking.
They murmured: "Burhon, please bless me!"
Kangayi people wetted their pants in terror.
They continued to kowtow,
And then went back to their camp and rested for six days.

The sun went to the west,
In the evening.
Kirgiz people gathered,
Carried their weapons and rushed out of the door.

I have mentioned before,
About Kankoler's geology and topography:
It is composed of white clay and green sand.

Kirgiz people stood on the north side in rows,
They were like eagles ready to fly.
In order to cause avalanche,
They shouted and shot their guns.

It was sunny and hot,
The earth was full of hot air suddenly.
Snow melted and converged into rivers,
Red flood surged between valleys.

The plain turned into ocean,
Lowland turned into lakes.
Tents were flushed away,
Corpses floated in the flood.

The flood surged and roared,
More than forty thousand Kangayi people were flushed away,
Before the battle was going to start,
Kunwuer had received such severe punishment.

Let's put this story aside,
Let me sing about the heroes,
How they started a bloody battle.

Young Baytaylak Began to Display His Talent

The earth turned grey and white,
It was going to get dry.
Battle flags hung up high,
Heroes were going to Beygin a fierce battle.

Heroes all came to the center of the battlefield,
Leopard Bakay and Niskara,
Were Khans to manage the battle of each side.
There were two throne seats side by side,
Soft cotton cushions were put on the seats,
Two Khans sat on them.
The horn for starting the battle was at one side,
The suona for stopping the battle was at the other side.
Since ancient times,
This was a rule Khans made.

Red Arashi battle flags,
Were held by one giant.
The black flag beset with gold,
Was Kangayi flags.
Both sides sent one warrior,
Let them shoot the person of opposite side holding flags.
This was a rule ancestors made,
People call it Tukandamay[①].

The shooter from Kangayi side,
Was called Yertkai.

① Tukandamay: Kirgiz language. It means to worship the flag with blood.

The shooter from Kirgiz side,
Was famous Krichorao.
Krichorao had adept skills of drawing bows and shooting,
He was a magical shooter.
He tucked his yellow clothes bottom into his pants,
Wore his white felt hat in high spirits.
Among numerous Kirgiz people,
He was an outstanding warrior.

Kangayi people just began to wave the flag,
Krichorao seized a chance,
The shooter and the flagman of opposite side,
He shot both of them down to the ground.

Two heroes of the opposite side fell down,
Arashi people applauded happily.

On Kankoler plain,
A moving hill appeared in their sight.
We always played in this place,
We had never seen such a moving hill.
In our beautiful and fertile Kankoler,
How can such a moving hill appear?

It was a hill of disaster,
It had appeared on this land.
People were all astonished:
"Is this a hill?
It is more like Kangayi Khan!"

Kazakh Berdikai,
Rode his strong black horse and came.
The messenger would not get hurt in the war,
He came to deliver the news:

"It is a hero likes to battle alone,
He is Arokai's son,

Among sixty brothers of famous hero Kunwuer,
He is the youngest hero Orokger,
He is a brave lion.

"Although he is only around eighteen years old,
No single horse is able to carry him.
He cannot find a huge rhinoceros,
So he has to use an elephant to be his mount.

"He wears iron helmet on his apple-like head,
He carries seven layers of shields on his shoulders,
And wears six layers of iron armors,
Holds a three-hundred-Gaiz-long spear in the hand,
Yurt-size iron hammer is on his waist.
This is the new hero Orokger,
His weapons are like what I said.

"He threatens he will swallow everything in the world,
He will kill everyone who challenges him."
Heard what Berdikai said,
People present all felt scared.

Someone said at the moment:
"Who knows his skills?
Only opponent knows how ferocious the enemy is!
Except Krichorao,
Who else can go and challenge him!"

The words just came out,
Before the person closed his mouth,
Warrior Kanchorao walked out of the crowd.
His mount was the black-spotted horse,
It gripped the bit tight and waved its mane.
If Kanchorao lost his temper,
He would stare with wide-open eyes like wood bowls.

He did not fear at all and was very angry,

He shouted to the crowd:
"Arokai's son Kunwuerbayi,
Kermuzsha's Muradler,
And Khan Niskara,
They are all lions capable of fighting alone.

"Our only leader lion Semtay,
Now he is besieged in the city.
Besides Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Who else among us can go and fight against enemies alone?

"Do not fear even if he is a mountain,
In front of heroic Kirgiz people,
He will be finished off at one blow like a puppy.

"Let's take up the weapons,
Let this shameless guy completely discredit.
Among heroes of seven cities,
No one has ever heard about him.
Although he has a mountain size body,
There is no seat for him among heroes."

Kanchorao's words had been heartening,
Kirgiz people were eager to have a try.
Jamgerchy whipped Wularboz horse,
Shook his white beard,
Although he was one hundred and twenty-four years old,
He was going to fight against enemies.

Jamgerchy asked for a battle assignment:
"My contemporary, respected Bakay,
There will be no such battle in my later years.
Let me fight a round,
Let me deal with this little guy!"
Bakay Khan shook his head and his hands,
Said he could not agree.
"There are so many Kirgiz people here,

Don't we have even one strong warrior?"

Koshaoyi's son Jalgazek,
He had the courage of ever invincible,
He wanted to compete with Kunwuerbayi wholeheartedly.
He saw Jamgerchy was asking for going to fight,
He could not control his feeling anymore.
He whipped his Jalmanboz① horse and came up,
Dismounted and asked for the battle assignment to Bakay,
He promised to punish the ferocious enemy severely.

Leopard Bakay said:
"My kid, how can you go?
Your father is hero Koshaoyi,
He is a very noble person.
He worked hard for his people day and night,
You are his son,
We will discuss later about whether you go to the battle."

When Bakay said this,
His son Baytaylak,
Whipped his grey and white horse,
Stepped out of the troops and came to him.

He was a young hero,
He hung the whip on his neck,
Asked his father to let him go to fight:

"Father, please allow me to go,
Orokger is Arokai's youngest son,
He is the youngest one among Kunwuer's sixty brothers,
He is of my age,
Let me compete with him!

"You are Kirgiz Khan,

① Jalmanboz: It refers to white violent-tempered horse.

Arokai is Karamark people's master,
Let two Khans' sons compete,
Father, don't you allow me to go?"

Baytaylak was Bakay's beloved son,
He could not stop his son's will,
But he could not let him go easily either.
When he was reluctant about it,
People all raised their hands,
Looked at heroic Baytaylak and shouted loudly:
"Let's pray for the kid,
Wish him safe in the battle!"

Khan Bakay said at the moment:
"My boy, wait,
Wear this cloak when you go to a battle!"
Bakay took the brown cloak off,
And handed it to his son.

Twisted camel hair into yarn first,
Then his wife knitted it for him,
Bakay wore this brown cloak everyday.
Now he took off his cloak,
Let his son wear it and go to the battle.

Krichorao let Baytaklak ride on a white horse,
Let him wear iron armors.
Krichorao walked with him and said,
Told him his advice:

"You have not grasped a long sharp spear,
You have not fought against ferocious enemies,
You have not experienced fierce battles,
You have not been familiar with weapons.

"When your rival comes up the hill,
You need to rush down the hill.

Your rival rides on a giant elephant,
You should be careful not to be sucked away.

"When you rush ahead,
You need to cut the elephant's trunk first.
You should try to delay the time,
You need to use tricks when you fight enemies.
As long as you lock the enemy in a stalemate,
I will assist you to deal with him!"

Krichorao explained seriously,
Saw warrior Baytaylak off.
Giving advice to warriors right before they set out,
This is a tradition of Kirgiz and Kazakh,
This is the rule our ancestors left.

Baytaylak was a young lion,
He was a rash kid,
He had no experience of battling.
He had no battling experience,
He had no experience of fighting against enemies alone.

He felt very happy,
About he was allowed to fight against the enemy.
What Krichorao had told him just now,
He had forgotten them all.
Fire burned in Baytaylak's chest,
He rushed ahead courageously.

Baytaylak was like a kid in the horse race,
He left people far behind in an instant.
Baytaylak did not want others to catch up with him,
He galloped his horse forward.

He did not grasp the spear in his hand,
He held the handle of the spear like he was going to buzkashi.
He galloped the white horse,

He was not worried and nervous at all.

His people were all worried about him,
Sympathized tears ran out of their eyes:
"Lovely Baytaylak!
Do not be pricked by Kangayi people."

Bakay's son Baytaylak,
Grew up healthily and strong in Samarkand prairie,
He was a young brave general.
For six years,
His father Bakay brought him up personally,
Taught him riding horse, shooting arrows and guns,
He had great skills and martial arts.

From ancient time to the present,
Heroes had their own tactics when they fought,
A pair of battle axes were in hands,
A huge axe was for cutting enemy's heads,
A small axe was for stopping enemy's spears.

The young hero held two axes in his hands,
He acted agilely and fast,
When Orokger pricked his pear toward him,
He stopped the spear with his axe.
Orokger's spear pole was broken,
Hero Orokger was a giant of great strength,
He did not throw his spear down,
His spear was still in his hand.

Skilled Baytaylak,
Grasped the spear like horse lasso in his hand,
Adjusted his body and pricked his spear out.
He turned it over in his mind secretly:
"The pommel is facing his bladder,
It is the edge of his chest protector,
It is his vital place."

The grey and white horse clenched the bit and galloped,
He pressed the spear handle tight against the pommel,
Aimed the spear point to the enemy's bladder,
He pricked his spear with the support of the galloping horse.

Battle is a disaster for participants,
But people of later generations tell as stories.

Mountain size Orokger,
Fell off the elephant with a big noise.

Baytaylak's white horse,
Was well trained,
Before the master held the rope of its bit,
It neighed and ran ahead to one arrow shoot far,
Then it turned round suddenly and looked back.

Baytaylak turned round and saw,
Orokger supported himself with four limbs,
His huge body was like a yurt,
His iron helmet fell to the side,
His bald head was like a big pot,
Exposed over the coat armor collar.

Well-trained and young and promising,
Clever Baytaylak,
Drew the pure-steel sharp knife out,
Cut it toward the enemy's neck.
While he raised his right hand,
His left hand had reached the enemy.

He presented Orokger's head,
To Niskara and Bakay Khan.
"This is Orokger's head,
Father, please receive this trophy!"

He threw the head to the side,
Orokger had an end of being beheaded.
How a coward could defeat enemies,
Only fearless warriors can be praised generation after generation.

Krichorao Cut Kunwuerbayi Wound

Kunwuerbayi clenched his teeth with pale face,
His young brother's death made him too sad.
They were brothers of one mother,
He loved his young brother Orokger,
Raised him like his own kid.

Now, look at Kunwuerbayi,
He was crazy like a hungry lion.
His tears of hatred ran like surging lake,
It was like to flood Kirgiz people.

His angry face turned from pale to black like pot bottom,
He opened his bloody mouth,
Like to swallow everything in the world.
His beard was like strong arrow bags,
His eyes were like bubbles in the lake,
His mustache was like axe handle,
His eyes splashed with fire,
Like the fire blew up by blast box.

His cheeks were like drawn bows,
His brows was like a cliff,
His nose bridge was like an uprising rock,
His waist was like a sheath.
He had a long plait behind his head,
It was like the mane of a maroon stallion.

This ferocious wild beast Kunwuerbayi,
He had matted hair and wore clothes of twelve buttons.

This mountain-size wild beast Kunwuerbayi,
Held the long spear and rode on his black horse.

He wore Burum pants arrows could not pierce through,
Wide pants legs waved on both sides.
He was like an angry leopard when he gazed his eyes,
The points of his blue boots pointed to the sky.

He was a guy born ferocious,
People who saw him all would be scared.
He carried Batatar① in his clothes,
Held the fuse in his hand,
He was ready to kill the rival at any time.

Kunwuerbayi could not bear the blow,
His heart was broken.
He shouted like a male camel in heat,
He rode on his black horse and wandered around,
Like a malicious wolf looking for the prey.

His steel sword shined on him,
His long spear was in his hand,
Crescent axe shined in his waist,
Knocked the iron stick and clanged together.

Let's talk about the black horse he tamed,
Its body was as strong as a suona.
Its head lifted high toward the sky,
Its heroic posture made people frightened.

Angry Kunwuerbayi became frenzied,
He swayed like he was drunk,
The red Khitan-style drum he carried,
Would make a big noise even a fly knocked it.

① Batatar: Kirgiz language. It means the fast-shooting firelock.

His voice was hoarse,
His eyes were splashing fire sparks.
He talked in Khitan language,
His teeth were clenched.
Then he said in Karamark language,
His shout was as loud as the thunder.

His ferocious face was like a devil,
People felt scared and hid around.
Kunwuer swaggered to the battlefield,
No one dare raise head to look at him.

The black horse carried Kunwuerbayi to the battlefield,
Karamark style gold saddle,
Tied tight on the horse.
Kunwuerbayi rode on the strong steed,
As lofty as Basaliek hill.
The horse rushed out of the crowd,
He had a fake smile on his face,
The expression in his eyes was dim and dark.

People who had never seen him talked in low voice:
"What a terrible guy!"
Cowards were scared off their horses,
Bent over and hid behind their horses.

As Kunwuerbayi walked by,
A gust of wind blew behind him.
Kunwuerbayi's horrible manner,
Made people terribly frightened.

Sultan Almanbet's son,
Was young tiger Krichorao.
Almanbet was the white eagle king,
Krichorao was a white baby eagle.

When he saw Kunwuerbayi,

He became spirited immediately:
"It is my luck you come here.
If Semtay is here,
I will have no chance to compete with you!"

Krichorao looked around,
The heated in his heart came up.
People saw young tiger Krichorao,
His figure was like a lofty hill.

He wore layers of coat armors,
Grasped the sharp spear in the hand;
He rode on Surkoyun steed,
He was not worried at all.
Fellow people gathered around,
Looked at Krichorao.
Prayed for him silently,
Pleaded God to bless him.

Krichorao was full of confidence,
He was eager for a fight,
He gathered all his strength.
His eyes were red as fire,
His neck stretched long.
His chest was wide and back was strong with great strength,
Enemies caught by him all lost their lives.

He wore iron cloak all over,
The chest protector shined in the front,
Iron belt like ice was tied on his waist.

He wore Burum pants arrows could not pierce through,
Wide pants legs waved.
The spear made sound in his hand,
Sharp steel sword shined cold air,
The huge iron stick was carried on the horse,
The battle flag waved high.

He was the hero that killed Jurjut people,
His blade was sharp and incomparable.
He was a giant in this world,
No one dare compete with him.

Krichorao walked out of his troops,
He was like pure steel.
He had hero Kanchorao by his side,
He was also a fearless general.

Bakay Khan and Jamgerchy waved to him,
And stopped hero Krichorao.
They hung their belts on their necks,
All Kirgiz raised their hands up high,
Shouted the name Manas,
Prayed for the hero together.

Krichorao galloped his horse toward Kunwuerbayi,
His eyes sprayed the fire of hatred.
His heart was burnt with fire,
He clenched his teeth and made a big noise.
His eyebrows were like crouched hunting dogs,
His nose bridge was like a mountain col.

He shouldered his battle axe into the battlefield,
He made a loud shout like a thunder,
People who heard it all quivered.
He had a lucky head,
He had had a happy life more than twenty years.

If there were invading enemies,
He never treated and felt scared.
If he met his match in a contest,
He would chase and fight regardless of everything.
His rival did not imagine he could dodge,
He would swallow enemy's horse and coat armor together.

He was like a mountain,
Enemy did not try to escape from his sight.
If he became stubborn,
He was like to swallow his rival.
He talked to enemies mercilessly,
He was a hero who had no fear to death.

His words were so sweet when he talked to friends,
His eyes were sparkled,
His face was with red light.
If he met thousands of enemy troops,
He could kill them all,
He could only be comfortable to kill them all.

Fights like this,
He could finish them at any place.
His horse was with a chest like a hunting dog,
Its body was as huge as a hill.

Krichorao came to Kunwuerbayi,
Two heroes looked at each other speechlessly.
A fierce fight was going to start,
Kirgiz, Khitan and Karamark people,
All stood by the sides and watched them two.
When two heroes started to fight,
No one dare get close to them.

Their brows did not frown,
There were no worries in their hearts.
Two heroes made roaring shouts,
Red light came out of their knives and axes.

Horses galloped in the battlefield,
Heroes would compete on horsebacks.
When they were fighting against each other,
Who dare get close and watch them?

The young tiger should be punished by the promise,
No one could measure his courage and braveness.
Facing mountain-size Kunwuerbayi,
He considered him lower than his pants bottom.

Two heroes fought face to face,
People thought in their hearts:
"One is like an eagle, the other is like a lion,
The competition between them,
Will make the earth shake,
The earth will have full of dust flying under their feet,
What will the world become?"

People were astonished,
They were like to fall down.
They felt panic,
They were too scared to say anything.

Heroes could not control their feelings,
The earth quaked.
Heroes were so crazy,
Soldiers were scared and quivered,
Like they were going to die.

Kunwuerbayi, the scourge of people,
Was like a well-trained eagle.
He whipped the black steed he rode,
Rushed down like coming down from heaven.
Yellow dust rose behind him,
Covered the sun in the sky.

"If black mane tiger Krichorao fails,
We must be driven to Kangayi.
How about our numerous fellow people,
We will be rooted like grass."
Kirgiz people were worried,

No one had a good idea.

Kunwuerbayi rode on the black horse,
Before he could turn his horse round,
Lion's son Krichorao,
Pricked the spear toward Kunwuerbayi.

What a brave young general he is,
Krichorao faced the bloodsucking devil fearlessly,
It was like Manas was by his side.
Quicker than words can tell,
He pricked thirty-five times in a row.
How brave he was!
How such a brave young man could exist in the world.

When Niskara, Wushan and Muradler saw it,
Their hearts almost jumped out of their chests.
Seeing the braveness of Krichorao,
Karamark people shouted loudly like crows:
"These ferocious Burut people in the world!
They are like the dense forest that does not allow birds to make nests.
The lion, Almanbet's son!
He never let wolf go into his pasture.

"Their warriors are all redoubtable,
They must have an invincible Khan.
Kunwuerbayi brings disaster to people,
He let us come here and meet our fate,
He calls us here to lose life.

"Krichorao, strong as a tiger!
He is indeed a lion that protects his cave.
Khitan people lost such a brave hero,
Aisan Khan, Kunwuerbayi,
You are as stupid as dogs.

"If Khan Kunwuerbayi falls off his horse,

Whether will he be killed?
Whether will he cause Kangayi to be destroyed?
Whether will he make Kangayi disappear from the earth?"

When Kangayi people shouted,
Ferocious Kunwuerbayi became crazier.
The black horse he rode was like a flying snake,
Rushed toward Krichorao quickly.
Kunwuerbayi also found a right chance,
He pounded his iron hammer ten times in a row,
To Krichorao's head.

Right at this critical moment,
Arashi People missed their Khan much more:
"The enemies besiege our Khan,
If he can ride on Buruler steed,
Rush to the battlefield bravely,
Wipe out all devils trampling on us,
This is the hope of Kirgiz people.

"At this critical moment,
If our Khan can fight in person,
Bring sunshine to Arashi,
We will be more comfortable."

Faced Kunwuerbayi's crazy attack,
Krichorao thought:
"Are not my skills as good as his?
I will chop at him severely,
I will make him fall off his horse,
I will not fear even if I am smashed to pieces!"

People all waited anxiously,
For the result of two heroes' competition.
Who was the lion and who was the loser?
Astonished people could not distinguish it.
Who won and who lost?

Concerned the fate of two tribes,
Hundreds of thousands of people's lives were related to it.

Kunwuerbayi was an old man over seventy years old,
Krichorao was a young man.
For their own honor and responsibility,
Neither of them would give in,
They fought against each other regardless of their lives.

Look at Krichorao's Surkoyun magic steed,
It was the luck of the hero,
It was a god-given fine horse.
If the grey rabbit horse chased after an enemy,
Even if the enemy rode on the wind,
It still could catch up with him.

If it escaped from enemy's hands,
Even if the enemy was as agile as a swallow,
He still could not catch up with it.
Krichorao was so lucky,
He had such a tireless Surkoyun steed.

Surkoyun had a big weak point,
Its bit was too hard and it was too hard to be controlled.
Kunwuer had witnessed Surkoyun steed's weak point,
He had an idea to deal with Krichorao suddenly.

"When I rush to his face,
I can turn Alkala steed's head round fast,
Before Surkoyun can turn round,
I will cut toward Krichorao's head with my crescent axe,
Let me send him to Manas!"

When Kunwuerbayi rushed ahead,
From the side his axe could not reach,
When he pretended to fight face to face,
But he took the advent of his horse's agility,

And tried to attack the hero from the left side secretly,
The young warrior had seen through his trick.

Krichorao's wisdom was hard to see in the world,
He made up his mind secretly.
"I am a person who should be punished by God!
Why do not I ride Buruler steed?
Why do not I realize about it?

"Buruler will not rush directly to him,
I must have a way to get close to him!
Surkoyun I ride has a hard bit,
It is violent-tempered and hard to be controlled.
Kunwuerbayi is like a devil,
He will not let me off easily.
He must take the weak point,
Attack me secretly.
I cannot lose this chance,
I need try to fight from one side,
Cut his arm off with my axe."

When Kunwuerbayi rushed to him from one side,
Krichorao pulled his left foot out of the stirrup.
He licked his lips,
Clenched his lips and braced up,
Leaned his body to the right side.
Before Kunwuerbayi's axe cut him,
Krichorao's axe had cut toward Kunwuer's shoulder.

With a big noise of the axe,
Kunwuerbayi's arm had fallen off.
Krichorao was fearless to death,
He was such a great lion.

Krichorao cut accurately,
His axe cut obliquely.
Kunwuerbayi's arm had been cut off,

His right hand hung to the ground.
Kunwuerbayi's arm was broken,
He lost the right arm he carried the spear.
He could not turn his horse round anymore,
He had no power to brace himself up,
To make his black horse turn round.

Krichorao's Surkoyun steed,
Galloped toward the crowd.
When he was getting close to people,
Krichorao looked back suddenly,
He saw numerous Kangayi people,
Gathering and circling Kunwuerbayi.

Young Baytaylak,
Took Orokger's head,
Hero's offspring warrior Krichorao,
How could he go back empty-handed?
It was the biggest shame of a hero.

Krichorao shouted the name Manas,
Whipped his horse and launched an attack to enemies.

Kirgiz people had been alone for too long!
They did not meet strong enemies for years,
No one could await his doom when facing ferocious enemies.
Red flag waved in the sky,
The shout of Manas shook heaven and earth.

Old hero Jamgerchy led the troops,
Started a desperate battle with the enemy.
Two armies fought and troops mixed,
Soldiers were in a mess and hard to know who were alive.
Rising dust was too thick to see the sun,
It was dark all round like at night.
The day and the night was hard to distinguish,
Dim and dusky.

Numerous brave and strong generals and soldiers,
Blood dyed their uniforms red.

The sun set and night came,
According to Khan's order,
People lit the light and continued to fight.
When steel knives knocked together,
Yurt size sparks splashed.

Sharp arrows were shot,
Jazhayl firelocks shot,
Bullets flew in the night sky,
Broken pieces of weapons fell on the ground,
Sparkled like the stars in the sky.

Shields broke,
Helmets were bashed and dented,
Spears were broken,
Sword blades became broken.
Kirgiz and Karamark people were locked in a tangled fight,
They forgot day and night.

Green grass was dyed red with blood,
Blood splashed everywhere.
Dust covered the sun,
Beautiful Kankoler had nowhere to be seen.

Bullets flew and helmets broke,
Armors broke to pieces and coat armors were torn.
Soldiers with broken arms groaned on the ground,
Soldiers with broken legs were countless.
Numerous heroes were still in high spirits,
And numerous heroes were exhausted.
Soldiers lost their minds,
Did not know what to do,
But continued to find enemies,
Started another fight.

Agile warriors good at pricking spears,
Pricked spears in rows,
Heroes good at waving swords,
Charged ahead repeatedly in neat orders.

Soldiers waved their iron hammers,
Hammers clanged together and made huge noises,
Executioners waved their axes.
Heroes were full of hatred,
They fought face to face,
Tried to seize the chance to kill the rival.

People who wore silk coat armors fought together,
People who wore iron armors fought together.
They showed their ability,
They did not yield to each other,
It was always like this in the battle.

People with staggers fought together,
Stabbed to each other ferociously.
Self-assumed heroes,
Were killed by giant rivals.

The battle lasted for six days and six nights,
If calculated the day and night separately,
It lasted totally twelve days.

Niskara and Bakay Khan discussed,
"Fierce battle has lasted for six days and six nights!
We should call a temporary truce."
As long as Khans gave out the order,
No generals could stop them.
Obeying the order was the rule,
Suona had sounded for calling a truce.

Soldiers all retreated,

Went back to their camps.
Numerous heroes rolled their coat armors up,
Torn pieces of coat armors draped to the ground.
Many people's coat armors were torn,
Bloody cloth strips waved in the wind.

Many heroes were empty-handed,
Helmets and armors were thrown away.
Axe edges were blunt and handles were broken,
Heroes came back with empty hands,
Blood oozed out of their wounds.

Many heroes had their swords broken apart,
They shed tears and felt depressed.
Some people stood up but fell down again,
They were in a panic.
Numerous heroes lost their horses,
Lost their ways and could not distinguish the direction.

Many people lost their limbs,
What they had left was a breath in their chest.
Some people were unable to climb up to their horsebacks,
Just held the rein and staggered forward.

Some people's spears were broken apart,
Some people scattered and shouted:
"Where are my fellow people?"
People separated from their troops were in a panic,
They fell and stood up and lay by the side of the road.

Horses lost their masters,
Dragged the reins and wandered.
People separated from their troops,
Felt sorrowful and miserable.

Which was Kirgiz and which was Kangayi?
It was unable to tell.

Battle flags were erected as a threshold,
Divided enemies and us into two sides.

Six days had passed,
Some people still could not find his fellows.
Horns for battle sounded again,
Fierce battle continued for another seven days,
If nights were added,
It had lasted for fourteen days,
Fierce battle made both sides suffer from heavy casualties.

Dead horses exposed their white teeth,
Huge hooves were like wood basins.
Some horse corpses were lying on the ground,
Some horse corpses floated in the river.

Such miserable battle scene,
Would make everyone who saw it feel scared.
When Kirgiz conquered Beygin city in the past,
It was not miserable like this.

Let's see how heroes battled alone,
The fierce fight made people startled.
Hero Niskara waved his battle axe,
He cut forty to fifty people to death only once.
Karamark hero Wushan,
He also killed numerous soldiers.

Kermuzsha's son Muradler,
Rode on this maroon horse and rushed everywhere.
Many giant heroes,
Lost their lives in his hands.

There was a Kangayi hero called Yelanker,
He was a peerless hero.
He carried a yurt-size iron hammer,
Rushed into the crowds.

Every time he rushed into,
Seventy to eighty people died.

Kunwuerbayi encouraged his soldiers to keep up high morale,
He brought their heroes here.
Kirgiz was attacked by Karamark,
Arashi once was enslaved by Khitan,
Among Kangayi and Kara Karamark people,
Is there any lion I did not mention?

Warrior Krichorao was in high spirits,
Warrior Kanchorao had different tactics from others.
Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack,
Ana Bakay's son Baytaylak,
They chased after enemies in the battle,
Like ferocious wolves chased after a herd of sheep.

Karamark was narrowed to the valley,
It seemed they were going to be swallowed.
They were like gusts and storms,
They were like eagles to chase after crows.

They rounded up the enemies,
Then rushed rashly in the enemies.
As long as their swords were drawn out of the sheaths,
Enemy's blood would run like water.

Yelanker's braveness was hard to be measured,
He was as good as Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack.
He swung the iron hammer.
How could Jalgezack wait to death?
He grasped the huge hammer in his hand.
They had reached an agreement on fighting alone,
They would not yield in order to show their braveness.

Yelanker got the right to attack first,
Fire splashed in his eyes.

Yelanker was as hard as black rocks,
He strode to Jalgezack.

He swung his yurt-size iron hammer,
Punched on the head of Jalgezack.
The shield and the handle covered over the head,
Were broken to two pieces and flew away,
His helmet was smashed into pieces,
All pieces fell on the ground.
Metal clanged together and flames splashed,
Blazing flames burned on the ground.
No one dare get close to them,
They could kill you only in one blow,
Who has ever seen such warriors?
Yelanker turned his horse round,
Raised his iron hammer up again.
He spat in his palm,
He was intended to bury Jalgezack.

Jalgezack was calm enough,
"Hey, hero, I let you punch me once with your iron hammer,
Now it is my turn to attack.

"If you still assume yourself as a hero,
Just stand there still.
This is the rule our ancestors left,
You should not forget it."

How could a rule be disobeyed?
They were fearless heroes in the world.
A hero like Yelanker,
Was hard to find another one in the world.

He lifted the shield over his head,
The helmet was his final hope to keep his life.
His mount was high and strong,
It was like a mountain.

Young hero Jalgezack,
His power was beyond imagination.
He grasped the cast iron hammer in his hand tight,
Whipped his horse like the eagle was flying.

He spat in his palm,
Used all his strength toward Yelanker's head.
When his hammer punched on his head,
Yelamker's shield and helmet,
Were both smashed into pieces and flew away.

Yurt-size flames,
Splashed everywhere.
The red horse Yelanker rode,
Its legs under the knees ran into dirt.
Yelanker kicked the horse with his heels,
The damned horse had already stuck in.
Before Yelanker had time to avoid it,
Jalgezack's hammer punched on his head again.
When Jalgezack drew his hammer back,
Rock-like Yelanker had lain on the ground.

When Saykali saw this,
She tried to find a place to hide in a hurry.
Jalgezack chased after her,
But he did not get her.

Confident Jalgezack,
No one dare come out and compete with him.
He killed Yelanker,
Some Karamark people cried hard and passed out.
When he heard the horn of Suona,
He rushed out of the crowd and went back to his camp.

Let's see Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Their braveness made some people sad.

They were like a ball of fire,
They would burn everywhere they went.

Anyone that met them two,
Could only go to the room for their death.
If anyone dared to compete against them,
No one could escape from their hands.

Heroes fought bravely like this,
They got out of the battlefield after fourteen days.

One was a black flag beset with gold,
One was a red flag with gold pole,
Those were the solemn signs of two troops.
Two Khans held their own flag,
Got ready to retreat.

Niskara held the flag in his hand,
Troops of both sides had separated to two sides.
Jalgezack calculated in his mind:
"I will knock the flag off from his hand!"
Jalgezack rushed to the flag rashly,
Karamark people knew his purpose,
Numerous heroes came up to protect the flag,
He and Karamark Wushan met.

Jalgezack knocked Wushan down,
Made him fall off like the rolling Erigeron.
When Wushan struggled to get up,
Baytaylak came from his back,
Gave a fatal blow to the hero.
Arrogant giant Wushan,
He was like Yelanker,
Did not escape the fate of death.

Leopard Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack,
He was a peerless hero.

Now, let's take a look,
Baytaylak killed Orokger.
Two Khans' young sons,
Showed their braveness in the battle.

When the gathered troops separated to two sides,
Envoys of both sides discussed together,
They decided to use five days,
To bury dead soldiers of both sides.

Karamark people and Khitan people,
Divided the corpses into thirty-one piles.
Kirgiz people,
Divided the corpses into ten piles,
The dead were named the Warrior of Kirgiz!

Kirgiz people held a grand ceremony for the dead,
They counted the corpses and buried them there.
Karamark and Khitan people,
Announced the information of their casualties,
Showed their toughness.
They poured oil and gunpowder on the corpses,
Then lit the fire and burned the corpses.
Kankoler's river was polluted by the corpses,
Even livestock refused to drink water from the river.

Crows and ravens came in flocks,
Landed on blood and ate the blood clot.
In order to disperse the bad smell,
In order to make the earth turn green again,
In order to drive crows and ravens away,
Both sides set big fires.

Raging flames rose into the air,
There was no green grass at all.
Kankoler became an ocean of fire,
Bad smell was burned away,

The pasture turned into ash.

What does war bring to people?
When they thought the battle would continue the second day,
Leaders who managed the battle,
Felt dizzy and worried.

Let us put this one aside,
Let's see how Kirgiz people,
Defeated Kangayi people.

Semtay Mounted the Horse and Went out to the Battle

Khan Bakay sat in the seat of honor,
People around in order were:
Onozdu's son Jamgerchy,
Dignified Krichorao,
He was a warrior with great wisdom,
Noble people's offspring Kanchorao,
Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack,
Jezkanpire's seven boys,
They gathered and discussed about the battle situation.

Light from the oil lamp guttered gently,
They sat around the lamp,
No one started to talk first.
They used all their tactics,
The result was still not clear.
When they thought hard and speechlessly,
Ayichulek came to them.

"Sister-in-law! Come in please,
Please give us an idea,
Please tell us,
What orders does Khan Semtay have?"

When Krichorao asked her,
Ayichulek responded this way:
"Since you erect the flag and fight against enemies,
Fierce battle has continued for many days.
From the moment Baytaylak went to the battlefield,
It is no exaggeration to say,

In these breath-taking days,
No matter day or night,
Semtay Khan wears his clothes,
Sits on the tops of the city wall and watches.

"Sire city ancestors left,
Is as strong as rock and impossible to be broken.
Bronze weapons cannot destroy it,
Battle axes have no way to cut the massive walls down.

"It is this city wall artillery cannot destroy,
Khan Semtay watches the battle on it,
He stands on the wall still,
His heels have sunk into the wall.

"From the day the battle started,
He stands on the wall still.
He wore Olbok coat armor,
With two sleeves swaying in the wind.

"Although he is my husband,
I dare not get close to him.
His eyes splashed angry flames,
His serious manner makes me nervous.

"He is very angry and sad,
He continues to sigh,
Anger and worry,
Cover the city.

"He sighs with full of regret:
'How I can be a hero?
How I can put my horse in remote mountain so easily?
I left Buruler,
Like I lose my arms.
I would rather die,
Than be such a useless Khan!'

"He refuses to eat and drink,
He spends these days like this.
He stays on the city wall all the time,
His eyes fix to the battlefield.

"He has no hobby,
Except always putting some Nas tobacco leaves in his mouth.
But during these days,
People sent Nas leaves to him for dozens of times,
He even does not look at it.

"He lowers his head and sighs: 'I do not have my horse now!'
There are full of worry and sadness in his heart.

"This evening,
I walked to him quietly,
I said to him:
'I will go and visit Bakay Khan.'
I thought when he heard Bakay's name,
He must be happy.

"But, at the moment,
He said to me with a hoarse voice:
'Hurry right back,
You send them my hope.
They are undergoing a fierce battle with enemies,
Numerous Kirgiz people are killed and wounded.
There is no result of the battle,
They probably have no idea about it.

"'Tomorrow morning, before sunrise,
Let Jalgezack and Baytaylak,
Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Bring Buruler to me.

"'Saddle it with Ackangck,
Do not put the bit in and make it comfortable.

Let Krichorao and Kanchorao walk in the front,
Let Jalgezack and Baytaylak,
Follow the horse tight.'

"He sighed again:
'Buruler is already twenty years old,
It is my best support.
Let them try their best to send me the horse,
This is the only hope I have for them.

"'I will ride on Buruler steed,
I will do something for my people.
If they do not obey,
They should be responsible for the result.'

"I come here tonight,
To deliver Khan's order."
Ayichulek told them Khan's order,
Sat there and waited for the heroes' response.

People present said in one voice:
"Khan's idea is brilliant!"
Semtay was in the city,
His order gave them wisdom and power.

Ayichulek said at the moment:
"My dear Krichorao,
Please remember Khan's words clearly.
My dear Kanchorao,
Do not forget what your Khan said.

"Brave Kirgiz lions,
Please remember my words clearly too.
I looked down from the sky,
Kangayi people that surround us,
They also have a heavy loss.
Their leaders are severely wounded,

Their generals are confused and disoriented.
We should seize this chance,
Fight for the final victory.

"Enemies besiege the city like an iron barrel,
Even a fly cannot fly in.
You have no chance to get close at daytime,
Enemies will not allow you to go in.

"On your way to the city,
Enemies set up seven roadblocks with heavy forces,
Sire city is besieged more solid than steel.
In front of each roadblock,
There are three layers of wires.

"Forces of every block is formed by different tribes,
Each block has a tribe leader as its captain,
They are all famous heroes.
Countless soldiers are like dense grass,
It is beyond your sight.

"They have rows of sharp shooters with Jazhayl guns in their hands,
They have rows of sharp shooters with bows and arrows too.
Once all guns and bows shoot at the same time,
No one could escape from it.

"Please remember my words clearly,
When the sun hangs in the west,
Do not get close to the wire at this time,
This is the time they have tightest defense.

"Once there is a little sound,
They will shoot guns and arrows,
Arrows will be like rain,
And bullets will be like hails.
Their shouting will deafen your ears,
The earth will shake too.

"The terror Kunwuerbayi makes,
Is more terrible than you can imagine.
If you take this not serious,
You will lose your life.
You will fail to go into the city,
You'd better take actions after midnight.

"When you are ready to act at night,
There will be a fairy with high skills,
It will appear in the sky and help you.
It is my good friend,
I will ask it to transfer into a star with a tail,
Let it shine in the sky.
You gallop your horse to the direction,
Where its tail points.

"Although I, Ayichulek, am a woman,
I am willing to work for Kirgiz people."
After Ayichulek said these words,
She flew into the night sky.

Respectful heroes,
Did not sleep at all.
"If we rush into the city,
Then we will have no time to saddle the horse.
Only we saddle Buruler steed well now,
Then we can serve our king better."

Gold pommel,
Silver inlaid back saddle,
Iron fenders,
The pommel was like a running deer.
This was a fine Mongolian style saddle,
It fitted Buruler steed the best.
Manat saddle cushion,
Everyone admired and applauded.

Gold stirrups,
Made people dazzled.

Gold flowers were beset on the billet strap,
They were neatly knitted.
The back saddle was inlaid with silver flowers,
They were knitted more fascinatedly.

The gold front saddle was very expensive,
Decorations were all made of gold.
Saddle cushion was made of coarse cotton cloth,
Tied with two bright billet straps.
Look at this precious saddle,
It was the only one in the world.

Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Dressed up as Karamark people,
Led the way in the front.
Jalgezack and Baytaylak,
Followed Buruler tight.

For the sake of Kirgiz's victory,
They did not care their life at all.
Before people woke up in the early morning,
They marched toward great Sire city.

Their sister-in-law Ayichulek,
Was like going with them all the way.
All what she said became true,
It seemed she knew everything in advance.

Four Kirgiz heroes,
No one dare stop them.
No Kangayi people came out and challenged them,
They gave way to them.

Warriors drove the horse and galloped,

But they could not get close to the city.
They shuttled in the crowds,
Suddenly three wires appeared in front of them.

Rows of soldiers stood behind the wire,
They held hammers in their hands,
There were more than a thousand of soldiers.

A Karamark called Georoy,
He made a trouble wherever he went.
It was this ferocious Georoy,
He was the captain of these soldiers.

This Karamark was cruel and evil,
He was as hard as the rock.
He felt the people coming looked strange,
He shouted loudly:
"Burut people are coming, go and catch them!"

He swung his yurt-size hammer,
They shot their artillery,
They came up together,
Surrounded four heroes.
They tried to stamp four heroes down,
And swallow them alive.

The captain waved the hammer and charged ahead,
Soldiers shouted and cheered.
The noise of battle rose to the sky,
They shot Zandolun artillery.

Fierce battle had started,
Karamark narrowed their encircling ring,
Heroes fought back bravely.
Georoy commanded in the front,
Brave Krichorao cut him to death.

They killed Karamark captain,
They flushed the entrance of the wire open.
Heroes swung their swords,
Killed enemies in rows.

Hammer men came up with their hammers,
Heroes punched to the ground and made them groan.
Heroes galloped their horses and marched ahead,
Flushed the second block open.

Groups of spear men stood behind the second block,
They held spears and were ready to fight.
People who resisted the heroes could not save their lives,
They died too if they stopped going forward.
A crush of enemies rushed to them,
And pricked their spears to them.

Warrior Kanchorao shouted like thunder,
Grasped his iron hammer tight in the hand.
He had had a way to kill enemies,
He swung his hammer left and right,
He fought enemies with his wisdom.

He rushed to enemies from the flank,
Enemies were knocked down in rows.
He fought like a hungry wolf drove sheep,
Blood ran along the hammer handle.

About two hours later,
Enemies at the second block were all killed.
"We have flushed two blocks open,
How do we flush the other five blocks open?"

Jalgezack took a lead,
Came to the third block.
Cavalry holding axes stood behind the third block,
They all had devil's expression on their faces.

They were Kangayi soldiers,
Always swaggered before others,
Galloped their horses in large groups,
Rushed and spread.

Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack,
Was full of vigor and advanced irresistibly,
Enemies who met him all died.

All axe men wore steel helmets,
They were heroes fearless of death,
You would know when you watch carefully.
Seeing such strong enemies,
Jalgezack was very happy.

Experienced Krichorao,
His value measured Jalgezack:
Brave and sturdy Jalgezack,
He grew up freely,
Khan's son Jalgezack,
He might be a hero good at fighting hard battle.

Jalgezack charged ahead bravely,
Kangayi soldiers and generals surrounded him.
Now let's sing about Jalgezack,
See how he met thousands of troops.

In the front of each row,
There was an enemy captain.
Captains of each row attacked in turn,
They were all pricked down by him.

Young hero was like a ball of fire,
No enemies dare get close to him.
Enemy captains were all killed,
He showed his power in front of them.

He drew his spear back and drew the sharp sword out,
Spat in his palm.
His braveness overpowered enemies' arrogance,
Enemies swarmed forward and fled away then.
When they were exhausted,
They flushed the third block open.

How did warriors act now?
As the evening progressed,
Everything was covered in the darkness,
It was pitch dark.

Krichorao looked up in the sky,
He saw a star with a tail appear in the sky,
Where the star's tail pointed,
Where the warriors went.
This scene never happened,
The star directed the warriors to the battle.

The battle lasted the whole night,
Warriors fought bravely till the morning.
When the morning came,
The star gradually disappeared in the sky.

What Ayichulek did,
Was not forgotten,
And was written in the epic and passed on generation after generation.

Soldiers holding swords were behind the fourth block,
Four heroes put on a spurt and flushed the block open.
When they arrived at the fifth block,
They found a row of artilleries that blocked in their way.
Warriors had no strength to fight anymore,
But they refused to give up halfway.

Krichorao said to the warriors:

"My little brother Baytaylak,
And brother Jalgezack,
I trust you very much.

"Kanchorao takes a lead in the front with the horse,
You two follow tight.
If the horse does not move,
Whip it without showing any pity."

Krichorao let the rein go when he finished his talk,
Let Buruler gallop at its will,
He came to the gate where soldiers guarded,
Cheated them in Karamark language.

Khan Semtay stood on the city wall,
He saw four heroes coming,
He pushed Zandolun artillery to the city gate,
Wiped the barrel with horse mane and oiled it in advance.
He put several bags of gunpowder into the barrel,
Then pushed it into the barrel with a stick.
Cannonballs made of cast iron and lead,
Were of three-year-old-calf size.
Then a pouch of gunpowder was poured in,
It was the fuse of the artillery.

There was a towering aspen near the city gate,
He tied the artillery body tight on the tree.
He asked guards to open the city gate,
Aimed the artillery mouth at dense enemy troops.
He lit the white fuse with it,
The artillery roared earthshakingly.

Look at the power of the artillery,
Anyone that saw it would be surprised.
When the cannonball flew out of the barrel,
The earth was shaking in the boom.
Fences were shaken down,

Infants were scared and cried.
People opposite the artillery,
Their bodies were blown to pieces.

The defense line was torn open with a gap,
It was far to an arrow-shoot distance.

The wire could not resist the cannonball,
Everything in front of the cannonball turned into ash.
Dense smoke splashed out of the artillery mouth,
Covered the sky like dark clouds.

Krichorao looked back,
A pit that could hold six sheep was blasted out.
Buruler swayed its tail like whirlwind,
It leapt into the city like a shooting star.

Krichorao whipped his horse and went into the city,
Kanchorao followed him,
Jalgezack and Baytaylak were behind them,
Before Kangayi troops blocked them,
Four heroes all rushed into the city.

Buruler came to him,
Khan Semtay went wild with joy.
It was like Manas rode on Ackura,
It was like Almanbet and Chuwak came to his side,
It was like late Serik and Sirak,
Two heroes brought back to life.

Semtay was too happy and did not wear armor,
He only put on Akorlbok coat armor.
He prayed to his father's spirit,
Then tied the belt on his waist in a hurry.

He held Sire spear in the hand,
Shouldered Ackelty gun.

Hung the iron hammer on his waist,
And hung the battle axe by the side.

Semtay was in a great state,
He was ready to fight against Karamark people.
"What a rare hero in the world!"
People praised Semtay,
His fame spread all over the world.

Semtay walked out of the palace,
Boots tips were pointing to the sky,
Semtay was going to fight,
Kara Kirgiz people's protector,
Leopard hero was majestic.

Kunwuerbayi Fled and Karamark Rendered Tribute and Sued for Peace

Khan Semtay was like a ferocious tiger out of the cage,
He could not wait to fight,
He carried the crescent axe made of Boleokbye in his hand,
Leaped up on Tayibruler's back.
The battle flag flew over the head,
Sharp sword shined by his side,
Crescent axe shined in his hand,
Spear and iron stick knocked and clanged.
He jumped on the horseback without stepping on the stirrups,
He was like a male camel in heat,
People who saw him all quivered with fear.

Seeing Semtay coming to the battlefield,
Kunwuerbayi shouted to Khans:
"Oh, Niskara, Muradler,
You should remember clearly what I am going to tell you,
You deal with it if you meet the specific issue.

"Wushan and Orokger,
Georoy and Yelanker,
Have all died in Kirgiz people's hands.
You have been for many battles,
You have made great efforts in it.

"Facing such a situation now,
Please listen to my former battling experience:
When Manas conquered Beygin city,
He once robbed our horses from Alal.

"He lived in the plain of Dayingan,
Once I rode on Alkala horse to chase him,
The lion rode on Achura steed.
His martial arts skills are of the same level with me,
He pricked my butt once,
These scenes are still in my mind,
It is too hard to forget.

"The lion shot my ribs broken,
Blood ran out unstoppably.
If he pulled my Alkala away,
My life would be hard to keep.

"My Alkala magical steed,
It is a fine horse everyone likes.
Alkala was in its prime time,
So Achura failed to catch up with it,
I barely escaped from his hand.

"Now I am injured,
Maybe the lion's protector is going to come.
I do not lose my mind,
My brain still works,
But there are many figures appearing in front of me,
They look all like tiger Manas very much.

"I have seen just now,
Buruler steed has come to Semtay,
We are incapable to besiege him anymore.
He is like having wings,
Flew out of Sire city soon.

"If his protecting gods appear at the same time,
I am not able to withstand,
I have to flee as early as possible,
This is what I want to tell you.
"If you do not see his protecting gods,

We will fight against him to death,
As long as we can hold Kankoler,
We will drive all their livestock away.
Let's go up to the top of the tent now,
Let's see whether protecting gods are helping Semtay."

Heroes all agreed on Kunwuerbayi's words,
They rushed to the tent top to watch.
Now they saw Semtay's majestic look:
He leapt out of the city like a lightning,
He rode on Buruler steed.
Forehead mane was tied up and pointed to the sky,
Gold horseshoes and silver nails shined.

Horse tail was combed into two,
Horse hooves stepped deep in the dirt.
The spell in front of its chest swung to the sky,
Raised head was like a male argali.

The damned steed!
Its mane waved in the wind,
Its shining fine hair was better than otter skin.
It opened its greedy mouth,
Galloped ahead tirelessly.

Yurt-size white foam came out from its mouth,
And wetted the road.
Wood basin-size hooves,
Every place it stepped on,
Had a deep pit like a stove.
Do not mention the master,
Even his horse was like to stamp the enemy camp flat.

Semtay rode on the horse,
There was a naked red kid,
About six years old,
Held the rein of Buruler steed.

Two grey rabbits were the same,
Stayed close to the stirrups.

A black-spotted leopard,
Ran by the side of the horse.
A vicious bald-tailed black dog,
Followed the horse tight.

There were thirty male argali on both sides of the horse,
Dust rose high and covered everything.
The clop of Buruler,
Sounded like sixty horses were galloping.

A huge white-spotted snake,
Twisted on Semtay Khan's waist for three rings.
Its forked tongue like sharp spear,
Reached out to the hero's ear side.

A girl wore Shokulio high hat,
Her cheeks were dusky but rosy and shined,
She was the most beautiful girl in the crowds.
She stood behind Semtay,
This is his protecting god.

She put her hands on Semtay's shoulders,
A pair of eyes shot golden lights,
Brightened the front like two bright lights.

All Semtay's protecting gods,
Walked out of the city and stood by his side.
Buruler steed he rode,
Had light shined on its forehead mane.

Semtay Khan's head top,
Had bright light shining.
He whipped Buruler,
Rushed out of the city and to the battlefield.

Not only Kunwuerbayi saw him,
But also others present saw him and felt scared.

Kunwuerbayi's face turned color suddenly,
It was like the end of the world was coming.
He regretted that he came here:
"My god, why do I invade here rashlessly?"
He ordered to people present:
"You all retreat to your home Beygin city quickly!"

Kunwuerbayi's arm did not recover completely,
He was heavily injured.
He said: "I am going now!"
He whipped his black-spotted and fled away in a hurry.

Kunwuerbayi lost his mind,
He was like a dunderhead that lost its way,
He provoked the battle,
Invaded peaceful and happy people afar.
War was hard and cruel,
Countless people lost their lives.

Hero's son Semtay Khan,
Led brave Kirgiz people,
Defeated enemies bravely.
Semtay scared him out of his wits,
Kunwuerbayi fled in a panic.

Semtay chased enemies,
Came to Susamur mountain.
Kunwuerbayi was desperate,
He fled with all his energy.
Semtay stopped at nothing,
He chased after tight.
Krichorao got unsettled,
He calculated in his mind again and again:
"Niskara Khan of Kangayi,

Does Semtay Khan leave him to me to compete?
How can I let him go back alive?
I will kill him in this battlefield.
I will capture his maroon steed,
And present it to discontented Kanchorao."
Krichorao turned his horse round suddenly,
Chased Niskara Khan from the back.

Niskara worried about Kunwuerbayi:
"Wish he can escape from enemy's hands!"
Niskara did not flee toward Beygin city,
He fled toward Afghan along Yurkainichy river.

Niskara carried his sword,
Galloped his steed with a worried expression,
He ran and looked back.
His maroon steed ran like an air current,
When he came to the hills area,
Krichorao had been very close to him.

Niskara ran in a hurry,
His crescent axe reflected the light of the sun,
People could see him from a far distance.
He galloped along Burkapu river,
The maroon horse he rode ran like a bird flew.

Niskara worried he could be found,
He reined his horse and then fled toward Dobet,
He went through foggy Kerget,
In order to keep himself alive,
He turned and ran toward Kahalk.

Krichorao chased tight after him,
People who saw him all felt scared.
Niskara crossed Yerkent river,
He was caught up by Surkoyun steed.

Niskara ran and calculated:
"If Krichorao catches up,
My life will be ended!
When I get to Saylam river rapids,
I will cut the pouch full of sand open,
I will blind Krichorao with the sand.
Let me die when my end is coming,
I would rather fall off my horse immediately,
Than suffer from this!"

What was it if it was not the scary in his heart?
He had completely lost his mind.
He would have drawn his dagger out,
But he drew the sword out.

He could not cut the pouch with sand open,
The sword was too long to make it happen.
He put the sword back into the sheath,
At the moment he was drawing his dagger,
Tiger Krichorao had come to his side,
And chopped toward his arm with the axe.

His arm was broken off after a big noise,
Niskara was too hurt to distinguish the direction.
"Am I dead already?"
He glared to all directions in a panic,
With his eyes wide open.
Insufferably arrogant hero,
Had been scared to death at the moment.

Hero Krichorao was in extraordinarily high spirits.
He carried the black battle axe,
Chopped without stop.
He sent the life of this wild beast,
To the destination it should go to.

"I will take it as a trophy!"

He reached his hand out to the maroon stallion,
But the maroon stallion did not move at all.
"It is such a good horse."
Krichorao said with a pity:
"Since you are loyal to your master,
I have to help you!
Let me take your meat as the trophy!"

He killed the maroon horse.
Krichorao barbequed its meat,
He ate them all and left nothing.

"I will ride my horse,
Go and look for my Khan!"
He loosed the bit of Surkoyun steed,
Dust rose high behind him.
"In Malalbash and Tumushowk,
Let me look for the hoof prints there.
As long as I have a breath,
I must get the news of my Khan."

Krichorao came to Tumushowk,
He looked for him everywhere.
When he came to the big road,
He found the hoof prints of Buruler and Alkala suddenly.

"I must catch up with them!"
Krichorao told himself quietly.
He crossed through Aral,
But he could not find the hoof prints anymore.

He climbed over Barashagen hill,
Clouds of sand rose up behind him.
He let Surkoyun gallop,
They went through Korla,
Crossed Karashar,
Passed Wulanbayi,

Went in Beshbalk city,
He still could not find them.

He did not stop and continued,
Climbed over lofty black mountain,
Came to Korjar prairie,
There were dense splendens.
He found their marks there:
Kunwuerbayi ran in the front,
Alkala steed galloped forward.
Semtay chased tight after him,
Buruler galloped but did not gain the upper hand.

Krichorao told himself:
"Alkala is old and weak,
Buruler is in its prime time,
Why cannot it catch up with Alkala?
Warrior Krichorao felt doubted,
He looked at Buruler and did not think of a reason.

Semtay chased tight,
The horse did not stop at all.
He kicked the horse belly hard with his heels,
Buruler panted for breath.

Semtay wanted to chase Kunwuerbayi wholeheartedly,
Smart Buruler did not want to do it.
"What a magical steed it is!"
Krichorao found the secret suddenly.

He whipped his horse and ran to them,
He passed Semtay.
Semtay saw Krichorao,
He called Krichorao and asked him to give a way,
Krichorao did not care about what he said,
But blocked Buruler in the front.

Semtay Khan was very angry,
He took the gun off his shoulder and began to shoot,
He considered Krichorao as an enemy.
Krichorao could not argue with him,
He could only stand in the sand.

Kunwuerbayi took the chance,
Climbed over the hill and fled toward Kalakumu.
Semtay should be punished by his spirit,
How could he let the enemy off for the sake of honor?

Krichorao was choked with tears,
Like a naive kid,
He persuaded Semtay hard:
"My respected Khan,
You cannot go to that place!
Once people go there,
No one could come back alive.

"Our leopard father Manas,
Even he could not go there safely,
It is an unlucky place.

"Respected big brother,
We can return from here if you want.
All Karamark we will meet on our way,
We can drive them back.

"Let's go back to Alal!
There is dense herding grass,
It is an ideal place to herd our livestock.
Let's do a contract with them,
Ask them to pay tribute to us and serve us."
Krichorao said these words sincerely,
Held the rein and did not let him go.
Semtay agreed on Krichorao's suggestion,
They turned their horses round and went back.

On their way back,
Kangayi leaders and captains they met,
They took them back to fertile Alal prairie.

After the negotiation of two sides,
They decided Kangayi paid twenty Chenz① gold each year.
Two sides both sealed,
And signed the contract.
Semtay Khan kept the contract,
Returned to his homeland Talas.
He held Toliechylak② ceremony,
Worshiped lion Manas' spirit.

Three days after the ceremony,
Kanchorao went back to Talas alone.
People all asked him with interest:
"Where did you go these days?"

Warrior Kanchorao responded:
"Dear Khan!
I come back from Kashan mountain.
I descend dark and miserable life,
To Muradler from Kermuzsha,
I killed the ferocious enemy Muradler.

"When you went to chase Kunwuerbayi,
Krichorao also in a hurry,
Went to chase Niskara.
I calculated in my mind,
Let me deal with Muradler.

"I began to chase after Muradler,
But I could not catch up with his magical steed.

① Chenz: It was the traditional unit of weight. One Chenz was usually ten kilograms and was eight kilograms in some other places.

② Toliechylak: It is a ceremony to pray for the luck and drive away evil spirits through worshiping the ancestors.

Till the plain of Kashan mountain,
Finally I caught up with his Karamark enemy.

"Stubborn Muradler,
Grasped the spear tight in his hand.
This frantic guy,
He wanted to kill me, his rival.

"We fought against each other for a long time,
We did not give in.
Muradler could not stand my spear,
He fled away in a hurry.

"When I could not catch up with him,
I lifted my Kokchybik gun,
I loaded bullets with the stick,
I aimed at him and shot.

"Muradler fell off his horse,
He lay on the ground on his stomach awkwardly,
He pleaded to me:
'Let me off,
Let me go back home!
I will invite you to visit my people,
I am willing to give you my throne!
If you do not want my throne,
I will go and catch Kunwuerbayi for you!
I will be very grateful,
If you spare my life!'

"When he said this,
I cut his head off.
I let this Karamark's blood bleed to dry,
Then I come back here.
My Khan,
All what you hear,
Is my experience these days."

Let us put this aside,
Sing about how Kairimubayi conspired to revolt.

Kairimubayi Conspired to Revolt in Collusion with Enemies

Kairimubayi Colluded with Karakuli

On the expedition to big Beygin city in the past,
There was a cruel battle that happened,
Ayidar khan's son Kokcher,
Died in Kunwuerbayi's hand in the battle.

The dear never could come back again,
His beloved wife Acairkaichy,
Had been pregnant for three months.

When she was going to bear the baby,
She caught a bad disease,
The baby stayed in her tummy,
Fifteen years past,
She gave the birth to Wumaitoy.

When Wumaitoy was fourteen years old,
He finally was born to this world.
What a miracle it was!

Lion hero Kokcher,
He managed Kazakh people for years.
Almanbet came to Kazakh prairie,
And he was under Kokcher's administration more than ten years.

Kokcher Khan had sixty Begans,
These impotent people envied the hero's talent,
So they all marginalized Almanbet.
There was a man called Azmenkai,
He was one of sixty Begans,

He was an ungrateful person.

After Azmenkai passed away,
His son Kairimubayi,
Grew up into a crafty man.
He was eloquent with a silver tongue,
He was cunning and full of tricks.
He was exactly the same as his father,
He had an evil heart of seeking usurper.
Kazakh had a tribe that was very rich,
Its Khan was Koktoy,
He adopted a son Bokmulon.

After Koktoy passed away,
His treasure and livestock was inherited by Bokmulon,
Bokmulon was weak and incapable of dealing with others,
So the right of administration fell to his uncle Yurbi's hands.

There was a tribe that was not rich,
But they had two generations' heroes,
One was Ayidar khan,
The other one was his son Kokcher.

Kokcher died in the expedition,
His son was born after more than ten years,
His tribe was administered by Yurbi too,
Yurbi became the Khan of Kazakh.

After Yurbi passed away,
The throne of Khan should be returned to Kokcher's son Wumaitoy,
But Azmenkai's deviate son,
Was aiming at the throne of Khan.
He cultivated popularity and allied secretly,
Played tricks,
Tried to get the power of administering the whole Kazakh.

Kairimubayi sat at his home,

Racked his brains to seek usurper.
"I can go to Talas and worship Manas!
Go and visit Bakay.
I can tell Semtay my hope,
Let's see whether I can be Khan of Kazakh.

"But Acairkaichy is still alive,
Ah, my hope is hard to come true.
Kanikai will tell Semtay,
Let Kokcher's son,
Fourteen-year-old Wumaitoy be the Khan.
But Kazakh has no Khan now,
It is a big mess here.

"'You go to herd in Shiber!'
I can cheat Kazakh people like this.
Then when they move there,
I can find a chance and destroy Kazakh treasures and livestock.

"I heard Niskara's son Mardhan,
Is a hero, he is very brave,
I will buy him to follow me.

"Big Yingan and small Yingan①,
Are beautiful and fertile places,
If Kangayi people allow me to live there,
I will separate from Arashi people,
And start to administer Kazakh.

"I need to raise forty thousand of money,
I will float from Amur river,
To where Jafan② people live.

① Big and small Yingan: Name of places. It seems it refers to Greater Khingan Mountains and Lesser Khingan mountains.

② Jafan: Name of a place transliterates from Kirgiz language. It is said it is Japan. The singer said he does not know whether it is Japan or not. It is the epic ancestors passed down, and he just follows and sings. There are a lot of things he cannot explain.

"I will scout the information carefully,
I will go and visit giant Kerzilwuyouk,
I will buy him in with money,
Cheat him and Mardhan together to come here.

"I will find a proper chance,
Go and fight against Semtay in Talas,
I want to be like Manas,
To be a famous Khan of Arashi people!"

Kairimubayi thought about this,
He felt so excited that his blood boiled,
It seemed he had already been a Khan.
Kairimu was very happy,
It seemed his hope had been achieved.

On Yuchykarkla prairie,
Kazakh people gathered and discussed.
They decided to herd in Shiber,
Herdsmen all moved from Kuyruktu.
Kokjanak was not big enough,
So they moved to Amur river sides.

They continued to move for over two months,
From early spring to Tikaiyue① month,
They finally moved to new places.

Kazakh people endured the hardships,
They drove their livestock,
Climbed over the snow-capped mountains,
Finally they met with Karakuli.

Karakuli was a crummy person,
He was Katal's② son.

① Tikaiyue: It refers to June according to Kirgiz traditional calendar.

② Katal: It was the name of a Karlmark warrior.

He had taken charge of the horses for a long time.
He and Kairimubayi had a long talk,
They colluded with each other.

Rich widows let the servant man make decisions for them,
Dried ponds had frogs as masters.
Servants were the poor and the widows' masters,
Frogs were the kings of ponds.
Kazakh people lost their ways,
Karakuli became their companion.

Karakuli said to Kairimubayi this way:
"Kairimubayi,
Your idea is perfect.
Among Kazakh people,
There are many self-important and arrogant Begans,
No one can consider something more comprehensively than you.

"I agree on what you said,
Hero! I admire you very much.
Respected Kairimubayi,
Please listen to my advice.
I will clear the area of Kurpuldaik river,
Its downstream is Kuyruktu prairie,
I will let you settle your home there.

"I will drive my horses,
Toward Kokjanak,
Acairkaichy must not allow me to do it,
If she goes and calls Kirgiz people to come,
When Kirgiz come here,
I will try to deal with them.

"Kairimubayi, you do not delay anymore,
Go to Jafan and visit Kerzilwuyouk as soon as possible.
On your way back,
You go and visit Mardhan.

Mardhan lives in Chanbay mountain,
He is skillful and brave,
No one in the world dare fight against him till now.

"If Kerzilwuyouk comes,
He will bring forty thousand troops.
If you can buy them two in,
Your dream will come true!"

Karakuli finished his words,
Kairimubayi nodded and agreed on him.
He was too excited to sleep,
He began to prepare.

Kairimubayi called all Kazakh people,
In into Ayinla.
He and reputable leaders,
Had a secret discussion.
He gave one thousand gold coins,
To the reputable rich people.

He said to them:
"Kazakh, my miserable fellows!
In Kasyet and Kalka time,
You and Karamark people were neighbors.
You had plenty of livestock and a large population,
You were rich and made others admire.
Your livestock spread all over the pasture,
People could not cross the pasture.

"When you enjoyed the happiness,
Almanbet came to you.
He made Karamark people miserable,
And drove their livestock into yours.

Orozdu's son Jagurp,
Had a heroic son Manas.

He always acted at his will and pleasure,
He moved you from Kangayi to here.

"He let Muzburchak and Yurbi,
Be your Khan one after another.
He let Ayidar khan's son Kokcher,
Garrison the border with troops.

"Manas cheated them and fawned on them,
And controlled them in his hands.
Heroes were cheated,
And followed him to the expedition to Beygin city.

"In that unprecedented brutal war,
Numerous heroes died in the wilderness.

"Manas' son Semtay,
His father died and he is an orphan,
He is an ungrateful guy,
He wandered everywhere and visited a lot of places.

"He killed his uncle Aweikai,
He let Koboshi walk into the grave,
His grandfather Jagurp was swallowed by him.

"He made Chinkogeo leave the human world,
He made him miserable.
Toltoy from Jedigair,
He lived in a place where east is bounded on west,
He was sent to the grave too.

"Kunwuerbayi went to his Sire city,
Sent him countless livestock and treasure.
He did not inherit his father's tradition,
He did not give us any of his property.
"He cheated Kazakh people to go to battle,
He made numerous heroes die in the wilderness.

He recruited Kazakh soldiers and horses,
To fight in Kankoler.
He did not write to you,
He did not consider you as a human.

"He only wrote a letter to Wumaitoy,
He cheated a young Khan.
Acairkaichy made the decision by herself,
She sent five thousand troops led by Berdikai.

"Semtay looks down upon us like this,
How we can go and discuss with him!

"I will go and talk to Wumaitoy,
Do you inherit your father's last wish?
If you call the shots for all Kazakh people,
I am willing to give you advice and to be your adviser!"

Kairimubayi conceived mischief,
He cheated people with lies.
"Kokcher had countless gold and silver indeed,
I should buy Wumaitoy in,
I must get his money.

"Acairkaichy has gone to her parents' in Buhara,
Before she comes back from Buhara,
I must be sure Wumaitoy is cheated.

"Once it comes to light,
I can shift the responsibility to Wumaitoy:
'Wumaitoy does all this!'
If it goes well,
I can take the throne of Khan!"

Kairimubayi Borrowed Troops from Jafan in the East to Help Him

Kairimubayi thought over about this well,
And was going to cheat ignorant Wumaitoy.
Some reputable people among Kazakh people,
Were already bought over by Kairimubayi.
All Kazakh people,
Fell into his tricks unwittingly like this.

Kairimubayi began his preparations,
He did not rest for a minute,
He asked Wumaitoy to give him twenty thousand gold coins,
And raised the other twenty thousand in Kazakh tribes.

He chose four young men from his trusted followers,
They all could understand Kangayi and other languages.
These four young men were smart and capable,
They even could cook.

Kairimubayi was next door to Kangayi people since he was little,
He was familiar with languages of big and small Yingans.
He also mastered languages of Xibo and Karamark,
He even understood the language of Jafan people.

He knew Arabic language,
He knew Nuoyi language,
He mastered Khitan language,
He was also proficient,
In the languages Kirgiz and Kazakh people said.

There were also many languages he knew some,

Totally, Kairimubayi,
Knew fifteen languages.
He asked these four young men to accompany him,
Each of them led two camels.

He formed a huge camel group,
Carried food on six camels,
Carried money on six camels,
There were countless silk and fabric,
Daily necessities and valuable gifts were all available.
Kairimubayi now,
Seemed to be the administer of Kazakh people.

They went forward along Amur river,
They did not stop for a rest,
They finally arrived at the ocean.
There were numerous people living along the coast,
A big and tall man administered these people.

Kairimubayi walked up,
Talked to the man secretly.
"Let's us cross the ocean!"
He gave the man six camels as a reward.

The man got six camels,
He was so happy about it.
"Let me help you cross the ocean,
Giant Kerzilwuyouk is over that side."

Kairimubayi chose four people from his attendants,
Left them there.
Kairimubayi gave them ten-camel food,
And priceless Burum fabric,
And valuable silk and brocade,
And cloak made of Supu①.

① Supu: It refers to the precious white silk fabric or white canel hair fabric.

He warned the people he left:
"You stay here and feed camels,
You stay here and take charge of the property.
Do not make any trouble here,
I will come back to you soon."

Kairimubayi warned them,
Then he found a sailor,
He calmed down.

The big man who got a good reward made a bamboo raft,
It was such a magical tool,
He put the raft gently on the water.
Maybe it was the spirit of the devil blessed him,
He rowed the raft to the other side of the ocean.

The raft man tied the raft to the coast,
Kairimubayi fulfilled his dream.
They walked for two days,
And they came to the house of giant Kerzilwuyouk.

Let me talk about Janfan,
Jafan people are like this:
They built houses with bamboo,
They wandered out everyday.
They ate wild hog meat,
Like Kazakh people eat horsemeat.

Let's see giant Kerzilwuyouk carefully,
He married a lady like a female bear as his wife.
There was a sixty-feet long python,
Kerzilwuyouk fed it carefully.

Crazy giant Kerzilwuyouk,
He shot to the sky and threatened:
"Let fairy Yulipulidaik marry me,
Otherwise, you will not have a good end!"

Desperate Kairimubayi,
He came to Kerzilwuyouk's island directly.
Jafan people were very familiar with the sailor,
They said "Jebey, Sibey" that he could not understand.

Jafan people heard what the sailor said,
Two of them went to report in a hurry.
Guard supervisor heard it,
And reported it to giant Wuyouk immediately:
"General, there are some heroes here,
They all come from afar.
The leading one is called Kairimubayi,
They said they specially come and visit you!

"Giant Kerzilwuyouk, do I let them in?
Do you accept their visit?
If you do not agree on their request,
We will tell him and let him go back.

"They do not come empty-handed,
They carry heavy pouches and packs.
It seems they carry a lot of treasure,
They have a lot of gold and jewelry in the hands!"

Heard the report from the guard,
Giant Kerzilwuyouk talked to himself quietly:
"Aisan Khan and Kunwuerbayi,
Do they descend disaster to other people?
Do they send messengers?
Do they come specially to visit me?"

Giant Kerzilwuyouk thought for a while and said:
"Lead them in quickly,
Let's see what they want to say!"

Guards came to them in a hurry:
"Oh, it is going well,

Let's go, the general allows you to go in!"

The guard called Kairimubayi over,
Checked him from the head to the toe.
In front of Kairimubayi,
The guard took his four companions away,
And put them into jail.

Kairimubayi's hands were tied up,
Two spears drove him.
Jafan people pushed him,
To the front of giant Kerzilwuyouk.

Before Kairimubayi entered the room,
They put a ring on his neck.
They did not respect this casual visitor,
Made him depressed and worried about his life.

When his neck staggered to the left,
Bowed to the throne,
Giant Kerzilwuyouk,
Used the time of a meal,
Ran his eyes ferociously,
Over Kairimubayi from the head to the toe.

Kerzilwuyouk gazed with his widely-opened eyes,
Kairimubayi was scared out of his wits.
He rallied his wits gradually,
Calculated in his heart like this:

"Will he kill me,
Without letting me say even a word?"
He was anxious and looked around,
Kerzilwuyouk watched him for a long time.

His servant brought him an animal skin,
Put it in front of Kairimubayi.

Kairimubayi understood their rule,
He sat in front of the animal skin carefully,
The servant let him taste the fruits.

Kairimubayi had been to many places,
Had experienced a lot of things,
But Kairimubayi now,
Ate the fruits and worried about his life.

They took the skin tablecloth away,
Kerzilwuyouk with a red face,
Talked slowly:
"Hey, short man, tell me,
Where are you from?

"Are you an escaped criminal and someone is chasing after you?
Are you chasing after something to here from afar?
Or you are a messenger sent by your Khan,
Or maybe you just come alone for an adventure?

"If you tell anything that is not true,
You will walk to the death.
If you tell a lie,
I will swallow you alive!
Now tell me honestly,
Where are you from and what do you want?"

Heard the inquiry from giant Kerzilwuyouk,
Kairimubayi's face was drowned in tears.
He stood up from the seat,
Quivered and sweated all over his head.

He stretched his body,
Bowed to greet as a woman.
Then he took one step back,
Bowed to greet again like a woman.
He could not control his scared heart to beat hard,

He stuttered in Jafan language:

"Since there are humans in the world,
People live in all places,
No one had ever conquered Beygin city.
Except Kirgiz person Manas,
He once conquered Beygin city.

"Manas not only conquered Beygin city,
But also did not let Afghan, Manget, and Kokand be in peace.
He made too many people die an untimely death,
He took Tashkent away from Chelchan① people's hands,
He took Kazakh back from Karamark people's hands,
He brought Kazakh disasters in the battle of Beygin city.

"Manas died and he has a son,
His name is Semtay.
He looks down upon everyone in the world,
He considers all others as fleas on sheep.

"He regards people as dirt,
He descends disasters to people.
People fear him and dare not fight against him,
Only Kunwuerbayi and thirty two heroes,
And he took one hundred Liek② troops to fight Semtay!
Semtay is brave and skillful in battle,
Kunwuerbayi suffered a crushing defeat.

"Almanbet fled from Khitan people,
His son Krichorao is a courageous young man.
As Semtay's warrior,
People who challenged him were all defeated,

① Chelchan: One saying is that it is a tribe living in Tashkent in ancient time. The other saying is it is Qiemo in southwest Xinjiang.

② Liek: It is the special measure word ancient Kirgiz people used to calculate the number of soldiers. One liek is about one hundred thousand people. Sometimes liek also means countless.

He forced Kangayi people to pay tribute to him.
"This rock-hearted guy,
Even if people present him with livestock and property,
He still cuts off their heads.

"People of central Asia,
Blame him as a brutal man who sucks blood without blinking eyes.
But he praises himself:
'Kaledayi's son Kunwuerbayi's troops,
All died under my knife.'

"I cannot bear their torture,
I cannot bear their humiliation,
I move Kazakh people to Amur river,
Then I come and visit you!

"Giant, I do not come empty-handed,
I bring you forty thousand gold coins.
If you pity the suffering people,
Your majesty, please go and look with me.

"Please go and conquer degrading Kirgiz people,
Let Kairimubayi in front of you administer them!
If you think the money is not enough,
We Kazakh have all four livestock.
You can get as many as you want,
Let us make friends like siblings."

When Kairimubayi was talking,
Giant Kerzil looked at him sideways.
He interrupted Kairimubayi's talk,
Loudly but arrogantly:
"Kirgiz person Manas entered Beygin city,
Is it true or is it just a lie?
If Almanbet and Manas invaded Beygin city,
And descended disasters to people there,
Why did not Aisan Khan deliver the message to me?

"If Semtay and Krichorao,
Killed people and robbed property,
I will go to Talas immediately,
Kill them and rob them.
Let them be like wild goats,
Have their corpses thrown in wilderness and their intestines run out,
Otherwise, let my name Kerzilwuyouk disappear!

"I will press the thousand-pound mace,
Under my thigh tight,
I will take care of them severely,
I will smash them into powder.

"Kairimubayi, you stay here for a few days,
I am going to recruit forty thousand troops,
I will go and crusade against central Asia.
You put your money here first,
Wait for me to punish them,
Then I will take all livestock and property you give me back."

Giant Kerzilwuyouk prepared for two days,
He rode on an elephant and was like a lofty mountain.
He carried countless wood sailing boats,
He headed forty thousand troops.
The powerful troops went toward the west,
They sailed in the ocean,
Until they boarded on the opposite side.

Giant Kerzilwuyouk came to Kurpuldaik prairie,
Along Amur river,
He found Wumaitoy's home.
People who saw him were all scared to shake,
They discussed in low voice:
"Who is he? Who dares to challenge him?
He is a disaster over the challenger's head.
Wumaitoy and Kairimubayi,
What do they want to do to invite this beast?"

When people widely discussed about it,
Wumaitoy was busy here and there.
In order to treat giant Kerzilwuyouk,
He prepared a feast of eighty sheep.

Meat of every ten sheep was put in one basin,
The delicious smell of the sheep meat spread everywhere.
Eight basins were carried out,
Now look how this greedy wild beast swept the food.

He was regardless of bones,
Opened his mouth and swallowed the meat.
Bones did not wedge in his throat,
He ate all meat with only eight swallows.

It seemed he was not full,
He swallowed eighty black wheat nang.
Then he began to drink warm tea,
He drank all eight basins of warm tea in a blink of an eye.

This wild beast got full,
He stretched his legs and fell to sleep.
He snored too loud like thunders,
Sheep in the pen were so scared that they stampeded.

Now let's put this story aside,
See how Kairimubayi descended disasters to people!

Kairimubayi United Mardhan to Invade Talas

Kairimubayi bid farewell to giant Kerzilwuyouk,
He crossed the ocean on a sail boat,
He had a smooth journey to small Yingan.
He led four companions,
Climbed over mountains without any stop.

When he walked up on a cliff,
A strange person appeared in front of him suddenly,
He had an eye on his forehead.

Long corners of mouth and flat nose,
Flat forehead and wide chest,
Short body and short neck.
Waist was ten times as normal,
His face was like a bull's face.

Helmet covered his eyebrows,
Wore eight layers of iron armors.
Shield was carried on the back,
Chest protector hung in front of the chest.

He rode a cyan bull,
He was of the same color with his bull.
He had a ferocious looking,
Like a brown rock mountain with yellow spots.

He wore boots,
They looked very special.
Kairimubayi came from afar,

Met this man in the mountain.

Kairimubayi could not flee away,
He dare not stop either.
He had to dismount his horse,
Bent over and came to this man.

Kairimubayi got off his horse,
He quivered and could not say even a word.
He lifted his eyes and looked at the monster secretly:
The cyan bull he rode,
Its ears moved all the time.
Four hooves stepped on the ground and made big noise,
Wool rope tied its nose was tied in the giant's waist.

The cyan bull carried a lot of preys on its back,
Forty leopards and sixty wolves,
Thirty bears and ten tigers,
Eighty wild horses and five high-nose argali,
And four deer with its four antlers forked,
Were also carried on the cyan bull's saddle.

The cyan bull carried its master and the preys,
But it still felt relaxed.
When it galloped forward,
The wind would be left behind.
Its single-eyed master was like a devil,
People were too scared to get close.

Kairimubayi did not know the single-eyed giant,
He was giant Mardhan Kairimubayi was looking for.
The wild beast reined the cyan bull,
He said to Kairimubayi:

"It seems you come from afar,
Your slim horse has been exhausted.
Are you totally five people?

Why do not you come forward when you see me?
Tell me what you want,
Are you the good food god sends me?
Do not tell lies and do not delay!"

Mardhan continued his talk,
His voice was as loud as the thunders.
Kairimubayi said to himself:
"What a giant man he is!
Compare with him,
Giant Kerzilwuyouk is shorter than half of him."

Kairimubayi bowed to him,
Said in a slow and low voice:
"I am a Kazakh,
I come from Kurpuldaik river,
I come specially to visit hero Mardhan.

"I have heard along time ago,
Mardhan is a hero.
My people are robbed,
It is hard to tell you my suffering.
I need report him my thoughts,
Then I will return to my hometown!
I have suffered from enough of disasters enemies thrust on me."

When Kairimubayi was talking,
The single-eyed giant rode on the cyan bull,
Gazed him sideways:
"I am Mardhan!
Tell me what you want to say."

He turned up his single eye ferociously:
"My father's name is Niskara,
I heard he was killed by Kirgiz people in Saylam lake.
"It was when I was little,
Kunwuerbayi headed his troops to a battle in Kankoler.

Kirgiz people descended disasters to them,
They were completely wiped out,
Kirgiz also robbed their weapons and horses.

"I want to go there from long time ago,
I want to avenge my father's murder.
If you come specially to look for me,
Let's go, I am willing to go and fight with you!"

Mardhan turned his cyan bull round,
Took a lead in the front.
He rode the cyan bull,
Galloped forward as fast as lightning.

Kairimubayi rode on his horse,
He fell behind of the cyan bull all the time.
This picked horse from Kazakh horses,
It staggered and sweated.

After a while,
A tent appeared in front of them.
When they got close to the tent,
Many people came out and welcomed Mardhan.

The bears, wolves, leopards,
Deer, tigers and high-nose argali,
They moved all preys into the tent.

People divided all the games,
Mardhan did not leave any to himself.

People prepared tea and food,
Treated Kairimubayi and his four companions,
They spread the food and tea in front of them.
Kairimubayi found out suddenly,
Jamgerchy's son Shaymanbet,
Was a servant to serve food and tea here.

Kairimubayi looked at Shaymanbet,
They did not know each other so they did not talk.

When they finished eating,
Mardhan said to them:
"You are from Kazakh,
What is your name? Why do not you tell me?"

When Mardhan asked him,
How Kairimubayi refused to respond.
He thought over about what he wanted to say:
"Mardhan, since I heard your name,
I always admire your prestige.
I go around everywhere to look for you,
I am so lucky I meet you in the mountain.

"Now, let us get to know each other,
I will tell you my complaints!
I have a lot of things to tell you from the Beyginning.

"In the time of Arokai and Shaoruk,
Kazakh and Karamark people were good neighbors.
Later, Kirgiz people Manas,
Seperated kazakh from Karamark.

"From central Asia to Pamir mountains,
He drove Karamark with no reason.
It seemed it was not enough to him,
He allied with Sorandick's son Almanbet.
He instigated all Arashi people,
And drove all Karamark and Khitan people,
Out of Beygin city.

"Lucky Khan Kunwuerbayi,
He is a great and majestic Khan,
He gathered Karamark and Khitan people together,
And built Koktukat city together.

"Troops of Kangayi,
Occupied Jilin and Chanbay mountain,
He drove Georoy into remote mountains.

"My majestic Mardhan,
I did not see but I heard a rumor:
After Manas and Almanbet died,
Semtay is administering Kirgiz now.

"He said there is no hero except him,
He is arrogant and blows his own horn.
He does not distinguish the right out of the wrong,
He has a black heart.

"He killed his grandfather and uncles,
And then swallowed him.
He killed hero Toltoy,
And invaded Jedigair people living in peace.

"Chinkogeo intended to marry Ayichulek,
Semtay occupied her by force.
How could hero Kunwuerbayi stand Semtay?
He called in Muradler and Niskara,
And Wushan to fight against Semtay.

"No one imagined none of the heroes came back alive!
Semtay defeated them,
And Semtay's warriors defeated them too.
Your father Niskara,
Was killed in Saylam lake.

"Slave Almanbet's son,
Descended disasters to many heroes.
He is an animal. He can turn his back to everyone,
He even does treat his family and fellows bad.

"My numerous Kazakh fellows,
Leave their homes and wander outside.
We become widow Acairkaichy's slaves,
We are under orphan Wumaitoy's control.

"Our sorrow is hard to explain,
I cannot bear the humiliation,
I made up lies and cheated Kazakh people,
Let them move to Kurpuldaik river.

"In order to find the famous hero,
I crossed the ocean regardless of my life.
I went to Jafan,
Visited giant Kerzilwuyouk.

"It seems I should not go to Jafan,
But, hero, please forgive me,
I did not see you before I went to Jafan.

"Kerzilwuyouk also recommend you to me in Jafan,
People said in one voice that you are a great hero.
In order to gather these heroes,
I climb over mountains to look for you.

"Giant Kerzilwuyouk has headed forty thousand troops,
They are going to Kurpuldaik river now.
I think if I do not come and report it to you,
I will be regretted to my good neighbor.
Respected hero giant Mardhan,
This is the reason why I come here.

"I heard something more serious,
Kunwuerbayi was defeated,
Muradler, Wushan and Niskara all died in the battle.
Khan Kunwuerbayi signed a contract with them,
To pay tribute to Kirgiz every year!

"Almanbet fled out of Beygin city in the past,
He said Kunwuerbayi forced him.
He had no help among Kazakh,
So he conquered Beygin city with Kirgiz people.

"Incapable Khitan Aisan Khan,
And his supporter general Aye,
Married two girls to Kirgiz brutal men,
And signed a contract with Kirgiz people,
To pay tribute and taxes to Kirgiz people.

"Greatly suffered Arashi people,
All expect to have a backbone like you!
Except this,
They also need a person like me,
Wise and eloquent and talented.

"Shaymanbet, make tea for you,
How long has he stayed here?
I see by myself just now,
He works busy around you.

"Because Kanchorao is too bad,
Because Khan has no true words,
Shaymanbet could not bear it,
Then he left his old father,
Fled away and came to you for help.

"I heard he persuaded Jamgerchy once,
His father did not want to leave his home.
I think Shaymanbet,
Had told you everything.
"Manas' son is a bloodsucker,
He is a black heart should be punished,
All his movements,
Descend disasters to people.

"I have suffered too much,
I do not know where I should start.
I have told you my misery,
Do you want to go with me?
To be our support.

"Before I went to Jafan,
Karakuli was taking charge of horses,
He herded near Kurpuldaik river.
He is a Karamark who wears black felt hat,
He is a Katal man.

"Karakuli once said to me:
'Every place you want to go,
You can go.'
He said he cleared Kurpuldaik river area out,
Let me move to Kokjanak and Kuyruktu prairie.
He said if Semtay heard Kazakh people fled and moved,
He certainly thinks it is a waste of livestock and property,
Perhaps he will come suddenly.
He said before I have troops recruited,
He will try his best to stop Semtay!

"I can come out without worrying anything this time,
Visited giant Kerzilwuyouk,
Then I come and visit you,
Unrivaled and respected Mardhan,
This is Karakuli's good idea.

"I must give you one more suggestion,
In order to avenge your father,
You must go and kill Semtay Khan,
Tie Krichorao and put him in jail,
Let Shaymanbet guard wild Kanchorao,
And you also must kill Bakay Khan.

"As long as you announce in public,

Let Kairimubayi be Arashi people's Khan,
Even if you ask me to die till then,
I will be willing to do it.

"If you think Wumaitoy is Khan's offspring,
You want to put him in power,
You can kill me immediately.

"If you avenge your father,
And let me administer Arashi people,
I can take hundreds of bags of money,
To you from Arashi people.

"If you are still not satisfied,
I will present you with beautiful Kirgiz girls.
You can marry as many as you want,
I must make you contented.

"Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek,
She is an unmatched fairy in the world,
She is Semtay's wife,
I can present her to you as a trophy.

"Shatimur's grandsaughter Chachykai,
She is the most beautiful one among women wearing thimbles,
You can let her be Wumaitoy's wife.
Krichorao's wife Kaliman,
If I can marry her,
What can we complain then?

"If all what I said can come true,
Then I will take out my gold and silver,
Let giant Kerzilwuyouk return to his homeland!"

Kairimubayi spoke in excitement,
He said with tears all over his face,
He said in a sobbing voice,

He cried sad for a long time.

Mardhan recalled his father's death,
Many thoughts passed through his mind:
"Shaymanbet has come here for many years,
I have not heard he complained about his hardships.

"My territory is in Jilin,
My throne is in Jilin too,
I cannot play and hunt in Yingan mountains everyday.
Since I am still young and strong,
I need avenge my father.

"I live in city in winter from three years ago,
Only during the time of Nuoruz month① each year,
I walk a fifty-day distance and come to Yingan mountains.
I hunt all kinds of birds and beasts,
I play in remote mountains.
Till September or October,
I go back into city.

"Kirgiz did not invade me,
But they were cursed and descended disasters to the world,
If they make me angry and I decide to go to battle,
Who dares to fight against me among Kirgiz people?

"I do not need Karamark troops,
I do not need Khitan and Kangayi heroes either,
Although my father sacrificed his life for them,
I do not need them to help me.

"I have a hundred thousand troops in Kaspan,
They are all capable and skillful soldiers and generals.
As long as I meet with giant Kerzilwuyouk,

① Nuoruz month: It refers to January in Kirgiz solar calendar, equivatent to spring equinox in lcndar Calendar.

Degrading Kirgiz must go to their end.

"I will go back to my hometown after that,
Live with my people,
On the land of my hometown,
I will mount the throne in Tonsha.

"Once I heard that,
Kunwuerbayi descended an endless disaster and misery,
To Khitan people.
I will call him to come to me,
Ask him to pay back the loss of these tribes,
And to pay back the blood debt of heroes that died in the disaster.

"If he makes me angry,
I will drive Karamark people to rock patch,
No wheat and no grass grow there.

"I will bring numerous troops,
Go and look for Khitan people's Aisan Khan.
I will weaken Khitan people's strength,
I will execute their Aisan Khan!

"Kairimubayi, you live here for a while first,
Let me deliver messages to Kaspan,
I will specify a route to them,
Let them meet us on the way."

Mardhan shouted like a thunder:
"From Khitan, Karamark to Kangayi,
From Kara Kalpark, Turkmen to Kirgiz,
From the sunrise east to sunset west,
All the land will be under my administration.

"Giant Kerzilwuyouk comes from Jafan,
His place is narrow and far away,
If he yields to me and obeys my rules,

I will give Karamark land to him to administer.

"If he does not support me as the leader,
I will spread his skin on rock and make it dry.
I will go and rob Jafan people living on the island,
I will make the whole world under my administration.
Aisan Khan thought he is powerful,
I will ask him to kneel to me with his hands crossing over his chest."

Mardhan howled,
Called his one hundred thousand troops in.
He wrote an order to his troops,
And asked Shaymanbet to deliver it:
"My one hundred thousand troops, let's go!
You need go along the bank of big rivers,
Along big Yingan mountains,
Finally get to Kurpuldaik river area."

Mardhan estimated the day his troops came,
And set out from small Yingan mountains.
Arranged to meet his coming troops,
At Kerlkechindak river.

Kairimubayi was blinded with greed,
He came to Kurpuldaik river excitedly.
Mardhan brought his one hundred thousand troops,
Giant Kerzilwuyouk brought forty thousand troops,
Kazakh people had ten thousand troops,
Troops of three tribes met in prairie.

Katal's son Karakuli,
Wanted to be a Khan to administer everything whole-heatedly.
He did not let Karamark people notice,
He did not let Kunwuerbayi notice either,
He drove sixty thousand troops,
To Kuyruktu and Kokjanak prairie.

Karakuli thought over day and night,
Calculated in his mind:
"Kerzilwuyouk and Mardhan,
They will descend disasters to Kirgiz people.

"They will make Semtay cry,
They will make Krichorao miserable,
They will make Kanchorao rebel,
They will catch and tie Bakay Khan,
They will drive Kanikai away,
They will make Ayichulek sad,
They will make Jalgezack lonely without any help,
They will make Baytaylak cry,
They will descend disaster to people!

"If I go to see Kerzilwuyouk and Mardhan,
And plead them to give me Suyunchy!
They must let me be Khan of Kazakh people.
People like Kairimubayi and Wumaitoy,
Committed crimes to their own people,
I will kill them and grind them."

Karakuli slept with horses,
But he had already been a Khan in his heart,
What he imagined was fabulous,
He dreamed himself to be the richest Khan in the world.
Let's put this aside,
See how blackhearted Karakuli,
Walked to his destiny.

Semtay Went out Alone and Caused the Trouble

Semtay Slept in the Fields and His Horse Was Stolen

Kirgiz people wore white felt hat,
Lived in Talas and Kankoler.
They were famous for their kindness and harmony,
Their reputation spread far.

Heroes Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Led their companions,
Went to Bozbel hill in Tashkent,
Hunted and played happily there.

They shot wild camels with crooked neck in Gobi desert,
Chased tigers in the woods.
Shot wolves on slopes,
Chased leopard in remote mountains.
Caught foxes in valley,
Trapped black bear in dense forest.
Shot gazelle in high hills,
Shot blue sheep on cliff,
Shot argali in high mountains,
And shot deer in pasture.

Bozbel was a wilderness with no people,
There were countless birds and beasts.
There were black-eared lions,
There were also many wild fat horses that did not bear colts.
Many of the birds and beasts were not known by people,
It was said there were wild men,
"Let's catch them!"
They discussed about it,

And they took forty to fifty companions,
Together with Baytaylak,
Galloped their horses into remote mountains.

When Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Went to hunt in Bozbel,
There were two strangers that came to Semtay.
They were Kirgiz people's offspring,
They lived in Kazakh Ayinla.
As Semtay's guests,
They talked with Khan.

These two people said:
"Kazakh people have moved,
But we do not know where they have moved to."
Heard their report,
Hero Semtay felt worried and restless.

He was anxious like a prodding ghost,
He planed in his mind right away:
"I will go and see Kazakh people,
Have they left their homeland?
Does God intend to punish Kazakh people?
Do they move to Kangayi prairie?

"Or these two people cheat me with lies,
In order to get something to eat.
Or they really come for sending me the news,
Does aunt Acairkaichy pass away?
Do these two guests cook up the story?
Do they wrongly say transfer to summer pasture into moving?

Semtay thought over the whole night,
He rode his horse and left home next morning.
He did not tell Bakay and Kanikai,
He did not discuss with Akun Khan's daughter Ayichulek.
Two Choraos were the only men that could give him suggestions,

But Krichorao and Kanchorao were out.

Semtay did a foolish thing,
Jalgezack's home was by the road,
Semtay even did not tell him and just left alone.

Damned Semtay,
He passed Alma-Ata and Altay,
In Sariarka city,
He did not stay and rest there,
He marched forward day and night,
He spent a long time on the way and he got to Kuyruktu prairie.

By the edge of Kokjanak,
He saw horses eating and prancing.

"So Kazakh people are herding here,
They drive horses to a desolate place,
They herd horses in prairie!
I will go to their Ayinla tonight and talk with herdsmen."

Semtay thought like this,
He tied the rein on a rock,
Took the saddle and cushion off the horse,
Put them under his head as a high pillow,
Lay on the green grass.
Semtay fell into deep sleep,
Nothing was his business at the moment.
When he slept in the field,
Bad luck came to him.

Semtay was in his good dream,
Katal's son Karakuli,
Came to him at the moment.

Buruler was tied on a rock,
Semtay lay in a lower place,

Karakuli did not see him.
Buruler was tied on the rock,
It pulled the rein apart and pranced on the hill.

Seeing Buruler was eating grass,
Karakuli should be punished by the promise,
He abandoned his dark brown mare,
Rode on Buruler and ran away in a hurry.

Careless Karakuli,
Did not watch the hoof marks on the ground,
He turned the horse round and ran up a mountain.

Karakuli sat on the slope,
Racked his brains and calculated:
"This is Semtay's Buruler steed,
How does it appear here suddenly?

"Did Kairimubayi send someone to go there,
And steal and drive the horse here?
Did the thief see me?
Did he feel panic so that he abandoned the horse and ran away?

"Almanbet's son Krichorao,
If he rides this horse,
He must ring the rein over his wrist.
Is it Chuwak's son Kanchorao?
He rides the horse and sees deer,
So he ties Buruler on the rock,
He goes to chase after the deer on foot?

"Does any beast come and try to eat the horse?
The horse is startled,
So it pulls the rein apart?
It runs here and I find it.

"Does Bakay's son young Baytaylak,

Ride on Buruler and come here?
Is Buruler startled?
Throws his master off to the ground,
And runs to this prairie?

"Is it Jamgerchy's son Shaymanbet?
He came to me two years ago,
Told me his complaints toward Semtay.
He was humiliated by Kanchorao once,
He is discontented to Kanchorao.

"Does he steal the horse?
Does he make Khan embarrassed deliberately?
'I am doing this to you. I will see what you can do?'

"Maybe he presents the horse to Kunwuerbayi,
Kunwuerbayi is an old man living in Koktukart,
He ties the horse on the gold pole by force,
The horse struggles to run back to Talas,
So it pulls the rein twisted by sheep skin apart.
Maybe it does not want to go back to hero Semtay,
It wants to make some trouble for its master.

"Ah, it is useless for me to think so much about it,
I would rather observe its hoof marks,
To see which way it comes from,
Than think confusedly here."

Karakuli was in the day-dreaming,
Let me talk about Semtay Khan.

Semtay lay in the low land,
He slept for eight days.
On the morning of the ninth day,
Clouds covered the sun.

Semtay woke up from his dreams,

But he did not see Tayibruler steed.
"Where is Tayibruler steed going?
I just slept for a while."

He looked at the rock he tied the horse,
The rein was pulled apart from the knot.
"So it goes to eat grass,
The broken rein is here."

Semtay did not watch the hoof marks of his horse,
He is such a stubborn but stupid person.
He carried his weapons and the saddle,
Climbed up onto a high mountain on foot.

He leaned to the hill slope,
Looked down the mountain,
Buruler and another horse were standing in front of the mountain.

Not far from those two horses,
Karakuli hid there,
But Semtay did not notice.
Look, how reckless he was,
He could not see others through all the time.

"Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Maybe they caught up with me,
But I was asleep,
So they led my horse away to play with me."

Semtay guessed this way,
But he did not observe the horse.
He sat on Kangayi place,
But he was not cautious about enemies.

Semtay thought:
"Once they hear my voice,
Warriors will come to me,

They will never leave me alone."

He shouted loudly: "Krichorao!"
He shouted loudly again: "Kanchorao!
"Where are you hiding? Come to see me!"

When the ear-deafening sound came out,
Karakuli was scared and he quivered all over,
He almost failed to stand up.
He narrowly made himself calm down,
He deserted his brown mare,
Rode on Buruler and fled in a hurry.
He hid in a concealed place,
He did not let Semtay see him.

Karakuli came to a concealed place to hide,
Suddenly he remembered he and Kairimubayi's talk:
"'If Semtay comes here,
I must cheat him.'
Now I get his Buruler steed,
I cannot go to Kangayi,
I cannot desert my horses either.

"I should let Semtay see me,
I will go toward the sunset direction.
Naïve Semtay,
He will not go to the herd of horses,
And choose a fine horse to ride.
He will ride the dark brown mare,
Chase after me.

"I should appear in his front sometimes,
I will cheat him and let him waste time.
I cannot go in the conspicuous place,
To avoid being shot by him.

"Kairimubayi has gone to Jafan,

He will provoke a war in Talas.
I will wait for him to come back from Jafan,
I will go welcome him and meet him."

It happened like what Karakuli imagined,
Semtay chased after him.
He rode the dark brown mare,
Wore Kymantay cloak.
He did not know Karakuli,
He considered him as his companion Kanchorao.

Semtay guessed like this:
"Since we came back from Bozbel,
Krichorao always arranges war-weary Kanchorao to me,
Makes him follow me everywhere.
Maybe he is on the way coming,
So he rides this Karamark mare.

"If he is an enemy,
When I was sleeping in the wilderness,
Did not he kill me then?
He is going to Talas now,
When we get to Talas,
I must punish him seriously!

"Does he collude with Bakay,
Drive my horse away deliberately to let me walk?
If it is true like this,
I will punish them seriously.

"This guy is tall and his waist is thin,
Is he Jalgezack?
Just because I did not let him go with me,
When I went to Altay.

"So he follows me secretly,
Drives my horse away deliberately.

This sucking guy,
How he can crack such a joke on me!"

Semtay thought like this,
He did not doubt at all.
He lurched by on the dark brown mare,
He had his head down dejectedly.

He did not notice whose place he was in,
He did not pay attention to hoof marks,
He did not doubt Khitan people,
He did not pay attention to Buruler's hoof marks,
He did not doubt Karamark people.

He continued going forward for three days,
He went directly to Talas.

Suddenly, the figure of Buruler,
Appeared in Semtay's sight.
"I will beat him to death no matter who he is!"
Semtay held Ackelty gun in his hand.

Karakuli Plotted a Failed Attempt to Kill Khan and He Died

Karakuli appeared in his sight at intervals,
He made a correct guess of Semtay's feeling.
He hid Buruler in a concealed place,
He hid behind a rock too.

Karakuli shouted loudly:
Hey, big brother Semtay,
I am Kanchorao. Your servant!
My father once went on expedition together with your father,
I am Hero Chuwak's son.

"Bakay and Krichorao,
Worried you will go alone,
So they especially sent me to follow you.
I accepted their order,
So I took your magical steed away.

"You can go back to Talas to look for me,
I dare not go back to you.
Bakay Khan warned me,
'Semtay will not listen to you,
You have to steal his horse Buruler.'

"He has heard Kazakh rebelled,
A legend of Kazakh passes like this,
There is a giant called Kerzilwuyouk,
He is a peerless hero in the world.

"Niskara's son Mardhan,

Lives in Jilin,
He is a brave hero too.
Kazakh people spend a lot of money,
Buy these two heroes in.

"Your cousin Wumaitoy,
He should get God's severe punishment,
It was last summer,
He moved Kazakh into Amur desert.

"Kangayi and Jafan people all turn out,
None of the men is left at home.
Kazakh people also make up their minds:
'We will go and kill all Kirgiz people!'
Karamark people shout too:
'This is our place!'
They have occupied Kuyruktu.

"I cannot return the horse to you,
I have told you all I have heard.
We should return to Talas quickly,
Call Kirgiz people in,
And start a life-and-death fight,
With invading giants and powerful enemies.

"Bakay sent me to tell you this.
Ok, goodbye!"
He galloped the horse away as he finished his words.

Karakuli thought:
"Semtay must go to Talas,
I can go to Kurpuldaik river,
Meet Kairimubayi there.

"When he sees Buruler steed,
And listen to what I will tell him,
He will lead a large group of people,

Before Semtay gets to Talas,
At Arpa in Aksay,
He can catch up with Semtay."

This cunning guy,
Thought over about these tricks,
Katal's son Karakuli,
He was a person with such evil thoughts.

Semtay heard what Karakuli told him,
He went directly to Talas.
"Kanchorao will not accompany me,
He has galloped toward Talas.
What Bakay said is true,
I must go day and night without a rest,
Return to Talas as soon as possible.

"I will take my Buruler back,
Twist Kanchorao's dove-size neck.
If I cannot do what I say,
I vow I will not stop!"
Semtay thought like this,
Galloped forward without a stop.

Karakuli cheated Semtay,
This bastard got a new trick in his heart:
"I will follow him,
I will find a chance and kill him!
He rides on a weak and bony mare,
It will be exhausted in five days.

"When the mare gets exhausted,
Then I can challenge him!
I will cut Semtay's head off,
Let him go to hell fast.
"'Karakuli kills Semtay alone!'
Let me leave such a reputation in the world.

I will tie his head on my pommel,
And present it to respected Kunwuerbayi.

"From Altay mountain,
To Tianshan mountain,
To Pamirs in the south,
To Ural Mountains in the west,
To the edge of ice sea in the north,
In the center of these places,
There is vast plain of central Asia.
Let me be the biggest Khan in the world,
Let me live like a lord.

"Let Khurasan, Afghan,
Jedigair and Yisfahan,
Buhara, Chaychuy and Shankay,
Transfer into deserted and wasted lands,
I will erase the names of these places!

"'These are Kirgiz people's lands!'
I will destroy stone steles carved with these words.
As long as Semtay dies,
No one dare turn against me.

"Almanbet's son Krichorao,
No matter how powerful and skillful he is,
He will feel scared about my prestige!

"I will go to Krym,
I will kill all Kara Kalpark, Turkmen,
Chelgan and Nuoyi people.
I will kill all these people mercilessly,
Heroes who are with Semtay,
And meet him everyday;
Koshaoyi's son Jalgezack,
A hero full of vigor;
Bakay's son,

Little hero Baytaylak;
Kanikai and Ayichulek,
Who bring disasters to people;
Old guy Bakay,
With white beard;
And Chuwak's son,
Crazy bloodsucker Kanchorao.

"In central Asia,
Even if it seldom snows in winter,
I will occupy this place.
I will build my castle in Kochykor,
Mount the throne there,
And hold a grand ceremony.
I will make a noise in the world,
It is such a fabulous idea.

"I am behind Semtay,
I will follow him tight.
To Sariarka hill,
The mare will get very tired,
I will kill Semtay there!"

Karakuli's destiny was coming,
He had such an evil trick.
He did not visit Kunwuerbayi,
He did not send messages to Kazakh people either.
Karakuli turned his horse round,
Chased after Semtay tight.

Semtay went in the front,
And Karakuli chased after him.
He wanted to kill Semtay whole heartedly,
He wanted to show his heroic action.
Giant Kerzilwuyouk,
Single-eyed hero Mardhan,
Wumaitoy and Kairimubayi,

They headed hundreds of thousands of troops,
Stationed by the side of Kurpuldaik river.

Let me put this story aside,
Let's listen to the story about,
Krichorao and Kanchorao hunting in Bozbel.

Heroes came to Bozbel mountain,
Hunted and climbed over mountains.
They shot eight tigers,
Caught a fat black bear alive.

They hunted a hundred and one male deer with sixty forked antlers,
One thousand male argali lost their lives.
Wild goats and female argali,
You did not know how many of them lost their lives.

They hunted eighty leopards,
Forty five wild horses,
Beasts there had lived a free life for years,
But they lost their lives suddenly.

They hunted camels of crooked neck,
They hunted jackals and wolves.
Many of otters, foxes, and lynxes,
Were also shot to death.

They killed five high-nose antelopes,
Killed deer in forest.
Beasts exposed their teeth,
And creatures ate grass,
Many of them lost their lives,
Beast skins were carried on camel back.
They hunted two snow leopards,
Killed seven lions.
Wild geese, female cranes, and male cranes,
Birds that wandered in lake,

Also failed to escape.

Feather of wild chickens and geese was plucked,
And was made into pillows.
They hunted six flashing silver mice,
They could not jump anymore.

Heroes hunted in Bozbel,
They lived there for four months and ten days.
They carried two hundred and eighty-four beast skins,
And set out toward Talas.

They hunted in Bozbel,
They spent two months on their way to go and come back.

The captain leading them,
Was Krichorao, lion of Khitan people.

Heroes got plenty of games,
They returned to Talas.

Kirgiz people all came up,
"Give me some gifts. I want some gifts!"
The old received precious bear skins,
Others got wolves skins and foxes skins.

Energy failed men received deer antlers,
Craftsmen made sheaths and saddles,
In order to knit saddle parts,
They took deer skins and wild goat skin.

Girls received otter skins,
They talked happily.
"Use Manat cloth as a cover,
Make a beautiful otter skin hat to wear."

The young held fox skins and badger skins in their hands,

"It is good to make a leather coat!"
Young men fought over mink skins:
"This skin is most suitable for making collar!"
Middle-aged men counted four leopard skins:
"These are enough for making a leather gown!"

Lynx skins and tiger skins,
Snow leopard skins and lion skins,
They did not give to anyone,
And no one asked for these skins either.
Six lion skins,
Were left to Semtay.

There were eight tiger skins,
They presented them to Kanikai, Bakay, and Jamgerchy.
Baytaylak received mink skins,
Krichorao and Kanchorao left lynx skins to themselves.
Wild duck feather like cashmere,
Was saved for Ayichulek as a gift.

"We take this to make skirt edge!"
Women took sea otter skins and silver mouse skins away.
"We are going to make duck feather pillows!"
Girls and married ladies put duck feather in their bags.

People asked for gifts all got gifts,
People did not ask for it was forgotten.
Beauty Chachykai did not get any gift,
She stayed in her palace alone.

"Why does not our big brother come?"
Krichorao and Kanchorao thought.
They carried wild duck feather,
And six lion skins,
For the sake of majestic Semtay Khan,
They took it to Ayichulek's palace in person.

Ayichulek was at home,
But they did not see Khan Semtay.
Warrior Krichorao asked:
"Sister-in-law, where is our big brother?"

When Krichorao asked her,
Ayichulek anwered him like this:
"Your big brother rode his horse and left,
He has gone more than three months.
I thought he went to look for you two,
So I stay at home at ease.
Now you two are back,
How you two do not know where he is?"

Before Ayichulek finished her words,
Krichorao said worriedly:
"Sister-in-law, after we left,
Did any strangers come here?"

"Kids, what strangers?
I did not know at all.
There was one night,
He went to Chachykai's palace,
Sister Chachykai may know it,
He rode his horse and left from there!"

"Let's go to pampered sister-in-law Chachykai's palace,
Ask her about Semtay Khan's news,
If he has gone,
We should go and look for him immediately."
Two warriors discussed for a while,
And went to Chachykai's palace directly.
Two warriors walked there,
And murmured to each other:
"Ah, we give gifts out,
We should not forget her!"

Kanchorao said:
"It is not a serious thing!
Let's go to her palace first,
We will say nothing if she does not ask,
If she asks for gifts,
We send her lynx skins."
Kanchorao said like this,
And Krichorao had no different opinions.

Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Came to Chachykai's palace in a hurry.
Two warriors walked up and greeted:
"Sister-in-law, how are you?"

Chahcykai responded:
"You come back safely,
You went to hunt,
What gifts do you bring to me?"
Kanchorao answered her:
"Sister-in-law, we choose some lynx skins,
We will send them here specially!"

Chachykai's face suddenly changed,
She gazed her angry eyes at them,
She gave a snort:
"You carry baby camel-size wild duck feather bag,
Give it to Ayichulek in a hurry.

"You have forgotten me,
But pretend you still remember me.
You cannot find your big brother,
That is the reason you come to my palace.
"What do I do with Lynx skins?
Do not I lack Lynx skins?
Tomorrow's sheep tail,
Is not as good as today's sheep lung.
This is a saying ancestors left,

Do not fool yourselves as well as others.

"Man who marries two ladies,
Will not sleep in one home two days in a row.

"Two strange Kirgiz came that day,
They talked about Kazakh issues,
They came from a Kazakh village.
I sat in the honor seat,
And asked the cook to prepare food.

"Your big brother sat here,
He talked with the guests.
I did not pay attention to what they said,
They talked about Kazakh.

"Next morning,
Semtay packed up with his weapons,
He set out without having breakfast.
I asked him: 'Are you going?'
It seemed he did not hear it,
He treated me cold.

"If Ayichulek asks him,
He must answer happily.
Your big brother is cold to me,
You hunt games,
Also forget me,
Anything good is not for me!"

Chachykai complained to warriors,
Ayichulek walked in,
Carried wild duck feather in her hands:
"Sister, you are venerable!
They sent seven lion skins,
And baby camel like wild duck feather,
To Khan Semtay's palace.

I keep seven lion skins to Khan,
You are bigger than me according to the custom,
Please accept the duck feather!"

When Chulek said this,
Chachykai panted and could not say a word,
Her face turned from white to red,
She looked at Ayichulek with a frightened look,
And took the duck feather over.

Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Walked into the door quietly.
From the night till second morning,
Krichorao did not close his eyes.

Next morning,
Kanchorao and Krichorao,
And old Bakay,
They discussed secretly.

They did not tell anyone else,
They three rode horses and set out together,
Decided to look for Semtay.
They went on uneven places,
They galloped forward without caring of their horses.

They went along Arat mountain,
Galloped toward Sariarka.
Three heroes did not get off their horses,
Directly arrived at Tikaichy's Karasu river.

Krichorao observed carefully,
On the treaded grass,
They found Buruler's hoof marks.

Krichorao said excitedly:
"Dear Kanchorao, uncle Bakay,

Do you see that?
This is the mud Buruler's hooves turned,
There are its hoof marks.

"On that muddy place over there,
There are another horse's hoof marks.
Khan comes here alone,
Does he meet ferocious enemies?

"The hoof marks in the mud,
Look like he passed this morning.
Does Khan lose his Buruler steed?
The thief dare not get close to him,
So follows him and watches.

"If Semtay rides his Buruler steed,
He would not fear the enemy.
If he does not have accident happen,
He would not stay out for four months."

When Krichorao said this,
Kanchorao watched the hoof marks carefully:
"What Krichorao said is right,
The hoof marks here are not stallion's marks,
They are mare's marks.

"The shape is round,
It is not stallion's orbit.
The marks do not have hollow centers,
They are all flat.

"We'd better look for him immediately,
Rather than waste time here.
We two search the north and south side separately,
Let Bakay Khan search in the flat place.

"If Semtay rides on Buruler steed,

He is big and tall in great state,
Let's go and welcome him.
If he loses his horse,
Fall into a difficult position,
Then we will go and rescue him."

Kanchorao whipped his horse and went to the south side,
Krichorao galloped in the north side,
Old Bakay Khan,
Searched in flat place.
When it got afternoon,
Bakay arrived at Karasu river.

In Manas time,
When Koktoy's ceremony was held,
Peerless hero Manas,
Surrounded Kangayi people here.

When it went dark,
Bakay searched carefully,
He found Semtay was in the front,
He led an exhausted mare.

Suddenly a man appeared,
Rushed to Semtay from his back.
It was Karakuli,
He had followed for several days.

Karakuli calculated in his mind:
"Semtay's horse cannot go anymore,
He has walked for two days,
He has been exhausted.

"I cannot waste this good opportunity,
I will prick him down here.
I will take his silk coat armor off,
Cut his head off.

I will whip Buruler and gallop the whole night,
Before the morning comes,
I will get to Kuyruktu river."

Karakuli did not see Bakay,
Did not see Krichorao,
Did not see Kanchorao either,
Three heroes were all not found.

In his full strength,
Karakuli pricked Semtay from his back secretly.

Bakay hit on an idea when he saw this,
He shouted the name Manas loudly.

Heard the name of Manas,
Karakuli felt troubled and uneasy suddenly,
He drew his spear back,
Did not dare to prick Semtay down.

"Does lion Krichorao come?
Is my end waiting for me today?"
Karakuli was anxious,
He saw white Aktilk horse,
But he mistook Surkoyun steed for it,
He fled toward the north side in a hurry.

When heard the shout from Bakay,
Kanchorao hid by the rodeside immediately.
Panic-stricken Karakuli,
Right came to the front of Kanchorao.

It was the right time,
That panic Karakuli came to him.
Hero Kanchorao pricked his long spear,
Poked Karakuli off the steed.

Extremely angry warrior Kanchorao,
Pricked him to one spear shot distance away.
He did not talk to him,
Just cut his head off.

Buruler steed saw Kanchorao,
It was like the newborn colt saw the mare,
It was missing its family.
Kanchorao led Buruler steed,
Toward Bakay's direction,
He came to low grassland.

Bakay was in the front,
Krichorao was in the south side,
And Khan Semtay was in a difficult situation,
Let's listen to their information.

Two Choraos Were Wrongly Accused and Swore and Bakay Could Not Explain in a Word

Bakay Khan was very yhappy,
He came to Semtay.
Semtay did not greet Bakay,
But shouted to him loudly and impolitely:
"Uncle, you are such a great man,
Why do you descend the heavy disaster,
On me, your orphan nephew?!

"I am not a lucky kid,
From twelve years old to now,
You have tested me for thirty two times!
Let such tests dry out,
This is a heavy disaster to me!

"Why did not instigate slave Kanchorao,
To steal my Buruler steed?
You make me go on foot for several days,
Why do you make me suffer this!"

Semtay had not finished his words,
Krichorao came to them.
When Semtay saw Krichorao,
He shouted at him loudly:
"Krichorao, I will punish you!"

Semtay was like a devil,
He was crazy like he would drink Poison as water,
He was like to drink poison as honey.

Almanbet's son Krichorao,
He did everything properly.
People who were as wise as him,
Were hard to find in the world.

He saw Semtay's expression,
Persuaded Semtay Khan patiently,
His words were as sweet as honey.

"Dear big brother, it is you lost the horse,
It is you cheated by Karakuli.
If you tell others you are cheated,
All people in the world will laugh at you,
They will say Manas' son Semtay,
Was cheated and lost his horse and walked on foot.

"You mistakenly think you went out alone without telling us,
We just take your horse away,
This is your guess.
If uncle Bakay does not come in time,
You will die in a nobody's hand.
You have already seen this,
But you said such unreasonable words to us.

"We came back from the hunting from Bozbel,
We heard you have gone for days,
We were all worried about you.
We passed Alay, Arpa, Aksay,
Sariarka, Karkla.
We passed Koytash where are full of grass,
We crossed the dangerous roads of Chakerkorum and Tayhak,
Crossed Talakay and Wulan,
We climbed over five mountains in one day.

"In Kaitichy river rapids,
We saw Buruler's hoof marks like stoves.
Seeing Buruler's hoof marks,

A sense of unease grew in our hearts.

"We all guessed secretly,
Your steed had been exchanged.
You rode on a mare too weak to go to battle,
We judged like this when we saw the hoof marks.

"At the turning corner of the south side,
Kanchorao went there to intercept.
In order not to let the enemy escape from the north side,
I, Krichorao, was waiting there.
In order to continue to chase,
Uncle Bakay searched in the flat places.

"I heard Bakay's shout,
So I galloped my horse and came here immediately.

"When I watched carefully,
I heard warrior Kanchorao shouting.
Kanchorao cut the enemy's head off,
He probably did not ask any questions."

Krichorao did a lot of explaining,
Semtay was still stubbornly angry toward them.
Krichorao had no alternative,
But to vow in front of Khan:
"Our wise Khan,
If anything I said is proved not true,
Let the shining sun punish me,
Let the dark night punish me!

"Our honorable Khan,
If we cherish any little evil thoughts to you,
Let sage Manas' white tomb,
Punish me!
Let Kanikai's milk I ate,
Punish me!

Let my Surkoyun steed,
Punish me!
Let Ackelty gun bullets used to shoot enemies,
Punish me!

"My big brother,
If I am unfaithful to you,
Let the spear point that pricked countless enemies,
And scared enemies out of their wits,
Punish me!
Let the crescent axe my father left,
The wound would not recover once got cut by it,
Enemies would not recover once got cut by it,
Let it punish me!

"Big brother, we ate the same mother's milk,
If I betray you,
Let all warnings you told punish me!
Let the salt from Alakoler lake,
Punish me!"

Krichorao felt deeply grieved and vowed to him,
But Semtay still blamed him severely.
He had angry fire that splashed in his eyes,
He had Buldurshun whip in his hand.
Right at the moment,
Kanchorao carried Karakuli's head,
Whipped his horse toward them.

They three were afraid of Semtay,
It seemed day had turned into night.
Semtay's two eyes,
Were like two lights that splashed with flames.

Without being noticed by Semtay,
Bakay pulled Buruler steed to the back.
Kanchorao carried the head,

Came to Semtay in a hurry,
"Khan, please accept this handsome gift!"

Semtay saw warrior Kanchorao,
He was angrier and rebuked him:
"Which Karakuli's head?
How long are you still going to cheat me?
You killed an innocent person,
You made him die in vain.

"I will tie rope on your neck,
I will pull you, son of a bitch, to go everywhere.
If he really is Karakuli,
Why do not you catch him alive?

"You cheat me before my very eyes,
You think I am innocent and unreasonable!"
Semtay turned angrier and angrier,
He grasped the spear tight in his hand.

Marvelous hero Kanchorao thought:
"Let him swallow if he wants to eat me!"
His fly-like life was braced up immediately:
"No matter when it is,
You always doubt us.
Do Kanchorao and Krichorao,
Play tricks on you?

"Without we two warriors,
On the day,
When Chinkogeo rode the black-spotted horse and shot you secretly,
You had already been shot dead!

"Wise Kunwuerbayi,
He came to your place from afar,
Besieged you in the city tightly,
You were too scared to do anything but sigh.

In the days you were besieged,
We two warriors went to rescue you.

"We care for you all the time everyday,
Why do you still force us to vow to you again and again?
You can ask uncle Bakay about this,
We would rather give you our lives,
Than continue to live hard like this.

"If you do not trust me,
If you do not see my achievement,
Why do I still follow you?
Why do I kill Karakuli?
I would rather ally with him,
And go to Kangayi with him,
Than let you torture me here.

"Semtay Khan, please believe,
Your two warriors make achievements for you,
We kill all people mercilessly,
That make enemies with you.
Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Are willing to die for you at any time.

"Ayichulek caught your white eagle,
You blamed us for this.
As teenagers,
We risked our lives,
Fought bravely against,
Mountain-size hero Toltoy and Chinkogeo.
We put our lives in your hands from then on,
Everything we do,
Is for you, Khan!
Is for your throne and your land!
"Today, to loyal Choraos,
You gave us a hard time and rebuked us unstoppably.
You can kill us if you like to,

But how can you desert uncle Bakay?

"It is ok if you want to kill Bakay,
But he is your father's friend and they bit bullets and vowed together,
How can you desert your father?
You can rebuke us at will,
But you were cheated by Karakuli,
How do not you think about your own fault?

"Mother Kanikai's white milk,
You ate first,
Then we two ate it,
What sacred milk!
How can you desert her sacred milk?

"It is your power as a Khan if you want to kill Kanchorao,
But we once killed a white mare,
Put our arms into the blood and vowed together,
How can you desert such vow?
It is your power as a Khan if you want to kill Krichorao too,
But you once broke willow twigs apart and vowed,
How can you desert your vow?

"The sky is far but the earth is near,
I only mention what happened in the past.
Big brother, please believe us!
Do not we do all these for you?

"Big brother, we keep each other company,
Khan, you are our backbone,
If we do anything bad to you,
Let the earth full of grass punish me,
Let the sky over our head punish me,
Let rivers and lakes punish me,
Let desolate desert punish me.

"If we cherish any evil thoughts toward you:

Let spreading weed punish me,
Let the moon that makes the night bright punish me,
Let snow and rain that turn the earth green punish me,
Let Arat mountain as a father punish me!

"If we tell lies to you:
Let the white swan that flies in the sky punish me,
Let the battle flag that shines in the sunshine punish me,
Let sugar and honey punish me,
Let delicious horse milk and strong tea punish me!

"I am an orphan, and I am a servant,
You brought me up into an eagle.
You said I cheated you of your horse,
Why do I make you sad?
I would rather die under your stick,
Than let you doubt us like this!
Send us to the place we never can come back,
From this bright world!

"Our hero Manas had gone,
But Kirgiz with white felt hat will exist forever.
Even if you kill Kanchorao and Krichorao,
It will do nothing bad to great Kirgiz people.
Even if we die wrongly,
One day it will be cleared.

"All what you have said today,
Confuse right and wrong,
You make us very sad.
Please give me the fuse of Ackelty gun,
Let me bite it to show the loyalty to you,
If I preserve my life at all costs,
I would rather let my opium-size tiny life,
Be taken away happily."

Kanchorao complained in a tearful voice,

Bakay listened to him and got emotionally touched,
His silver beard shook.
He consoled two warriors,
Tried to erase the pain in their hearts.
"Ah, What happened to you today?
How strange you are today!
You said so many words that were hard to pour out,
I said nothing behind you.

"Hey, Semtay!
Why do you make them so sad?
You were cheated by Karakuli,
Why do not you find your fault!

"Hey, you did not tell any of us,
You just left alone,
What was it about?
You do not think about two warriors' difficulty:
They guard you all the time,
They care for you day and night,
Why do not you tell them when you have something to do.
Once there is an accident that happens on you,
How can they take that responsibility?

"They are the pillars you can depend on,
How can you destroy your own pillars?
You are like a stupid person,
What happened to you, Semtay?

"Do you think heroes had gone to Bozbel,
They went to hunt in remote mountains,
You could not tell them face-to-face.
To Bakay, this old man,
Do you think it is not necessary to tell me?

"You only allow yourself to have a lung,
But do not allow others to have bellies,

My wise Khan,
Whose rule is it?
You should know, as long as we come out of mother's belly,
When we open eyes and everyone is equal in this world.

"Semtay, you are wrong,
You should not rebuke those two young men at your will.
You also do something wrong,
You should not bawl at us angrily.

"Semtay, black mane wolf,
What you did made me disappointed.
I am in your village indeed,
I am around you all the time,
But you turn a blind eye to me,
You look down your nose at everybody!

"My kid Semtay,
Now you finally get rid of the enemy.
Cannot you wait for the warriors to finish their words first,
Then lose your temper?"

Bakay turned his horse round suddenly,
Whipped his horse and said angrily:
"I am going now, go back to Talas!
I am going to visit Manas' grave,
I will go back to Talas this very night!"

Semtay heard Bakay's words,
He felt his world became so narrow suddenly.
At the moment when Bakay turned his horse round,
Semtay grasped Bakay's rein,
Said to Bakay:
"My dear uncle Bakay!
Please listen to me patiently.
You are right to get angry with me!

"I was at home one day,
Two Kirgiz came suddenly,
They lived in the Kazakh village.
They reported some information to me,
They did not say it clearly,
It seemed they said Kazakh people had moved.

"I was worried as I heard what they said,
In order to scout Kazakh people's situation,
I rode on my horse and set out immediately.
I did not have time to do anything,
So I did not report it to you.

"I did not go to Alma-Ata, Altay,
I did not go to Sariarka city either.
When I arrived at Kuyruktu,
I tied Buruler on a rock,
And fell to sleep in the wilderness.

"When I woke up,
I did not see Buruler by the side.

"I climbed on a hill,
Watched around.
On a green grassland,
I saw Buruler was there.

"I thought Krichorao and Kanchorao,
Would look for me following the hoof marks,
Because I did not tell them and left alone.
I thought maybe these two fools played a joke with me,
They cut my horse rein deliberately.
"I thought, warriors would not leave me alone,
So I shouted loudly:
'I am your big brother,
Lead Buruler to me now!'

"After I shouted,
A figure appeared in my sight.
He abandoned this dark brown mare,
Rode on my Buruler,
Galloped to the concealed places.

"I thought like this at the moment:
'They are really joking me!'
When I caught up with it,
I saw this brown mare,
The saddle and other equipments,
They are all in the Karamark style.

"I walked down the hill,
There were a herd of horses eating grass.
I thought like this at the moment:
'Warriors just play with me,
They will return my horse later!'

"I did not pay attention to the eating horses,
I followed that figure,
I thought as long as I followed him,
He would lead me back home.

"Three days have passed,
We arrived at Sariarka hill,
I got impatient,
I wanted to beat this bastard to death.

"When I took the gun off my shoulder,
The figure in the front shouted to me loudly:
'Big brother, I am Kanchorao,
Bakay and Krichorao sent me here.
Bakay heard a bad news,
He heard that Kazakh people moved to Shiber.
God is going to punish Kazakh people,
It is Azmenkai's son Kairimubayi,

He cheated Kazakh people.'

"'Azmenkai's son Kairimubayi,
He crosses ocean and goes to Jafan
He invites giant Kerzilwuyouk,
And forty thousand troops.
They come to Kurpuldaik,
And station by the riverside.'

"'Besides, Kairimubayi also invites,
Niskara's son Mardhan.
They together with Kazakh people,
Are ready to declare a war against Talas.'

"'Bakay heard this news,
Discussed with Krichorao immediately,
Then they send me to look for you.
He said, if your big brother does not listen to you,
You will try your best,
To lead his magical steed Buruler back.'

"He also said: 'I will go to Talas,
Call all Kirgiz people in to prepare for the war.'
He finished and rode my Buruler and left,
And said let me meet him in Talas.

"What he said sounded clear and logical,
His voice is the same as Kanchorao's,
How could I not believe?

"I kept going for three days,
The mare has been exhausted.
I have to lead it and walk forward,
I have walked for two days and two nights.

"Till the evening was coming,
Suddenly I heard the shout Manas.

I heard it was uncle's voice,
I knew you come in person,
The shout was a warning to me,
Asked me to be careful.

"When I pushed the panic button,
Did not know what had happened.
This was the reason,
Why I got angry with two warriors.

"Uncle, my respected elder,
You are my savior, and you are my lucky star.
Jagurp wanted to poison me in the past,
It was you that saved my life.

"I almost got killed this time,
You saved me for the second time.
Uncle, you said to Semtay that you are going!
You would rather say I have betrayed Manas's spirit!
You can say like this,
And then leave me."

Semtay said in a sad voice,
He blamed himself in his heart.
Faced with two warriors and elder Bakay,
He felt ashamed.
Heard Bakay was going to go,
Stubborn Semtay regretted very much:
"I should not blame the warriors,
Force them to swear to me again and again.
I am an unlucky person,
Why do I come to this world uselessly?"

Semtay regretted,
Krichorao was going to say some cold words.
Wise elder Bakay,
He read Krichorao's mind immediately.

"My kids, do not humiliate yourself,
You have wrangled in the wilderness for a long time.
You still have important things to do.
Do you have anything else to say?

"Semtay rides on your Buruler right now,
Krichorao, you lead the way in the front,
Kanchorao follows,
We must arrive at Kaitichy mountain quickly.

"What Karakuli told Semtay,
Is true.
Kazakh horses coming from afar,
Went along the riverbank and maybe have got Kaitichy river.

Bakay Khan gave out his order,
Warriors rode horses and galloped toward Kaitichy river rapids.
It was a whole day distance,
They only used the time of a meal.

Now, let's put this aside,
Listen to how heroes accept the battle.