国家出版基金项目
NATIONAL PUBLICATION FOUNDATION

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

مانا س

MANAS

BOOK ONE

MANAS

Volume Four

XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING GROUP
XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING HOUSE

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

ماناس

MANAS

BOOK ONE

MANAS

Volume Four

Book One

Manas

Book Two

Semtaiy

Book Three

Seytek

Book Four

Kenainim

Book Five

Saiyit

Book Six

Aslebacha and Bekbacha

Book Seven

Sombilek

Book Eight

Chigertey

ISBN 978-7-228-16998-6

定价：300.00元

THE KIRGIZ'S HEROIC EPIC OF CHINA

ماناس

MANAS

BOOK ONE · MANAS

Volume Four

Singing: Jusup Mamay
Editing: Manas Translation Editing and Publication Committee
Translating: Hongyan Li, Gary Chou, Greg Meeks

XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING GROUP
XINJIANG PEOPLE'S PUBLISHING HOUSE

Volume Four

Manas fought Kunwuer Bayi 1359

Tangled Fight Along Ajat Bank 1361

Manas Fought Against Enemy Leader Kunwuer 1401

Kunwuer Bayi Lost and Fled 1413

Both Sides' Camps Before the Battle 1434

The Death of Aoronko and Bolanchu 1452

The fight Between Generals of Both Sides 1485

Kunwuer Bayi Lost Seven Generals 1497

Chuwak Captured Sons of Forty Generals 1527

Kunwuer Hatched a Bigger Plot 1565

Aisanhan lost and Sued for Peace 1567

Gulistan and Kankled Were Born 1579

Manas Fell to a Plot of Kunwuer Bayi 1588

Kunwuer Invited Marksman for Help 1608

Hero Kokcher Sacrificed His Life in the Battle 1629

The Death of Hero Manas 1653

Heroes Sacrificed Their Lives in the Battlefield 1655

Hero Manas Bade Farewell to the World 1707

Postscript 1769

Manas fought Kunwuer Bayi

Tangled Fight Along Ajat Bank

Though he was wise and clever,
Though he was matchlessly brave and capable,
Though he could swallow his rivals,
Like a powerful dragon;
Though he could knead iron plate,
Like a dough;
Though he was skilled of no rivals,
Brave hero Sirak was alone by himself,
How he could defeat numerous enemies.

Almanbet turned round,
Looked ahead,
He saw Bolanchu riding on a steed with black mane,
Whipped and spurred,
Chased by the side of hero Sirak,
Prepared to stab Sirak secretly.

Almanbet got an idea suddenly,
He made a scaring loud shout:
"Sirak,
Please be careful,
Enemy has approached by your side,
How you have still not turned round yet.
You should poke the sharp spear,
In the heart of the enemy."

Sirak heard the shouting,
Knew there was a dangerous enemy by his side,

As long as he reminded the steed gently,
The steed would understand what he wanted,
Then it would turn round and jump away from the danger.

Hero Sirak knocked the right armpit of the steed,
With his knee right away,
Steed Tilkezler,
Leaped and dodged aside like a hare.

Bolanchu kept chasing,
Without knowing the secret.
He failed to hurt the hero secretly,
He failed to hold his halter too,
Then he exposed himself in front of Sirak completely.

Hero Sirak took the great chance,
Before Bolanchu could hold the halter and turn round,
Sirak had aimed at Bolanchu with his spear point,
Poked in the enemy's shoulder mercilessly.

Bolanchu rocked back and forth,
Like black hill of Kapuka,
From the back of dark grey horse,
Fell on the ground with his mouth down to dirt.

Enemies as dense as hails,
Were all well-trained and brave.
Like flood rushing down,
Like heavy shower pouring down,
Enemies jointly attacked from all directions.

There were countless heroes in Kangayi,
They were all tall and strong as mountains.
Numerous arrogant warriors,
As they faced these two Kirgiz heroes,
They fell off from horsebacks one after one,
They felt dizzy and senseless.

Artilleries rumbled and shook the earth,
Firelocks cracked deafeningly.
Dark grey steed led horse flock,
Galloped forward in panic.

Horsetails swung left and right,
Colts galloped after the horse flock,
Two-year-old colts whinnied,
Ran forward in flocks as rolling waves.

Those weak old horses,
Were left too far behind to be seen again;
Inferior horses that is fat but short in breath,
Had to be cut open on bellies with dagger.

Almanbet and Sirak drove the horse flock,
Urged loudly with no stop.
They drove the spreading horses,
Galloped toward their camp.

Right at this breathtaking moment,
Kandan's son giant Georoy,
As tall as a mountain,
Led fifty thousand troops,
Along Kezlerart avenue,
Arrived at the place where two armies fought.

Domineering hero Georoy,
Rebuked loudly and harshly,
As seeing panic-stricken generals of Kunwuer Bayi:
"You, such poor guys,
How you do not know how to stop horse flock.

"You, such noisy bastards,
How you could reckon Brute has a few people,
And they startled horse flock by accident,
Then you turn the situation into what it is now.

"Put out the fuses of your firelocks,
Stop beating the drums,
I will spur my steed ahead,
Stop the frightening horse flock."

Georoy urged the magical steed Achybudan,
Galloped forward regardless of his safety.

Kunwuer Bayi said like this at the moment:
"Ayi, Ayi, my Georoy,
Please hold the halter and stop for a while.
Brute people coming this time,
Are a group of heroes out of rules,
They did sneak attacks on us.

"They must give you a sudden attack,
Make you fall off the steed with your dignity in the dust;
Then they will take the chance,
Disable you by making you lose your arms and legs.

"If you are plotted by enemies,
Fall down in the dust,
It will be the biggest misfortune of yourself."

No matter how hard Kunwuer Bayi admonished,
Georoy still went on his own way.
He urged his mount Achybudan,
Sky-high dust rose up behind him.

He galloped ahead at top speed,
Rushed up to stop the horse flock.
He made himself exhausted from shouting,
But dark brown horses still ran wildly ahead.

Almanbet observed very carefully,
It seemed someone was trying to stop the horses.
Almanbet told himself silently:

"How the running horses make a little stop,
It seems someone is blocking in the front.
Maybe it is Georoy who comes on Achybudan,
And stopped the horses in the front.

"I need bend my body and lower my head,
Hide me at the side of Sariala steed,
Go into the dust secretly.
If I meet giant Georoy,
I will attack him secretly before he gets prepared,
Poke my spear out and make him down his horse,
Then take possession of his steed Achybudan.

"Ayimanboz is not strong enough,
I will present Achybudan to hero Manas.
Before Ackura comes back,
The hero can take it as his mount."

He bent and leaned on the chest of his mount,
Covered himself with the long mane of the steed,
Totally made himself hide in it,
Galloped ahead in the dust.
He raised his head suddenly at a place not far,
Almanbet shouted loudly and began to attack.

As hearing the sudden shout,
Georoy shook in panic.
Before he could turn his steed round,
Sharp spear point of Almanbet,
Had poked in his ribs.
Yurt-size giant Georoy,
Fell off from the back of Achybudan.

Right at the moment when Almanbet was bending over,
To pick up the halter,
Tonshakey's son Bozkertik,
Urged the horse and rushed toward Almanbet.

Strong and powerful Bozkertik,
Stabbed Almanbet from one side.

Soft ribs of one side of the body,
Was deeply poked in by the spear.
One-span long spear point poked deeply in the flesh,
One-finger thick blood spurted out,
Reddened the butt of the steed.
Brave Almanbet,
Moved a little on the saddle and made himself steady,
He clutched tight the neck of steed Sariala,
Lay on his stomach on the horseback.

Blood spurted out from his waist,
Running with no stop.
Almanbet panted heavily for the pain,
Shouted "Sirak" in his mouth ceaselessly.
The hero lost his head,
Did not know what to do at the moment.

At such critical moment,
How could a hero act?
That bloodsucking Bozkertik,
Picked the spear dropped aside,
Aimed the deadly spear point,
At the head of Almanbet.

Right at this critical moment,
Eagle Sirak arrived in time,
He poked with his spear,
In arrogant and powerful Bozkertik,
And made him off the steed like a straw.

Almanbet refreshed himself and opened his blurred eyes,
He saw Bozkertik who fell off the steed,
Staggering up from the ground.

Almanbet was burned with great fury,
He drew out the battleax,
Which was half-span wide,
And forged with Yisfahan pure steel.

Enemy's helmet had fallen,
His long neck exposed out.
Almanbet was absolutely furious,
He slashed at enemy's neck.

The head left the body and fell off aside,
Violent Bozkertik,
Finally walked to his death.

Among Kara Ketay people,
There was a Khan called Kanijarku,
He led his own troops,
Swarmed into the battlefield.
He had super strength and high skills,
He was a capable general among sixty warriors.

Like dense beetles,
Like ant colony moving forward,
The moving troops were like flesh flood.
Kanijarku dashed ahead,
Led his countless soldiers.

Almanbet bore the pain,
Opened his blurred eyes.
Poured powder on his wound,
Running blood stopped right away.

Facing the bastard as strong as a mule,
Seeing the capable general rushing ahead,
Heavily injured Almanbet,
Nerved himself and poked his spear out.

The spear point just hit the target,
It poked the enemy down on the ground.
Before Kanijarku came to himself,
Almanbet had drawn his battleax out,
Aimed at the head and slashed at it severely.

As the ax cut down, the brain splashed,
The hero's life disappeared from the human world.
Bozkertik was not lonely in the hell,
Kanijarku was on the way to accompany him.

Dust spread all over around,
There were one thousand in a wave of soldiers.
Dust swirled and covered the sun,
Countless troops,
Seemed to come to stamp the earth flat.

Sulaba's son Sorandick,
Counted one thousand soldiers as one,
He drove numerous soldiers and horses,
Marched forward arrogantly.

He was betrayed by his son,
He was worried and unhappy,
Directed hordes of troops,
Rushed to the battlefield aggressively.

As seeing Almanbet in the front,
Sorandick's face turned and eyes became gloomy,
Like the dark clouds before a storm,
Totally with no love between father and son,
Just marched ahead ferociously.

Before he could approach Almanbet,
Hero Sirak rushed out from aside and stopped him.

Sorandick nerved himself with the pale face,

A yurt-size hammer was lifted up high,
He tried to kill Almanbet with the hammer,
And carry the corpse of the unfilial son back home.
Before the high-lifted hammer fell,
Sirak had made a severe attack,
Sorandick fell off the steed,
His neck broke and body parted with the head.

Kangayi people rushed on,
Almanbet and Sirak were completely amuck,
Every person who fought against them,
Died without any suspense.

Let us put this aside,
Continue concentrating,
Listen to the situation,
Of Manas and Chuwak.

Lion Manas was very impatient,
Said to Chuwak like this:
"Chuwak, please listen carefully,
Two heroes went to investigate Begin,
Have no word at all for all these days,
I am so worried about them.
From the time they went till now,
I could not sleep at all.

"Hero, please go to the river,
Cut some soft and flexible willow twigs,
Choose a suitable place,
Make a bed out of them.
I need a rest,
To relieve my tiredness.

"Chuwak, my hero,
Please go to the top of the hill,
Watch the road to Begin carefully.

If there is any news,
Please report to me the truth immediately."

The luxuriant willow twigs,
Made a thick layer.
Saddle of Ayimanboz,
Was placed under the head as a pillow.
Hero lion Manas,
Rested on his side.

Chuwak rode on Koktikai steed,
Dashed toward the hill.
He climbed up on the top,
Suddenly he saw the spreading troops.

He swayed the telescope left and right,
Tried to figure out the information of enemy.
The enemies coming for battle,
Were in nervous number.

The earth was boundless,
In the vast Gobi desert,
Flying flags were even denser than soldiers.
Took a careful watch of all soldiers,
The dense troops,
Were boundless.

Quite a little famous heroes,
Appeared among the troops.
The whole universe,
Seemed to be under their control.
They were powerful and irresistible,
The earth shook under their feet.

When Chuwak saw this,
He felt worried about such important enemy information.
At this critical moment,

He remembered Almanbet's words suddenly:

"I have more fellows than you,
I never feel lonely."
Chuwak told himself,
So many troops gathered,
It was right what Almanbet said.

"Never tell any lie,
Almanbet is really a great hero.
Make troubles in such powerful enemies,
Almanbet is really the unique hero in the world,
He is the most outstanding among numerous heroes."

Facing such powerful enemies,
Chuwak had a train of thoughts in his mind,
He thought about,
Where were heroes Sirak and Almanbet?

Chuwak came out from the aside,
Just met the heroes head-on,
The flock of horses driven by the heroes,
Had got half lost.
Heroes were busy with fighting against enemies,
One fell, another came.
Fought without retreating,
Tangled together arrogantly.

It seemed the end of the world was coming,
Even the chance of blinking eyes was precious.
Heads were cut off like twisting cock's head off,
Weapons creaked together sharply!

"Do not let him go, block right now!"
A sound came like a thunder.
Heroes shouted loudly,
Sounds echoed to the clouds.

Warriors fought hard,
Iron coats were also torn up.

With a strong blue steed under him,
With a majestic looking in the blue armor,
With the shouting piercing the sky,
Hero Chuwak,
Who could compare with him!

Even facing seven thousand enemies,
He could march ahead regardless of his safety.
Killed numerous heroes,
He never claimed credit for himself arrogantly,
But always marched in the front with the shouting of Manas.

Cut countless heads off,
He never felt complacent,
But gave the reputation to lion Manas.
Hero Chuwak had no selfish consideration,
Kept loyal to the love between brothers.

Almanbet saw his fellow,
Sirak met his brother.
Chuwak saw the respected lion,
He did not attempt to turn his horse round.

He did not hesitate and look around,
Raised the whip high to Koktikai steed,
Whipped the butts of Koktikai steed,
Stretched the spear out,
Straight ahead to the battlefield.

Kirgiz heroine Sayikali,
Saw the figure of Chuwak.
The heroine harbored the flame of revenge,
Hid herself and waited for the opportunity.

Chuwak rushed all the way ahead regardless of his safety,
Heroine Sayikali hid in a secret place,
Waved her spear and launched an attack suddenly.
Chuwak did not have enough time to dodge,
From the back of Koktikai steed,
Fell off on the ground.

Such a breath-taking sight,
Did not escape Almanbet's eyes.
Khan Almanbet shouted and dashed ahead,
Dust rose up from under Sariala's hooves,
Covered the valley and went up to the sky.

Heard the shout of Almanbet,
Heroine Sayikali felt anxious,
She dare not turn her steed round to continue the fight,
Just whipped her steed back to her camp.

The halter of hero Chuwak's steed,
Was wound twice on his waist,
That was his habit.

His magical steed Koktikai,
Was not castrated and was restless.
It moved around to look for a mare,
It jumped ceaselessly like in rut,
It dodged from the approaching of the hero.

Chuwak was worried,
He had no enough time to step on the stirrups,
He dashed ahead and made a hard jump.
He did not leap on the horseback,
But he felt the pain in his chest.

Almanbet rushed up,
Said to him sarcastically:
"You call yourself a matchless hero,

Did you see who is a hero?

"Super arrogant Chuwak,
You are always noisy and not aware of your limitation,
Now you are defeated by a woman,
Dirt sticks on your noble face,
Your face has lost the color,
Your life was almost finished in a woman's hand."

Almanbet ridiculed on Chuwak,
And held the belt inlaid with gold of Chuwak,
Helped him onto the horseback.

Chuwak sat up straight on the horseback,
Murmured full of complaints,
Lowered his head and left:
"Let Karamark die out,
Let Kangayi die away,
No matter Karamark or Kangayi,
They all should go to hell.

"I need go back to the lion,
Report him the news here.
After I make the report,
I will come back and fight immediately."

Hero Chuwak urged his steed,
Returned back to the lion soon,
He was with loud voice but nervous expression,
Tried to stop the snore of Manas.

No matter how loudly he shouted,
Manas was still asleep with no response at all.

Chuwak was very anxious,
He grabbed the hero's arm and swayed hard,
No matter how hard he did that,

Manas still slept sound.

Chuwak had no choice,
Held the shoulders of Manas,
Made him stand up straight,
Then threw him down backward.

The head knocked the ground,
Shoulders hit the ground,
Bottom landed on the hard earth.
Even like this,
It is still impossible to make Manas awake.

Chuwak was at the end of his resources,
One thought made him worried:
"Does the god of dream capture him,
And make him pass out?

"Has the god of land controlled him,
Make him die and never wake again?
Has his heart stopped beating,
And the body become stiff?"

Chuwak lowered his head and watched carefully,
Manas still snored like thunders.
Animals in mountains were scared,
Looked around and dare not eat at ease.

He knew Manas was safe and sound,
But hero Chuwak had no idea.
He puzzled his brain for quite a while,
Finally he got a good idea.

He made up his mind with no hesitation,
He took the Tashkelty firelock off his shoulder,
Loaded the bore of the firelock,
With a bag of black gunpowder.

He made bullets with felt,
Lit the fuse,
Got close to the ear of Manas slowly,
And fired the firelock.
The shot echoed among mountains,
Animals were startled and scattered.

All living things in the wilderness,
Fell into great panic.
Manas was still asleep,
This idea did not work at all.

Chuwak was at a loss what to do,
He did not know how to wake Manas up at all.
He had a brainwave at last,
He lifted up the spear and waved,
Poked in the bottom of Manas severely,
Manas was still in sound sleep and did not move anymore.

"If we do not make the best use of our time,
Countless enemies will be coming.
In this wilderness,
When he is asleep,
Ketay people will cut him into pieces."

Chuwak took out his sharp spear,
Wrapped with a cloth,
The steel spear point,
Only let one-span long point stay out.
He lifted the lion's coat edge,
Without careful thinking,
He did something incredible.

He stepped backward for a few steps and ran,
Aimed at the thigh of the lion,
Poked the spear in the leg of the hero.

Manas grabbed his painful thigh right away,
Made a loud shout and raised his head up.
Now he opened his blurred eyes,
Questioned Chuwak surprisingly:

"Punishable Chuwak,
You always make troubles,
Does the devil haunt you and you have no choice,
But to hurt me with your spear?"

Chuwak began to talk at this moment,
In an eager and impulsive voice:
"Your meddling Ketay,
Went to Begin city far away,
He drives to us,
All the horses of Ketay.
Powerful Ketay then turned out,
They have arrived at our frontier.

"Here is not Taras palace,
Why do you sleep so sound?
Here is not Kangkoler orchard,
How can you stretch yourself with no awareness?

"Here is not the river rapids of Kangkoler,
Here is not the palace of Kanikai either,
But you were like lying in Kanikai's arms,
Like embracing Kanikai,
Went to sleep free from care.
Everything has its limit,
You cannot be so leisurely."

Heard what Chuwak said,
Manas answered frankly:
"Where are enemies I did not fight?
Where are mountains I did not climb?
Where are enemies I did not compete?

Where are the rivers that can stop me?
Why are you so scared?
Have you been freaked out?"

Hearing the words from Manas,
Hero Chuwak showed a look of shame:
"Tall hero Manas,
Not only is he himself as bright and broad as Ayikoler,
But his words are fit his royal status.

"Since the lion is so frank,
I have Almanbet accompany me,
If I show any fear,
How I can still be a hero."
When Chuwak thought about this,
He whipped his steed ahead,
In a blink of an eye,
Chuwak had disappeared in the sight.

Brave hero Chuwak,
Climbed up on the hill and watched again,
The hurriedly coming enemies,
Seemed to be more ferocious than before.
Hero Chuwak took a dim view of it,
He had already given to the battlefield.

Climbed the hill twice,
Returned hurriedly twice,
Excited Koktikai steed,
Had sweated all over.

It leaped up,
Over the river of one arrow range,
The rapid water,
Did not wet its hooves at all.
Right at this critical moment,
The hero and the steed both nerved themselves.

Karamark hero Wushan,
Held a long spear in the hand,
Showed ferocious look and pressing momentum.
He charged ahead with full energy,
To coming Chuwak.

Akberita's son Chuwak,
Marched ahead bravely.
He whipped his steed ceaselessly,
Galloped ahead.

Hero Chuwak showed no weakness,
But showed the true quality of a hero.
He pushed aside the coming spear,
Poked his spear out,
Stabbed Karamark hero Wushan off the horse.

Chuwak was really a hero,
His braveness was tested.
He made troubles,
Where he marched;
Every place he went,
There would be blood and corpse.

Wushan had tens of thousands of capable soldiers,
They were as many as cow hair in fall.
Numerous capable generals and soldiers,
Were Wushan's backbone and pride.

Hero Chuwak dashed into enemies,
Like an eagle pouncing on the game,
Like a rock going to the enemy.
Karamark people had no way to flee away,
Screamed like ghosts.

Chuwak pounced on the coming warriors,
Knocked three to four of them down with one spear.

Pierced the hard armor through,
Punctured the thick battle robe.

Urged Koktikai steed,
Waved the spear whistle like wind,
Poked a general down like poking a straw,
Made lines of axemen die,
Made mountain-size hero fell off the horseback.
Chuwak charged all the way forward,
Urged Koktikai steed ceaselessly,
No one could escape under his hand.

Hero lion Manas,
Did not wake up,
Until getting the spear poking from Chuwak,
Then he opened his bleary eyes:
"Why he gets into panic,
Where are the enemies hiding now?"

He rode on Ayimanboz steed,
Two front edges of the coat swayed with wind.
Like guest visited leisurely in villages,
He did not show any impatient look,
Came to the top of the mountain slowly.
Noisy and chaotic battlefield in the front,
Now he could see it clearly.

Unhurriedly and calmly,
He observed the battlefield carefully;
The steed of Chuwak was unusual,
It galloped its hooves.
If it left the battlefield,
Even if the rival rode on the wind to chase,
It still was impossible to catch up with it.

If it began to chase an enemy,
Even if the enemy rode on a bird,

It was impossible to escape from it.
Koktikai steed was like a flying arrow,
It showed great excitement;
Killed enemies on both sides,
Matchlessly brave hero Chuwak,
Displayed his skill to the full,
Did not give enemies the chance to take a breath,
He was the bad luck of enemies.
No one could approach him,
Everyone just fled in panic.

Two lions Almanbet and Sirak,
Continued fighting day and night.
After several harsh battles,
They were exhausted.
Sariala steed and Tilkezler steed,
Were fainting with tiredness.

They killed with spears,
He waved axes and slashed,
Swayed sabre and cut,
Number of enemies they killed was countless.

They fought against enemies with battle hammers,
Battle robes were torn up in the fight,
Armors were broken in the fight;
The noise of shouting and killing continued,
As powerful as the chilly wind,
The atmosphere of death made everyone scared.

A hair-raising fight,
Their rivals presented their lives,
Blood was running like flood.
The lion watched their situation,
Then he turned his eyes and looked.

He looked ahead,

He saw Kunwuer Bayi,
Who rode on Arakala steed and looked around.

When the black mane wolf saw his foe Kunwuer Bayi,
Regardless of the safety for the revenge,
The flame of revenge rose in his heart.
He did not care his life at all,
Marched ahead bravely.

He was a matchless hero in the world,
Did not worry about the inferior steed at all,
He was as confident as he still rode on Ackura steed.
Urged Ayimanboz under him,
Dashed ahead and attacked Kunwuer Bayi.

At this moment,
Like a wing was rising,
Like a deadly arrow,
Ayimanboz dashed ahead like wind.

Ayikoler rounded his eyes,
Flames shot out from his eyes.
He whipped his mount Ayimanboz hard,
He wished he could fly to Kunwuer.

Ayimanboz was like an eagle spread its wings,
Galloped ahead bravely.
As meeting rows of gullies,
It leaped over as the plain.

When it met the gully as deep as a rope,
It could jump over easily;
When it met huge rock in the way,
Its basin-size hooves,
Could knock the rock into ash.

Ayikoler went along forward,

Arrived at Ajat river.
Giant Manas filled with fury,
Did not care the bottomless river at all,
Facing Kunwuer Bayi in the front,
He could not wait but jumped into the river.

The hero urged the steed into the river,
It was like a cliff falling into the river,
Like huge rock fell in water,
It disappeared immediately.

Because of the buoyance of the river,
It came up to the surface of the river.
Edges of the coat spread on the river,
Water merged to his waist.

In Ajat river course,
Ketay had dug spear-deep ditch.
Cliffs of both sides were made of rocks,
It was hard to find a way to go ashore.

Manas looked around worriedly,
Without the company of Ackura steed,
Ayikoler was very annoyed.

There was only one opening for going ashore,
"As long as he gets here,
I will poke him into the river right away."
Cunning Kunwuer Bayi,
Attempted to kill the hero in the river,
Held his spear and waited by the river.

Hero lion Manas,
Jumped into the river and floated on the wave crest,
He neither could go ashore,
Nor could fight against Kunwuer Bayi,
Which made him furious.

Lion Ayikoler Manas had a good idea suddenly,
Sometimes he held the rolled breeching of the steed,
Sometimes he grasped the long mane of the steed,
In order to keep the steed from sinking.
He tried everything possible,
Finally he approached the opening Kunwuer Bayi guarded.

"I will kill him before he goes ashore,
If I let him go ashore,
How I can call myself a hero."
Kunwuer Bayi waved the spear,
Attempted to intercept Manas in the river.

Right at the time Manas approached the bank,
Kunwuer Bayi seized the chance,
Poked the spear in his hand out.

Brave and courageous wolf Manas,
Was capable and high skilled,
He did not even blink his eye as facing powerful enemies,
He grabbed the spear point Kunwuer Bayi poked toward him.

The spear shaft was in the hand of Kunwuer Bayi,
The spear point was grabbed tight by Manas,
It went back and forth like they were sawing.
Hero's mount Ayimanboz,
Was tired and began to shake,
And floated on the water.

Seeing the situation of Ayimanboz,
Cunning Kunwuer Bayi laughed in his heart,
He would try to keep his rival in the river,
And wait for a chance to attack,
Attempted to kill Manas in the river.

Ayikoler's mount,
Panted heavily and rounded its eyes,

Waist bent and belly sagged,
Long mane and tail hair spread in the river,
The saddle was soaked in the river.

Kunwuer pushed it gently,
It just floated away with water rapidly;
Kunwuer pulled,
It floated forward toward the bank.

Kunwuer Bayi had his nose in the air,
He thought he definitely could kill the hero in the river,
And descend the great disaster to Kirgiz.

Right at this critical moment,
Famous hero Almanbet,
Had his blond hair on his forehead shine,
Red tassel belt tied on his waist.
He saw what happened from afar,
He knew the habit of Ayimanboz.

Manas in the river was in danger,
Almanbet was very worried:
"Kunwuer, you do not parade your ability now,
It is not the ability a hero to show."

The shout roared and filled the sky,
Which could break rocks.
He turned his steed round immediately,
Whipped and urged,
Galloped like clouds in a storm.

His face was clouded and pale,
Forehead was wide and eyes were black,
His figure was short but strong,
Almanbet was just such a rare hero.

He made resonant shout,

Whipped and urged to the side of Kunwuer.
As facing such an imposing manner,
Who did not cover the face and creep away?

Giant Kunwuer turned his Arakala steed round,
Fled in desperation and dare not look back.
His leather pants could not be pierced by the arrow,
Its edges were waving in the wind.

If Almanbet attacked secretly,
The belly of Arokai's son Kunwuer Bayi,
Must be pierced through and bled badly.

He was worried more about the life of the lion,
He felt ashamed,
For letting the hero ride on inferior Ayimanboz.

As noble as a Khan,
Black mane wolf Almanbet jumped into the river with his steed.
He grabbed the halter of Ayimanboz,
Pressed it tight under his saddle,
Then urged Sariala steed to approach the bank.

Kankor's spirits did not deduct,
Manas sat steadily on the saddle in majesty,
A pair of spears crossed the front of the saddle,
Went ashore with his steed.

Almanbet could not control his anger,
Aimed at the calf of Ayimanboz,
Whipped it severely,
Its calf bled immediately,
It hobbled forward difficultly.

Almanbet said at this time:
"Ackura is really what you need to have,
If you leave that sacred steed,

Your sacred dream would be hard to accomplish.

"Ackura is your fellow,
If you leave that magical steed,
You will not contribute to your people.

"A warrior cannot part from the steed,
He can only stay at home without his steed,
This is the advice of the sage.
At the moment you are suffering,
I must drive Ackura here to you.

"Mist covers everything and there is no crack,
In the pitch-dark night,
When you even cannot see your fingers,
It is very sensitive,
It is like the light shining on its ears.
On its nose bridge,
There is mark pressed by the bridle.
It should have accompanied you on expedition,
Now it is quiet but impatient.

"When it walks at night,
The light on its ears,
Can light up the way in the front.
When it chases enemies,
It was like enemies' shadow they cannot get rid of.

"Your magical Ackura steed,
Now is waiting for you, black mane wolf,
Ride on it, then you can charge forward.

"Look at the black rocks piled with stones,
You just go and hide behind it.
Enemies must come in massive columns,
You need try your best,
Intercept them at the other side of the river."

Almanbet finished his words,
Then turned round his steed,
Rushed into the horse flock,
He charged forward regardless of his safety,
Merged into the boiling Karamark troops.

In the confusion of numerous soldiers and generals,
He met giant Dotan head-on.
This guy was arrogant,
Smoke came out of his mouth and nose,
Flames burned in his eyes.
He rode on a huge rhinoceros,
Intercepted the running hero.

Almanbet did not hesitate at all,
Nerved himself and accepted the challenge.
Before Almanbet launched an attack,
Kirgiz eagle Chuwak,
Rushed out from aside,
Tangled with Dotan together.

Chuwak poked out his spear with full energy,
It right stabbed in Dotan,
From mountain-high rhinoceros back,
Fell off on the ground.
Before Dotan could stand up,
Noble hero Almanbet,
Lifted door-size ax,
Dashed ahead and cut on the top of his head.

Seeing the result of Dotan,
Niskara was filled with fury:
"Dodur was beaten up by Manas,
Who have ever seen such powerful Brute.

"Dotan now is poked by Chuwak,
It is Almanbet who makes his blood redden the earth.

Brute people are so ferocious,
Does good luck go away from us?

"I have numerous warriors and heroes,
But who has the courage like Dotan?
I have a hundred thousand powerful soldiers,
We should charge forward from every direction,
To surround the enemies,
Capture alive,
Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak now.

"Fight against them head-on,
It will be hard for us to win,
If we use nets to catch them,
Maybe it can work.

"Kangayi owns hero like me,
I am eager to find someone who can compete with me,
Now it is a chance to fight it out.
Brute people for fighting,
Has appeared in front of us,
How I can loose my weapon in the hand.

"Brave and powerful warriors,
Has been beaten up by them.
The lackey should be punished by god,
Bowed and surrendered to Arashi people,
Almanbet on the yellow steed,
Is the traitor of Ketay.

"The bastard did not keep his nose clean when he fled,
Those thirty warriors lead by Budanchan,
Are all well-known,
Are all as powerful as middle fingers,
But they all died under his sabre.

"He betrayed his own people,

Went to others for help.
Now he leads Arashi people,
Come and plunder our property.

"Ride on a blue steed,
With impressive appearance of wide chest and shoulders,
Fight matchlessly in the world,
Kirgiz hero is unique in the world,
Akberita's son Chuwak,
He is unusual and brave,
Even powerful lion Manas,
Discusses with him about issues no matter they are big or small.

"Ride on a dark brown steed,
Appearance impressive and majestic,
Jagurp's son Sirak,
Is also a capable general.

"You should listen carefully,
As long as we capture these three people,
Except Manas,
We will see zero resistance from Brute people.

"My hero Dotan has been killed,
You still have eleven of you left,
All of you need go and attack,
Try your best to capture these three alive.

"If you fail to do what I order,
You'd better go to die.
A hundred thousand soldiers will follow you,
Make the earth shakes like flood."

As Niskara gave out his order,
Everyone rushed out.
The eleven heroes led in the front,
The hundred thousand soldiers followed them,

Intended to show their power,
To Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak.

These guys were like wolf and tiger,
They did not care the death at all.
Soldiers chattered and shouted,
Like thunders.

When Almanbet saw the situation of Kangayi,
He gave the order of attack immediately,
Told Sirak what he should do:
"Chuwak and Sirak,
You have your own abilities.
You have seen with your eyes,
Kangayi come and rush to battlefield like flood.

"The lion has wait by the river to intercept,
If enemies meet us head-on,
Or they chase after us tight,
You two need take care of each other,
Do not go alone by yourself.

"Black mane wolf Sirak, my fellow,
Please gallop to Kokcheler prairie.
There is lush pasture and clear river,
You need ask Kirgiz there to act right away,
They have already been annoyed with nothing to do.
If you can guide Kirgiz people here,
Then you will know clearly what is the condition.

"Without the company of Ackura,
The lion has to stay in mountain;
Sage Bakay leads Ackura steed,
He must meet you on your way."

As soon as Almanbet finished his words,
Lion Sirak opened his eyes wide,

A thought flashed through his mind:

"It is like I am a messenger boy,
This guy must send me to do this,
Why does not he send Chuwak to do this,
How does not he have confidence in him?"

Hero Sirak was smart,
He had another thought in a blink of an eye:
"Akberita's son Chuwak,
Must compete against me for it,
Almanbet is so wise,
How does not he send me there?

"Whom the felt belongs to,
Whose arms will be busy;
I am the brother of the lion,
It is reasonable he sends me to do it."

Sirak urged his steed at top speed,
Galloped forward like wind,
That strong Tilkezler steed,
Never felt tired and lay down,
Ran in the battlefield day and night,
It had not eaten for nine days.

Hero Sirak was burning with impatience,
He whipped his mount ceaselessly;
The stalwart Tilkezler steed,
Got sweated all over.

The long journey needed several days,
When he met mountains and gullies,
He jumped over with no hesitation;
He did not stop at all in the wilderness,
Just left dust behind him.

Thousands of troops of Kangayi,
Rolled forward like flood,
Eleven capable generals,
Commanded in the troops.
Vanguard units of the troops
Had arrived at Ajat river.

At the opposite bank of the surging river,
Hero Manas sat a rock steadily.
Held Ackelty firelock in the hand,
He gazed away out to the condition in the front.

When the flood-like troops,
Arrived at Ajat river,
The lion waited here quietly,
Lifted his Ackelty forelock,
Aimed at enemies and lit the fuse.

Aggressive Kangayi troops,
Were scared out of their wits and fled away,
One bullet of the magical firelock,
Killed ten thousand enemy soldiers.

There was another unpaved path,
Went round the opening of Ajat river.
Heroes Chuwak and Almanbet,
What actions they would have,
Please listen carefully.

"Massive troops of Karamark,
They cannot pass the opening easily;
Manas is guarding on the opposite bank,
He will not let them off easily.
We should find a shortcut,
To help accomplish the hero's dream.

"A mighty storm will come soon,

Flood ravages and earth shakes,
It is not flood but enemies,
And heroes who can descend disasters.

"Clouds cover the sky,
The sunny sky disappears,
Mist spreads and makes everything murky.
Right in the blink of an eye,
Ninety Lek enemies will come to us,
What should we do till then?"

Two heroes thought about this,
Then they discussed to act together.
They went on the journey side by side,
The path from the land to the river opening,
Was occupied by them in advance.

Right at this moment,
Khan Muradiler appeared in their sights.
He led forty thousand troops,
Forty warriors followed after.

He urged his light maroon steed,
Loaded with all kinds of equipments.
Forty thousand soldiers rolled like flood,
Came from all directions.

Karamark hero Wushan,
Followed tight after him,
The aggressive sixty thousand capable soldiers,
Swarmed forward.

Karamark people Sorokai,
Was an all-conquering hero,
He was so lonely at home,
So he showed off his ability everywhere.
He was unwelcome because of his much noise,

What he said was very unpleasant to ears:
"You all step aside,
Now only I can charge ahead and fight!"

He was not polite to Muradiler at all:
"If you stop me,
I will flat everything here,
Including you.

"Brute people are wildly arrogant,
How they can ignore me.
I will completely kill,
Those guys led by Manas,
No one can flee away.

"I did not attend Kokotoy's ceremony,
Did not show them my abilities,
They never had chances to witness my ability,
So they can act rashly and blindly.
If they witnessed my braveness and courage,
How they can come now to challenge."

Sorokai was swollen with arrogance,
People were scared and could not stop him,
No one could express disagreement.
This extremely violent and wicked guy,
His arrogance would fall on the rock.

This guy was iron-hearted,
His body was rounded like a piece of lead,
Muscles all over had turned into ligaments,
His arms were like iron sticks.
For a mad dog like him,
Who dared to easily provoke him?

Muradiler heard his shouting,
Saw his arrogant look on the face,

So he had to give up the chance of charge.

He did not dare to speak it out,
But murmured to himself:
"You cannot be bigger than Majili,
But he got killed on the ridge by two Brute heroes.

"They have no soldiers following them,
There are only them two side by side.
You are arrogant and self-glorified,
Majili's spirit will be your company soon."

Sorokai's mount,
Was called Chalbashnar①,
Except this huge steed,
No any other animal could bear his weight.

What he exhaled,
Was like the black smoke from chimney;
A pair of round eyes,
Hung on his face but seemed to blow out.

His grisly face,
Was as black as the bottom of the pot.
He was of medium height and round shoulders,
Fat face and strong muscles.

This ferocious guy,
Was unusually strong.
With flat nose, bulging mouth,
Wide shoulders, shrank legs,
Flat chest and ferocious look.

He had only one ear,
It was as big as a donkey ear,
Hung on his forehead.

① Chalbashnar: Kirgiz language. It means dromedary. Here it is the name of a horse.

A disgusting monster like him,
Who was willing to fight against him.
If meeting him head-on,
He would open his mouth and swallow mercilessly.

He was aggressive with ferocious look,
He charged ahead all the way bravely.
Any life one rope away from him,
Would be swallowed by him mercilessly.

He did not carry a sabre,
He did not use a spear either,
A pair of hill-size hammers,
Were waving in his hands.
The ferocious look he bore,
Made everyone scared.

He grabbed the huge hammers,
His face had changed.
In order to take the life of the rival away,
The bastard had made good preparations.

Akberita's son Chuwak,
Gnashed his teeth in great fury,
He had no time to care his life,
Waved the spear and charged ahead to the battlefield,
Came to the side of Sorokai,
A desperate fight would begin.

Aggressive Sorokai,
Wore his iron armor,
Waved the hammer and pounded to Chuwak.
Before the hammer fell,
Chuwak dodged it smartly,
And poked in the right arm of Sorokai.

The spear was sharp with matchless energy,

It pierced through the muscle of the ulna.
On Sorokai's arm,
Blood continued running down.
A muscle of cow head size,
Hung on his elbow.
The pain was excruciating.

The hammer in his hand,
Was not capable to be lifted.
Sorokai was filled with fury,
Lost his sense like a drunkard.

Hero Chuwak rushed from his flank,
Right at the times he was turning the steed round,
Prepared to attack again,
Janadler's spear had poked out in front of his chest.

Hero Janadler had blood relationship,
With Kermzsha's son Muradiler,
He was also a damned capable general.
He rode on a maroon steed that as fast as wind,
The steed galloped forward as flying snake,
Rose sky-high dust behind,
Charged toward lion Chuwak head-on.

He held a sharp iron spear,
Stabbed in the butt of Chuwak.
Stabbed by a powerful spear,
Our hero Chuwak,
Fell off from the back of Koktikai steed.

Right at this critical moment,
Almanbet arrived with his steed,
Poked that ferocious guy,
Off his maroon steed.

Hero Chuwak staggered,

Mounted the steed difficultly.
Almanbet urged his Sariala steed,
Rushed to Sorokai with his whip lifted high.

When Chuwak fixed his eyes,
Muradiler was armed to his teeth,
Launched an attack to Almanbet from the flank.

Before he could approach Almanbet,
Before his sabre cut down,
Chuwak's long spear had poked in his body.

Kermzsha's son Muradiler,
Fell off from the back of Keljerd① steed,
Completely discredited and like a drowned mouse.

Hero lion Chuwak,
Fixed his eyes to Almanbet,
Who had already tangled together with Sorokai,
A bloody fight began between them.

Almanbet attacked head-on,
Gave a severe poke to Sorokai's thigh,
A stream of red blood,
Ran down along the leg.

The hero turned round immediately,
Attacked from the back of the enemy,
Poked toward the soft spot of the enemy.

Well-known eagle Chuwak,
Charged from the flank,
Aimed at the left side of the enemy,
Poked his spear out severely,
A piece of muscle of bowl size,
Parted from Sorokai's body immediately.

① Keljerd: Kirgiz language. It means grey antelope. Here it is the name of a horse.

"Almanbet, we'd better sheathe the sword,
This guy does not die,
But he is at his last gasp now,
We'd better continue our journey."
Chuwak discussed with Almanbet.

Almanbet responded:
"Chuwak, what are you talking about?
What do you mean not to kill Sorokai?
As long as he takes a herbal medicine called Kunu,
He will be recovered totally with more threats.
If this mountain-size guy mounts again,
Who can defeat him again?

"I will cut both his arms off with my ax,
You pierce through his body with your spear,
We'd better smash him into pieces,
Muradiler, Wushan and Janadler,
Dare not come and help him."

Almanbet waved his ax and cut to Sorokai's arms,
Chuwak poked and stabbed with his spear,
On a level ground of Kezler Art,
They sent devil Sorokai to the hell.
Niskara and Georoy's massive troops,
Was stopped by the river;
Muradiler and Wushan's troops,
Were intercepted by Almanbet and Chuwak.
The battle continued day and night fiercely,
Weapons clanged and they had no time for a cigarette.

Let us put this aside,
Tell about How Manas and Kunwuer Bayi,
Began their fight at Ajat river.

Manas Fought Against Enemy Leader Kunwuer

Kara Kirgiz offspring,
Khan Jagurp's son Sirak,
Went on the journey day and night,
Arrived in Gobi Kokcheler of Elaman,
And a bubbled lake swamp.

Heroes' uncle Bakay,
Had too many thoughts in his mind,
He waited with hope everyday.
One day he came to the rock where snow cock haunted,
Looked far ahead.
At the time around noon,
Figures going hurriedly appeared in his sight.

He took out his telescope and adjusted,
Recognized that was hero lion Sirak.
"Why does he come by himself,
Where are other people?"
His thought was like a galloping steed,
But left no hoofprint.
Sage Bakay,
Had thoughts flooded with great worry.
Coming hero Sirak was in a hurry,
And passed him in a blink of an eye.

Seeing Sirak not stopping,
Bakay could not help shouting:
"Hero, please stop for a while!"

Sirak dashed merely ahead,
He neither heard any shout,
Nor noticed the person nearby either.

As Bakay seeing this,
Worried thoughts filled his mind:
"Has Khuda punished us already?
Is it a trap Ketay set up,
Which made Almanbet fail to accomplish the task?
Does Sirak return for this reason,
Choose an obscure path,
Come to see us in such a hurry?"

Hero Bakay was very worried,
Like a smart young man,
Leaped on horseback,
Urged Kokcherlok steed and followed tight.

He galloped along the path at top speed,
Caught up with the hero in the front soon;
To Sirak who was like a deaf man,
He waved the spear in his hand.

With the butt slipping off the saddle,
Both feet left the stirrups;
Sirak embraced the neck of Tilkezler steed,
Looked back surprisingly.

It was white-beard uncle,
He now recognized him.
He was worried with nervous look,
He had nothing to say but "Uncle".

"You such a reckless guy,
How can you be so nervous?
Merely urge the steed forward without looking around,
Where are you going?

"Kirgiz Arashi of white felt hat,
Manas is our backbone,
Is he still alive and healthy?
Almanbet and Chuwak are good fellows,
Are these two lions safe and sound?"

"My respected uncle,
We are all safe and sound,
Our great lion Manas,
Is also safe and healthy."

Poor Sirak was trembling with fear,
Poured out,
All things he knew,
And the reason he came back.

Bakay continued the talk immediately,
Said to Sirak like this:
"If you just go so rashly,
You will make them confused and scared.
Khans feared of the power of Manas,
So forced themselves to go on the expedition,
Which one is willing to go with you,
Which one can whip the steed and go?

"I go first to calm them down,
Good preparation is needed.
You go to wash and dress up,
Tie your belt and wear the cloak,
Then walk into the yurt.
Tell them Almanbet and Chuwak are butchering horse and eat meat,
The blood got stained on me at that time.
The person who goes first can get a trophy,
There will be nothing if they go too late.
You tell nothing to them except this,
You follow me into the camp."

After hearing the advice of Khan Bakay,
Sirak washed his face,
Tied his belt, urged his steed forward.
Senchybek saw first,
Of Sirak's coming.
He went up happily,
Asked about the information,
Of hero Manas, Almanbet and Chuwak.

Before he finished his questions,
Sirak began to talk:
"We took numerous horses of our enemies,
Anyone goes early can get a trophy,
But gets nothing if goes too late.

"Horse flocks wonder all over mountains,
Spread all valleys,
There is no need to know the number,
You can get as many as you want,
You all should go as quickly as you can."

Sirak finished his words,
Then urged his steed toward the camp,
For people coming and asking the information,
He did not take notice of them.

Hohan people rushed into mass action,
Could not control their feeling of happiness;
Dust rose up high into the sky,
They turned out on the journey.

Respectable elder Bakay,
Was a prestigious sage among Arashi people.
He rode on a grey steed,
Held the halter of Ackura,
Led the vanguard of the troops,
Went to the battlefield valiantly.

After getting news from Sirak,
He arrived at the side of Manas soon.
As the lion saw his Ackura steed,
He was in high spirits and excited,
Stroked his beard continually,
He was very happy about this.

He did not step on the iron stirrups,
Just leaped onto the saddle,
Along the bank of Ajat river,
He went toward the direction of Kakan.

Manas whipped and urged the steed,
Went to look for the track of Kunwuer Bayi.
Never tired Ackura steed,
Was right the steed for hero Khan to ride.
In the river where Ayimanboz floated,
Magical steed Ackura,
Even did not touch the water with its hooves,
Jumped like a hare,
Leaped over to the other side of the river.

At the bank of surging Ajat river,
He did not see the ferocious leader of enemies,
He did not see Kunwuer Bayi either.
Numerous troops stationed along the bank,
Did not make way for him but kept quiet,
Did not put Manas in their eyes at all.

Hero Manas was filled with fury,
Waved the sharp Achy Abaris sword,
Slashed left and right mercilessly,
Where dense enemies were,
Where the sword with cold light went.

He found no equal rivals left and right,
It was like he was in a place there was no one,

Enemies were scared and just ran off.

Running blood formed a river,
His fame spread farther away;
Enemy soldiers went in a great mess,
They all escaped for their lives.
Troops of Niskara and Georoy,
Had been damaged and killed more than half.

In the uneasy mess,
At the moment the blood flowed,
Senchybek's troops had come like flood,
There was no way back except fighting,
The troops went into the whirl of the battle.

Like the weeds rose abruptly out of ground,
Kirgiz swarmed all over the mountain.
Famous forty warriors,
Brought up the rear.
It was an earthshaking battle,
Thousands of horses galloped and neighed.

Giant Koshaoyi and Akberita,
Garmgirchy, Ageshi and Ertoshtuk,
And Kerkokuler,
Were all matchless heroes in the world.
They were like spirited young men,
Soaked their spears and sabre with blood.

Khan Budayik's son Muzburchak,
Had dense beard swaying in front of his chest.
Kazakh hero Yurbi,
Sought to prevail over others all the time.
And Khans Tirkechy and Shihay,
Heroes all turned out with no one left.

Heroes coming to the battlefield,

All went into the battle,
A bloody battle began.

Troops all over the mountains were like ants,
How could them be seen clear?
Such grand battle scene,
How can I tell it clearly?

They gave tit for tat to each other,
Tangled together and fought against each other,
Heroes were mixed together with enemies,
Came into sight sometimes.

Enemy's leader Kunwuer Bayi,
Sprayed ferocious flames in his eyes,
Shouted his orders out.
He ordered Kakan troops to go to battle,
Asked General Ayi to lead his troops,
Turned out to intercept.

Capable soldiers and violent horses were dark,
They held shiny battle flags high.
Stirrups clanged in the wilderness,
People were noisy in valleys,
Thunders rolled over the hills,
There was no place even for a foot,
Troops spread all over without any crack.

Cunning lackey Kunwuer,
Was full of crafts and tricks.
He led his troops and charged ahead in flood of soldiers,
Surrounded from all directions,
Besieged Kirgiz generals and soldiers.

Aoronko of Kangayi,
Bolanchu with black mane,
Kermzsha's son Muradiler,

Karamark hero Wushan,
Ketay hero Georoy,
And hero Niskara,
Commander of the troops Kunwuer Bayi,
These seven were the generals of enemy,
They gathered gradually in the camp.

Soldiers gathered and troops grew bigger,
Flags flew high.
Self-glorified generals and soldiers,
All turned out without any left.

Life was at the last gasp,
Battle hammers waved, battleaxes shined,
Firelocks shot, arrows shot,
Sabre waved, spears stretched.
Generals whose lives had done,
Were riding on their way to the hell,
To check in the other world,
Nothing is permanent in life.

Famous hero black mane wolf Manas,
Urged Ackura steed,
Waved Achy Abaris sword,
Charged forward as in a place of no one,
Slashed sixty enemies to death at a stroke.
When he continued charging ahead bravely,
He met giant Kunwuer Bayi head-on.

Seeing notable enemy Kunwuer,
Manas sheathed his sword,
Drew the sharp spear out,
Launched a head-on attack bravely.

When Kunwuer Bayi saw Manas,
He gnashed his teeth in great fury.
Meeting enemies opened old wounds,

Like bull camels in chilly winter.
He murmured in his mouth,
Hatred flowed out of his eyes.

Evil intentions in his hearts were written on his face,
His face was like a moldy soap.
He bit his lips hard,
Drew Geoykuma sword out fast,
Urged his mount Alekala forward fast.

He dashed ahead ferociously,
Sheathed his Geoykuma sword,
Lifted the deadly spear,
Fixed his eyes to the front.

This guy was not usual,
He was a Khan of high martial skills,
As seeing his ferocious look,
Everyone would flee for his own life.

Who ever came and fought,
Would lose their lives in his hand,
The blood reddened the earth,
The night covered their body.
He had wide shoulders and thin waist like a sheath,
Galloping steed was like running on wind.

Ferocious boar Kunwuer Bayi,
Waved the whip toward Alekala steed,
Dashed ahead regardless of his safety.
He shouted loudly "Kangayi",
He seemed impressively powerful.

Jagurp's son black mane wolf,
Did not even spare a glance for that,
He wore the white battle gown,
Like a white tiger dashing ahead.

The fierce lion,
No matter where he went he was a high peak.
Arckelty firelock shined on his shoulder,
His face shined like the moon,
And also like the crystal clear water of Eding lake.

He owned the imposing manner of a dragon,
He owned the power of a lion,
Once he made a shout in the battlefield,
It was like the harmony of sixty singers.

He bore a healthily red face,
Bright and brave.
Eyes were as dim as the dusk,
His face was like fried wheat grain.

Waved the spear in the hand,
His body was as strong as Arato mountain.
Battleax shined on him,
When people saw him,
They would be scared out of wits.

He had an unusually impressive presence,
When people saw his power,
They dare not speak,
They would be too nervous and vomit for three nights.

"The ghost is coming!"
He pushed all others' panic button.
I do not exaggerate at all,
The lion was awe-inspiring.

Wore iron-made battle gown,
Ayikoler Manas and hero Kunwuer,
Rent the air with their shouts,
Full of noble aspiration.

Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Loosened the halter of Ackura,
Dashed ahead fearlessly;
He was a matchless hero,
Giant Kunwuer Bayi did not show a sign of weakness,
The spear in his hand made blowing sound.

They two met and began the fight,
Waved their spears head-on.
Dust kicked up by steed hooves,
Covered everything around.

When they fought against each other,
Their stretched necks were like wild geese's necks,
Eyes were as red as flames burning.
As seeing the highly skilled heroes,
Generals were all struck dumb with astonishment.

Spear points clanged together,
Spear shafts knocked together noisily,
Two generals were equal in match,
They were struggling to the fight bravely.

Both of them could not stab in each other,
Could not let the other one bleed.
Both of them were regardless of their safety,
Glared at each other and waved their spears.

Kunwuer Bayi was cunning,
He fought and thought something at the same time:
"This bloodsucker is highly skilled,
He defends flawlessly and it is too hard to stab him,
He is superior to me in martial skills,
He is really an experienced hero.

"I need seek a chance to dodge his spear,
Try to attack from his back,

Then when he passes me,
I can seize the chance and stab him.

"My mount is Alekala magical steed,
As long as I give a little hint,
It will understand what I want to do."
Giant Kunwuer Bayi thought about this,
He nerved himself and urged his steed,
Decided to fight it out with Manas.

The small trick of Kunwuer Bayi,
Had already been seen through by Manas,
He laughed secretly,
Waved his spear ceaselessly.

Please listen carefully,
How hero Manas dealt with it.

"This guy cherish an evil intent,
I will witness his ability,
No matter how Alekala runs,
It will return back to me."

Kunwuer Bayi urged his steed first,
Then turned his steed round and rushed again.
Manas just dodged nimbly,
Got out of the way of the rival's back thrust.

When Kunwuer Bayi ran past him,
He put his spear down on the saddle immediately,
Drew Achy Abaris sword out of the sheath.
Kunwuer Bayi was full of confidence,
He thought his plot would soon come true.
When his spearing was coming,
Manas turned round and brandished his sword.
The spear of Kunwuer Bayi,
Broke into two immediately and fell off from the hand.

Kunwuer Bayi Lost and Fled

Lost his deadly spear,
Kunwuer Bayi did not know what to do,
He had to whip and urge his steed,
Turned his steed round and fled away.

He urged his steed and fled in a panic,
Clothes edges swayed in the wind.
Manas waved his whip and chased tight,
His happiness was impossible to be covered.

Ajat river rapids were a salt marsh,
Gobi desert was mingled with it.
Under the burning sun,
Sand was hot and smoking.

Zebras lived here,
Wandered all over freely;
If they stepped in the hot desert by accident,
Their hooves would be burned severely.

Lost swans flew over this place,
Wings would be burned by the hot air,
Finally fell off on the ground and died.
The salt marsh was rough,
Crystalized and shined.

No single grass grew there,
No single drop of spring water flowed there.
Cunning Kunwuer Bayi,

Guided Manas to this place on purpose.

Let Manas suffer in that extremely hot desert,
Then sought a chance,
To defeat him here;
If he did not have chance to kill him,
He would choose to flee away,
Went back to Begin and waited for another chance.

There were numerous heroes in Begin city,
They were bored of guarding the city,
As they could not get any profit out of it,
They were looking forward to the blood in the battlefield.

There were Khans, generals,
Arrogant and aggressive giants,
And a lot of strong and fat giants,
They had to go on foot for they were too heavy for horses.

Tried to fool Manas to come to this place,
Surround him with the help of these heroes,
To capture hero black mane wolf alive.

When Kunwuer Bayi thought about this,
He was full of confidence in his Alekala steed,
Fled toward the Gobi desert even wild dogs did not want to go.

No matter it was hill or valley,
In order to drag Manas in despair,
He did not care his own safety at all.
Clothes edges opened and waved with wind,
He dashed ahead without considering anything.

Opened his eyes round and looked left and right,
Two legs swayed back and forth,
His mount Alekala steed,
Shook its ears with a rustling sound.

Stretched its body when went downhill,
Like an antelope stretched its four limbs,
The tail and long mane swayed with the wind,
Left Ackura far behind.

Ackura steed as fast as thunder,
Would catch it up when going uphill.
The steeds bobbed and swayed,
Like the horn plate kicking sheep dibs far.
Mane on forehead swayed with wind,
Hooves inserted deep in the earth,
The bits clanged in its mouth.

Long tail as smooth as silk,
Swayed between his back crotch.
Hooves knocked the earth with huge noise,
Bits made of cast iron,
Clanged in its mouth;
Silver ornaments on the rolled breast-collar,
Shined under the sun.

At this critical moment,
This magical steed,
Connected Manas of Oboler mountain-size,
Together with itself like flesh and blood.

It dashed ahead like flying on clouds,
Rocks under its hooves splashed,
Like birds fluttered its wings.
Ackura galloped forward,
As fast as the shooting star.

Cunning Kunwuer Bayi,
Knew well about the habit of the steed,
He avoided the path on the mountain slope,
Just urged his steed down the mountain,
Attempted to confuse Manas,

Guided Manas toward Begin far away.

Hero Manas tried his best,
Not to let Kunwuer Bayi's plot come true.

Crafty Kunwuer Bayi,
Knocked stirrups hard with his feet,
Toward Yitiashard hill,
Fled in panic.
Galloped ahead like flying,
The black mane wolf urged Ackura,
Chased after tight.
The sound made by the hooves,
Was deafeningly loud.

Kunwuer Bayi was filled with fear,
His thoughts were flying in his mind:
"Manas will grasp my clothes edge,
Drag me off the steed on the ground,
Cut my belly open,
On this ridge,
Make my blood flow like a river.

"If I fall into the hands of Manas,
How I can keep myself alive!
He will cut my head off,
He will skin me and pull out my tendon,
Fill it with straws,
Then hang me high by the road to be pilloried."

Enemy commander Kunwuer Bayi,
Felt more frightened as he thought about this.
Under such circumstances,
If Ayikoler Manas grasped his clothes edge,
He will be lifted up as a little chick.
No matter how strong he was,

He would be smashed by the hero.

"Rather than push and pull with him,
I'd better drag him off the steed,
Poke him on my spear point,
Lifted his giant body up,
Go back to my camp.
Let people witness the might of me, Manas,
Let Kangayi people witness my power,
Make them shaking and dare not fight again."

When Manas thought about this,
He grabbed his spear in the hand,
Aimed at the back of Kunwuer Bayi,
Before he could attack,
Cunning Alekala steed swayed its long mane,
Galloped over the ridge in an instant.

Manas seized the chance,
Aimed at the back between shoulder blades,
Toward the edge of the belt inlaid with gold,
Poked his spear out hard.

Cunning Alekala steed shook its body suddenly,
The famous Sire spear,
Did not stab in the back of Kunwuer Bayi,
But stabbed in his fat butt.
Stream of blood flowed,
Reddened the rear body of Alekala steed.

Manas missed his target,
He saw Kunwuer Bayi,
But could not stab Kunwuer off on the ground.
Sire spear did not draw out,
It was still shaking on the butt of Kunwuer Bayi,
Manas grasped the spear shaft in his hand tight.
When going uphill,

Alekala could not run fast;
When going downhill,
Ackura could not catch it up.

"Flee uphill,
I must die in his hand."
Kunwuer Bayi told himself,
Then urged his steed and fled downhill.

In the bitter battlefield,
Kangayi and Kirgiz fought hard,
Dead bodies filled the land.
People looked around,
But could not see Manas and Kunwuer Bayi,
Their figures had disappeared in the distance.

Almanbet was highly skilled in casting spells,
He was wise and resourceful,
He fought in the battlefield,
And cast spell at the same time.

Clouds gathered in an instant,
Rain poured down with thundering and lightening.
Some coward soldiers,
Had been frightened out their wits.

"What on earth happened?"
A lot of people were scared without knowing what to do.
Facing the dangerous situation in front of them,
People forgot to care their lives.

Brave Almanbet,
Rode on famous Sariala steed in majesty.
He wore his battle robe impressively,
The steed wore its black cover.
Hat weaved with the yarn decorated with long red tassel,
The helmet was inlaid with a diamond,

For his splendid hat,
Generals all praised a lot.

Almanbet waved the whip and urged the steed,
Mumbled and rushed into Kangayi crowd.
Sariala steed under him,
Clenched the bits tight and leaned to one side completely.
Matchlessly brave hero Almanbet,
Who dare fight against him?

Chosen from headmen administered generals,
Emerged among experienced lions,
Forty giants led by General Ayi,
Had gone into battle.

There was a hero called Elama,
He followed General Ayi tight.
He was hero and Khan,
And the great hero among forty heroes.
He was highly skilled in both martial art and tactics,
Held the flag high and led the troops,
Rushed into the battlefield to meet Almanbet.

In the cloudy battlefield,
Hero Almanbet waved his spear and rushed out,
He poked Elama off in just one round.
Hero Sirak cheered for Almanbet,
Waved his sabre and cut Elama's head off,
Before the flag fell,
It had been poked on Almanbet's spear point,
Jumped over valleys and gullies.
Almanbet knew well the customs of Kangayi,
Let's see what he would do.

He shouted loudly,
The slogan of "Mengdy",
Marched ahead toward Begin in the distance.

Kangayi and Karamark people,
Urged each other and followed him,
In massive and disordered columns,
Thronged to the direction of Begin.

Ketay hero Georoy,
Rode on Achybudan steed in a threatening manner,
Swayed like a dromedary bull.
Self-glorified and swaggered,
Sabre in his hand was shining cold light.

He wore Brum leather pants arrow could not pierce,
Trousers legs wavered.
Under his feet,
The earth was astonishingly shaking.

He shouted "Mengdy" loudly,
Launched fierce attack to Kirgiz.
Soldiers met with him head-on,
Were all killed by him.
He slashed about fifty people down one time,
To this ferocious guy,
No one dare look at him and touch him.

Kergel and Aji Bayi,
Launched an attack from flank like eagles,
They could not withstand Georoy's spear,
Both were poked down and rolled on the ground.

Kangayi soldiers came from behind,
Surrouded them tight in the center,
Their mounts were taken by enemies.

When they were going to be caught,
When they were going to lose their heads,
Hero with white felt hat of black rolled hem,
Khan Jagurp's son Sirak,

Urged his steed and came like a flying arrow.

He kicked the ribs of Tilkezler steed,
Rashly and fiercely,
Matchlessly brave,
Surprisingly impressive bearing showed all over him.

He waved the spear in the hand,
Heroes behind Georoy,
Were the arrogant warriors,
Stabbed six of them down in succession.

Bozwuler and hero Showtu rushed ahead,
Sirak had killed many enemies,
Their mounts dragged the halters ran randomly in the battlefield,
Heroes picked up the halters of these two steeds,
Gave to the hands of Aji Bayi and Kergel,
Let them ride on the steeds and go back to the camp.

Ferocious giant Georoy,
Charged all the way ahead,
Like driving sheep in the pen,
Launched attacks continually.
In a blink of an eye,
He poked seventeen Kirgiz warriors down on the ground,
Blood reddened the spear in his hand.

No one noticed when hero Muzburchak,
Came to this place,
He joined Shihay and Tirkechy,
Appeared in the battlefield side by side.
These famous Khans,
Also stabbed by Georoy and fell off steeds,
Did not escape enemy's spear.

Heroes Aji Bayi and Kergel,
Warriors Bozwuler and Showtu,

Rushed anywhere in the battlefield,
Found many distressed heroes and their steeds,
Gathered them together and helped.

Before they came to rescue,
Tirkechy, Shihay and Muzburchak,
Had fallen into enemy's hand,
Their hands were tied behind their backs,
Were loaded on horsebacks like goods.
Kangayi soldiers left the battlefield,
Like driving the camel group.

Right at this critical moment,
Peerless hero Sirak,
Appeared beside them.

Six strong men cleared the way in the front,
One thousand soldiers followed,
Two headmen, one general,
Drove three Khans to go forward.

Seeing uncles being captured,
Lion Sirak was filled with fury.
For what Kangayi had done,
He was too angry to control his temper.

What was it if it was not anger?
He waved his spear and charged ahead,
Killed mercilessly,
Six strong men,
One general and two headmen.

Right at this moment,
Aji Bayi and Kergel led,
Twenty one warriors and came in time.
Those one thousand enemy soldiers,
Were killed by the warriors immediately.

Tirkechy, Shihay and Muzburchak,
Were rescued in time and safe.
Two steeds fell into Kangayi people's hands,
Akburchok and Kartkulan,
Returned in the hands of heroes.

Giant Georoy nerved himself,
Regardless of his own safety,
Swaggered and self-glorified,
Did not care his safety at all.

Like a ball of burning flame,
More courageous and braver in fight,
No matter who met with him head-on,
No one did not poke off the steed and die.

Karamark warrior Wushan,
Followed him and cheered up for him.
He led tens of thousands of soldiers,
He urged his soldiers ceaselessly.

No one could predict the future,
No one could experience the situation of being cheated.
Dust billowed and covered the sky,
No single troop advanced slowly.
Troops were like a storm,
Charged forward toward Begin.

Almanbet disguised himself as Elama,
Led troops forward without any stop.
Sariala steed disguised as the black steed,
Guided enemies to retreat.

When they arrived at the hill near Begin,
Almanbet climbed on a hill,
Fixed his eyes and looked ahead,
Two figures, one behind the other, appeared in the distance.

"Who goes before me?
I must get to know their identity."

Almanbet had his heart in his mouth,
Urged his steed and galloped ahead,
He recognized the two steeds in the front,
They were Alekala and Ackura.

"Cunning Kunwuer Bayi,
It must be his plot."
Almanbet threw the flag in his hand away,
Urged Sariala and galloped forward.

Let hero Almanbet,
Galloped ahead at top speed.
Please listen carefully,
How Manas chased Kunwuer Bayi.

The lion dashed ahead regardless of his safety,
Suddenly he saw Begin city in the front.
He was a real matchless hero,
Claimed nothing but fought bravely.

As long as he made a gentle push,
Kunwuer Bayi would die;
As long as he pulled the spear out,
It would make Kunwuer Bayi bleed,
Made Kunwuer bleed to death.

As he saw the city in the distance,
He had such a thought:
"Sentries think a formidable enemy will come,
They must close the gate.
Desperately struggled Kunwuer Bayi,
Must be bolted out of the city gate with panic.
I can give up my spear,
To nail Kunwuer Bayi on the city wall,

Then I will turn my steed round and go back to camp."

He gazed and hotly pursued,
With confidence.

Begin was not a normal city,
It had city walls outside and alleys inside.
Impressive city walls rounded the whole city,
Were of forty-span tall.

It had more marvelous spectacles,
Which were surprising and unimaginable:
The moat around the city,
Was forty-span deep and forty-span wide,
It was fully filled with water.
If you are capable,
You should go and see personally.

The bridge on the city moat was made of cast iron,
No matter it was suspended or put down,
Sixty giants need work together.

As approaching the moat,
Alekala steed was like having wings,
Spread its long mane and tail,
Jumped high into sky,
Then over the wide city moat,
Over the high city wall too,
Nothing could block it.

The spear slipped out of the hand,
Hero Ayikoler Manas was at the end of his resources,
Just sat woodenly on the back of Ackura.

Seeing Alekala jumping over the wall,
Kunwuer Bayi succeeded in escaping,
Lion Manas was really furious,

He thought it was because of Ackura's incapability.

"I will cut your head off like butcher a sheep,
Cut your belly open like cutting a watermelon.
Alekala is a steed like you,
You have the same hooves like Alekala,
He can leap over the city wall,
Why cannot you fly over like Alekala?"

When he drew his sword out,
Almanbet arrived in time.
He worried the hero would do stupid thing with anger,
So he whipped and urged his steed,
And shouted loudly at the same:
"Hero, do not make a rash act!
Please hold your hand,
Listen to my advice."

Almanbet came in a hurry,
Took Achy Abaris sword over,
Said such words to the hero:
"You ignore your mistake,
Why do you complain an animal?
Act rashly without careful thinking,
This is not what a Khan should do.
Do not tame the steed from the beginning,
Whose fault is this?
You should think about it carefully.

"Kunwuer Bayi did well in taming his steed,
He bricked specially a high wall for this,
Bricked one layer for the steed to jump,
He would add a layer after the steed made it.
Day after day,
Year after year,
The steed was trained of an ability of jumping over the wall.
He then makes the wall higher and higher,

"Even a wall of sixty-span in height,
As long as he sets mind on it,
It can jump over successfully.

"Get angry without knowing this,
My Khan,
You just made a gaffe.
You rode on Ayimanboz steed,
Floated in Ajat river,
You could not fight against your enemy,
You felt annoyed.

"Don't you know,
The importance of Ackura steed?
How anxious you were waiting for it then,
Now you draw your sword out to it,
Now please think about it carefully."

Heard these words from Almanbet's heart,
Manas kept quiet,
Stood dumbly aside.

Almanbet was very angry,
He spoke again with raising voice:
"The cunning lackey pretended to flee,
Tried his best to cheat you.

"If he guides you into Begin city,
There are numerous devils there,
As dense as ants,
Who dare compete with them?

"They will cut you into pieces,
Divide you up in a blink of an eye.
Hero, let's go, go back to the camp with me."
Almanbet guided him gently and patiently,
Persuaded Manas to return.

Ninety thousand soldiers and numerous elites,
Approached under the lead of General Ayi,
Niskara and Georoy brought up the rear,
Heroes like Muradiler, Wushan,
Were in the tens of thousands of troops.

At the back of the troops,
Kirgiz people turned out,
Two armies mixed together,
It was hard to distinguish Kirgiz out of Kangayi.

Hero Chuwak on one side,
Hero Sirak on the other side,
Two heroes swept away the thousands of troops,
Chased tight from the back.

Kangayi soldiers were kept in the dark:
"Our headman Elama holds the flag high,
Guides us in the front,
Kunwuer Bayi follows him,
Just passed us fully armed."
They shouted and made great noise,
Galloped ahead with dust covered the sun.

Seeing the figure of General Ayi,
The lion urged Ackura steed ahead for a fight,
It was impossible for others to request for fighting,
No one could stop his action.
The hero shouted loudly and charged ahead,
Nerved himself and rushed to enemies.

Heard the great name of Manas,
Heroes swaggered in normal times,
Were scared out of their wits,
Swayed on their horsebacks.

General Ayi rode on the silver flowered steed,

Waved his spear and met the attack,
The earth was rumbling,
Shaking and deafening.

General Ayi felt his hair inverted,
His face was pale and eyes were red.
Two heroes called up all their courage,
Stretched their spears out at the same time.
Spear points stabbed the chest shelter with loud crack,
Battleax cut the helmet with clang.

Ferocious brown steed and Ackura,
Jumped and galloped like raging fire.
Shields swayed,
Clothes edges waved with wind.
They slashed and poked each other,
A breathtaking fight was going on.

They seized each other's clothes edge,
Clutched each other's waist,
Kicked each other's steed,
Attempted to drag the other one off the saddle.

They parted with each other,
Turned their steeds round and charged to each other again,
Pulled each other's arms,
Pounded the battleax toward the other's head.

Seized each other's collar,
Pulled each other's clothes edge,
Clutched each other's waist,
Broke each other's belt.

Akolebok battle robe of Manas,
Was not made of normal material,
It was not easy to be torn up;
Kudoru belt on his waist,

Was unusual and hard to be torn up either.

Badana armor on General Ayi,
Had been torn up,
Chains connected the armor,
Were all broken.
The body of General Ayi,
Was badly mangled and his ribs were showed clearly.

"Now it is the best chance to attack."
Manas adjusted and prepared to attack.
He held the silver spear,
Poked toward the chest of General Ayi.

This magical Sire spear,
Was carefully forged by the lame craftsman,
It could bend but it would not break.
It was a handy weapon for Ayikoler Manas;
This magical Sire spear,
Was held in the hand of Khan Manas,
Like the moon shined the sky.

General Ayi was Manas' defeated opponent,
He harbored his wish of revenge for many years,
Now they met and fought against each other again,
The desire of killing Manas was lit up.

"I will make numerous Arashi people,
Lose their homes and leave their homeland."
He urged his mount the silver flowered steed,
Bravely and courageously.

For the sake of the peace of Kirgiz people,
Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Went to the battlefield since he was nine,
It seemed like he came to the world for revenge.

Look at his matchlessly heroic manner,
He was a real hero hard to find in the world.

When general rushed to his side,
Manas thought in his mind:
"If I do not defeat General Ayi,
I, Ayikoler Manas,
How I can be a matchless hero in the world!"

He threw the spear in his hand away,
Waved the sharp battleax,
Parried off the spear,
Poked out by General Ayi.

Two capable generals brushed passed each other,
Lion Ayikoler adjusted himself,
Before general turning his steed round,
The hero seized the chance,
Shouted "Manas" in his mouth,
Pushed General Ayi's flag down,
Pounded General Ayi's head cruelly with his ax,
Sent General Ayi to the hell.
The ax cut down from the head,
Inserted deeply in the clavicle.

Swaggering giant Georoy,
Was a hero of high skills.
When General Ayi and Manas,
Fought equally against each other,
He could not control his murderous feeling,
Mounted, waved the spear and rushed out of the camp,
Bit his lips tight,
Poked mountain-size Koshaoyi,
Down the horseback.

Right at this critical moment,
Chuwak came with his steed,

He poked his sharp spear quickly,
Made swaggering Georoy fall off the horseback.

Though he fell off from the steed,
But it was hard to take his life away.
The spreading enemy troops,
Surrounded Georoy in the center and saved him right away.

Sirak saw this far away,
Whipped Koshaoyi's steed and dashed aheadm,
Like clanking flying arrow.
Uncle had been wurrounded by one thousand soldiers,
He was in great danger.

Enemies slashed their axes mercilessly,
Their shouts were earthshaking.
Old but vigorous hero Koshaoyi,
Stood up from the ground with a loud shout,
White spear was waving with a whirring sound,
About one hundred and fifty enemy soldiers,
Were sent to the other world immediately.

Before enemies attacked again,
Hero Sirak whipped his steed and arrived,
Killed rest of the enemies.
Uncle mounted his maroon steed again,
Raised his head high like a mountain.
Georoy dare not go back to his camp,
He had to flee away to save his life.

Bakay kept the field firm,
Held the red flag with gold badge tight in his hand.
Kirgiz warriors surrounded him,
Rounded hero lion Manas,
Stood at four sides of the flag proudly.

Ketay and Chytay①,
Numerous big persons came,
Kangayi generals and soldiers,
And numerous commanders and governors,
Soldiers shouted ceaselessly,
The loud voice echoed to the clouds.

Numerous Karamark people,
Lamas, generals and headmen,
Soldiers fled in panic,
Moved forward toward Begin.

Let us put this aside,
To sing about how troops of both side,
Prepare for the final battle.

① Chytay: It probably has no meaning here. For the sake of rhyme, the singer just puts a similar word to echo the sound of last line.

Both Sides' Camps Before the Battle

Ajat riverbanks were boundlessly wide,
Hill slopes were green lawn,
It was dense forest on the mountain,
Artemisia argyi and pasture grew full at the foot of the mountain,
Crystal clear river flowed.

Arashi troops chased defeated kangayi troops,
Dismounted and stretched their arms and legs.
Built stoves and lit up,
Prepared to pitch their camp beside the river.

The lion wore the white battle gown,
Stood aside with thousand of thoughts;
Almanbet walked around,
And counted the number of soldiers.

He called in ten-household-men and fifty-household-men,
Elders who did not come,
He would send messengers to invite them specially.
Headmen of all levels in army,
Even very rich persons,
All gathered and participate in discussing.

Almanbet told everyone clearly:
"When we started off toward Begin,
In Kokcholer Gobi desert,
I got the appointment officially,
I became the commander of the troops.

You administer soldiers divided to you,
Count the number of rest your soldiers."

Ten-household-men ran and jumped,
Fifty-household-men ran around,
Shuttled back and forth in crowd,
Continued to gather toward the centurions.

Centurions gathered and counted,
Went to chiliarch in humble reverence,
Gathered what they accumulated together.
Chiliarch counted and collected,
Reported the result to Almanbet at last.

When the troops stationed in Kokcholer,
There were totally fifty four Lek soldiers,
Now the number collected,
Showed twenty four Lek had lost their lives.
When Almanbet heard this result,
He gave out the order seriously:
"Please hurry up and mount your horses,
All turn out right now,
Cannot let condors eat corpses,
Bury the corpse as soon as you find one.
Some are injured,
Lying on the ground and moaning painfully,
You must go and visit them,
Anyhow you should cure their wounds and save their lives."

Khan Almanbet gave out the order,
Soldiers all came to clear the battlefield.
In that bloody battlefield,
Generals and soldiers witnessed the miserable condition.

Corpses spread all across in confusion,
Like piled pasture;
Some stuck in the earth upside down,

With their legs and feet sticking up.

Some embraced together,
Like branches of dead trees;
Some had their necks turned to the side,
Showed their teeth.

Some corpses separated and shoulders stuck out,
Only the body left like a dead trunk;
Some were with their butts stuck up,
Some were with their stomachs bellied like a hill.

Some bent their backs,
Shrank their hands and feet like going to catch rabbit.
Corpses spread all over the battlefield,
Bodies were not complete and horrible to look at.

Some corpses looked peaceful,
Showed calm appearances;
Some corpses were ugly,
Faces were as pale as withered grass.

There were countless battles,
But this one was most tragic.
Look at those battle horses running everywhere,
Dragged halters with empty saddles.

No one knew the number of horses,
And how many of them were driven by Karamark.
Look at those battle horses lost their masters,
Saddles had slanted toward one side.

Numerous horses stumbled over halters,
Lowered their heads and could not free themselves.
Numerous horses crouched and moaned,
Terrifying eyes had no lustre,
Their bodies pressed on the corpses.

Numerous soldiers' heads,
Were all smashed by battleaxes and hammers,
On the tops of grass and loess land,
Sprayed full of blurry brains.
There were a lot more corpses,
Their sunken eyes were not close.

Corpses could be recognized all gathered,
Showed respect to them reverently.
Tears shed with sorrow filled full,
Everyone was with extreme grief.

On a hillock generated by fine earth,
Soldiers dug graves silently.
"Wish their souls rest in peace."
White strips of cloth were on tombs instead of tombstones.

Kirgiz people were extremely sad,
Full of tears.
Headmen were even more sorrowful,
Sat in their camp quietly.

After two days' rest,
Almanbet invited all Khans,
To discuss about the final battle.
Sage Koshaoyi and Muzburchak,
Tirkechy, Shihay, Garmgirchy,
Ageshi, Senchybek and Yurbi.

Giant Toshtuk with huge body,
Young hero Kelkokuler,
Uncle Bakay and lion Ayikoler,
Heroes Sirak and Chuwak,
Came in succession,
Greeted each other.

Elder Koshaoyi spoke first,

Told others what he thought:
"My child Almanbet,
What kind of thing you need discuss with us?
If there is something need to be discussed,
You just feel free to tell us."

Heard what elder Koshaoyi said,
Almanbet began to say:
"Respected Khans,
Heroes present,
We experienced hardships and went on the expedition,
The place of departure is so far,
We arrived in Ketay's homeland,
Stepped on Khitan's hometown.

"Blood runs, stamp over corpses,
A battle starts here.
Enemies fight against us,
More than half of them have fled back to Begin.
Do not get a swelled head,
Because enemies throw everything and flee;
Do not think they will come back to the battlefield,
And make yourself too worried and desperate.

"Khans and headmen of Kangayi,
Have called in their people to discuss,
Now they have prepared well.
Soldiers were as many as wild weeds,
They will fight back in five days.
They will come to fight one by one,
They will fight against rivals one for one desperately.
Confused fight between two armies will not start,
There are countless heroes and warriors among them.

"Aisanhan must assume the leadership,
Aoronko will come as the vanguard.
The hero fights first must be Aoronko,

My respected uncle Koshaoyi,
Can you go and fight against him?

"No matter you win or fail,
It must be hero Bolanchu fights second.
Heroes in Begin city,
I saw them all and do not feel strange.
Their life expectancy has not done,
I am also alive till now.

"If Bolanchu comes and fights,
I will go and compete with him,
Though I do not have full confidence in winning,
I wish I can be alive and meet you again.

"If Georoy waves his sabre and fights,
Toshtuk, you need go to fight.
If Niskara nerves himself and fights,
It must be hero Chuwak to fight against him.

"Muradiler, Wushan, Sayikali,
No matter which one of them come to challenge,
Sirak, you need go into fight without hesitation.

"Soldiers and horses crowded in the wilderness,
It is Aisanhan himself who holds the flag.
Who else can hold our flag of Khan,
Except uncle Bakay?

"Wear tall boots made of felt,
Dignified Kunwuer Bayi,
If he cannot control himself and come to fight,
Hero of the world Manas,
Must come out and fight against him in person.

"Yurbi, you are Kazakh Khan,
You are smart and agile.

There will be countless wounded soldiers,
Moan painfully with their arms lost,
Eye balls burst out and become blind,
Wounded legs shake and cannot stand stably.

"Such things are common in the battlefield,
If wounded soldiers are abandoned in the field,
They must die innocently.
All these wounded soldiers and horses,
How about you take in charge of them?

"Senchybek with flying beard,
Most time of your life,
You are counting your money accurately,
You will be responsible for the logistic supply,
Send food to the frontline on time.

"In the battle yesterday,
A lot died and we have a great loss.
Please take in charge of logistic supply,
Go out early and come back late,
Do not make soldiers cold and hungry.

"Khan Budayik's son Muzburchak,
You are highly skilled in martial art,
You are experienced and knowledgeable,
You are familiar with medical knowledge and wise.

"As long as you are still alive,
You cannot let our soldiers lose lives;
For those who have lost their lives,
You are in charge of burying them.

"Shihay, you are a venerable old man,
You are responsible for gathering horses which lost their masters.
Young hero Kelkokuler,
Please listen to me carefully:

You should go at the back of the troops,
Be in charge of the stability of our army,
Must not let disturbance happen in the troops,
And flee back in a panic.

"Heroes Garmgirchy and Ageshi,
You two need keep the troops in battle array on both sides.
Uncle Tirkechy is very familiar with livestock's habits,
Shihay gives you the horses he gathers,
You need guard them strictly,
You also need in charge of the firewood.

"Uncle Bakay, you are a reverent old man,
If every one here has no different opinion,
If Khan Manas also agrees,
We will let you take charge of,
Our flag with gold point,
Till the end of the battle."

Wise Khan Almanbet,
Assigned missions to all,
People all kept silent,
It seemed they had accepted,
What Almanbet said.

When seeing people's response toward his words,
Hero Almanbet began his streams of words:
"There are Khans among us who rule people,
There are warriors and heroes,
There are common people.
It is not allowed to appoint people by favoritism,
Only give out post on the grounds of personal favor.
Everyone has exact task,
Just mind your own business and do it well.

"Soldiers are good at using long spear,
They should line separately,

Form up an order;
Giants wave battleaxes,
Axmen of high skills,
All gather and form an order.

"Hold the handles tight and wave sabre,
Slash targets accurately,
Executioners need form in a line;
Iron shovels and iron sticks,
Were the same kind of weapon,
They need gather together;
Masters fight with their battle hammers,
Form in a line and march forward.

"Soldiers good at using firelocks in battle,
Marksmen load and light fuses fast,
Need form in an order;
Brave archers carry quivers,
Need form in an order.
Soldiers should be formed with arms of services,
Prepare to meet the challenge in high spirit."
Almanbet gave out the order,
Before the battle like this.

Hero lion Ayikoler Manas,
Entitled Koshaoyi as the chief general,
The sage was wise and noble;
Uncle Bakay took the lead,
The troops divided to prepare day and night.

Let us put Kirgiz aside,
Get to know the information of Ketay.

Alekala steed jumped over the wall and entered the city,
Landed in a busy and noisy market.
The market Kunwuer Bayi landed,
Was the biggest market in Begin city.

Kunwuer Bayi was stabbed in his waist,
Blood was running down.
Seeing his injury,
Khans were all worried,
Inquired and looked for doctors and prescription.
In splendid Begin City,
Every one was jittery.

People searched along the street,
Among tens of thousands of people,
Chose famous doctors and capable brains.
Applied the plaster on his wounds,
Fifty doctors held a consultation together.

In less than the time of one meal,
Kunwuer Bayi's howl was quieted down.
Within three days,
His wounds were cured.

People's gall bladder was put in the wounds,
Applied with plaster elimination of toxin,
Applied patches of relieving pain,
Powered poppy, codonopsis pilosula,
Bagged and applied.

Kunwuer recovered soon,
Karamark people,
Began to calm down.

During these three days,
His courtyard was like a market,
Friends, relatives and nobles,
All came to visit.

In the place called Kakanchy,
Crows could accomplish tasks messengers did,
There was a kind of bird called Tokunek,

Also flied here and there to deliver messages.
As long as the letters were hanging on their necks,
They would deliver them accurately.

Kunwuer Bayi wrote to Aisanhan,
Told about everything happened,
And emphasized the following at the end of the letter:
"Heroes make your people fall apart,
Ferocious Kirgiz are coming.
Manas stretches his vicious and violent hands out,
Arms himself and comes for the battle terrifyingly.
Sorandick's son Almanbet,
The guy never could be tamed also leads troops,
His challenge is our sore point.
Arashi people of sixty tribes,
Reach the city gates under Koshaoyi's lead.

"After several days' fight with them,
We fought from morning till dusk with no good sleep,
Our spreading troops,
Now have more than half been lost.

"General Ayi and Sorokai,
Had lost lives under their knives.
Innocent people lost lives,
Famous heroes had been killed,
A great number of our people have been killed.

"Sorandick waved his sabre and fought,
He did not escape from death either.
Since you become the Khan,
When do we have such big lost?

"Aisanhan, do not come alone by yourself,
You need act quickly with all Khans.
Troops of Chinmachun and Kakan should all turn out,
Troops of Bakburchun and Tonsha cannot let anyone stay.

Take all generals who are brave and skillful,
And heroes who want to be famous through the ages.

"Send letters without any hesitation,
To all brave people,
To where your order can reach,
Ask them dispatch troops as soon as possible,
Troops from all directions should start off quickly."

Kunwuer Bayi, the head of all troops,
Khan Niskara and headman Muradiler,
Karamark headman Wushan,
Kandan's son hero giant Georoy,
Because General Ayi had died,
All leaders under his rule,
And Kangayi elders,
Wrote to Aisanhan together in a fluster,
Affixed the huge seal at the end of the letter.
They flew Toknek bird,
To deliver the letter to Aisanhan.

Khans and headmen acted together,
Descended a piece of rosy cloud in front of Aisanhan,
That was flat and splendid carpet,
Started off form Kantun where was six-day journey far,
Lifted in turn and marched forward fast,
In a blink of an eye,
Aisanhan, the head of all Khans,
Was sent into palace in Begin.

People may not believe in,
What I described,
Because none of you experienced it in person.

Aisanhan, the head of all Khans,
Accompanied by Aoronko,
Protected by General Kun personally.

Khans led by Aisanhan,
Totally thirty, gathered.
Generals led by General Kun,
Were about more than forty in number.

Powerful enemies dispatched in massive columns,
There were men of unusual strength, giants,
And a lot of famous heroes,
Who were too heavy for horses and had to go on foot.
Governors were several hundred in number,
Common soldiers were countless.

Seeing the face of Aisanhan,
Kunwuer Bayi turned up his nose,
Neither showed respect like before to Aisanhan,
Nor bowed and lowered his head.

He was filled with fury and his eyes were flaming,
Forgot the complicated courtesy in the palace,
Reprimanded straight to the point:
"Arashi people traveled long distance to come,
Launched fierce attacks to us.
It is because you, Ketay people, did wrong,
Which made they charge so desperately.

"The lackey betrayed and fled away,
Is right Sorandick's rebellions son.
He deluded all Arashi people,
Led them to Begin."

Kunwuer Bayi beat around the bush,
Ridiculed them very firmly.
He was trying to save his Karamark people,
Let all other troops from east to west,
Go to the battle as sacrifice.

The words Kunwuer Bayi said,

Was not unreasonable.
Aoronko stood by his side,
Was the capable assistant of Aisanhan.
It was him who instigated Aisanhan,
Divided the pasture and land.

Almanbet clouded with anger because of this,
Then he divided the land to common people again.
Kunwuer Bayi spoke bitingly,
Also because of this matter.

Shouldered Ochokor firelock,
Armed to the teeth,
Prepared comprehensively for the battle.
He said all these words without a break,
Then lifted the whip and turned the steed round.

Khan Niskara,
Was of a rapid intellect and superior wisdom,
He was given to using acid and bitter words,
He never put Kuwuer Bayi in his eyes:

"Hey, hero Kunwuer,
Do not hurry, please stop for a while!
You start off alone by yourself,
Which way do you ask for help?
You was defeated when you fought for the first time,
You fell off the steed with your mouth gnawed the earth.
You went to fight again because you refused to accept the fail,
You talked so wildly that seemed to swallow the world,
Unfortunately you were stabbed in your butt,
Fled awkwardly and saved your life luckily.

"You are always self-righteous,
Your above 'achievements' are just jokes.
You put on airs and look down on all others,
What you say does not sound pleasant all the time.

You are self-glorified and look down upon others,
It is most stupid to act like this.

"Aisanhan with sovereign Khan throne,
He heads the glory and the brilliance,
Comes from great homeland Bakburchin,
To this place with General Kun of his company.
The massive forces of Kangayi,
Led by Aisanhan personally,
Turn out to the battlefield.
I have some words from the bottom of my heart,
Please listen carefully.

"We hold battleaxes, swords and spears in our hands,
And iron sticks and shovels,
Our weapons are sophisticated and all complete.
Spears as curly as wolf tongue,
Sabre of bent point,
And retractable hammers.

"Artilleries, firelocks and Koychager,
All kinds of them are well prepared,
One of the most violent weapon,
Must be the whistling arrow like hail.

"Heroes of unique skills,
Dash to the battlefield like storms,
They are all as brave as excited lions.
Incomparable Kangayi people,
Who can resist them.

"Numerous soldiers with high skills,
You can go to battle freely.
Troops divide into groups by different services,
This is the strategy to deal with the enemy.

"You are all respected capable men of all tribes,

You are heroes administer one place for a long time.
Lead massive troops to attack Brute people,
We need not only heroes and warriors,
But also capable Khans.
The battle will be fierce and brutal,
If we act rashly and fight confusedly,
Innocent soldiers will be brought in the miserable disaster,
Like fly finch to the eagle.

"We lift our flag high,
Go to fight against enemy one-on-one,
Such strategy can win the battle,
Whether you all agree or not?
As long as heroes die,
Khans come very naturally to be men without followers;
As long as headmen are defeated,
Others come very naturally to flee away.

"We need adopt means of fighting one-on-one,
Try to defeat Brute people.
Eliminate their heroes one by one,
Push them into the door of the hell.

"Aoronko, you are self-glorified,
You are an uncommon hero.
On Kokotoy's ceremony,
At the moment the conflict was inspired,
You nerved yourself and fought against giant Koshaoyi,
But you were defeated,
You buried the hatred and the shame deep in your heart.

"I have to make short of long,
As long as you go to fight this time,
Koshaoyi must come and compete against you,
It is your time to fight out with him for your revenge.
It is your good fortune if you defeat him,
You will lose your life if you are defeated,

And put the regret in your heart forever.

"At this critical moment,
Bolanchu will not be completely indifferent,
He must wave his spear and fight facing powerful enemies.
Bolanchu fights for Kangayi troops,
Almanbet must come out for Brute people.
If Bolanchu acts bravely,
Defeat that damned lackey Almanbet,
We can get even with our enemy Manas,
Who bites the hook by himself.

"If they see Georoy going to fight,
They must send Toshtuk to fight.
I will enter the battlefield after Georoy,
If everything goes smooth,
With the help of almighty Heaven,
I can poke Chuwak down and capture him alive.

"Muradiler, Wushan and Sayikali,
No matter which one of them fights,
Khan Jagurp's son Sirak,
Will wave his spear bravely.
Tomorrow's battle,
Will be a breathtakingly fierce.

"Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
I have witnessed their martial skills,
If giving them a fair judgment,
It is Sirak who is the bravest.

"Kunwuer, you need show your people your power,
Go to fight without any hesitation from the back.
As long as you whip your steed to fight,
Manas must come to fight against you,
Then your wish might come true."

Niskara spouted an unceasing flow of words,
Stated his point of view clearly.
Aisanhan and Aoronko,
Heartily agreed with him on it.
Other Khans and heroes,
Also said Niskara's opinion was reasonable.
Aggressive Kunwuer Bayi,
Calmed down gradually.

Arokai's son Kunwuer Bayi,
Had a body as huge as a yurt,
He saddled Alekala steed,
Cared nothing about washing and eating,
Came unkempt to the temple and prayed.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about how hero giant Koshaoyi,
Killed Aoronko.

The Death of Aoronko and Bolanchu

Heard Niskara's suggestions,
Everyone present was agreeable.
Aisanhan led the Kangayi troops,
Generals were all overjoyed with respect,
Lifted Aisanhan over their heads.

"Here is Ajat riverbank,
There is the Brute military camp."
Like wild weeds in spring wind,
Kakan people all started off.

Six marshals, ten generals,
Led the massive troops.
There was a hero among them called Chunmergen,
Once he went with Almanbet,
To learn martial art skills afar.
Overbearing General Kun,
Brought him to the battlefield too.

Ketay headman Georoy,
Led his massive forces.
Niskara and Muradiler,
And hero Wushan,
Each of them drove tens of thousands of soldiers and horses,
Started off upon their journey enthusiastically.

Kunwuer Bayi, the head of all troops,
Placed the iron stick across the front of the saddle,

Wore his armor and chest protector,
The diamond on his head,
Was glittering under the sun.
He whipped and urged Alekala steed,
Kicked up clouds of dust.

Let Tengeryn bless,
The troops marched in a great procession forward.
Dust rushed into the sky,
The sunshine hid behind the clouds of dust,
Though it was sunny,
The earth was as blurred as dusk,
It was hard to distinguish the person even right before you.

The earth was roaring, mountains were shaking,
The sun lost its light in the dust.
The troops advanced courageously,
Like the thundering before the summer storms.

Warriors under Manas' rule,
Karatolik, Arakan,
Kader, Tuman and Showtu,
Now were waiting in the camp and eager for the fight,
Each of them was brave enough to act on himself,
They were looking forward to fighting against enemies.

Twelve warriors Bolanchu led,
Pushed on without stop day and night,
Did not sleep and their eyes became red,
None of them stretched their limbs to rest,
None of them closed eyes to nap either.

Right at the heroes were waiting anxiously,
Kangayi troops arrived.
Arokai's son Kunwuer Bayi,
Did not let soldiers dismount and unsaddle horses.

He pulled the halter,
Sent messengers to ask for a fight immediately.
He wrote a letter,
Required them to hurry right back,
And take Kirgiz's reply.

Messengers were composed by seven people,
The headman was a hero called Chunmergen.

Bakay opened the letter,
Read the letter from start to finish,
He knew the content of the letter.
It is suggested in the letter to avoid the confused battle,
Heroes of two sides need fight one-on-one.

Bakay read through the letter quickly,
Wrote a reply:
"We agree to fight in the battle one-on-one,
To avoid the confused battle of two armies,
Innocent soldiers have no business with this."

Messengers returned their camp,
Aisanhan got the decisive reply,
He held up the flag,
Generals and soldiers shouted with excitement.

Look at the troops of Kakan,
Soldiers lined up with weapons in their hands,
Each line and each group were ready for the battle.

Arashi people were greatly surprised,
Admired Almanbet who could foresee with divine accuracy,
Contrasted sharply with Kakan people,
And divided the troops by the service.

Troops of both sides held up their own flag,
The big flags waved with wind.

Under the two flags,
Khans' control towers had been built.

Khan Bakay and Aisanhan,
Commanded and dispatched their own troops,
Sat frankly in great state.
The two armies were pitted against each other hostilely.

Kangayi hero Aoronko,
Urged his grey steed ahead to challenge,
Roared ceaselessly like a dark blue beast.
Seeing the aggressive manner of Aoronko,
Soldiers were afraid and trembling with fear,
Who dare come out and fight against him.

Aoronko whose time of death was coming,
Had mountain-size figure.
The muscles on his forearms,
Were as strong as a three-year-old calf.

Carried hard shield on his back,
Held the spear in the hand,
The battleax was hanging in his waist,
The sabre was sheathed,
The battle hammer was pressed under his legs,
Five-layer armors were on him.
He prayed to his god,
Murmured continually for god's blessings.

Kicked his mount, the grey spotted steed,
Aoronko was in a very threatening manner,
He dashed out from the boiling Karamark camp,
Tall, strong and majestic.

He was armed to the teeth,
Waved the spear in his hand,
The brave and courageous manner,

Was more ferocious and arrogant than all heroes.

Brave and resourceful old hero Koshaoyi,
Saddled his maroon steed,
Wore noble Akolbok battle robe,
As powerful and ferocious as a wolf.

Earthshaking bellow was like the rutting bull camel,
Threw enemies into great panic.
He was a strong giant,
He was good at attacking and fighting.

A ferocious hunting dog was after him,
On his hand there was an agile hunting eagle.
The rival was powerful Aoronko,
Hero Koshaoyi must defeat him.

Giant Koshaoyi urged his steed ahead,
With an imposing and majestic manner,
Like a high ridge,
Flames erupted out of his eyes,
Came head-on to the battlefield.

Neither of Aoronko and Khan Koshaoyi,
Threw the dignity of Khan away.
Aoronko pulled the halter and stopped,
Asked Koshaoyi to report the background,
He asked in Kangayi language,
Which Koshaoyi could understand nothing.

Koshaoyi turned his head and looked back,
Waved the whip in his hand,
Eloquent Aji Bayi,
Urged his steed and rushed to Koshaoyi.

Kepchaque Bayi's son Aji Bayi,
Had gifted intelligence and uncommon memory;

He was fluent in seven languages,
His ability was exceptionally unusual.

Aji Bayi came up,
Said to Koshaoyi:
"My dear uncle,
He said he is the Khan of Kakan,
He said reporting name before the battle,
Is the rule of Khan,
What he asked,
Is your name, identity and hometown."

Uncle Koshaoyi burst into laughter,
Hid his anger behind the laughter:
"You, the Karamark,
Want to know my detailed background.
I am a Kirgiz,
You should listen carefully and remember clearly,
Koshaoyi is my name.
I am not a nobody,
I am a highly placed Khan.

"You, the Karamark lackey,
Have full of hatred in your heart.
To my surprise, you do not recognize me,
Today I will let you recognize me clearly!"

Hearing what Koshaoyi said,
Aoronko fully exposed his fierce features:
"I am a hero from Kangayi,
I am the honorable advisor of Aisanhan,
I also live in big Begin city.
You are the Khan of Kirgiz,
I am the same as you in Kangayi.

"Though I am old,
You are also white haired,

You are even older than me,
You are lacking in youthful vigour.
Your future is bleak,
The door of the hell is right beside you."

When Aoronko finished these words,
He remembered the scene Koshaoyi tumbled him down.
He waved his spear and rushed to the battlefield furiously,
Like a venomous snake opened its bloody mouth,
With such an inflating arrogance.

As hero Koshaoyi saw this,
He loosed the rope of the eagle,
Flew the eagle into the sky.
Then he waved his arms,
Pointed the hunting dog,
Toward the direction the eagle flew.

The eagle clapped its wings in the sky,
The hunting dog barked and rushed to the battlefield.

Koshaoyi was old but vigorous,
He lifted the spear in his hand.
He was brave in the battlefield,
Powerful generals like Aoronko,
He had killed a number of them.

They attacked courageously and started a fierce fight,
Looked for each other's weak point,
Attacked bravely and warded cautiously,
One round after another,
Turned round their steeds and rushed to each other ceaselessly.

The two old men stared at each other,
White beard swayed with wind.
The time of their best physical condition had gone,
Two heads began to shake from time to time.

Koshaoyi had accomplished ninety years of his life,
Aoronko was also over eighty years old.
Even they had one foot in the grave,
Two powerful generals were still matchlessly brave.

They fought against each other bravely,
Attacked and counterattacked, braver and braver,
Attacked on the left, poked on the right,
The breathtaking fight was going on fiercely.

Chased each other or rushed side by side,
Tangled together and seized clothes edges.
They had no teeth to grip the lips,
They had to let lips sway by themselves.

They tangled and attacked equally,
Only tried to pound the hammer on the other's head.
It could not defeat the rival with the spear,
They had to hold the crescent ax in the hand,
Waved and attacked.

Slashed and warded, cut and dodged,
Axes knocked with loud clang.
Ax handles were broken and cut into pieces,
Heroes were empty handed.

They drew out sabre,
Sabre broke into pieces in a blink of an eye.
They were like eagles struck the vast sky,
Glared at each other with fury.

They pulled and pushed on horsebacks,
Seized each other's collar,
Clenched their teeth and took full of their strength,
Still could not drag the other one off the steed.

They panted heavily,

Gum piled at the corner of their eyes,
Eyelashes became hard and could not move,
Bushy beard stood up right.

Neck shrank back into the collar,
But the collar was torn,
The belt was broken,
The head pushed the lower jaw of the other one.

The clothes edges were torn into pieces,
Rebuked each other and roared.
Blood ran down from the head,
Muscles on the arms were torn,
The skin was tore and pulled to the wrist.

The day passed, the night arrived,
They jumped off from the horseback at the same time,
Inserted the long spear in the earth,
Hung their weapons on the spear shaft.

They wrestled with chest against chest,
Clutched and shook each other,
Nerved themselves and plucked up courage,
But still could not defeat the other one.

The roar came out from time to time,
The body could not bear such torture,
No matter who made the shout,
The voice was loud enough to deafen ears.
Blue veins stood out on the temples,
The face turned blue too.

Clutched each other and revolved,
With their feet swept over the ground.
Rocks stood up on the ground,
Were powdered and flew away into sky.
Mixed with sand and could not tell apart.

Two heroes did not stop even for a moment,
Did not sit on the ground for a rest either.
The battle robes were torn into pieces,
Scattered and were impossible to get back.

They mounted their steeds again,
Braved themselves and fought again,
Poked each other and went in a circle.
They had no choice,
But to give up the blind fight,
Decided to poke each other with the spear in turn.

One stood there and waited,
The other one waved the spear bravely.
If the death was coming,
Then just walk to the death calmly.

After the discussion,
Aoronko got the chance of first attack.
Hero black mane wolf Koshaoyi stood with chest out,
Held the huge shield in his hand arrogantly.
"What's the matter?"
Generals and soldiers gazed their eyes wide and felt baffling.

Aoronko nerved himself and showed his power,
Lifted the battle hammer in his hand,
Urged his grey spotted steed,
Clouds of dust kicked up under the steed's hooves,
With the shouting:
"Burhan[1]! Burhan!
Please bless me with safety."

The damned Karamark,
Lifted up the yurt-size hammer high,
Toward the head of Koshaoyi,

① Burhan: Karamark language. It means the Buddha.

Pounded with full of his strength.

Uncle Koshaoyi warded with his shield,
The shield broke into pieces and splashed right away,
Uncle Koshaoyi did not get any injuries.
The power of the hammer Aoronko pounded,
Transformed to the steed through Koshaoyi,
His mount, the maroon steed,
Its hooves deeply got into the earth.

This ferocious gut,
Owned such superior physical strength.
"Now it is your time to attack!"
It was Koshaoyi's turn to attack.

Uncle Koshaoyi was unusual,
He had already lived to such an age,
He had never used the battle hammer even one time.
Do not say using the hammer,
He even never held the hammer in his hand.

He held on the shoulder,
The door-size crescent battleax.
Unbuttoned his clothes and showed his broad chest,
Went around the wide battlefield.
The uncle too full of his strength,
Waved the ax with whirring sound.

He pulled the steed full of confidence,
Waved the ax and urged his steed to attack.
Took his strength and slashed,
At the shield Aoronko lifted up.

The extremely hard shield,
Was broken into pieces and splashed.
The earth was covered with dust,
Huge hero Aoronko,

Felt groggy and dizzy.

Old uncle Koshaoyi,
Urged the steed forward for a distance,
Looked back and shouted to Aoronko:
"Hero Aoronko, are you still alive?"

Kangayi hero Aoronko,
Heard what Koshaoyi shouted,
Blinked his eyes,
Woke up slowly from unconsciousness.

He braced himself up again,
Turned his grey spotted steed round,
Rushed out from the diffuse dust,
Got rid of the call of the death,
Firmly and unyieldingly with confidence.

Angry flames burst out of his eyes,
The spear in his hand was whirring,
Braced up regardless of his safety,
Launched the attack again to uncle Koshaoyi.

Exasperated Aoronko,
Thought in vain to kill Koshaoyi with one poke.
Old black mane wolf Koshaoyi,
Charged ahead sharply.
The battleax was waving in his hand,
He looked death calmly in the face.

Ferocious Karamark Aoronko,
Licked his lips ceaselessly with blue in the face.
He stretched the spear out and thought:
Aimed at the front of the saddle,
That was the top of the bladder.
Aoronko urged his steed ahead,
Poked his spear out,

Full of his strength.

When the poked spear was coming,
When the spear was going into the vital part,
The uncle who played with spear and sabre since he was little,
Who was proficient at all kinds of weapons,
Lifted and waved the battleax in his hand,
Then pounded severely toward the coming spear.

Under the impact of the ax,
The spear broke into seventy two pieces,
Splashed into the sky with whirring sound,
Disappeared without knowing where they fell.

Almanbet was watching in the distance,
Shouted and cheered up for Koshaoyi:
"Respected uncle,
You are highly skilled and as strong as iron,
Do not attack in turn with him,
Take the chance and kill him."

Almanbet roared loudly,
Uncle Koshaoyi was encouraged much,
Waved his spear and attacked in succession,
Made Aoronko scared and only could try to ward off.
Koshaoyi then lifted his huge ax,
Slashed ten times.

Kangayi hero Aoronko,
Got no chance to raise his head and attack back,
He could not bear the attacks,
Then conceived such an idea:

"The steed I am riding,
Is facing the direction of our camp,
It is my chance to flee back.
I will try to escape his clutches,

Urge my steed and flee full of my strength.

"Fight against him so blindly,
I must be smashed by him and die.
I will pretend to be defeated and leave the field,
Blustered Koshaoyi must not pull the halter,
He must wave his short-handled ax,
Chase after me desperately.

"I will draw out my sword and make a sudden turn,
Poke in his chest directly,
Let his blood run up.
Since he is the Kirgiz sage,
I must take his life by strategy.

"Though he is old,
He is still the backbone for all Kirgiz.
Save his people at the critical time,
He is the support of Kirgiz.

"On Kokotoy's ceremony,
No one dare come up and compete with me,
Koshaoyi was the only one who dare fight;
Today at this critical moment,
It is him again who comes up and fights first.

"I must stab the steel sword in his chest,
Take his life and let him die."

Cunning Aoronko thought wishfully,
Kicked his grey steed and pretended to flee.
Aoronko, full of craft and cunning,
Grasped the sabre in his hand tight,
Leaned himself to one side of the steed.

Giant Koshaoyi stopped at nothing,
Whipped and urged the steed and chased tight.

Almanbet thought as seeing this:
"Uncle Koshaoyi chases so blindly,
If the enemy turns back and stabs,
The sword will poke in his chest and pierce it through,
His identity and reputation as a giant,
Must be totally ruined."

Lion Almanbet was so nervous with worry,
Could not help shouting:
"Sage uncle Koshaoyi,
Where do you lose your wisdom?
Your ax handle is too short,
Now just chase after so tight,
Do not fall into the trap,
Let the steel sword pierce through your chest."

Hearing the shout of Almanbet,
White-beard Khan Koshaoyi,
Stretched the spear in his hand out,
Dashed toward the damned guy leaned to the side of the steed.

The lower hem of the battle robe rolled up,
The hem under it swayed,
The butt of Aoronko,
Was totally exposed.

The spear point of uncle Koshaoyi,
Pierced through internal organs,
From Aoronko's butt,
Stabbed into the beating heart.

Powerful and arrogant Aoronko,
Finally fell off the saddle,
On the loess land.

The uncle ran past him,
Then turned the steed round and looked,

He wanted to say the result of Aoronko.
Aoronko was struggling and rolling on the ground,
Like a venomous snake twisted.

When the uncle saw this,
The fury rose up immediately in his heart,
Raised his sword and made a cut,
The head of the enemy left the body right away.

The uncle lowered himself,
Grasped the hair and held the head in his hand.
He dragged the huge head,
Whipped his steed to Khan Bakay.

In order to cite uncle's achievement,
Khan Bakay put the red brocade robe on him.
Almanbet arrived in time,
Helped Koshaoyi dismount,
Ordered soldiers to serve the uncle well.

Right at this moment,
Ferocious Bolanchu rushed out of the camp.
Among the massive troops,
He was a really demon that hard to find in the world.

He rode on a black spotted steed,
Wore nine layers of armors.
The figure was like a blacksmith at dusk,
Blurred face was hard to be seen clearly.

When people saw his figure,
They were unimaginably scared.
He had wide shoulders, large waist and medium height,
Looked ugly and ferocious.

Muscles on the forearms,
Were like a four-year-old yak;

A pair of shaking earlobes,
Was like a blown-up leather bag.

The low place between two shoulders,
Was like the field colts galloped;
Hands were like plows,
Legs were like the beam in the palace.

Raised the nostrils,
Which were like the hole to smoke leather bags;
Eye gum was sticking on eyelashes,
Which was like a bay swaying in the cradle.

The nose bridge between the eyes,
Was like an island in an ocean;
Mussed long beard,
Was like the weeds beside Ajat river.

Eyes were shining,
Like deep lake water;
The waving plait on the back of the neck,
Was like plaited with six wool ropes.

The head was like a raised tomb,
Eyebrows were like crouched boars,
The shouting was like a loud thunder.
Heard such earthshaking shout,
Kids were scared and peed.

Showed the mighty power,
He grasped the spear tight in his hand,
Dashed ahead aggressively,
Seemed to flat the universe.

Hero Bolanchu was of huge body,
Urged his steed out of the camp impressively.
Seeing his power,

Everyone felt desperate for his life.
Anyone who went to fight against him,
Would bleed and even die.

Kakan people watched Kirgiz camp,
To see who was coming to fight,
Soldiers were looking forward.
Khan Almanbet,
Rode on his Sariala steed at the moment.

He was matchlessly highly skilled in martial art,
He was all-powerful,
His achievements were peerless in the world,
Who could compare with him!

He had extraordinary physical strength,
His sweet words could move the earth and heaven,
He was brave and indomitable,
He could compete thousands of troops by himself.

He was of superior wisdom,
He was powerfully aggressive.
Uncle Koshaoyi went side by side with him,
Sent him to the battlefield.

Almanbet whipped and urged the steed,
Came to the side of Bakay,
Came and requested earnestly:
"My respected uncle,
Since I lift the spear and go to the battle,
Warriors and heroes in Begin,
None of them did not compete with me in the past,
No one could defeat me.
But the guy Bolanchu,
I have never fight out with him.

"Heroes among Sazansha people,

I only heard the name of Makelar,
Though he is known far and wide,
He had been killed on a ridge by me,
His blood reddened my sabre.

"Though I have heard Bolanchu's illustrious name,
I had never fight against him.
This damned Ketay lackey,
I will fight personally and capture him alive.
I wish to return safely,
Listen to your teachings,
And see your face."

Almanbet finished his words,
Turned his steed round and was ready to go.
Bolanchu was swaggering in the battlefield,
He was waiting for the Brute people to come and fight.

He saw the figure of Sariala steed,
He recognized it was hero Almanbet,
Who could not help shouting:
"Are you the lackey fled away from Kakan?
In order to flatter your master and show your loyalty,
Damned lackey, how you dare come first.
I will gouge your eyes out,
I will let your blood and guts,
In front of your master,
Spread and redden the broad battlefield."
Bolanchu was filled with fury,
Shouted and waved the spear in his hand.

Almanbet did not show mercy at all,
Hit back with same kind of words:
"I am Khan Sorandick's son,
The guy spoke bitingly,
Look at yourself,
You are just such a low tea-making lackey.

"As long as the stomach is filled full,
People will have evil thoughts,
Then forget his original identity.
Is your father's name Kusbar?
Think about it carefully.

"You are a demon, I am the lion,
Today I will have a look,
How you can cheat death."

Heard such insults of the rival,
Bolanchu was boiling with rage,
With full of his strength,
Waved the spear and dashed ahead.

Almanbet faced the fight fearlessly,
Responded to the coming rival confidently.
Almanbet waved his battleax,
Slashed at Bolanchu's spear point.

With a sound like the crack of a thunder,
Bolanchu's spear shaft broke in thirty,
The smashed spear point flew in the sky.

Bolanchu was bare-handed,
Without knowing how to react.
If it was not Almanbet who showed mercy,
Bolanchu had already lost his life.
At the moment a horse rushed out from enemy camp,
Sent a new spear into the hand of Bolanchu.

Bolanchu and Almanbet started a new round of fight,
Bolanchu brushed past and turned round,
He thought confidently:
The lackey fled into Kirgiz camp,
I must poke him off on the ground.

Bolanchu made a severe stab again,
But brave Almanbet,
Still sat on the back of his steed powerfully,
Like a towering and glittering snow peak.

Bolanchu flew into a rage with shame,
Charged ahead again aggressively.
Almanbet said to him:
"You, such a bastard lacking of rules,
Your face is as pale as a ghost,
You charge in such an exasperated and impudent manner,
Where is my chance?
Why do not you fight according to the rules?"

These words were just like passing wind,
How Bolanchu of black mane could listen.
He had poked the spear out,
Toward the rival's chest again and again.

Almanbet was highly skilled,
He was the matchless and irresistible hero,
He warded off Bolanchu's spear deftly,
Moved to the side of the rival by the way.

"Here is the edge of the gold belt,
Here is the bottom of the scapula."
The hero seized the chance,
Poked the glittering spear toward the enemy severely.

Bolanchu dodged the deadly spear,
Leaped up from the horseback,
The mountain-size body was as agile as a swallow,
Gently landed on the ground.

Since he was not stabbed,
How could this cunning guy,
Land on the ground?

Almanbet looked back surprisingly,
Bolanchu leaped up again,
And landed on the back of his black spotted steed.

The black mane was desperate,
Nerved himself and fought fiercely,
Raised his spear again.
The spear point whirred,
Deafening and scaring.

Almanbet braced himself up,
Turned his steed round and faced the rival,
With a loud sound of bang,
The spear stabbed toward Bolanchu's chest.

With the armor and chest protector,
The spear make cracking sound on it;
Wore the helmet on the head,
The ax slashed at it and sparks splashed.

The spear clanged on the chest,
The battleax cracked on the helmet,
Hero's shouting was earthshaking,
Dust under steeds' hooves spread.

Dust covered the earth,
The sky was blurred,
Under the stirring of the two heroes,
The earth was shaking and the mountains were trembling.

There was no cloud in the sky at all,
But it was covered with dust;
The dust spread all over the sky,
Made the sun lost its light.

Spear, battleax and sabre,
None of the weapons were complete,

Almighty Creator,
How could you create such brave heroes?

Their terrific howl,
Made people scared and worried;
Their death-regardless fight,
Passed down through the ages.

They were energetic and highly skilled,
Fought the night away and witnessed the daylight.
A lot of self-glorified heroes,
Felt deeply ashamed as seeing them.

They were braver and more energetic,
They matched each other in strength.
Pulled and pushed on the horseback,
Armor was torn into pieces, clothes into strips.
Grasped each other's clothes hem,
Pressed under the saddle and dragged.
No matter how hard the two steed pulled,
It was impossible to separate them.

Bolanchu was vigorous,
Turned immediately and jumped off the steed.
He tried in vain to drag Almanbet off the steed,
He grasped the belt of the hero.

Since Bolanchu did not let go,
Almanbet made use of the opportunity,
Jumped off his steed,
Let his Sariala steed take a rest.

Two heroes clutched each other's waist,
Pushed and dragged like two bull camels.
They knocked against each other,
Stretched out their powerful arms,
Grabbed each other's belt tight.

Even such pulling and pushing,
They still did not throw the other one down,
There were still equal in match.
Flames of anger burned in their hearts,
They shouted their own slogans.

When they slung the other one,
Pieces of dirt of yurt-size,
Were thrown up high to the air.

Huge holes were stamped out of the earth,
The level land was stamped into ditches,
Mounds became huge holes,
Soft lawn became the pool.

Both of them rolled up their broken clothes hems,
Like bulls at a stalemate,
Fought day and night without tiring,
There was no end to their fight.

From the dawn to the dark,
From night to daylight,
Another round of sunrise and moonset,
Almanbet and Bolanchu,
Neither ate nor rested,
Leaped up on their own steeds,
Braced up and fought again.

Self-glorified Bolanchu,
Put forward a new challenge to Almanbet:
"Almanbet, listen carefully,
Remember my words clearly.
I will stand here,
You can launch the attack first;
Then you stand there,
Let me launch the attack.
Once one of us loses his life,

Just confesses the bad luck,
It is his fate.

"Since we began the fight,
Two mornings have passed.
Day and night have alternated twice,
Such fierce fight has never happened before.
Both of us were born in Kakan,
But we did not get chance to learn from each other,
When we were young.
Now we are silver-beard and white-haired,
We finally get the chance to compete.
The prime time of life flashes by,
Now we are old and not energetic."

Wise Almanbet,
Observed carefully the rival's expression,
The shameless guy,
Talked nothing but nonsense,
Stretched his hand to loose the iron chain at the same time.

Almanbet saw what he was doing,
Scolded him mercilessly:
"You such a humble mad dog,
How you can cheat me in words,
But try to cast the iron net secretly,
Try to take the chance to capture me alive?

"How your vicious scheme,
Can escape my eyes,
You are so shameless,
How can your contemptible trick cheat others?"

Almanbet reproached Bolanchu,
Lifted his long spear up at the same time.
Aggressive Bolanchu,
Lifted the iron hammer high in his hand,

Pounded toward Almanbet severely.
The hammer met the spear,
The spear in Almanbet's hand,
Warded the hammer of Bolanchu aside.

Swaggering Bolanchu,
Waved the battle hammer in his hand,
Turned the steed round and charged again.

Bolanchu was braver full of energy,
He was so angry that his hair lifted up his helmet.
Stretched his neck like camel,
Eyes were red with some grey like that of an owl,
His face was as the color of a sheep lung.

Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Braced himself up and made up his decision secretly:
"I must diminish you, the powerful enemy,
God of Burhan will not bless."

White spittle sprayed out of Bolanchu's mouth,
He raised sky-high dust.
This ferocious general,
Had rushed to the front of Almanbet.

Brave hero Almanbet,
Did not fear at all,
Put the spear aside,
Grasped the battleax in the hand,
With imposing and majestic manner,
Sat on the horseback quietly and waited for Bolanchu's attack.

Ferocious Bolanchu,
Swung up the hammer in his hand,
Aimed at the top of Almanbet's head,
Pounded full of his energy,
The huge hammer,

Flew out of Bolanchu's hand immediately.

The flying hammer flashed past the sky,
Flew to his camp,
Without leaning to either side,
The hammer fell in the dense soldiers.
Ninety soldiers were killed right away,
Turned into innocent ghosts.

Enemy commander Kunwuer Bayi,
Was burning with wrath,
Was too impatient to wait,
Could not control the worry in his heart,
Made a roar like a bear.

Brave Almanbet,
Knocked out Bolanchu's hammer,
Attacked continually without stop,
Aimed at Bolanchu's helmet,
Pounded more than ten times.

Self-glorified Bolanchu,
Had no more chance to fight back,
Facing the waving battleax from Almanbet,
He was scared and difficult to resist.

Bolanchu had no chance to raise his head,
Could not counterattack even with the spear in hand,
Lifted the shield but could not hold his own.
Beard stood upside down on his cheeks,
Was enough to weave a pair of socks.

He lost the color in his face,
It was ugly with blue and purple.
He shrank his shoulders,
Leaned to one side of the steed.

Hero Khan Almanbet,
Was agile in body and quick in action,
In a blink of an eye,
He pounded with the battleax for another three times.

More ferocious each time,
More powerful each time.
The pound of the ax spread all over the universe,
The earth was rumbling.

Bolanchu had no strength to withstand,
He was worried and complained to himself:
"If I continue being timid,
Being beaten and letting him attack,
Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Must chop me into mince.
He does not give me the chance to draw out the spear,
Each of his spear-poking was connecting,
If he gets me for ten more times,
I cannot bear and will bleed from all parts.

"If I am defeated,
Which Ketay hero,
Dare come up and fight against him?
My numerous generals and soldiers,
Must shed tears with great grief.

"Winning enemy with scheme,
Is the experience down the ages,
My steed is facing the home front,
It seems to be the first choice to retreat.

"I will lower my head all the way,
Pretend to flee toward Kangayi.
When arrogant Almanbet,
Chases after me desperately,
I will draw out my sword right away,

Stab in the weak part of this lackey,
Slash him in two.

"Under the watchful eyes of the people,
Cut his head off.
Present his head as a gift,
To general Aisanhan of Bakburchin.
Then central Begin and side Begin,
Will be under my administration."

Death knocked at the door,
Bolanchu still dreamed to be a Khan.
He fantasized about taking away the city from Sorandick's hand,
Mastered the royal seal of Khan y himself.

The bloody battlefield,
Ended his dream,
He stepped the stirrups tight and fled.

Almanbet was burning with rage,
Chased desperately after him.
Koshaoyi shouted loudly as seeing this:
"Almanbet, do not chase after him,
If you wave the ax and chase blindly,
His sword will stab you down."

When Almanbet heard this,
He put away his battleax,
Held the blue-tassel long spear in the hand,
Waved and charged ahead bravely.

"Here is the edge of the gold belt,
It is right the deadly weak part."
When the back hem of enemy clothes swayed up,
The fatal part exposed,
Almanbet poked his spear out severely.

The spear point pierced through the weak part,
Poked in both kidneys of Bolanchu,
Insufferably arrogant Bolanchu,
From the horseback of tall black spotted steed,
Fell off and rolled on the ground.

Mountain-size Bolanchu,
Embraced the earth with his last gasp.
When Kangayi people witnessed this,
They all cried sadly.

Hero Almanbet,
Was unable to make up his mind:
"Do I need cut his head off,
Or poke such a hero on the spear point,
And expose before the public?"

He drew his spear out,
Pierced through Bolanchu's shoulders,
The spear came out from Bolanchu's back.
Powerful Almanbet,
Poked Bolanchu on spear point and lifted over his head.

How could Sariala steed,
Bear the weight of two heroes?
Its legs were weak,
Shook and could not move a single step,
Waist bent and eyes gazed.

Poor Sariala steed,
Met the weight it could not bear.
Though it was an animal,
It began to ask for the help from god:

"The Creator created the powerful hero,
Let Almanbet sweep all before him,
Since you make me be his assistant,

Why don't you let me help him succeed?

"Pasture is like rice, river is like milk,
Rich Arato mountain bestows me the strength.
From I was little till now,
My long tail sways,
I grow up sturdily and freely.

"Since I became the mount of Almanbet,
I began to be famous and become a real steed.
Now he kills the enemy general,
I cannot bear his weight,
My legs are not powerful enough to step forward.

"Please do not let me suffer and be humiliated,
Master of horses, you are so magical,
Where are you, god Kanbarata①?
Lakshi②steed Rustam rides,
Please come and help."

Poor Sariala steed,
Had to pray to celestial steed,
Asked help for ancestors of horses.
Right at it was praying hard,
God was touched by his sincerity.

A red glow appeared in the west at the moment,
It brightened the sky,
Dust raised blurredly,
Rolled ahead with high speed.

The figure was too far to recognize,
It was hard to tell what it was.

① Kanbarata: Kirgiz language, "Kanbar" is the magical steed in legend, "Ata" means father. "Kanbarata" means ancestor of horses.

② Lakshi: It is the name of a horse. It refers to the mount of hero Rustam in legend.

Its one leap was more than three meters,
It galloped ahead at top speed.

When it stopped and raised its head,
Generals and soldiers then saw it clearly.
A light grey steed,
Appeared near Sariala steed right away.

Sariala steed's strength doubled immediately,
Swayed its long tail and raised its head and mane,
Galloped its hooves forward.

The steed was of weak legs just now,
Now acted like adding wings to a tiger,
Two heroes on its back were just like babies,
It galloped its hooves ahead easily.

Lion Almanbet looked more powerful,
He poked mountain-size Bolanchu,
On the spear point,
Came in front of uncle Bakay,
Presented it to him as a gift.

Heroic-bearing Almanbet,
Saluted Bakay,
Then turned his steed round and ready to leave.
Ayikoler Manas was overjoyed,
Urged his Ackura steed,
Shouted the name of Almanbet loudly.

He asked to bring a white goat,
And butcher it immediately,
He pulled out the hot goat lung,
Patted on Almanbet's forehead with it continually.

"The hero comes back on blood!"
He called uncle Koshaoyi in,

Put the red brocade robe on the hero.

"Our uncle defeated Karamark Khan,
Reddened the battlefield with blood.
Almanbet defeated powerful enemy general,
The overwhelmingly arrogant enemies,
Now lose their power.

"Aoronko just was killed,
Now Bolanchu lost his life.
Kuwnuer Bayi now,
Must feel painfully tired of all thoughts."

Ayikoler went by the side of Sariala,
Fondled its raised long mane,
Expressed his gratitude:
"The company of my brother,
Today I am so proud of you!"

He called warrior Kujigert in,
Asked him to open the bag,
Took out forty thousand gold coins,
For the victory of Koshaoyi and Almanbet,
Over their heads,
Threw coins to the troops all over the battlefield.

The fight Between Generals of Both Sides

Kunwuer Bayi witnessed all that happened,
Pretended to be sad in fear of his troops' rebellion.
He seized his beard,
Inconsolable with tears.

It was hard to describe his sorrow expression,
Ceaseless tears sweated his clothes,
His nose was running like spring.
He used his tears,
Bribed his soldiers.
He sent messengers secretly,
Invited the marksman Elama to help.
He went to welcome with General Kun,
Stroked his beard continually.

He acted like he got a strange disease,
He licked his lips ceaselessly,
Said what was thinking slowly:
"Since I got the name as Kunwuer Bayi,
Since I became the general commander,
Such discreditable things never happened before.

"Not only me, Kunwuer Bayi,
But all Kakan people need self-question.
In the previous battles,
Generals led by Sorokai,
Lay in battlefields and never came back.

"Heroes from Kangayi,

Aisanhan's attendant,
General Ayi lost his life in the battlefield;
Generals and soldiers from south sank into grief,
Hero Aoronko commanded the army,
Today was killed and lost his life.
Bolanchu, the mountain Kakan people cling to,
Also does not come back alive;
Almanbet, the damned lackey,
Brings us disaster.

" 'My child is sensible,
How he can lift the spear and revolt against me.'
Sorandick walked to the battlefield confidently,
But Almanbet pushed Sirak ahead.
Sorandick now had been killed by Sirak,
Almanbet pretended he does not know this,
And comes to us directly.
This horrible lackey,
Commits monstrous crime to Kangayi.

"Elama, you are a great marksman,
You studied together with him for a long time,
Do you have a miraculous way to deal with him?
I observe very carefully,
This lackey and his accomplice Manas,
Seem to wipe us out,
Let all of us die."

Kunwuer Bayi and General Kun talked with the marksman,
From the other side of the troops,
Giant Georoy's shouting of going out to battle came.
He urged his steed with great rage,
Clouds of dust were kicked up to the sky.
Drums beat for him,
Flags swayed in his hand.
This ferocious tiger,
Who dare come out and fight against him?

As seeing giant Georoy,
Elaman's great son Toshtuk,
The youngest one among nine brothers,
Thought his rival had come out,
Urged his Chalkuyruk steed,
Dashed out of the camp as an arrow.

Hero Toshtuk's emergence,
Made beholders stare blankly.
He shook the armor on him,
Swayed the spear in his hand.

No one stopped him,
No one urged him,
He just dashed ahead bravely.
Stretched out his spear as ferocious as a tiger,
Waved the battleax and slashed,
Two heroes fought and kicked up clouds of dust.

With cotton fabric belt and big boots,
The troops' commander Kunwuer Bayi,
Gave out the order secretly,
Let his attendants spread the order orally:
"We let them go to the battlefield one by one,
Attack them secretly,
To comfort generals and soldiers' anger.

"We need attack continually,
Do not pull the halter and hesitate to go forward,
Loose the bits and dash ahead bravely."
Soldiers whipped their horses,
Ran everywhere to spread the order.

Hero headman Niskara,
Rode on the maroon steed Tunidukchu tamed.
This big horse of the speed of smoke,
Opened its stove-size mouth,

Galloped ahead regardless of its safety.
Once this guy went to battle,
No one could defeat him.

Chuwak did not find clues on enemy's side,
Giant Ageshi went to battle immediately,
He tied the belt tight and braced himself up,
Urged his Akaler and charged ahead.

From Kangayi troops,
Many famous heroes dashed out.
Kermuzsha's son Muradiler,
Rode on a purplish red steed,
The dust raised covered all around,
Shouting shook the heads' hurt,
Even huge rocks were cracked.

He drew out the sabre from his waist,
Attempted to fight his way through:
"No matter who comes first and fights,
I will capture him mercilessly."
He whipped his mount,
Dashed ahead bravely.

Sixty tribes' Arashi,
Were descended down by six ancestors,
No one could defeat him.
Akberita's son Chuwak,
Never met the equal rival in the battlefield,
Was a great hero in the world.
He rode on Koktikai steed,
Charged ahead aggressively.

From behind Muradiler,
Karamark hero Wushan rushed out.
He was just past fifty years of age,
Remembered the texts of Kura very fluently.

Carried the worshipful god with him,
Which was purely hand-made.

Facing tens of thousands of enemies,
He never felt nervous and flustered,
He was never soft-hearted when facing powerful enemies,
Killed numerous heroes and warriors,
Like winnowing wheat in the field.

A steel spear point was set up on the shaft,
No one ever escaped alive under his spear;
His mount, Tilkezler steed,
Dashed out from Kirgiz camp as an arrow;
He was Kirgiz Khan Jagurp's child,
Manas' capable general hero Sirak.

Kunwuer Bayi watched carefully,
Kirgiz came to fight,
Were all capable and powerful generals.
"I should separate them,
If it still continues like this for another day,
My heroes will all lose their lives."

Buttonholes on his clothes,
Were on the one side;
All the buttons on him,
Were buttoned up tight.

He urged his black spotted steed,
Whipped the neck of the steed ceaselessly,
The leather bag carried fire-stones shook on him,
Ochokor firelock swayed on his shoulder.
He looked scruffy all over,
From part of the clothes was waving with wind.

Eyes were like burning flames,
Clouds of smoke splashed out of his mouth;

Shaggy hair on his cheeks,
Was enough to weave five pairs of socks;
His cheeks were like the rocks,
The waist was as thin as a flute.

Robust and strong Kunwuer Bayi,
Wore the leather pants which arrows could not pierce,
Bottom of the pants swayed in wind.
This ferocious guy,
Rushed into the battlefield amuck.

Ayikoler Manas was the matchless lion,
Rode on Ackura steed in majestic manner,
Spear Sire waved in his hand.
Leopard Manas was like a mountain,
Achy Abaris sword clinked,
Crescent battleax waved in his waist.

Battle drums of pure copper,
Was specially made by the lame craftsman,
Even flies alighted on would make noise,
Ackelaty firelock shined on his shoulder.

Seeing the majestic appearance of Ayikoler,
Enemies were scared out of wits.

Bright eyes were like the morning star,
Ears were as huge as the shields,
Gold belt was on his waist,
Glowing cheeks were as the flaming sun.

The belt which fully inlaid with diamonds was worn in his waist,
Smiling face was glittering,
People were eager to see his face.

The lion's perfect figure like the sun,
Was impossible to be found any flaws,

Braver as facing more enemies,
More indomitable as facing hardships.

From eleven years old till now,
No one in the world could compare with him.
The battle gown on him,
Was impossible for arrows to pierce through,
For firelock bullets to shoot through,
For the spear point to prick through,
For sabre to break.

His eyes were sharp and glowing,
Cheeks were as shining as fried wheat grains;
Shoulders were wide and waist was thin as flute,
The tall figure was swaying with wind.
Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Saw Kunwuer Bayi at a glance.

He urged his Ackura steed,
Could not control himself but rushed ahead.
When Ayikoler dashed into the battlefield,
Numerous gods accompanied around him,
As seeing what happened,
Generals and soldiers all could not say a word for the magic.

A six-year-old wonder child,
Led Ackura steed and rushed ahead;
He was bare-footed and bare-headed,
A thumb-size red mole,
Was hanging right in the middle of the forehead.

A pair of grey rabbits,
Stayed close to the stirrups,
Rushed ahead with the steed;
Sixty argali stood in two lines,
Dashed ahead on both sides of the steed.

The sound of hooves of one steed,
Was louder than the sound of sixty horses' hooves.
Two black spotted leopards roared,
Followed Ayikoler tight.

The vigor of the hero was magical,
Far above the earth:
A wiggling dragon,
As thick as a rolled straw curtain,
Followed the hero.

A beautiful fairy,
Sat behind the hero,
She was slim and graceful,
The face was healthily red like pomegranate;
The point of her Shokulier hat,
Was going above the head of commander Manas,
Pearls inlaid on the hat,
Was splendid and glittering.
What hung to the gournd,
Was the tassel waving with wind.

A snake as thick as a whip handle,
Twined on the hero's hand,
Stretched its forked tongue,
Crawled on the hero's ear and watched.

Uncle Bakay and giant Koshaoyi thought be themselves:
"We should watch carefully,
To see how is the Kangayi commander."
They paid close attention to the front,
Watched Arokai's son Kunwuer carefully.

At one side of Kunwuer Bayi's mount,
A kid grasped blood clot tight in hand;
On each side of his mount,
There were fifteen argali,

Rushed ahead rashly.

Two ferocious wolves,
Showed their teeth and laughed wildly;
A pair of black flowered tigers curled their tails,
Dashed ahead ferociously.

As thick as the waist of a steed,
The giant black dragon,
Cleared the way for hero Kunwuer,
Ran wildly in the front of him,
It was the dust that kicked up behind them.

A black duck flew over the head,
Made strange noise,
Its wings fluttered ceaselessly.

With such an aggressive manner,
Kunwuer Bayi rushed to the battlefield bravely.

Bakay began to say as seeing this:
"Oh! This bastard is terribly extraordinary.
You are sage Koshaoyi,
I am wise man Bakay,
I feel vaguely uncomfortable.

"Though Ayikoler has the dragon to protect him,
Why does it run after the hero?
While Kunwuer Bayi's dragon,
Is clearing the way in the front for him.

"By the side of Ayikoler,
There are a pair of leopards roaring;
While by the side of that guy,
There are two tigers jumping.

"Ayikoler has the fairy behind him to help,

While over the head of that bastard,
There is a wild duck,
But it can be considered as a flying bird.
We have faced danger,
It seems there is a sign of perishing."

Koshaoyi responded immediately:
"Hero Bakay, what's wrong with you?
No matter what will happen,
You should think about it from good aspect.

"Good fortune is shining over Almanbet,
He is knowledgeable and wise.
Our hero Manas,
Always does not ask for his opinion,
If he always acts in this way,
The result must be not as we wish."

Two old men ceaselessly,
Talked and discussed about this.
They continued praying,
Prayed for the safety of Arashi.

Enemy commander Kunwuer Bayi,
Sat on the steed with head raised high,
Stretched out his spear without hesitating.
Look at the pair of ferocious eyes,
Eye sockets stuck out and glared to the front,
Clenched his teeth and nerved himself,
Broke the lips by teeth and blood ran down,
Attempted to pierce through the rival's stomach.

In order to revenge for the dead heroes,
He was filled with rage,
Whipped his Alekala steed ceaselessly,
Dashed ahead regardless of his safety,
Legs swayed by the sides of the steed.

Ayikoler went up head-on,
Met with him face to face.

Kunwuer Bayi held the white spear in the hand,
Waved and charged toward the rival;
Lion Manas stretched his Sire spear out,
Went head-on to ward.

The spear Kunwuer Bayi poked out,
Was warded off by the black mane wolf.
Manas urged his Ackura steed,
Raised clouds of dust behind him.

Manas held tight the spear in his hand,
Stabbed his rival severely.
Before the spear point approached him,
Kunwuer Bayi had warded it off.

Two heroes were equal in strength,
Spears clanged and arms vibrated numbly.
Waved his crescent ax and slashed again,
Drew out sharp sword and waved and thrust.

Karamark commander Kunwuer Bayi,
Was brave and ferocious,
He hung the battleax in his waist,
Grabbed the spear and attacked again.

He held the deadly spear in the hand,
Stabbed with the sound of wind,
Toward hero black mane wolf Manas.
In the hand of Kangkor lion,
The sharp battleax was very ferocious,
When the spear was coming,
Warded it off with the sharp ax under it.

The spear of Kunwuer Bayi,

Flew to the sky suddenly,
The shaft and point were broken,
Its pieces splashed everywhere.
Cunning Alekala steed dodged aside,
And stopped at one side of the battlefield.

"I have already had no chance to draw a weapon out,
If I continue to wait like this,
I must be the lamb under his sabre."
Kunwuer Bayi thought hard,
Turned his steed round and left the battlefield.

This old and crafty bastard,
Did not flee away easily.
He gave out orders to all generals and soldiers,
Waved his whip high,
Generals and soldiers swarmed to the battlefield to fight,
The black descended on the field suddenly.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about in this breathtaking wild battle,
How Kunwuer Bayi's seven generals,
Lost their lives in the battlefield.

Kunwuer Bayi Lost Seven Generals

Kunwuer Bayi gave out the order,
Kangayi troops all turned out,
Held their flag high,
Like noisy crows flew up,
Covered the sky from all directions.

When they thronged ahead,
It was hard to see them clearly,
The earth was shaking,
Noise of hooves was loud and confuses.
Riders barged ahead,
Numerous people were stepped into meat pies.

Clothes hem was waving with wind,
Spear points clanged together.
The troops were like surging flood,
While wise Kunwuer Bayi,
Had fled out of the battlefield.

The rushing troops were countless,
As dense as wild weeds.
Except the sky over the head,
Nothing could be seen in the dust.

Famous Arashi homeland,
Had fourteen Khans go on expedition.
They shouted the name "Manas" loudly,
Charged forward side by side.
Diffused dust,

Was more malicious than before.

Ferocious and powerful enemy Kunwuer Bayi,
Urged his trusted followers,
Called soldiers who waved the ropes,
Gathered capable men who could cast nets well,
Discussed with them about the solution,
And gave out such orders:

"We need conserve our forces,
Do not launch attacks to enemy rashly.
Through the confused battle,
We can flee away from the field and save our lives.

"Manas is their backbone,
We should let them cry.
Almanbet and Chuwak,
And terrible Sirak,
These four guys are the targets we need capture.

"You need throw the ropes toward their heads,
Lasso their necks.
Lassos should be carried along with you all the time,
Grasped the end of the ropes tight.
You should open the nets and cast them on the way,
Capture the forty warriors of Manas,
Then accept the prizes according to the contribution."

He ordered marksmen to start off immediately,
It was a god-given chance,
They could shoot all capable enemy generals to death.

Kunwuer Bayi spared no efforts to instigate,
Trusted followers agreed every word he said.
For Khans and soldiers,
They should agree with him no matter what he said;
Like drunk people,

warmed up like storms.

Kunwuer Bayi fled away from the battlefield,
Disappeared in countless soldiers.

Lion Ayikoler was in a towering rage,
Drew the sharp sword out.
He was at the end of his forbearance,
Rushed into enemy and slashed.
No one could be alive as his arm went,
Enemies coming were all died.

Enemies swarmed up,
But all lost their lives under the magical sword,
He cleared the way in the front bravely,
Slashed like violent wind swept.

Uncle Koshaoyi was the greatest hero in the world,
Huge ears were like shields,
Eyes were as shining as the morning star.
No matter soldiers and generals,
Continued losing their lives in his hand.
He rushed and slashed agilely,
Like the eagle the hunter flew.

Kandir Bayi's son Kerkokuler,
Was a hero with red face.
He rode on a tall tan steed,
Dashed ahead regardless of his safety.

When he was charging ahead,
Six assistant generals, ten warriors,
Under the leading of giant Kesai,
Started the attack toward hero Koshaoyi.

The old hero Koshaoyi,
Was poked down by ferocious giant Kesai,

Koshaoyi's maroon steed fell into enemy's hand,
One Karamark led it.

Six assistant generals and ten warriors,
Surrounded isolated and helpless Koshaoyi,
Threatened him to surrender.

"If there is one more stab,
Uncle will be injured heavily."
Brave Kerkokuler,
Whipped his tan steed and rushed ahead,
Attacked with the spear in his hand,
Poked the six assistant generals down one by one.

Ten warriors with ferocious looking,
Had no time to line on both sides,
Warriors and their giant headmen,
Were also poked down by Kerkokuler.

Kerkokuler did not stop,
He waved his spear and poked toward the rival,
Giant Kesai was reluctant to show weakness,
Nerved himself and lifted the spear.

Kerkokuler responded fast,
Warded the spear Kesai poked off,
Aimed the spear point at the weak point of the enemy.
The great hero of superior strength,
At his age of twenty five years,
Poked Kesai off the steed on the ground.

Erchywuler waved the whip and urged the steed,
Arrived in time with his Koychabudar steed,
Lifted his hand and the ax cut,
The head of Kesai left his body immediately.

"Where is uncle Koshaoyi?"

Kerkokuler asked worriedly,
But Erchywuler did not answer him.
It was not because he did not want to answer,
Koshaoyi was fallen into black-faced giant's trap,
Stabbed in by giant Kamubil's spear.
Like a leather hat with rolled edge,
He was poked by powerful enemies down his steed.

Brave hero Kerkokuler,
Urged his tan steed,
Acted fast and arrived in time,
Lifted his spear and rushed to enemies,
Poked giant Kamubil down.

Bozwuler came from behind,
Helped Erchywuler mount,
Protected him to retreat from the battlefield.

Erchywuler was worried,
He said to Bozwuler:
"Kerkokuler asked me,
About the situation of uncle Koshaoyi.
We'd better go forward,
To look for the uncle's whereabouts."

Bozwuler and Erchywuler,
Whipped their steeds ahead side by side,
They saw a guy called Ayiba,
Who led Koshaoyi's steed and went forward.

Bozwuler and Erchywuler,
Was hesitant to go ahead,
They had no idea of what to do next,
But seeing he went farther away.

Giant Kamubil poked down by Kerkokuler,
Seized the chance and mounted,

Stepped in the stirrups to flee away,
How Kerkokuler could let him off,
The spear poked to him again.

Giant Kamubil attempted to attack again,
But was poked down on the ground by Kerkokuler again.
Before he could raise his head,
His head was already cut off.

Erchywuler and Bozwuler,
Met with giant Ayiba face to face,
Due to fear of giant Ayiba's power,
They did not dare to fight against him head-on,
So they turned their steeds round and ran back.

"I will catch all Manas' warriors,
No one can escape from my hand,
Swallow them all mercilessly."
Ayiba made up his mind quietly,
Chased after them staggeringly.

Two heroes were panic-stricken,
They leaned forward to the saddles and fled.
The real hero Kerkokuler,
Lifted his spear and stood by the side of the rode.

Ayiba rushed up,
Passed the side of Kerkokuler,
Kerkokuler urged his steed and poked his spear,
Self-glorified Ayiba,
Was poked off the steed.

Before Kerkokuler adjusted himself,
Giant Kunwuer came with his steed,
Young hero Kerkokuler,
Was poked off the steed by one stab.

Before Kunwuer Bayi launched another attack,
Without knowing which god led him,
Jagurp's son Aji Bayi,
Appeared suddenly.

He lifted the spear and charged ahead from one side,
Matchlessly brave giant Kunwuer Bayi,
Warded the coming spear off,
And turned Aji Bayi off on the ground.

Before he turned his Alekala steed round,
Sirak shouted the name "Manas" loudly,
Charged ahead and began to fight.

Hearing the loud shouting of Sirak,
Kunwuer Bayi was like pushing the panic button,
Fled away and did not dare to look back.

Warriors fell off their steeds just now,
All stood up and led their halters,
Steeped in stirrups and mounted,
Braced themselves up with courage,
Went back to the bloody battlefield again.

Kerkokuler fell off from his horseback,
He was angry and ashamed,
He was a hero of superior strength,
Handsome and majestic-looking.

When Kangayi people helped Ayiba mount,
Helped him flee from the death,
Hero black mane wolf Kerkokuler,
Started a new round of attack.

Seeing the inspiring looking of Kerkokuler,
Ayiba could not control and urged his steed to the field.
Kerkokuler urged his tan steed,

Raised sky-high dust.

Young hero Kerkokuler lifted his spear and attacked,
Peak-size Ayiba fell off on the fround.
Sirak came up from behind,
Cut off Ayiba's yurt-size head,
Carried the head and left.

Aji Bayi, Erchywuler and Bozwuler,
Braced themselves up and urged ahead side by side.
They looked toward where was noisy,
Seeing mountain-size hero Koshaoyi,
Was surrounded by numerous Karamark troops.

Enemies attacked him with sticks in turn,
His head swelled and blood ran down,
The body was beaten and looked like a naan,
He was seriously injured with open wounds.

The death seemed to walk toward him,
Hero with great reputation,
Suffered humiliation he had never suffered.
Facing enemies surrounded him,
Khan Koshaoyi had thousand thoughts pass his mind,
He missed his families.

Aji Bayi shouted loudly,
Lifted his spear and mounted powerfully;
Erchywuler shouted as the thunder,
Rushed from aside like wild wind.

As seeing Karamark led the steed and pushed,
Bozwuler dashed ahead like lightning.
There were about six hundred Karamark,
Three heroes swept ahead like winnowing.

Bozwuler dashed ahead and took the steed,

Helped Koshaoyi mount the steed;
Erchywuler and Aji Bayi,
Slashed at enemies as powerful as thunders.

Please listen carefully,
What was the situation of that bloody battle.

Kerkokuler showed his power,
He killed two giants Kesai and Ayiba in a row,
Six assistant generals and ten warriors,
Were all killed by him.
Giant Koshaoyi was also saved by him.

When Karamark saw Kerkokuler's majestic manner,
They were surprised and worried.
The hero's great achievements,
Were widely read from generation to generation.

Elaman's son, hero Toshtuk,
He wanted to kill in the fight,
Kandan's offspring, hero Georoy.
He rushed into enemies regardless of safety,
Slashed and killed enemies like entering an unpeopled land.

No matter Khans or soldiers,
No matter good guys or bad guys,
No matter warriors or cowards,
Fell and rolled on the ground like wind blew felt hats,
Like startling pigeons too.

The spear point was covered with blood,
Kakan people in great confusion,
Were kneaded into naan.
Hero Toshtuk shuttled in enemies,
The oncoming enemies,
Were all killed by him.

After his charging where people dense became sparse,
He slashed and killed,
Cleared a blood way for himself.
Kangayi could not withstand him,
Fled everywhere screaming and shouting.

Right at the moment of this fierce battle,
Ten thousand soldiers of lassoes came,
Waved the lassoes in their hands.
Look at the warrior pulled the net,
He held the net and was eager to act.

Headmen of each groups,
Nerved themselves and showed their power,
Rocked their heads and panted heavily.
Ten thousand cavalries spread and came,
Another five thousand infantries came to support.

There were fifteen thousand enemy's soldiers in the front,
Hero Toshtuk was alone by himself,
He was full of confidence,
Did not put enemies in his eyes at all.

Lassoes came from every direction toward him,
Seventy lassoes, fifteen nets,
Were all weaved with hemp ropes.
Lassoes and iron nets dropped from the clouds,
All fell on Toshtuk's head.

He was roped up with lassoes,
Bound and could not move at all.
Georoy rushed up and showed Khan's power,
Dragged Toshtuk off the steed,
Took Chalkuyruk steed away,
Put Toshtuk on a lame mule,
Humiliated the hero Khan,
Tried to make him lose face.

Elaman's favorite son,
Youngest one of eight brothers,
The Creator,
Please do not let him suffer such humiliation.

Soldiers walked by stabbed with their spears,
Cavalries ran past cut with their swords.
The hero's moon-like face,
Was soaked with red blood,
Soldiers whipped him casually,
Like drove an old thin ox.

There was no saddle on the back of the mule,
Let the greatest hero rode on the bare back of the mule,
The mule jumped and walked ceaselessly,
How this kind of humiliation could exist in the world.

Georoy raised his head proudly,
Talked to himself with eyebrows raising high:
"I will present him to Aisanhan,
Show off my great achievement.
Under the watchful eyes of all people,
Stretch hero Toshtuk's body,
I will cut his chest open personally.

"Toshtuk, who once made a terrible scene in the underworld,
Was still brave and vigorous,
Now he is defeated by me.
I will drink his warm blood,
Make Brutes pay for their bloody crimes,
They go beyond their depth,
Try to take my place."

Georoy was angry and fierce,
His blood was boiling with arrogance,
Pushed Toshtuk,
To the front of the troops.

Soldiers behind him waved sticks,
Beat the hero casually and severely.

Right at this critical moment,
Almanbet appeared in the front of the troops.
Georoy watched carefully,
Well-known hero Chuwak,
Appeared by the side of Khan Almanbet.

Kangayi marksman Elama,
Drew the bow but dare not show up,
He was trying to find a chance,
Attempted to shoot Almanbet down.

Wise hero Almanbet,
Penetrated the marksman's purpose,
He used his wisdom,
Tried to circle round with him.

Almanbet rushed to the front of Georoy,
Like a shooting arrow.
Ferocious wolf Georoy,
Finally met and fought against Almanbet.

The spear Almanbet poked out was like lightning,
Poked huge Georoy,
Off his Achybudan steed.

Before he could stand up from the ground,
Hero Chuwak urged his steed forward,
Lifted the sabre and cut Georoy's head off.

Before he drew his sabre back,
Enemy marksman Elama drew his bow,
Aimed at Chuwak and shot,
Hero Chuwak fell off from his horseback.

Brave hero Almanbet,
Galloped his steed as fast as an eagle,
Poked marksman Elama,
Off the horseback,
Chuwak just stood up,
He waved his sabre and cut Elama's head off.

Two giant Elama and Georoy,
Disappeared from human world and walked to the other world.
Georoy's mount Achybudan steed,
Elama's steed Kukazk,
Dragged long halters,
Neighed toward the direction of their camp.

Heroes caught Chalkuyruk steed,
Rescued hero Toshtuk.
Hero Almanbet remembered suddenly,
"Where is Ayikoler Manas?
How can not I see him?"

Almanbet whipped and urged his steed,
Raised sky-high dust behind him,
Began to search to the front hurriedly;
Lion Chuwak followed him,
Galloped and charged ahead.

Matchless hero Almanbet,
Dashed down along the hillside.
Blood-boiling Sirak,
Saw Almanbet in the distance,
He whipped the butt of his steed severely,
Approached toward Almanbet gradually.

Heroes were like relatives linked by flesh and blood,
Whipped and chased,
Hero Almanbet,
Arrived first at a place people gathered.

Sixty assistant generals, one thousand warriors,
Were as black as countless crows.
Common soldiers were countless,
Like wasps swarmed down the mountain.

Behind the enemy troops,
Niskara brought up the rear like a mountain;
In the front of the troops,
Muradiler and Janadler guarded;
Wushan and Salbakai of Karamark,
General Kun's shadow followed dimly.

Six people drove the massive forces,
Surrounded lion Ayikoler in the center,
Formed a moving wall around him.

People of casting lassoes, nets and running fast,
Were about seventy thousand in amount,
Like surging flood,
Swarmed back and forth on the earth,
They were too dense to be recognized.

Almanbet came with great rage,
Chuwak shouted furiously,
Sirak appeared from one side,
The name "Manas" was shouting loudly.

Heard these three heroes' voice,
Kergel led forty warriors,
Charged ahead together of one mind.

In enemy's surrounding circle,
Lion Ayikoler was in possession of himself,
Swept enemies to death like wild wind.

Kulitan's son Ageshi,
Was strong with superior strength,

He arrived at the battlefield short of breath,
Went to the bloody battle immediately.

He waved Zhoykuma magical sword,
Fought bravely in majestic manner.
He was riding Ackokuler steed,
Both halters grasped tight in his hand,
Pulled and directed ceaselessly.

Lines of enemy soldiers,
Fell down and lost lives under his sword.
Ageshi became braver and braver,
Enemies coming to his face,
All embraced the earth and died.

Slashed all the way forward bravely,
Met with General Kun.
"Where does this Brute come from?
He has the power of sweeping everything,
Numerous generals and soldiers had died in his hand."

General Kun urged Koychapdar steed,
Launched an attack in flank to Ageshi,
Stretched out his ferocious spear,
Poked Ageshi off to the ground.

As Sirak saw this,
He urged his steed and rushed ahead,
Poked down swaggering General Kun.

Niskara dashed ahead,
He acted as fast as the thunder,
Stretched the spear in the hand,
Poked Sirak of his horseback.

Eagle Almanbet roared,
Whipped Sariala steed,

Dashed toward Niskara at top speed.

Lion Chuwak beat General Kun to the draw,
Before he could stand up,
Chuwak lifted the sabre and cut his head off.

Chuwak whipped Koktikai steed,
Came head-on and fought against Niskara.
Niskara was unnerved,
Was unable to withstand,
Finally he fled back to his camp.

Almanbet rushed into the battlefield,
Picked Ageshi up and helped him mount:
"Hero, do not be impatient,
Wisdom is needed in the battlefield."
He turned his steed round and continued to charge ahead,
Ayikoler fought bravely,
Did not let enemies rope him up.

All Kakan peope's backbone,
Arokai's son Kunwuer Bayi Kalcha,
Was full of cunning and extremely cruel tricks.

We call him Kalcha,
Because his mother,
Was the sister of Shaoruk of Kalcha tribe,
With this relationship,
People then called him Kalcha.

"Manas is under attack from all directions,
It seems he was in a fluster and could not deal with enemies,
Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
Have gone to the back of the troops.
If I go to fight now,
Manas must be poked off."

Cunning Kunwuer Bayi thought inwardly,
He rode on Alekala steed arrogantly,
Whipped and urged with courage,
Launched an attack toward the lion rampantly.

Six nets enemies cast,
Right fell on the head of Manas.
"It is the opportunity to capture him,
I will grab him together with his steed tight,
Capture both of them and drive them back,
How honorable it will be with victory.
As long as I capture him,
Brute people will have no leader,
Sorandick's bastard son,
What ability he has to flee away."

Kunwuer Bayi was happy secretly,
Launched the attack arrogantly.
"Mendi! Mendi! Mendi!"
Kunwuer Bayi shouted loudly,
The sudden shouting of "Mendi",
Roared up to the sky.

He waved the whip in his hand ceaselessly,
Countless lash marks appeared on the back of the steed.
His face was as cloudy as the sky,
He looked ferocious.

Heard the deafening shouting of enemies,
Faced enemies' ferocious power,
Ayikoler was still very calm.
Seeing the coming enemies,
He just considered them as trousers legs.

Kunwuer Bayi was full of joy,
Gave out orders to his troops:
"Warriors, pull the nets full of your energy,

I will pierce through his shoulder with my spear,
Let his blood drain off."

Kunwuer Bayi looked murderous,
Attempted to poke Manas off the steed.

The greatest hero Manas,
Grasped the handle of the sharp sword,
Drew the sword out of the sheath suddenly.

This deadly sword,
Had fire burning on its end;
Seeing this magical sword,
Enemies dare not approach in panic.

He waved the sword and slashed,
Broke the nets apart with cut and killed enemy generals,
No enemy could escape under his sword.

Kunwuer Bayi was haunted with fear,
Did not dare to draw his spear out,
But turned his steed and fled away,
To the camp of Kakan troops,
And merged into massive enemy troops.

The lion did not want to lose this good chance,
He followed up the victory with hot pursuit.
"Just go to die if the dying time is coming,
There is no need to fear the dangers and difficulties."
Almanbet chased after him,
As fast as wild wind and lightning.
Clouds of dust raised behind them,
Covered the sun and mountains.

Niskara saw Almanbet,
"I will not let him approach our hero,
Intercept this lackey on his way.

Let these self-glorified Brutes,
Taste the hardships and bitterness."
He urged his maroon mare,
Galloped forward and kicked up clouds of dust,
Charged ahead regardless of his safety.

Akberita's son Chuwak,
Was very worried about his company's life:
"The lion is chasing in the front,
Almanbet follows tight,
Niskara is attempting to attack,
Harbors plots in his heart secretly,
It is a dangerous signal,
I must attack in time and turn the situation back.

"The lion attacks selflessly,
Tries to fight Kunwuer Bayi out;
If Almanbet is slightly careless,
Niskara attacks him secretly,
He must be poked off on the ground."
He was so worried with so many thoughts,
Whipped his steed and galloped forward.

Green-argali steed galloped with its mane standing,
Its long tail swayed at the back of its body,
Hero Chuwak's mount,
Was as powerful as ninety steeds together.

Arokai's son Kunwuer Bayi,
Was old and full of cunning tricks,
He galloped ahead at top speed without stopping,
Repeated the same trick of fleeing away.

There was a place called Satsander,
The col cornered there,
There was a narrow winding trail,
And an eighty-span deep trap,

Was dug right in the middle of the trail.

Not far from that trap,
One hundred warriors, twelve assistant generals,
Led a hundred and thirty thousand troops,
Ambushed aside secretly.

Beside that trap,
There was place enemies gathered,
Khan who guarded soldiers as sheep,
Was the demon called Beshkulak①.

Cunning Kunwuer Bayi thought inwardly:
"I keep such a distance to flee,
He must follow my track,
I will try to guide him to the trap.

"I'd better pretend to fight with him,
Start a fierce attack,
When we are fighting,
I can take the chance to push him into the trap.

"If Kirgiz come right after him,
I can push rocks down the mountain,
Bury all of them,
Then run back to the camp without any stop.

"I will let those arrogant and self-glorified Brutes,
Feel scared and fall in despair."
Kunwuer Bayi had his evil thoughts swelled,
Turned round craftily.

Right at the moment,
Almanbet appeared in his sight.
"Almanbet shows up together with Manas,

① Beshkulak: Transliteration of Kirgiz language. It originally means five ears, here it is used as the name of a person.

My noble life will be in great danger.
I meet alone with them two,
They will not let me go easily,
How can I save my life?
They will cut my belly open,
Throw me into the trap I dug,
That trap is what I prepared specially for them."

Kunwuer Bayi pondered over and over,
Then gave out the order to the troops:
"Turn out to make final attack,
Kill the Brutes who bite the hook,
Do not let any of them be alive."

Beating drums filled the sky,
The earth was shaking to all directions.
The ambushed troops,
Charged to the battlefield from all directions.

Almanbet caught up with Manas,
Pulled his halter and did not let him go forward.
What Almanbet could do,
When the leopard went on his own way.

Almanbet had his heart in his boots,
Held the lion's halter in the hand tight.
Manas was furious at what he was doing,
With beard shaking and each was seen clearly:
"Let me off, do not tangle!"
He continued shouting angrily toward Almanbet.

Almanbet was at the end of his resources,
So he said to Manas:
"Hey, hero Manas,
Your prestigious name is as high as the mountain,
Here is not your homeland Taras,
How you can act so rashly.

Anger is the demon, wisdom is the friend,
Lion, let the reason come back to your heart.

"The hills and cols in the front,
Traps are as dense as meshes,
It was me who asked others to dig and arrange them.
There was only one trail but too narrow to even let an ox turn,
Kunwuer knows it like the palm of his hand.
Every trap is very deep,
Every one of them is eighty-span deep.

"At the corner of the hill,
There is a place called Satsander,
The castle there is guarded with massive forces,
Even a fly is impossible to hide.

"The commander leads the troops here,
Is matchless hero Beshkulak.
I have only heard but never seen him,
However he is an enemy we need pay great attention.
I was worried Beshkulak would attack,
So I asked to dig the traps.
It is said that the attendants of Beshkulak,
Are numerous masters with highly skilled martial arts.
Kunwuer Bayi harbors evil intention,
Then he is guiding you here…"

Almanbet did not finish his words,
But how Ayikoler could believe him,
Who was eager to kill the enemy.

Kunwuer Bayi urged Alekala steed,
Came to the place where the artillery was set up,
The artillery had been ready,
And fastened on the ground with iron sticks.

Kunwuer rushed up,

Lit the fuse of the artillery.
An earthshaking sound rumbled,
Enemies turned out and flags covered up the earth.

One hundred warriors turned out,
Each of them held a flag,
Like huge waves surged in seas,
A hundred and thirty thousand troops were like coming flood.
Rode on a bumpy elephant,
Giant Beshkulak launched the attack personally.

Manas was anxious for success,
So he said to Almanbet:
"Forget it, hero Almanbet,
You stop me from capturing Kunwuer Bayi,
Talked with me here quite a while,
Now Beshkulak comes and attacks head-on,
I must fight and compete with him personally."
The lion did not let Almanbet direct,
The battle plan has been made by himself.

Beshkulak had five sons,
And three brothers,
Each of them was a giant.
They went to the battle on foot,
Others followed them,
Came in ferocious and powerful manner.

On Beshkulak,
There were six layers of leather pants and armors,
He wore boots covered with iron,
And had chest-protector made of steel,
Which clanged and shined.

The helmet on his head,
Was made of lead,
Which was seamless,

And cast in the furnace by one time.

Shields on shoulders were of three layers,
Ferocious Beshkulak was of majestic manner,
Rode on the elephant and went forward slowly.

Eight giants behind him,
Were all like mountains,
Sturdy bodies staggered,
Walked ahead slowly.
Like black cranes alighted and flew in the lake,
They walked forward in lockstep.

He turned his head round and shouted to the back:
"I will charge and attack personally,
Where are you hiding, Kunwuer Bayi?
Manas, who makes you flee away desparately,
Point him out to me.
Which one is Almanbet?
I will dig his black heart out,
It must be a feast to me."

Kunwuer Bayi was still badly shaken,
He was confused among the swarming crowds,
He pointed to the front,
Introduced to Beshkulak:
"Manas is riding on the grey and white steed,
He wears the battle gown weaved with white silk.
Numerous giants like you,
Have all lost lives in his hand.

"The one on Sariala steed is the damned lackey,
He is at the bottom of all these troubles,
Kuspar's son Bolanchu,
Got blood drunk up by him.

"It is also him,

Who brings numerous Kirgiz to Kangayi,
All the troubles today,
Are caused and planned by him."

Whipped Ackura steed into the battlefield,
Held Sire spear tight in the hand,
Hero Manas charged forward bravely,
Rushed into the broad battlefield.
No matter facing what kind of giants,
Lion Manas never retreated cowardly.

Beshkulak also swaggered,
Waved the sixty-span long spear.
Majestic lion Manas,
Braced himself up and held the spear.
He stretched his strong arms out,
Seized the coming spear.

The lion pulled the spear hard,
Along with the inertia,
Beshkulak fell off the elephant back.

The boar fell off on the ground,
Dust buried his head.
Ayikoler Manas was equal to his reputation,
He was a man of illustrious reputation,
He was the real lion-like hero.

Beshkulak fell off on the ground,
His helmet also fell off.
Ayikoler Manas seized the opportunity,
Aimed at the skull above the ear,
Slashed with the ax severely.

Beshkulak's head broke in two,
Brains ran out.
Ambitious Beshkulak,

At last found his home to return.

Thought about Kunwuer Bayi's conduct,
Eagle Manas was burning with anger.
Without seeing the massive troops in the front,
Forgetting the traps Almanbet reminded him,
Manas fought against Kunwuer Bayi desperately.

Kunwuer Bayi did not dare to fight head-on,
Turned his steed round and fled in panic.

Seventy two incantations of calling for wind or rain,
Had cast in Almanbet's mind;
Witchcraft of starting furious storms,
Was his secret super magic power.

He could turn the day into night,
Turn the whole world upside down.
All incantations of calling for wind or rain,
Almanbet handled very skillfully.

All the magical incantations,
Almanbet was extremely fluent.
Black, white and yin, yang,
Almanbet distinguished clearly.

He held a fist-size bag in the hand,
And shook it ceaselessly,
Faced the sky and made the incantation,
Applied witchcraft to cover the sky with dark clouds.
Called for wind and rain,
Made the hail fall suddenly.

The noise made by the storm and wind,
Was like ghosts crying in the wilderness.
Everything in the world,
Was covered with white snow.

The sudden storm poured down,
Muddy waves surged.
The ferociously running flood,
Drowned the entire Satsander,
Only a few inlands,
Floated in the flood.

Ayikoler dashed and made the steed tired,
He lost the track of Kunwuer Bayi,
He went round and round in the wilderness,
But could not find the way to return.

Kunwuer Bayi also knew some about witchcraft,
He cast a spell and made him flee from danger,
A gust of eastern wind blew,
He fled back to Begin city.

Ketay troops thronged,
Egg-size hails merged their ankles in an instant.

Almanbet cast a spell,
Drove the clouds and storm away suddenly.

Right at this moment,
Hero Manas came in his front.
Almanbet kept the secret,
Hid the truth from hero Manas.

He talked to Manas,
In a mild tone:
"The lion, you have witnessed clearly,
That black-hearted bastard has the power to call for wind and rain.
That cunning bastard cast the spell,
Pours the storm and take the chance and flee away…"

Before he finished his words,
Rolling flood surged,

And came from all directions.
Satsander was in a sunken place,
It is joined in east and west and spread toward both directions.
Turbid mud rolled forward,
Beshkulak's five sons,
And his three brothers,
Were all devoured by the mud.

Traps were filled and leveled up with mud,
Ketay soldiers stationed in Satsander,
Suffered misfortune unforgettable for whole life.
Ayikoler and Almanbet side by side,
Continued going forward toward Ajat.

They galloped day and night,
Did not spare their steeds at all,
After six-day and five-night journey,
They went back to the former battlefield.

Generals and soldiers of both sides were dripping blood,
Slashed and fought without stopping.
Giants had already been exhausted,
Warriors lost their lives immediately when their time came.

On the low-lying land of Ajat riverbank,
Blood clotted in a mess.
On the gentle slope,
Blood ran along the slope and gathered.

Kirgiz and Ketay clashed in every direction,
Charged toward the other side ceaselessly.
In the seesaw battle,
Both sides fought regardless of safety.

Corpses of horses piled as high as mountains,
Showed their teeth and lay at random,
Bodies were stiff and limbs spread;

Corpses of soldiers spread across the field,
Which was too horrible to look at.

Almanbet went through the mountain of corpses,
Came to Bakay and said:
"Respectable uncle Bakay,
Corpses scattering in the battlefield,
Are as dense as wild weeds,
Like rocks on Kangayi Gobi desert,
Which are too many to be counted.

"My uncle, if it is suitable,
I have one thing to report to you.
We'd better beat drums for calling off the battle,
Count the number of our soldiers and horses.

"Ketay will feel confused at most,
Say we Kirgiz run away from the field.
I have witnessed the miserable scene in the field,
Ayikoler scores one victory after another,
I go with him side by side and climb on a hill.

"I have four worries,
I am burning with anxiety every time I think about them:
One is ferocious giant Majili,
Another is ferocious Beshkulak,
They have been killed by the lion.
Giant Bolanchu with superior strength,
Is another of my sore point,
They three have all been killed.

"Kunwuer loses confidence for he lost these generals,
He has no help but turns round and flees away.
Among these four ferocious guys,
Now only Kunwuer Bayi is alive.
He has agile mind and he is crafty,
He can make terrible troubles.

There are also some other deadly heroes,
I will not list them one by one now."

Hearing what Almanbet said,
And about the matter of counting the number,
Khan Bakay sent messengers immediately,
To discuss the retreat with Aisanhan stations opposite.

Both sides beat drums and retreated,
The sound of horns was deafening.
Aisanhan led his sparse soldiers,
Retreated back to Begin city.

Let us put this aside,
Listen about how hero Chuwak,
Capture alive,
The sons of forty generals.

Chuwak Captured Sons of Forty Generals

Kirgiz endured their sadness,
Counted the number in a hurry.
Fair headmen,
From ten-household-men to chiliarch,
Had few left alive.

They did not check common soldiers one by one,
The situation of injury and casualty was hard to be figured out.
Troops led by every Khan,
Gathered respectively and counted line after line.
All who were alive stood there,
Except Chuwak and Toshtuk.

They became worried suddenly,
Faces turned pale.
A person was driving flocks of horses,
Raised dust in the broad wilderness.

People took out their telescopes,
Searched through the lens,
They recognized it was Toshtuk.
People of Arashi,
Started off to meet him.
Carried him off the horseback,
Did not let his feet land,
They lifted him over their heads.

He saluted Khans,
Kissed each other's fingertips excitedly.

Where do you come?
People asked him in one voice.

Eir Toshtuk① continued the talk,
Answered his fellows excitedly:
"I rode on Chalkuyruk and started off,
Chased self-glorified Muradiler;
On the gentle slope of Budurmark mountain,
I finally caught up with him.
I was going to draw my spear out,
He turned into a deep canyon,
He cast a spell and mist raised up,
He ran away under the cover of the fog.

"He has one thousand attendants,
None of them is common soldier,
They are all heroes.
Muradiler took the chance and fled,
Those one thousand heroes acted all of one mind,
Pressed on toward me from all directions.
I killed all of them,
Drove their steeds.
Muradiler escaped successfully,
It left me a lifelong regret."

Seeing hero Toshtuk return in triumph,
The lion remembered hero Chuwak suddenly.
Without getting Chuwak's information,
Manas cried in a sad voice:
"We were like lambs of the same mother,
Now I lose you, my brother Chuwak,
How can I spend the rest of my life?
We grew up together,
We shared food,
We enjoyed happiness and shared sadness,

① Eir Toshtuk: Eir, Kirgiz language, means hero. Eir Toshtuk, namely hero Toshtuk. "Eir" has been integrated with Toshtuk, and becomes the name of Toshtuk.

We treated each other with all sincerity.

"You are my backbone, my Chuwak,
I join you to take any risk.
As long as you accompany me,
Everything goes smoothly and successfully to me.
Chuwak, though you are my brother,
You are my support in real life,
You are the pillar for our people.
You always hold the spear in your hand,
Stand by my side like a ferocious tiger.
My hero Chuwak, where are you?
Now you left me lonely in this world.

"You are regardless of your safety,
You devote your life to Arashi.
Why do you suffer so much?
Make my heart been torn by grief.
You contribute your whole life to our people,
The achievements you get will be evergreen.
Your eyes are like black currants,
Are your eyes pecked by crows?
Do condors alight on or fly from,
Your white body?
Your door-size white teeth,
Do condors or crows excrete on them?
Your red blood,
Do enemies drink it to quench their thirst?

"You are my wings, help me fly,
You are my tail, help me alight and fly,
You are my talons, help me catch what I want.
You are taller than towering peaks,
People are admired but dare not look up;
You are a castle, station the border,
You are dense forest, full of pleasant shades.

"Chuwak, you are my support,
It is my biggest wish to see you,
As long as you are standing by me,
I have the source of strength to conquer the world.
If you are still alive,
Whether do I need mount and start off,
To break in that famous Begin city,
And rescue you out of the danger?
Hero Chuwak, where are you?
You have made me suffered a lot in my heart.

"Sage Koshaoyi, giant Bakay,
Ah, my bosom friend Almanbet,
Please help discuss a plan,
How I can,
Find my brother Chuwak!"

Hero Manas was choked with tears,
Dense smoke raised in his mouth,
Flames burned in his eyes.
Called the name of Chuwak with crying voice,
The sound of grinding the teeth was horrible;
He could not control the pain in his heart,
Teeth he ground fell out his mouth.

Khan Bakay continued the talk:
"My lion, please remember,
Poured bowl will not be full,
Do not be sad like this.

"If the hero really died,
He will never come back again;
People having been captured,
Ketay will never return.
We still have numerous Kirgiz fellow,
Why not hold our sadness back,
To discuss about our future.

My lion, please think about my words."

Almanbet continued to say,
His words were reasonable but sad:
"Fourteen Khans,
All generals and soldiers present,
In the bloody battlefield,
Death is sure to be always there.
During the fight with enemies,
All-armored hero was hard to avoid giving his life.

"Let us go to the blood-stained battlefield,
Search carefully the gullies and ditches there,
If hero Chuwak has devoted his life,
We need find him even it is only a corpse."

Sage Koshaoyi, wise man Bakay,
Brave hero Almanbet,
Hero Toshtuk, giant Ageshi…
A dozen Khans led their troops and started off.
Corpses piled as mountains in the battlefield,
They searched and poked carefully.
Although they searched hard,
They still could not find Chuwak's body.

"If enemy took his mount away,
The corpse would be left in the field.
Did Ketay tear him to pieces?
Did he suffer from splitting?"

Showtu who wore huge felt hat,
Was lessoned by Almanbet severely:
"Your chief is lion Chuwak,
You are the pacesetter,
I have warned you carefully,
Take good care of your chief.
It seems you have totally forgotten,

These important arrangements,
No matter the hero is dead or alive,
You are responsible for looking for him."

Led thirty attendants,
Showtu mounted and started off.
Like an eagle net was attacked,
Eagle lost its babies,
Would open its eyes wide to distinguish carefully,
Once swing a figure or a corpse.

Manas was pressed with sorrows,
He could not control his feeling.
He decided to lead Kirgiz troops,
Charged ahead to Begin city.

Sober-minded and quick-witted Almanbet,
His words from the bottom of his heart was reasonable:
"Ayikoler Manas, please listen to me,
It is very sad that Chuwak is missing.
You cannot control your sadness,
Insist on charging toward Begin.
You act so rashly,
It is not a sensible decision.

"If they have captured Chuwak,
Even if you lead your troops and press on to them,
They will not let him off easily.
Our generals and soldiers now are laden with anxiety,
More than half of them are injured.
The earth is reddened with blood,
Soldiers are too exhausted to act.
River has been tainted,
Old and rotten smell is diffuse in the sky.

"Start off from here toward east,
There is a place called Jantosh,

It is boundlessly broad,
Wild weeds sway with wind.
Let out horses rest there,
We go there first to pitch camps,
And watch relaxed there,
Observe enemies' action carefully."
His words were very reasonable,
Generals all agreed with him.

Elders like Bakay, Koshaoyi,
Went to Jantosh and pitched camps in succession.
Almanbet, in loud voice,
Gave out orders to all troops:

"Jantosh is a vast land,
Between gentle slopes and valleys,
Different tribes people live densely.
We should keep disciplines strictly and wait for instructions,
Do not bother people here casually.

"We left our fertile and peaceful homeland,
Said goodbye to our beloved families,
Left our beloved lovers,
Go on expedition to challenge Kunwuer Bayi.
He has descended numerous disasters,
Made people suffer and cry.
We come here through hardships we endured,
We are coming for revenging on Kunwuer Bayi.

"You have meat soup in wilderness as long as you have money.
You put money in your pockets,
Carried them along with you and come here.

"Ayikoler's virtuous Khatun,
Kanikai is superiorly smart,
She opened the storehouses generously,
Donated enough money.

You all carry money with you,
Each of you is very rich.

"Hero whose life expectancy has done has died,
He neither spent a penny,
Nor took a penny away with him.

"People alive can enjoy the money,
Buy abundant materials and enjoy them happily.
People here are good at doing business,
They bargain and budget strictly.

"If you do not be familiar with trade,
Just give your money to Senchybek to look after,
He will take care of everything for you,
Never let you suffer hunger."
Almanbet warned like this,
Expelled the shadow of the battle away gradually.

Heavily sick and injured soldiers,
Were carried to rear area with stretchers,
Doctors and nurses were called in,
Gave them treatment in time and let them rest.

Took medicine Ebepu, Sebepu and Mideter out,
Let injured soldiers dose in time.
Let blood on their wounds,
Numerous generals and soldiers then saved lives.
Flame of life which was dying out,
Burned again and chined.

Found gall bladder of condors,
Many unconscious soldiers,
Came to their senses soon.
Injured personnel was taken care of in time,
Hero Yurbi was guarding them.

Did not let anyone act on his own,
Kerkokuler was in charge of the troops.
Killed argali on slopes,
Shot gazelles in valleys;
Hunted antelopes in forest,
And a lot of leopards and elks.

Shot arrows, shot firelocks,
Hunted foxes lynx in the wilderness,
Hunted wild geese and wild ducks in the lake,
Kirgiz rested there like this.

Karamark generals fled back to the city,
Were a mass of bruises and groaned.
Who could be alive, who could be dead,
Warriors were very sad.

Aisanhan who ruled one place,
Giant Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara together,
Were all filled with anxiety.
They tossed and turned restlessly,
But still had no idea for the countermove.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about what is the situation,
Of missing Chuwak.

When Kunwuer Bayi fled desperately,
Manas chased after him.
"Do not fall into the trap."
Almanbet whipped his steed forward hard.
Niskara whipped and urged his steed,
Followed Almanbet.

"I will catch up with Niskara,
And cut his head off immediately."
Chuwak was full of confidence,

Fixed his eyes on Niskara,
He rushed out of the camp and caught up for him.

Kunwuer Bayi whipped his steed and fled,
Arrived at the edge of traps soon,
Niskara said to himself:
"Manas must be cheated,
Then fall into the trap."
This guy never thought about,
Almanbet had seen through their tricks.

"Almanbet comes right after him,
Hero Beshkulak hides in Satsander,
Must pull his heart out."
Beshkulak did not defeat Almanbet,
But lost his own life.

Niskara looked back,
He saw brave Chuwak was after him:
"I must run away now,
Chuwak will definitely not let me survive."
Niskara was filled with fear,
Toward rough slopes,
Fled desperately.

Changbai Mountain was winding,
This mountain is still standing erect today.
Deep valley bottom in the front was dangerous,
Dense but uninhabited forest was on one side.

Niskara whipped his steed ceaselessly,
Ran away with full of his strength,
Clothes hems were swaying with wind.
Brave hero Chuwak,
Chased after him regardless of the safety.

Koktikai steed galloped as fast as flying,

Followed Niskara tight,
The sound of steed hooves,
Deafened ears and spread afar.

At this critical moment,
At this moment impossible to escape,
Niskara who had learned how to call for rain,
Cast the spell to call for rain.

Wild wind sprang up suddenly,
Clouds and thick fog covered the earth,
Hails overspread six valleys,
Then heavy snow covered on hails.
Niskara confused Chuwak,
So he whipped his steed and fled away.

Chuwak did not know what to do,
The night screen was hanging down,
The hero galloped forward without stopping,
He was filled with fury,
Looked for the track of the enemy,
Did not want to hold the halter.

A pearly white appeared on the eastern horizon,
The day came back to the world.
Sunlight flooded the earth,
Hero Chuwak was still in the forest.

Where was the coming way?
Where should he go?
Chuwak felt confused,
Did not know where he was.

Thick fog sprang up in an instant,
Snow flew in the sky,
The day connected with the night.

He did not know how much time passed,
He did not know how many places he went.

He was on Changbai mountain at the moment,
Behind the mountain was the place called Goliya①.
Here Jurenduo's people lived,
This was right the home of Jurenduo.

Brave commander Almanbet,
Once learned martial arts as his student;
Ketay children came in succession,
To learn from him every year.

Children of forty generals,
Now were learning and improving their skills,
In Jurenduo's home.

Pigeons came with generals' letters:
Kirgiz invade our homeland,
Flames of war started with gunsmoke.
You just study and do not worry,
Do not return back home for the time being.

Black-hearted Jurenduo,
Had known the contents of those letters,
He hid the truth to the children,
Gave out the order to the children like this:
"You do not go back home recently,
You just play and hunt in Changbai mountain,
Rest and cultivate your minds happily.
I give you forty-day vacation,
You can go on returning journey after forty days."

He gave each of them a steed,
Each of them a set of armor,

① Goliya: It refers to places like Korean peninsula and so on.

Each of them a set of tent,
Each of them a set of weapons.

"Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Plotted against me with evil intentions,
Kept the sharp sword I made personally for his own,
Then fled away.

"He must fight back,
Cut my head off.

"In the vast field,
Though I have more than two hundred roads spreading everywhere,
All these will be impossible to stop him.
I'd better go across the sea,
Hide in the opposite bank to escape the death."

Jurenduo was worried,
Led one reliable student,
Packed and went together,
Fled away without hesitation.

Forty young masters of forty generals,
Rode on their own steeds,
Wore armors and helmets,
Carried tents and bags,
Started off toward Changbai mountain,
Met with Chuwak face to face.

Lion Chuwak did not understand their language,
He did not put them into his eyes at all.
He went head-on without hesitating,
Forty young men,
Fought against him of one mind.

Hero lion Chuwak,
Captured them all alive.

Tied them one by one on the horseback,
Strung their steeds together one after one,
Turned round and returned happily.

It was a clear night,
Stars shined in the sky.
Hero Chuwak observed the starry sky,
Turned and adjusted the direction.

Aimed Gold Peg Star① on his right,
Stepped on returning journey toward west.
There was a star called Zhuolochu②,
It was the beacon light for travelers at night.

Rose from east at dusk,
Set to west at dawn.
Matchlessly hero Chuwak,
Adjusted his direction according to these stars.
Aimed at the target and went forward,
When first rays of morning sun came out,
He arrived at a valley.

It was a broad valley,
A gentle ridge was at the upper reaches.
Chuwak went up toward the ridge,
Whipped and urged steed without stop.

Let Chuwak gallop on Koktikai steed,
Let us listen about,
Where was hero Showtu now.

Hero Showtu wore the huge felt hat,
Led thirty attendants gallop forward,
The death was dancing over his head:

① Gold Peg Star: It refers to the golden star which looks like a peg. It is the star Kirgiz used to distinguish directions.

② Zhuolochu: Kirgiz language, it means traveler. Here it refers to the star points of the direction for travelers.

"If I cannot find hero Chuwak,
I must be killed by Almanbet.
No matter Chuwak is dead or alive,
I must search carefully."

He turned all corpses over,
Searched carefully through all gullies.
He could not find the body of Chuwak,
He did not know what to do sadly.

"I need go and search in rolling mountains,
To look for his track on branch roads,
As long as he is still alive,
I will find him.
If I cannot find the hero,
How can I hold the halter and turn it round?"

They hunted wild animals to satisfy their hunger,
They went forward and searched, arrived in a mountain,
They had been exhausted,
Fell into sleep with their clothes on.

When the evening came,
He woke up from his dream.
He took out his telescope and watched,
He saw a group of people moving on the ridge,
It was about three-day journey from him.
He was burning with impatience,
But he still could not recognize them.

Hero Showtu did not hesitate,
Whipped and urged his steed toward the blurred group.
Between them was rolling mountains,
Overlapped like waves surged.

Showtu watched carefully,
Ridges in the front was not very far,

Straight-line distance,
Was only half-day for a steed.

"Which is the ridge I am looking for?
Oh, god, do not let Chuwak disappear."
Showtu prayed continuously,
His heart beat faster,
The sign of happy news shined upon his heart.

"The sign of happy news flashes in my heart,
As long as I can meet black mane wolf Chuwak,
I will have no regret even I am going to die.
We need whip and urge steeds fast,
Rush on the ridge to watch the group carefully."

He was as joyful as a lark,
Clothes hems and sleeves swayed with wind.
Hero Chuwak's figure,
Floated continually in front of his eyes.

He felt full of excitement,
Grabbed the halter and waved the whip,
Adjusted himself and looked ahead,
On the winding ridge,
The hurriedly coming group appeared near.

Chuwak's Koktikai steed,
Was tall and sturdy as iron-cast peak;
Hero Chuwak on its back,
Was of martial bearing as towering peak.

Hero Showtu was overjoyed,
Forgot the whip in his hand,
Swayed the rolled-edge leather hat on his head,
Could not help shouting:
"Black mane wolf, I have seen you!"
He urged his steed,

In a blink of an eye,
He had arrived by the side of the hero.

Tough-minded Chuwak fixed his eyes and looked,
Now unyielding Showtu,
Had already had tears pouring down his cheeks.
His tongue was stiff,
Like a burbling baby,
He could not say any word.

They went back side by side,
Chuwak got to know clearly the following words:
"My respected tiger,
I am willing to devote my life to you.
Since we lost your information in the battle,
We have been suffered a lot.

"Lion Almanbet reprimanded me severely,
Ordered me to find you anyway.
I go day and night for several days,
Searched you in the wilderness anxiously."

Chuwak continued the talk:
"Hero Showtu,
Please cheer up,
Such things are very common,
In the battles.

"Famous Kirgiz,
Well-known Ayikoler Manas,
Hero Showtu, please tell me,
Is he still alive?

"About the same age as me,
Closely attach to each other,
Hero Showtu,
Is Almanbet still alive in the world?

"Sirak is a matchlessly capable general,
Among seventy giants,
He is so brave that no one can resist,
It never goes too far no matter how we praise him.
Hero Showtu,
Is he safe and sound?

"Pray for people with auspicious words,
Words are as sweet and warm to the heart as honey,
Hero Showtu,
Is the elder Koshaoyi alive?
It seems he rinses his mouth with honey,
Silver beard swayed in the wind,
He is profoundly learned and sharp in debate.
For injured body and broken bones,
He always can find magical medicine to cure.
Hero Showtu,
Is the elder Bakay alive?

"Never get lost at night,
With full of wisdom,
Kirgiz sage,
Benefits people in one place as Began.
Hero Showtu,
Is Aji Bayi safe and healthy?

"Khans of equal abilities,
Are they all safe and sound?
Forty lions led by Kergel,
Are they all alive and safe?"

Showtu answered him one by one:
"Sage Koshaoyi, giant Bakay,
Ayikoler Manas and Almanbet,
Sirak and all Khans,
They are all healthy and safe.
They are all worried about you,

Keep you in their minds all the time.
Forty warriors led by Kergel,
And me, poor Showtu,
All rush about you and all are safe.

"Almanbet almost killed me,
He blamed me for not following you tight,
And made you get lost.
To be honest, hero Chuwak,
What he said is very reasonable,
It really was my responsibility.

"Ayikoler murmured and was very unhappy,
Kirgiz are very sad.
Chuwak, for you,
Ayikoler made up his mind,
To charge Begin city.
All Khans discouraged him,
Then he pressed his impulse down reluctantly."

"Let's go now,
You should know our journey clearly."
Chuwak made short of long,
Urged Showtu to start off right away.

"If we go fast day and night,
After two-day and two-night journey,
Then we can see our troops,
And arrive at Manas' camp."

Showtu finished his words and continued going on,
He led Chuwak day and night.
After two-day and two-night rushing,
They saw their camp.

But Chuwak held his steed and thought quietly:
"If we arrive at night,

We will cause rumpus,
Make them become restless.
Making them awaken the whole night,
Is not a good thing."

Chuwak thought over and over,
Said to Showtu reasonably:
"Today we just rest here,
Tomorrow we go back to the camp.
Do not send messenger to report first,
Tell them I, Chuwak, am still alive,
Make generals and soldiers restless."

Every word of Chuwak,
Touched Showtu deeply.
He jumped off his steed,
Gave out the order to his attendants:
"Today we rest here."

Among Showtu's attendants,
There was a young man called Bayi Tolan,
He was a boy from a Bayi's family,
He was unrestrained and frank:

"When Chuwak got lost,
Khan Manas was angry and murmuring,
I will send the news of Chuwak,
Try their emotional response."

Bayi Tolan thought over and over,
Set out secretly without being noticed.
He mounted a motley steed,
Galloped under the cover of the night.

Bayi Tolan went in a hurry,
The sound of hooves echoed in the night sky.
It was Almanbet who was on duty this night,

He mounted and watched carefully.

He heard the sound of hooves coming near from afar,
Held the halter and stopped going forward.
When the steed went past him,
He gave the order "Stop".

Hearing the sonorous voice of Almanbet,
Young Bayi Tolan was frightened,
He shook with fear and his tongue was stiff,
Opened his eyes wide and looked at Almanbet.

"In this dark night,
Who are you?
Where do you come, where do you go?"

"Hero, I am Bayi Tolan.
I come at night,
To ask for Suyinchy gift.

"I went with Showtu together at first,
To search hero Chuwak.
Chuwak worried he will bring you the disturbance at night,
So he dismounted and rests far from here.

"He captured forty youths,
Tied them one after one tight.
I toss and turn restlessly,
Then I decide to report to you.

"Showtu gave the order out,
Let us sleep there at ease,
I remembered his order,
If I cannot return tonight,
Then my life will be lost."

Bayi Tolan said in a hurry,

Pulled the halter and was ready to return.
"Hey, Bayi Tolan, Bayi Tolan,
You do not need to return there,
Just go to report to the lion right now.

"You should keep firmly in mind,
What I tell you.
The news of Chuwak's coming,
You cannot let the secret out.

"You walk to the lion directly,
Do not mumble when you talk.
Tell him Almanbet asks you to go,
Tell him the ice has melted,
Tell him I invite him to start off right away,
To inspect the east of the camp.

"Tell him it is Almanbet's idea,
After that you just return here quickly.
All other things,
Just leave them to me."

Bayi Tolan left Almanbet and started off,
Whipped and urged his steed,
Came to Ayikoler's tent in a hurry,
The first ray of morning was like a girl's smiling face.

The lion tossed and turned restlessly,
So he wore his white battle gown,
Walked out of the tent.
Bayi Tolan strode ahead to him,
Told him in details,
What Almanbet asked him to report.

"Chuwak has returned safely."
The lion was surprised and overjoyed about the news.
The hurried sound of the hooves,

Had woken uncle Bakay and giant Koshaoyi up.
What the youth said,
They had heard clearly.

They walked out hurriedly,
The lion had already ridden on Ackura,
Wore the white battle gown,
Waved the whip and galloped like flying.

They looked at each other,
Mounted and went forward side by side,
Followed Manas.

Generals and soldiers delivered the news to each other,
A dozen Khans,
Mounted and started off gradually,
From Almanbet,
They learned the truth.

Seeing young Bayi Tolan off,
Almanbet pulled the halter of Sariala steed,
Walked around the camp three times,
Observed carefully without neglecting.
All roads and paths,
Before the daytime came,
Were checked carefully and left no footmark.

Chuwak mounted and started off,
Marched toward the camp of troops.
The morning sun shined,
The earth woke up.
Almanbet saw his figure in the distance,
Prayed to the god loudly.

Heard the voice of Almanbet,
Tears sparkled in Chuwak's eyes.
When they two met each other,

They could not hide their feeling of happiness.

Dismounted and opened their arms,
Rushed ahead desperately.
As impulsive as innocent youths,
They held each other's shoulders,
Embraced each other tight.

Tears ran down,
Along their beard.
The lions suffered from missing,
Embraced each other again and again.
With cheek rubbing cheek,
Running tears,
Wetted the other's clothes.

Do not say relatives and families,
Even animals also miss old affection.
Koktikai steed and Sariala steed,
Rubbed each other's neck.

Smelled each others,
Neighed to each other.
On the corners of their eyes,
Tears of missing sparkled.

Right at this moment,
Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Burst into loud cry.
Ackura neighed continuously,
Mountains echoed and earth shook.

Koktikai and Sariala following the sound,
Turned round toward Ackura.
It seemed they saluted each other,
Poured their complaints happened before they met in a circle.

Lion Manas could not control himself,
He burst into cry,
His body shook all over like birch trees swayed in wind,
He embraced hero Chuwak,
Hail-size tears ran down.
He dragged Chuwak out of Almanbet's arms,
Embraced him tight in his arms.

Right at this excited moment,
Bakay and Koshaoyi arrived.
Bakay burst into loud sobbing,
Koshaoyi could not control his feeling,
Called the name "Chuwak" loudly.

They were cool-minded and persuaded hero Manas:
"Rushed about for a long time,
Lost his way, wondered other places,
Chuwak finally comes back,
But you hug him and does not stop.
Manas, where is your lion-like will,
Where is your courageous spirit?"

Koshaoyi finished his words,
And separated these two brothers.
Chuwak separated from Manas,
He faced sage Koshaoyi and hero Bakay,
He saluted them with respect.

Arashi all turned out,
Came and welcomed the hero,
They were as dense as the grass on the earth,
Spread all over the mountains like insects swarmed.

Generals could not hug him one by one,
They had to look at him,
Crowded in a distance,
Formed a wall of people.

"Hero Chuwak return in triumph."
Manas led generals and soldiers cheered.
The unique sun in the sky,
Smiled and shared their happiness.

Branches with tender shoots,
Waved in wind with beautiful song;
Flowered competed in blossoming,
The earth wore a colorful coat.

Birds in the sky,
Fluttered wings and forgot to go back;
Animals in the wilderness,
All gathered in a distance and celebrated happily.

Wild ducks and geese fluttered wings on the lake,
Splashed in the water happily;
Swans flew in the sky,
Wild geese combed their feathers.

Swallows and larks,
Twittered merrily in joyous choruses;
Flowers blossomed on earth,
Everything in the world celebrated the happy time.

Could not control the happiness,
Lion Manas burst into tears;
Almanbet and hero Sirak,
Tears welled up in their eyes.

Sage Koshaoyi and Bakay,
The two elders also cried and shed bitter tears;
Giant Toshtuk and Muzburchak,
All Khans cried.

Seeing Khans' expressions,
Common people could not help shedding happy tears;

The steeds of the lions were neighing happily,
The sun was more shining.

Moon shone brightly at dark night,
Happy tears ran down;
Stars in the night sky,
Were eclipsed with tears.

Gentle breeze blew,
Mist on the lake scattered;
Ice and snow melted,
It seemed they welcomed long lost son.

After a while of crazily happy disturbance,
People got back in peace:
"Let's go! It's time to go home."
Generals stood up slowly,
Soldiers started to step on return journey.

Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Respected hero Chuwak very much:
"Please step in the silver stirrups of Ackura."
Chuwak opposed immediately:
"Spiritually noble hero lion,
Our deep affections are apparent,
Only Koktikai steed is most suitable for me,
How I dare to ride on Ackura steed."

Ayikoler Manas, hero Chuwak,
Almanbet and lion Sirak;
Sage Koshaoyi, giant Bakay,
Muzburchak and Senchybek;
Hero Toshtuk and Kerkokuler,
Ageshi and Khan Yurbi,
Tirkechy, Shihay and Garmgirchy,
Fourteen Khans urged their steeds,
Under the leading of Manas,

Started off and went forward happily.

Lion Chuwak captured forty youths,
He gave them to Almanbet:
"You know their background,
You decide how to deal with them."

How Almanbet dealt with them,
Let us take a careful look.

He appointed ten servants,
For each of forty youths,
Helped them wash and changed to casual clothes,
Tied their waists with first-class silk.
The youths played happily and freely,
No one came and stopped them.

One day,
Hero Almanbet came to the lion's temporary residence,
Invited fourteen Khans together with him,
Told them his idea:
"Lion, you are well-known around the world,
Chuwak returns safely,
We are all very happy.
I have enquired carefully,
Forty young heroes he brought back,
Are the offspring of forty famous generals,
Who are the backbones of Ketay troops,

"They were learning skills from Jurenduo,
When they received the letters from their fathers.
They obeyed their fathers' orders,
Stayed there and did not go back their homes.

"According to Jurenduo's order,
They went to Changbai Mountain.
They played in the deep mountain,

They met hero Chuwak.

"Chuwak captured them alive one by one,
Tied their hands tight,
Brought them here and waited for your order.
From them,
I have known their detailed backgrounds.
They are not only from Begin city,
But also from Tonsha and Kakanchin.
They are the same like me,
Are offspring of generals and commanders.

"There are sixty cities' people,
Different tribes of Ketay live there.
Aisanhan took twenty cities out,
Gave it to Arokai's son hero Kunwuer Bayi.

"I was very sad about the land was divided up,
I could not bear the people who were divided up.
Kunwuer Bayi and Aisanhan,
Then became my enemies.
I strove and broke with them,
Walked out of Begin city out of spite.

"We present steeds to these kids,
Present splendid brocade robes to them,
Convoy them back to Begin city,
Give them back safely to those generals,
As long as we can do this,
We will shake the morale of Ketay army.

"If these forty generals cannot go on expedition,
We can sit tight and see,
We will see heroes Kunwuer Bayi, Niskara,
Muradiler and Wushan,
How they are capable to fight against us.

"Once such thing happens,
Aisanhan will fall into a passive position.
Heroes like Kunwuer Bayi, Niskara,
Muradiler and Wushan,
Their powers will be reduced and demoralized."

Almanbet finished his words,
Sage Bakay responded like this:
"Ancestors passed down such sayings:
Winner knows the inside information of enemies,
Shepherd knows the habit of livestock.

"The saying is pleasant to ears,
You know the roads to all directions,
You know the geographical condition in the front,
You are familiar with local customs there.

"I have already given the Khan seal to you,
Let you command the troops,
All others should obey your orders.
You are the Khan to command,
To build achievements for our people.

"You cooperated with Chuwak,
Killed giant Majili;
You and Sirak,
Captured enemy's horses,
Let Janadler drive the flock of horses,
Back to Arashi camp.
Kunwuer only took ten thousand livestock back,
But you brought ninety thousand livestock back.
Lucky Chuwak mounted and started off,
Captured all generals' offspring.

"If every one has no different opinion,
Let four heroes led by Manas,
Lead all of our troops."

About the time of boiling a pot of tea,
Every one kept quiet without saying anything.
Eloquent Sirak,
Talked about his heart sound:
"Upper Begin city we are facing,
Is the place we have never visited,
People live there we have never seen.
Especially powerful Ketay people,
Divide into two opposite camps,
It is what we do not know before.
How to deal with these kids,
It is better to let Almanbet and Chuwak discuss and decide."

Brave Chuwak continued the talk,
Expressed his heart with smile:
"In order to chase Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
I lost myself and searched everywhere,
Then I met these forty kids by accident,
Marched them back to our camp.

"If it is not Almanbet,
Who knows the secret in it.
I wish every one present look far ahead,
Make a sensible decision.

"If because of these Kids,
We can let Ketay fight inside,
Such a good result,
Has been predicted clearly by Almanbet.
Let him be in charge of this,
I will have no different opinion but agree.

"If you all think they are young and innocent,
We can let them go;
But if it is not like this,
We also can kill them all."

Chuwak and Sirak stopped talking,
Waited for Almanbet to speak.
What they said,
Totally accorded with all others' wishes.

Generals and soldiers lined up,
Waited for Almanbet to say something.

Generals talked about their wishes,
Dignified Almanbet,
Expressed his thought:

"Commanded by Khan Manas,
All Khans sit in the front,
If you all agree,
I will make the decision.

"Hero Aji Bayi, please prepare right now,
Send these forty generals' sons,
Back to enemy's camp.
You can choose seven warriors,
Started off early tomorrow morning.

"Enemies will not strike a vicious blow on you,
You will see clearly the result.
Aji Bayi, you are alone,
Forty generals will persuade you to stay,
They will not let you go easily.

"Please remember my following words:
If they are determined to let you stay over night,
You only can stay one night;
You must remember,
Must not stay for two nights;
If you stay for two nights,
Kunwuer Bayi must drive you to death.

"You must accomplish this mission,
Do not increase the hatred,
Of Kirigiz and Ketay,
Almanbet and Manas,
And numerous Arashi people.

"You must take back,
All words of forty generals,
Do not leave even one word off."

Aji Bayi mounted and started off,
Took seven attendants with him,
And those forty kids.
Forty warriors led by Kergelchal,
All mounted and saw them off.

Forty kids recommended one as a representative,
Wrote a letter to their fathers.
Pitched camp and rested at night,
Appointed the sentry to be on duty.

Common people were looking forward,
Patrols explored the way and observed the information ahead.
On the tenth night,
Aji Bayi arrived in Begin city.

Forty generals got the good news,
A disturbance raised in Begin city.
Those kids having been captured,
Could go back home safely,
No one could believe his eyes.
But they witnessed it by their eyes,
Nothing was false in it.

How the truth in front of their eyes,
Was so different from what they guessed.
Discussions filled the city about this:

"We go and ask for our kids,
If we hope Kirgiz return our kids,
That will be a dream as far as stars.
Wouldn't they cut our kids' heads off one by one?
Our little kids are so poor.

"Their eyes might have been gouged out,
Livers and galls might have been pulled out.
We'd better march on Kirgiz,
Revenge for our kids in the battlefield,
Rather than stay here and wait here,
With our tears running down our cheeks."

Forty generals thought about this,
Had buried the seed of hatred in their hearts.
Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
Had sinister motives and were secretly delighted.
When they heard the news kids were captured,
They felt god was fulfilling their desire.

"Kirgiz did the best thing.
They'd better kill,
The kids of all forty generals.

"Gouge their eyes out, made blood flow,
Make them howl miserably like wolves.
Don't we have enough Ketay women?
They can bear more future generals."

Right at this complicated moment,
Messengers came at top speed:
"Forty young masters all come back,
They all ride on steeds with gold saddles and silver stirrups,
Led by a Kirgiz man."

Forty generals all turned out:
"Where are our children, where are they?"

When generals all started off,
Kunwuer Bayi was scheming a deadly plot:
"Muradiler, Wushan and Niskara,
You all listen carefully.
Cunning Brutes take a clever step,
Make me isolated,
Push me in a dilemma and make me angry.

"We need watch forty generals' expressions carefully,
Do not miss any one of them,
To see what kind of movement they will take.
Do not stop them rashly,
Avoid having conflict with them,
Do not make us attacked both from behind and in front,
Let our enemy's plot succeed."

They four discussed secretly,
Made promises to each other.
Watched and waited,
Schemed and worried.
Kirgiz did not return their kids,
That was their real wish.

When forty warriors saw their children,
They praised Kirgiz for their fairness and goodness:
"Their heroic commander,
Is really a fair and kind-hearted person."

The news made a stir in Begin city,
People all walked out of their home,
Helped Aji Bayi and his attendants,
Dismount reverently.

Spread splendid carpet in front of them,
Did not let their feet step on dust,
Put them on the carpet and lifted up,
Sent them to Khan's palace,

Treated them warmly and hospitably.

Words poured out like rain,
They sighed with heartfelt feeling ceaselessly.
People there persuaded sincerely,
Let Aji Bayi stay for a few days.

Generals all gathered,
Came to the palace of Aisanhan;
Forty young masters came along with them,
They ran and fell over each other.

Before the generals began to speak,
Kunwuer Bayi said first:
"Children all come back safely,
Forty generals,
You have nothing to worry now.
Tomorrow will be a day of cruel battle,
Please prepare for the battle with all your energy."

Generals did not care Kunwuer Bayi's words,
Just expressed their own opinions:
"Your majesty, Aisanhan,
We consider you as our father,
Under your shining light,
We enjoy our lives happily.
Heard your order,
How can we be reluctant in charging ahead?

"These forty kids in front of you,
Khan, they are like your grandsons,
Heard the news that they were captured,
We are extremely grieved.

"Kirgiz is the real army of justice,
Our kids were treated very well,
Send our forty kids,

Back to our camp safely.
Our real idea is,
Aisanhan, you'd better make peace with Kirgiz."
Generals spoke in one voice.

Kunwuer Bayi got angry suddenly,
With pale face and ferocious looking in eyes:
"I wish your kids grow up healthily,
I feel very happy they can come back safely.
You all need prepare well right now,
Lead troops to go on expedition."

Forty generals disobeyed his order,
They stood neatly in a line,
Opposed with one voice:
"You go by yourself if you plan a battle,
We do not want to sacrifice ourselves innocently.

"If you force us to go,
Without hesitation, our forty kids,
Will throw themselves into Kirgiz's arms.
We cannot be against each other any more,
Let innocent people bleed and redden the earth."

Generals competed to speak,
Forty youths watched quietly.
Kunwuer Bayi was at the end of his resources,
He had to clear his throat and speak:
"Kirgiz is spreading when first they come,
Now they only have one group of troops…"

Generals did not care,
Kunwuer Bayi's words at all.
Without listening respectively,
They took his words like water off a duck's back.

They were still twittering,

Expressed their opinions:
"Kunwuer Bayi,
No one wants to discuss the battle with you."
Without considering Aisanhan's face,
Generals expressed their opinions freely.

Aisanhan thought a little while,
Expressed his own opinion:
"Khans, generals,
My fellows and relatives,
Listen to me, Aisanhan, to say my idea.

"We send messengers to Kirgiz,
Present them beautiful girls and treasures,
Will they stop by then?
Or they are spying on our throne,
Do they try to take our throne of one mind?

"It is better to present them a large amount of gifts,
Rather than make us separate with our hearts.
If they agree to make a truce,
Live in concord with us peacefully;
If they still decide to fight against us,
We will unite and face them together."

"Aisanhan's words are reasonable,
We all agree with him."
Generals all left gradually with smile,
Sent Aji Bayi to his return journey.

Forty youths turned their steeds round,
Accompanied Aji Bayi and sent him back to the camp.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about how Aisanhan negotiate peace with Kirgiz.

Kunwuer Hatched a Bigger Plot

Aisanhan lost and Sued for Peace

Hero Aisanhan, forty generals,
Kunwuer Bayi and hero Niskara,
Muradiler and Wushan gathered and discussed.
Niskara felt anxious:
"Kirgiz are ferocious,
They make us suffer heavy casualties,
They killed so many of our warriors.
They did not kill our forty young masters,
But sent them back to Begin city on purpose,
We appreciate them without knowing their intentions.
We'd better send messengers,
To show a gesture of making peace,
And to find out their purpose and intention.

"There is extraordinary Ackura steed among livestock,
There is hero Kunwuer Bayi among people,
Aisanhan, as our Khan,
You cannot hand them over with a bow.
Aisanhan's daughter Birmiskaler,
General Ayi's daughter Burulicha,
No girls are more beautiful than them two,
We simply present them to Kirgiz.

"Khan's demand will not be neglected,
We ask them to think about it first,
Then think about retreating.
We need make such a request :
Object Sorandick's son Almanbet,

To shuttle back and forth as interpreter between us."

Khans and heroes,
Thought over irresolutely and hesitantly,
Finally decided to send messengers,
To discuss about making peace,
Even considered to present the throne of Begin.

Among all generals,
They chose five clear-minded sages,
Sent them to Kirgiz as messengers.

"Ketay messengers are coming!"
Kirgiz people delivered the news quickly.
Aji Bayi urged his steed and started off,
To welcome them.

He gave new clothes,
To every messenger to change.
Led the way for them,
To the camp of Manas.

Messengers were obsequious,
Bowed and saluted continually.
Khan Manas asked them to sit,
Messengers were very nervous,
Presented the letter.

According to the old rules,
Threw blessing silver coins,
Opened Aisanhan's letter,
Began to read carefully:
"If our idea is suitable,
Can our Aisanhan,
Come to Arashi in person,
To negotiate with Khan Manas?

"You need have one Khan to come,
Who will come on earth,
You should let us know in advance,
We can make good preparations.

"You can choose the date of our talks,
We will start off and arrive in time.
Both sides negotiate face to face,
Do not make troubles for each other.
Almanbet cannot be the interpreter,
He will stir the anger and annoyance in our hearts up."

Read through Aisanhan's letter,
Sent the messengers out of the camp,
Kirgiz people began to discuss.

Bakay was recommended as the representative of the negotiation.
Aji Bayi was familiar with Ketay language,
After the discussion,
He was recommended as the interpreter.

"If Aisanhan really wants to negotiate,
Ask him to arrive in ten days;
Our Khan is giant Bakay,
Kakan people, you should remember."
The letter was handed to the messengers,
Then sent them back to the return journey.

Ketay messengers,
Returned their camp happily.
Each of them changed new clothes,
Talked noisily and joyfully.

Noble people all gathered,
Read the letter carefully.
They knew Khan was Bakay,
Interpreter was Aji Bayi,

They were overjoyed,
Shook their heads full of confidence.

Ten days passed quickly,
The date they should mount and start off came.
Niskara still had doubts,
So he reminded Aisanhan again:
"If the negotiation fails,
Give them Alekala steed and hero Kunwuer,
Aisanhan, Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Will have more requests to put forward.

"Make big Begin city of sixty gates,
Turn into a sea of fire,
Make well-known Ketay people,
Fall apart and drift alone in other places.

"If you prepare early and speak first,
You can save the life of Kunwuer Bayi;
If you let him put forward the condition first,
It will make Kunwuer Bayi lost his life.
Invading Kirgiz,
Will let you witness their power."

Niskara gossiped ceaselessly,
Warned again and again.
Aisanhan seemed to have understood what he said,
Mounted and started off.

Karamark hero Wushan,
Was brave and highly skilled,
Among Wushan's attendants,
One capable interpreter could go with him.
In order to protect Aisanhan,
Wushan followed as a shadow.

They galloped like they were flying,

Came to the agreed place.
Aisanhan watched left and right,
Hero Bakay had already sat in the front;
Hero Kerkokuler served as a bodyguard,
Aji Bayi served as the interpreter.

They drew a circle on the ground,
Spread a carpet on the lawn.
On the carpet in that circle,
Only six people sat face to face.
Two interpreters, two Khans,
And two heroes guarded on both sides.

Almanbet was smart and decisive,
Once warned Bakay to remember his words:
"As long as Kunwuer Bayi is in the crowd,
You only choose Alekala steed,
The throne can be guarded by themselves,
The palace can be administered by themselves.

"They will not present Kunwuer Bayi to us,
Forty generals will not obey him.
Without the black spotted steed,
It would be impossible for Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
To compete with us.

"By then,
Kangayi commander,
Indomitable hero Kunwuer Bayi,
We can capture him alive.
Negotiate with Ketay successfully,
Then step on return journey smoothly.

"Uncle, as long as you speak first,
Even if we cannot get hero Kunwuer,
You also can make trouble between them.
As long as Ketay people push him aside,

We will have chance to wipe him out.

"If let them put forward the condition first,
You must lose the best chance,
Bring yourself endless sadness.
Arashi people coming here,
Will lose dignity and prestige."

When the talks were going to start,
Uncle Bakay was going to speak,
But time and tide wait for no man,
Before he opened his mouth,
His throat was itchy and could not help coughing.

When he came back to his senses,
Aisanhan had begun his words first:
"You come from afar tiredly,
You are noble Khan Bakay;
I represent my side to negotiate,
I am also a real Khan.

"You do not become a Khan today,
You have been a famous Khan for a long time,
I know you understand the etiquette of Khan,
You can understand my feeling.

"You must accept my request,
I only want two things,
Do not ask me for hero Kunwuer Bayi,
And do not ask me for Alekala steed.

"One is my daughter,
One is General Ayi's daughter,
Besides these two beautiful girls,
I am also willing to present the thone.

"The vast territory between Tonsha and here,

All the people on the territory will belong to you.
The crown on my head and the land under my feet,
The throne in the palace will all belong to you.
If you feel bored of the life in Begin city,
You can assign other person and you can return your land."

They presented honorable crown and garden,
The throne represented the power of a Khan,
City and beautiful girls,
Showed the demeanor of Khan.

What Aisanhan asked for,
Was only the life of one person and one steed,
Bakay could not find a suitable reason to refuse,
Had to accept his conditions.

"Hero Bakay,
From now on,
You are the master of the throne,
You can own the luxurious gardens,
Goodbye! See you some day."
Aisanhan mounted and started off.

Noble uncle Bakay,
Told all people excitedly,
What had happened:
"Today we have captured Begin City."
Arashi people,
Twittered and discussed.

Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Kept silent and did not say a word.
He was absent-minded at the moment,
Sat lonely for a meal-long time.
He heaved great sighs,
Patted his head ceaselessly.

Smoke exhaled from his mouth,
Raised up and chased the clouds.
When people saw the rolled clouds,
They stared openmouthed.

Almanbet finally opened his huge mouth,
Exhaled long and harshly,
Bit his lips:
"Uncle, you are wise and indomitable,
You are a reliable tree,
You can make earthshaking achievement at any time.
We do not need to mention the past,
Now it is the time you accomplish achievements.

"Uncle, you asked me to come here,
Maybe you will present me,
To Karamark as a gift.
What do so many words do?
What can I say except this?

"Kunwuer Bayi and Alekala steed,
You have given them up to Aisanhan,
If you did not intend to push me to death,
What else can you explain?

"Forty generals object the battle,
Then Aisanhan gave up his throne.
Kept hero Kunwuer Bayi,
He presented most beautiful girls,
And splendid palace.

"Places out of Tonsha,
Kangayi and Karamark people there,
Were all presented to us.
Territory divided out from Ketay,
All belongs to you now.

"Aisanhan presented generously,
The fifty-year-old virgin.
General Ayi's only daughter Burulicha,
Also was presented as a gift.

"General Ayi was a fugitive slave,
The palace has been occupied by us.
In order to flatter Kunwuer Bayi,
My land was put under his administration,
My people become his people.
They did not listen to my earnest advice,
Insisted on expelling me out.

"Aisanhan is so generous today,
It seemed that they repay me for the past.
Agreement had been made between Khans,
Where can I go and complain?

"Since they present to us,
We just take it,
When we return Kirgiz camp,
Just say we go especially to Begin city,
And take their city.

"Hohan king Senchybek,
You are an augur and know a lot;
Since two Khans have made the agreement,
There will be no different opinion;
You should ask for more,
Get in charge of the storehouse.

"Tonsha city presented to us,
Is not the base camp of Aisanhan,
And is not the capital he administered either.
Golden palace Aisanhan stays,
Is remote Kantun city.

"Tonsha is called middle Begin,
Actually it is where my father Sorandick stations.
Between Tonsha and Kantun,
It needs six-day journey.

"If we say we captured enemy's capital,
It means we walk into a trap!
Yurbi, where are you?
Since we have got so called 'Begin',
You can ascend the throne and vent your spleen.

"Sage Koshaoyi, Muzburchak,
Tirkechy, Shihay, Garmgirchy,
You all can go,
Stretch your tired limbs,
Enjoy the lively atmosphere of Begin.

"Giant Toshtuk and hero Ageshi,
Big Begin city of twelve districts,
You can administer it heartily.

"And young hero Kerkokuler,
You are brave and arrogant warrior;
You go and take their weapons,
Troops of Ketay and forty Khans,
Will be commanded and administered by you.

"Aisanhan has returned to Kantun,
Invited Ayikoler and Khan Bakay to go,
Forty warriors led by Kergelchal,
Almanbet and hero Chuwak,
We go together and gather in Tonsha.

"Tonsha is a vast land,
Roads of all places collect here,
Tired travelers rested here,
Sheep and ferocious wolves also meet here.

"We only stay here for forty days,
For everything happens every day,
We need master completely.
For the beauties presented by Begin people,
And all other things,
We will all let Yurbi decide.

"Before we started off from Taras,
We recommended Yurbi as Khan,
According to our agreement,
We gave him the throne of Khan.
For Khan Yurbi,
It is a halo drifted to his head."

Senchybek started off first,
Thirteen Khans followed him,
All mounted and started off,
Urged their steeds forward day and night.

Kirgiz people went into the city,
Kakan people were scared and dare not go out,
They were afraid they would be plundered and killed:
"Will they act as their wishes?
Force us to present beautiful girls."
People all hid the fear in their hearts.

How they could know,
Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Had given strict orders to all Khans:
"Leaders and soldiers of our troops,
Cannot make troubles in the streets,
If something happens by accident,
I must deal with it severely.

"We need keep our reputation and honor,
Otherwise it will definitely disappear.
A bad reputation impossible to get rid of,

Will descend on our heads."

What Kakan people worried,
Never happened there.
The troops commanded by the sage,
No one dared to act rashly.

Kakan people did not fall in sadness and misery,
They lived happily and peacefully.
They were totally satisfied with Kirgiz people,
Rushed about telling the news and praised:
"They have come into the city for fifteen days,
But nothing serious happened.
No one comes to collect taxes,
Kakan people live peacefully.

"Those ferocious Karamark people,
Came five times a day to collect taxes,
All ran away in great panic.

"Five households cooked in one pot in the past,
Now every household has new pot to cook;
People rush around tell the good news happily:
Kirgiz people's coming,
Might be our good fortune."

Gulistan and Kankled Were Born

Birmiskaler and Burulicha,
Were Ketay stunners.
After Khans' discussion,
According to sage Koshaoyi's promise,
Kept his noble dignity,
So married these two beauties,
To hero Almanbet and Chuwak.

Gave out orders to Ketay stationed Tonsha,
Let them rest and live there freely.

For forty years,
Mirbiskaler was always deeply concerned,
About Almanbet and missed him all the time.
Her rosy cheeks changed in the suffering of ages.
When she was suffering from the lovesickness,
Kirgiz were fighting out of Tonsha city,
Who knew the happiness suddenly descended from heaven,
Her long-time waiting and expecting was answered.

General Ayi's daughter Burulicha,
Also deeply loved Chuwak.
Within forty five days,
Two beauties both were pregnant.

They two had no offspring before this,
This was really a surprisingly good news for them.
Three months passed,

Almanbet and Chuwak finally made the decision,
They sent hero Showtu,
To convoy two ladies to Taras.

Nine months passed in a blink of an eye,
The time about to give birth was coming.
Showtu convoyed two ladies,
Only arrived at Basmayler ridge.

Showtu sent a person to go with two steeds,
To send messenge to Kanikai in Taras.
These two pregnant women quivered,
Were sweated all over,
And could not bear the pain.

Showtu had his heart in his boots,
Sweated and had no idea at all:
"I can be alive if Kanikai comes,
If Kanikai cannot see them alive,
I must lose my life in Almanbet's hand,
And be humiliated and hated by Chuwak."

Hero Showtu was like an ant on a hot pan,
Went in and out of the door ceaselessly.
He was decidedly worried.
When the dawn was coming,
Three figures appeared in the distance.

Kanikai came from the distant to the close,
The lion's son Semtaiy was in her arms.
Another two wives Arukai and Korboyan,
Accompanied her.

Kanikai pulled the halter and dismounted,
She took out magical medicine Ebep and Sebep,
Let Birmiskaler and Burulicha take the medicine.

"Two poor girls,
Bumped on the horsebacks,
Have been extremely fatigued,
There is little prospect for them to be alive.

"The cruel world,
There are too many such tragedies,
They have no hope to live,
It is the only choice to save the babies."
Kanikai was outspoken in her remarks,
Made them take enough powder of hastening child delivery.

Birmiskaler stood the pain,
At the time toward evening,
She bore a boy.

Right at the moment the boy was born,
A beam of white light shined to the earth.
People waiting aside,
Were all scared and did not know what to do.

They were surprised woodenly,
Sweated all over.
Buds unfolded to flowers,
Nightingales started to sing.

Spring spouted out suddenly,
Larks and nightingales played beautiful music;
Different kinds of animals wandered in valleys,
All stopped walking and crouched peacefully,
All creations soaked in the happiness of hero's birth.

Facing the new born baby,
Arukai remembered the moment of expedition:
Right before they started off on expedition,
Arukai consoled Almanbet,
She seemed to have been pregnant.

Almanbet gave her a present,
With deep affection:
"If you can give birth to a boy,
You can feed him with this."
Arukai took it along with him,
All the time.

Arukai was not pregnant,
Facing the boy Birmis bore,
Arukai was very happy.
"He is the flesh and blood of black mane wolf Almanbet."
She considered the baby as one she bore.

Arukai put the baby in the Khatun's arms,
Hoped she could feed the baby first.

Kanikai held the baby,
Suddenly she felt her breast swelled,
White milk spouted out like spring,
Ran down along her chest.

Kanikai was busy in hands,
Put the nipple in the baby's mouth.
The baby sucked,
The fresh milk was sweet.

Khatun felt at ease,
She had a comfortable feeling all over her body,
She felt sleepy and closed her eyes.

The baby's lips were very soft,
With the moving of the lips,
A warm current ran over her body comfortably.
The baby sucked hard with his lips,
Did not let even a drop of milk fell on the ground.

Right at this moment,

The death was approaching Birmiskaler.
When the sun was going to set,
She blinked her eyes and shook her brows,
It seemed she was giving a sign to Khatun and Arukai,
Expressed the feeling of her coming death.
She took a glance to her beloved baby,
Left the human world reluctantly.

In the moment that hard to be calculated,
In a blink of an eye,
Ten of forty warriors' wives,
Urged the steeds and came fast.

Almanbet's son,
Was named Gulistan[1],
He was consigned to Majik's wife Aysalken's care,
Let her take good care of the baby.

Kanikai warned her carefully:
"Aysalken,
Not long ago, you lost a baby.
Your milk is abundant now,
Gulistan will be your responsibility to raise him up.
You need take good care of him,
In the future you will get his respect."

This world was so merciless!
After three months,
Aysalken passed away unfortunately.
Gulidur's wife Akshirbet,
Adopted Gulistan actively.

A lot of people said,
Gulistan was Gulidur's son;
Some others said,
Gulistan was hero Majik's offspring;

1 Gulistan: It means "Beautiful Garden" in Kirgiz language.

If let us tell it clearly,
That was because the above reasons.

Times flew year after year,
Gulistan grew up in bitterness,
People called him Gulichoro.

Kanikai asked Arukai and Korboyan,
To clean Birmiskaler's body,
Wrapped the body in shroud,
"You just watch the body here."
She put the corpse well there,
Left five ladies to watch it.

Right after Birmiskaler died,
Burulicha's labor pains,
Came right on time with no delay.
"If the baby can not be born smoothly,
There will be a worry to lose it."

Kanikai asked Burulicha to lie on her back,
Let ladies to pull the baby out.
"It is also a boy!"
The lady saw the baby first,
Told Korboyan in loud voice.

"I will present you gifts."
Korboyan could not bear the pain,
Forced a smiling face to everyone.
Like the moon set in mountains,
Like the world covered with mist,
Burulicha also said goodbye to the human world.

Kanikai's left breast,
Also began to pain.
She held the baby and fed him,
A splenden thick stream of blood,

Spouted out of the nipple.

Kanikai was surprised when she saw it,
An auspicious feeling raised up from his heart:
"If I put him to death,
It must be a sin to do this.
If Chuwak hears this,
He must blame me for his whole life.

"His father is hero Chuwak,
Maybe he can become a fellow of Semtaiy.
It only can be like this now,
Only Khuda knows the future."

He thought over and over,
Named the boy Kankled①.
As the days passed,
Gradually,
The name Kankled became Kanchoro.

The baby was consigned to Kanbar's wife Kanitay's care,
The later singers circulated wrongly,
Said Kanbar was his father.

Kanikai sent people immediately,
Dug the graves for the two dead girls.
"Here are your graves."
Gave them back to the earth.

Kanikai managed all these matters,
Ordered hero Showtu to return the camp,
And to report the details to the heroes.
Wise Khatun Kanikai,
Wrote a letter and gave it to Showtu:

"Since we have neither arrived at the valley of Chuhe river,

① Kankled: It means "Blood Running" in Kirgiz language.

Nor arrived in homeland Taras,
Two brides died on the way together,
Died on the winding ridges.
In the wilderness they died,
Both of them gave birth to a boy.

"I fed Almanbet's son,
White milk ran out of my breast;
When I fed Chuwak's son,
Red blood ran out of my breast.

"According to what ran out of my breasts,
Almanbet's son,
I named him Gulistan;
Chuwak's son,
I named him Kankled.

"I did not hold cradle ceremony for them,
We will discuss after their fathers come back victoriously.
Almanbet's son,
I let Aysalken raise him up.
Then asked Arukai to accompany,
And take good care of the baby.

"Chuwak's son,
I let Kanitay raise him up,
And asked Korboyan to accompany,
And take good care of the baby.
This is the whole course,
I have reported to you earnestly.

"My valiant eagle,
My grey falcon,
Fellows stay in homeland,
Are you keeping them in mind all the time?

"Ayikoler, I will persuade you,

How Begin can compare with Taras.
You do not yearn for foreign land,
Then you will feel just like a fish in water,
Among Kirgiz.

"My lion, you need beware all the time,
Kunwuer Bayi set many traps.
Please do not give up your road of happiness,
Carelessness will ruin it.

"You can return immediately if you still miss us,
My Khan, you need return in triumph,
Do not surpass the limit of six months.

"Lions Almanbet and Chuwak,
Hope you can be wise and brilliant forever,
Do not grant rich reward to hero Showtu."

Kanikai wrote to the hero,
Added Semtaiy's name in the end.
Brave Kanikai,
Sent Showtu off on his journey.

Let us put this aside,
Hearing about how careless hero Manas,
Was plotted by Kunwuer Bayi,
And slashed by the poisoned ax.

Manas Fell to a Plot of Kunwuer Bayi

Showtu mounted and started off,
Returned to the camp after several days,
Delivered the good news to the heroes.
Two ladies in mountains,
Gave birth to two boys.

Almanbet and Chuwak discussed and decided:
"There is a famous place in Altay,
A town is called Sarisunbe.
Hero Showtu, you go there directly,
To rest and live there."

Got to a town for reporting a good news,
Showtu became the master of that town.
Please listen about what was the situation,
Of Beks stationed in Begin.

Heroes stationed in Begin,
Missed the homeland and families,
As long as Manas gave the command,
They were ready to pack and step on returning journey.

In order to sound out Manas' intention,
They wrote a letter and sent messenger to deliver it.
They walked around and waited anxiously,
Waited for Manas to give out the order.

The leopard got the letter and said:
"Almanbet, Chuwak, take action with me,

Sirak, Kergelchal and others,
Listen to our command.

"We let Khans start off first,
Send them off on the returning journey.
Forty people left,
Fight out with Aisanhan here,
Then step on the return journey."

Bakay said at the moment,
Full of wisdom in his words:
"Since we came here,
Time flies,
Numerous days have passed.

"Autumn turns into winter, winter gives way to spring,
Another winter is coming.
We'd better retreat from Begin,
And start off right now toward Taras,
Rather than charge toward Aisanhan.

"We sent out our troops to Kangayi,
Captured many towns of Kangayi.
Aisanhan, administers here,
Presented his daughter to us.

"Bolanchu, Georoy, Beshkulak,
And intrepid hero Aoronko,
All died in our hands,
Lost their lives.

"Countless gold, silver and jewelry,
Turn into our war trophy;
Numerous silk and brocade,
Are enjoyed by us.
Now we should retreat and return,
These are my thoughts,

Other things,
Let Almanbet explain."

Almanbet continued the talk,
Full of confidence in his voice:
"What the uncle said is reasonable,
Nothing is exaggerated.

"It is hero Niskara who stations the city,
Begin, the capital city,
We will give it to hero Baymart.
We ask about and require around,
Kunwuer Bayi disappears,
But no one knows where he is now.

"As seeing this situation,
I have a sudden question:
Niskara and Muradiler,
Karamark hero Wushan,
Kara Ketay hero Mard,
These matchless heroes,
We'd better capture them alive one by one.

"After we return to our homeland,
No matter how ferocious Kunwuer Bayi is,
He will have no ability to counterattack,
He has to cease all activities.

"Karamark and Ketay people,
And numerous Kangayi,
We can listen to what they say.
Fourteen Khans go forward side by side,
You'd better not separate and go on your own way.
Let fourteen Khans start off first,
It is not feasible at all."

Manas continued the talk,

Brought out his idea:
"From Kakan people's city,
We cannot retreat like this.
'Manas flees in desperation.'
How I can bear such humiliation.

"My fellow Almanbet,
How can you say such words?
If let me open my mind to you,
I launched the attack to Begin for you.
The deep hatred toward Kunwuer Bayi,
Had buried in your heart long ago.

"Aisanhan is a Khan,
He administers his own people;
No matter it wins or fails,
He is always tough and powerful.

"Almanbet, anyway,
You married Aisanhan's daughter.
If we just leave without a word,
He must be very sad.

"We do not need to be worried,
But what conclusion can we get?
Almanbet, instead of this,
We'd better say goodbye to them.
Say clearly of our thoughts,
To Khans led by Aisanhan,
Impressively and dignifiedly,
Retreat from Begin city."

The lion did not adopt Almanbet and Bakay's opinion,
But expressed his own idea.
All rest people thought the lion's words were extremely correct,
They all agreed with one voice.

According to the order of Manas,
Among out Khans, only Muzburchak stayed,
Among other Khans,
Uncle Bakay, Almanbet,
Lion Chuwak and Khan Sirak stayed.
Nine of fourteen Khans,
Mounted and started off,
Rest five Khans stayed.

The reason why Sirak became a Khan,
Was when started off from Taras,
His father Jagurp stayed in hometown,
He took his father's place as a Khan,
Led the troops and went to the battlefield.
His father was a Khan,
So Khan's name fell on Sirak's head.

Ayikoler left those Khans,
A crisis was approaching him.
Khans stayed there,
All mounted and left Tonsha city,
Galloped fast toward Begin city.

"Leopard Manas is coming,
It is time for us to leave here."
All people there packed hurriedly,
Rushed about nervously.
Children had already forgotten the past,
Frolicked excitedly.

Karamark hero Kunwuer Bayi,
Could be staying anywhere.
Even Niskara and Muradiler,
Could not figure out where he was.

He dug a secret pass underground,
The pass was wide enough for steeds to go through,

The end of the pass went out of the city.
He dug a big hole on the city wall,
The hole was one-person tall,
But no one knew it.

Since Kirgiz came into the city,
Kunwuer was torn with anxiety.
He hid in the secret pass alone,
Watched the track of Manas secretly.

He waited for the coming of Manas,
Almost wore out his eyes.
Every day for him was a year long,
He concentrated and did not sleep at all.

Almanbet disguised himself,
Patrolled and asked about in the streets everyday.
He doubted Kunwuer Bayi,
But he could not figure out Kunwuer Bayi's scheme.

Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
Mounted and galloped ahead,
Came into rolling mountains.
They patrolled in the mountains the whole day,
Went back to the camp till the evening.

Manas thought alone by himself on that day:
The retreating day is approaching,
I need make clear the situation of the city.
He let hero Baymart,
Change the brocade robe of the Khan,
Disguised as Khan and sat in the sedan,
Patrolled in the city and watched.

Manas had some doubts in his mind,
He wanted to know the situation out of the palace.
Baymart sat in the sedan,

Pretended to patrol around in the city.

Common people were lost in astonishment,
Gave the way and stood on both sides.
Some people twittered and clamored,
Said they saw Khan Manas.

Baymart patrolled in streets like this,
Almanbet, Sirak and hero Chuwak,
Right came back from outside of the city,
Bastard Baymart,
Met with the heroes head-on in the street.

Seeing three heroes,
Baymart was scared out of his wits,
And was prepared to jump off the sedan.

Almanbet signed as seeing this,
To stop his stupid action.
But Baymart forgot what he was pretending,
Walked off the sedan hurriedly,
Saluted and greeted the heroes.

Heroes invited him back to the sedan,
Whipped and urged their steeds forward.
For Baymart's action of walking off the sedan,
Almanbet was very angry,
He said to his fellows:
"He is such a bastard,
Since Ayikoler let him sit in the sedan,
Let him pretend to be the Khan,
Why does he get off the sedan easily?

"For the identity of we three,
We only can be the attendants of Manas.
But Baymart walked off the sedan,
I am so angry with his irrationality.

"If he raises his head up proudly,
No matter how many days pass,
The throne will be still mastered by Kirgiz.
A Khan bowed and saluted his attendants,
The throne will not be in our hands for long."

They came to Manas' palace,
Full of frustration.
Baymart returned on time too,
Reported the details to Manas immediately:
"See three heroes coming to my face,
I have no courage to raise my head."

Uncle continued the talk,
Silver beard swayed:
"According to my understanding,
Baymart, you are too stupid,
What you have done makes us furious.

"You sit high in the sedan,
Wear the glittering royal robe with gold decoration,
They are all your fellows,
Why do you walk off the sedan?"
All words he said,
Were similar to what Almanbet said.

Bad luck made people lose their senses,
Adversity made people sleepless.
Heroes stayed in their own rooms,
Lion Manas thought in his palace.

At the periphery of the inner palace,
And the inner yard of outer palace,
There was a flat yard,
Damned forty warriors,
Would all come and meet here.

They twittered excitedly,
Planned to play the game of covering eyes and catching.
Almanbet, Chuwak and hero Sirak,
Had no interest in this game.
Among forty warriors led by Kergelchal,
Only one of them did not come.

Things like games,
Were the long suit of eagle Sirak.
Someone said at the moment:
"If we divide in two groups,
There will be one extra person,
Kergelchal, please step forward,
You just work as a judge."

Warriors were divided up by nineteen of a group,
Let them suffer from punishment,
Forty heroes,
How disgraceful was it to do this?
These damned guys were completely indifferent,
They did not know the death was approaching.
They made such troubles,
Lion Manas would suffer misfortune for sure.

Right at this moment,
Kunwuer Bayi came out from the secret pass,
Came to the city gate to explore.
He schemed carefully,
Began to put his evil plot into effect.

He held a huge deadly ax in the hand,
It was made of first-class Ketay clean steel,
Invited highly skilled craftsman to forge it,
The edge of the ax soaked in poison liquid.

The battleax also had such magical characteristics:
Threw it on the ground gently,

It would stand up on the ground,
No life could escape under its blade.

"Whether Manas comes or not?"
Kunwuer Bayi thought and waited anxiously.

The noise of forty warriors' playing,
Came to his ears all the time.
"Catch him! Catch him quickly!"
"Where? Where?"
Twittered noisily and excitedly.

Hero Manas stayed at his home,
Thought in this way:
"It might be hero Almanbet,
He called forty warriors to play,
It may just be an equestrian event."

The hero was attracted by the game outside,
He wore Akolbok battle gown,
But did not wear the helmet and neck protector,
Rode on Ackura steed and went out recklessly.

The place the hero lived,
One side was the hero's residence,
The other side was Ackura's stable.

The splendid lantern hung over the palace gate,
The moon hung in the sky.
Without knowing Kunwuer Bayi hid in the secret place,
Lion Manas urged his steed forward.

Though the battle gown was on him,
But he forgot to wear the helmet and neck protector.
Manas stepped the gorgeous moon,
Came to the place Kunwuer Bayi ambushed without alert.

Kunwuer Bayi considered himself lucky:
"Finally I get the good chance to attack."
He clenched his teeth,
Lifted the battleax up high.
When the hero went past him,
Aimed at the hero's neck,
He waved the ax and slashed at the hero.

The ax blade stabbed in the neck of Manas,
But Manas did not notice it at all.
Kunwuer Bayi intended to slash again,
He could not pull the ax out so he got angry,
He pulled it hard but the handle was fallen out.

Panic-stricken Kunwuer Bayi,
Had to turn his steed round and run away.
The moonlight and the lantern echoed each other's beauty,
Tall pine trees lost their shadows.

Right at this critical moment,
Aji Bayi saw the enemy.
He opened his eyes wide and watched,
The enemy in front of him disappeared suddenly.

Aji Bayi felt puzzled,
So he ran fast forward.
He went forward to watch,
A dirt wall blocked in the front,
But once he pushed gently,
The wall just turned over completely.

Pushed from one side,
It just turned to the other side.
Aji Bayi pushed without taking extra trouble,
The wall turned to the other side immediately.

He asked others to take a lantern to him,

Watched into the secret pass carefully:
The hoof prints of Alekala steed,
Were shown clearly like pots in the pass.

But none of them knew,
Hero lion Manas,
Had been plotted by their enemy.

Aji Bayi saw Manas,
Who was on the steed safe and sound.
Noisy forty warriors,
Finished the game and scattered.

Almanbet, Chuwak, hero Sirak,
All arrived at the moment,
Under the leading of Aji Bayi,
They watched the secret pass carefully.

Three heroes were very surprised,
Asked to lead Sariala steed,
And Tilkzler and Koktikai steeds to them,
Followed the hoof prints in the pass,
They urged their steeds and chased.

The pass was ablaze with lights,
It was the right size for one steed to go through,
No people appeared in the pass,
It was profoundly silent in the pass.

The exit of the pass,
Had been piled with rocks.
The hoof prints of Alekala steed,
Marked all over the ground of the pass.
The heroes watched around,
Did not find the exit of the pass.

Hero Sirak dismounted,

Pushed a rock aside,
As easy as blowing off dust,
The rock rolled down.

In an instant,
Three heroes walked out of the narrow pass.
They watched the exit carefully,
Rocks on the exit were right on the gear,
As long as pulling the rope of the gear,
The gear would close automatically,
Sealed tightly.
The hoof prints of Alekala,
Appeared right out of the pass.

Ageyar accompanied by the side,
He cast the spell to call for wind and snow,
The earth was covered with snow.
Kunwuer Bayi was fully satisfied,
He had already fled and disappeared completely.

Heroes did not want to wait even for a second,
Looked ahead and searched carefully.
With no hope for it,
They turned round and returned in low spirits.

Right at the moment,
Kunwuer and his five warriors,
Hid in a wood of one arrow's shooting distance and watched.
If the three heroes could find them,
Urged their steeds and chased them,
They must capture the bastard alive.

A glow of morning light appeared in the east,
Like the appearance of a bride.
Heroes went back to the palace,
Thought hard over and over,
They searched everywhere.

Lifted the sabre in their hands,
Guarded the city day and night carefully.

Three days passed in the panic,
Hero Manas, giant Bakay,
And Khan Muzbarchak,
They sat together and discussed,
Majik and Baymart stood aside.

Manas said with great aplomb:
"Baymart, come here quickly,
Scratch the back of my neck please,
I feel too itchy!"

Baymart hurried ahead and watched carefully,
Saw the ax leaving in the hero's neck,
Freaked out and shouted loudly:
"My respected Ayikoler Manas,
How you can perform as if nothing has happened,
A battleax without a handle,
Inlaid deeply in your neck,
Huge hole of inserting handle can be seen clearly,
It is as a huge lid."

Baymart screamed loudly,
Worried tears ran down.
"The damned heel, what he is saying!"
Uncle Bakay felt anxious.

He rushed ahead to watch,
He saw the flesh around the ax,
Having become inflamed and swelled.
"Hero, do you still remember,
When you were slashed?"

"In the night three days ago,
I rested alone in the palace,

Damned forty warriors,
Played outside noisily.
I thought Almanbet and Chuwak were with them,
Divided into two groups for the equestrian game.

"I planned to watch them playing,
Wore my white robe,
Rode on Ackura steed,
Rushed out without any protection.

"I did not consider carefully,
Forgot to wear the neck protector.
Right at when I was walking out of the palace,
A glow of cold light flashed in front of my eyes,
Whether I was slashed by the ax,
I could not tell clearly.

"There is no sign for three days,
I did not feel uncomfortable at all;
I felt burning and itchy on my back neck from last night,
I could not fall asleep with anxiety.

"In order to relieve the pain and annoyance,
I had to ask Baymart to check it for me.
Maybe it is right at that night,
I was plotted by the enemy,
There was no other doubt except this.

"If there is really an ax inlaid in my flesh,
Majik! Please help me pull it out.
If you cannot pull it out alone,
Please let Baymart help you."

Now Bakay opened his mouth to stop them:
"The handle was pulled out but not fallen,
So it is very deep in your flesh,
They two cannot pull it out.

"When heroes Chuwak and Sirak come back,
Let them have a try first,
Maybe hero Almanbet,
Can deal with it."

Manas did not hear it,
Insisted on pulling the ax out right away.
He ordered Baymart and Majik,
To pull the ax out together.

They exerted themselves but could not put in energy,
They had to pass the rope through the hole of ax,
Tied the rope on their waists.

Majik kicked his feet full of his energy,
Baymart bent his waist full of his energy too.
Under their pulling,
The wound began to pain burningly.

Heard the painful scream of the hero,
Eleven heroes came immediately.
Chose other giants with great strength,
Began to pull the rope in turn.

With the pulling of the rope,
The pain from the wound was excruciating.
Ayikoler endured the great pain,
Opened his eyes wide with sparks splashing.

Like crazy bull camel,
Clenched his teeth tight with great noise,
Shouted to the warriors around him:

"Where is Almanbet?
Send someone to invite him now;
Mount and start off now,
To look for Chuwak and Sirak."

Muzburchak and Bakay were nervous,
They gave out such an order:
"Aji Bayi, mount now,
Ask Almanbet to come immediately.
He was wise,
And good at curing the pain.

"You start off right now and search around,
Look for the miraculous medicine for the wound.
Get the bile of foxes and lynx,
Apply on his wound to relieve the pain and swelling.

"If Almanbet and hero Sirak,
Are not in the camp,
You should ask and look for them with no delay…"
When Bakay had hardly finished speaking,
Almanbet walked in the room hurriedly.

During the two days,
Almanbet did not even take a drink,
Did not sleep at all.
Right when he dismounted,
He heard bursts of shouts from the palace.

He went into the palace hurriedly with doubts,
He saw a rope connected with hero Manas.
Seeing the figure of Almanbet,
Noisy crowd became quiet suddenly.

Bakay shed tears sadly,
Described to Almanbet what happened on Manas.
Especially the rope through the ax hole,
Tied in the waists and pulled hard,
The uncontrollable pain connected with the hero.

Almanbet walked up,
Untied the rope,

Pulled it out of the hole.

Took out the only two Ebep pills,
Put it in the mouth of the hero.
In a blink of an eye,
The king felt relieved.

"It is so stupid,
To pull the rope this way.
The ax is made of clean steel,
The blade is soaked with poison liquid.

"The blade is matchlessly sharp,
Khan,
So you did not feel it slashed you.

"If the ax did not pull at all,
The wound is completely isolated from the air,
The wound would not be hurt and inflamed.

"I let you take Ebep medicine through the mouth,
Let you apply Sebep medicine externally.
In one month,
We will send you back to homeland Taras.

"There is a magical medicine called Kunu,
Kanikai collects it carefully.
As long as you take Kunu,
Then apply Kushi externally,
The ax will fall off by itself,
The wound will heal in three months,
Then you will be well again.

"If we pull the ax out now,
We neither have magical Kunu for you to take,
Nor have Kushi for you to apply,
The deadly poison cannot be removed.

"Except returning to Taras,
There is no better idea.
We'd better prepare right now,
Mount before the sun comes out,
I will send you off.

"Please do not hesitate and delay,
Saddle the steed and start off now.
Sirk, Chuwak, please stay here,
I will stay with you too.

"Uncle Bakay and uncle Muzburchak,
Please do not stop on the way,
Just gallop forward day and night.

"I will tell you my arrangements,
I will stay here for forty days.
Let Sirk sit on the throne,
People come to visit and salute,
Can only watch from a distance.

"I need forty days,
To arrange everything well,
Then I will whip and urge my steed to chase you,
I can probably meet you in Yechyklik valley.

"If you can hurry on with your journey,
Meet Kanikai as soon as possible,
Let the lion recover from the injury in time.

"After the lion totally recovers,
We will march into Begin again.
Capture inexpiably evil Kunwuer Bayi,
I will hang his neck up in the air."

According to Almanbet's careful arrangement,
Ayikoler Manas led the troops,

Under the company of uncle Bakay, Muzburchak,
Khans and warriors,
Started off from Begin city,
Toward the direction of Taras.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about the story how marksman Shipshaydar,
Helped Kunwuer Bayi.

Kunwuer Invited Marksman for Help

In order to confuse the enemy,
Wolf Almanbet,
Made Sirk disguised,
Let him sit on the throne,
Without leaking out a secret,
He counted the days quietly,
Waited for the day to return.

People came to salute Manas occasionally,
He ordered them to salute from a distance,
Did not allow them to approach the throne,
And said this was the rule Khan made,
No one could disobey it.
He thought over and over,
Tried to cover the truth of it.

"Why Manas is still alive?"
Kunwuer Bayi was burning with anxiety.
He tried his best and asked about,
Still did not get the exact news.

This old and crafty guy,
Wondered in great suspense:
"Was I dazzled?
Slashed but missed the target?
Or I did not stab in Manas,
The ax flew away from the handle?

"Or Kirgiz is playing the tricks,

Actually they have sent Manas away that night,
But leave another to guard here?
I'd better patrol and watch on every hill,
Rather than wait here.

"If Manas is injured severely,
On the horseback with his last gasp,
I just can take the chance and cut his head off,
Capture all his troops,
To comfort my hurt heart."

Kunwuer Bayi led Muradiler, Niskara,
Mounted and galloped hurriedly forward,
They two knew nothing about,
The previous action Kunwuer did.

Lion Ayikoler Manas,
Hurried forward and dismounted in Belkorgan.
He ordered the troops to stop and rest,
He dismounted with others' help.
Took out his telescope,
He watched carefully toward Begin.

He adjusted the telescope in his hand,
The figure of Kunwuer Bayi,
Appeared in his sight suddenly.

"Khan Bakay!"
He was filled with great fury suddenly,
Called Bakay in:
"I will not die though I am injured,
Why do I need hide away from Kunwuer Bayi,
Flee away so desperately,
Why do I let him chase after me?
If I do not fight against that bastard,
Do not start an earthshaking battle with him,
Bakay, how do I have face to go back home?

" 'Manas fled desperately,
My god is more powerful and nobler than his.'
That guy must show off arrogantly,
Self-glorified and immensely proud."

Troops with five Khans looked magnificent,
Swarmed forward like peaks swayed.
The lion was like a high mountain,
Erected on the back of Ackura steed,
Moved back and forth confusedly.

Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
Muradiler and Wushan,
Sat on their steeds and watched:
"We should not come out recklessly,
Come to this Tubel mountain.
It seems Kirgiz has stepped on returning journey,
Plan to go back to their Taras camp.

"As seeing us,
Arashi has stopped and plan to fight.
We'd better send a messenger,
Ask Manas for fifteen days to prepare for the battle.
If he has no intention to fight against us,
We will return quietly and do not make trouble any more."

They discussed like this,
Sent a messenger to sound out.
Manas made a decisive response,
They would fight in fifteen days.

Giant Kunwuer Bayi was extremely crafty,
Malicious scheme buried in his heart.
As he got the response from Manas,
He wrote a letter to Shipshaydar immediately,
Hung the letter on Toknek bird's neck,
Sent it to Dayingan mountain.

Kangayi hero Shipshaydar,
Lived in Dayingan mountain,
Lived by hunting,
Freely and leisurely.
Archery bow is his stunt,
Arrows no vain and extraordinary martial arts.

As receiving Kunwuer Bayi's letter,
He read it carefully:
"The previous battle,
Was difficult and hard.
Shipshaydar,
You did not witness,
But you probably heard some rumors.

"Kirgiz are irresistible,
They have occupied Begin;
The splendid and royal throne,
Has been taken by Kirgiz.

"Our well known beauties,
Have been occupied by Kirgiz.
Unscrupulous Arashi people,
Worshiped Manas as Khan Ayikoler.

"I sought a chance secretly,
Slashed at his neck with my poison ax.
But it seems he does not hurt at all,
He still stations on the slope.

"Manas talked wildly to fight us,
He is haughty and even looks down upon you.
Now I have no idea and am in negative position,
We earnestly request you to come in person,
Let him witness your magical power."

After sending out such a letter,

The heroes were heaved with joy,
Stroked their beard ceaselessly.
They thought over and over,
Discussed the coming battle:
"If Almanbet comes,
He will make us restless.
In order to stop him from meeting Kirgiz,
We need send giant Mard out,
To start a fight with him,
Capture him alive.

"If we do not capture him,
This ferocious and damned lackey,
Must kill Shipshaydar,
Then our plan will come to nothing."

They put their heads together and discussed,
Called in dense troops,
Let yurt-size giant Mard,
Lead six hundred thousand troops,
To block the only way Almanbet would go.

Promised forty days passed quickly,
Almanbet, Chuwak and hero Sirk,
Started off and left Begin.
Heroes made a hurried journey,
Galloped ahead day and night.

Almanbet, Chuwak and hero Sirk,
Whipped and urged their steeds,
Troops swarmed like flood,
Appeared in front of them suddenly.
Kangayi giant Mard,
Met with them face to face.

He led his troops,
Launched an attack toward these three heroes.

Kangayi soldiers were as dense as grasshoppers,
As ferocious as fierce beasts.

Especially the bastard called Mard,
Was a green-horn warrior.
He was an impetuous man worthy of the name,
He was without equal rival in strength,
He was swaggering and dignified.

He did not meet an equal rival for long,
He felt annoyed and depressed.
He was under forty years old,
He was energetic.

He rode a Kartkulan steed,
Which was like a rolling flame,
The flame was rising from his spear point.
He charged toward the heroes arrogantly,
A wild wind blew up.

Facing mad giant Mard,
Hero Chuwak had reached the end of his forbearance,
He urged Koktikai steed and charged first:
"I will break his spirit,
I will put his nose out of joint."

He bristled with anger,
Aimed at giant Mard,
Poked his spear out.

The ferocious guy,
Did not even shake a little.
Chuwak braced himself up,
Poked the spear out again.

Being poked by hero Chuwak twice,
Mard still sat on the horseback steadily.

He lifted the spear in his hand up,
Kicked the stomach of the horse and shouted,
Poked his spear out toward hero Chuwak.

Black mane wolf Chuwak also did not spare a glance,
Sat steadily on the horseback.
Exasperated giant Mard,
Grasped the spear in his hand tight,
Poked severely toward his rival again.
Akberita's son Chuwak,
Was poked off the steed.

Sirk was very worried as he saw this,
He waved his whip and charged ahead.
Almanbet watched the direction in which Koktikai had gone,
He stretched his arms and took its halter.
He led the steed to Chuwak,
Handed the halter of the steed to Chuwak personally.

All-conquering giant Mard,
Stretched his spear toward Sirk,
Poked Sirk off the steed.

Mard was a guy of highly skilled martial arts,
Both Chuwak and Sirk could not defeat him.
Facing Almanbet's rain drops stabbing,
He still sat steadily on the horseback.
Two heroes, Almanbet and Chuwak,
He did not put them into his eyes at all.

Eagle-like three heroes,
Came and fought against him in turn.
Kangayi hero giant Mard,
Sat high on the horseback,
Laughed joyfully and confidently.
He did not dodge the coming spear,
Still swayed his head and raised his chest up.

Black mane wolf Chuwak felt ashamed,
Showed ferocious look in his eyes.
Waved the spear in his hand,
Poked in the weak point of Mard.

Almanbet came soon afterwards,
Whipped and urged the steed forward,
Also stabbed in the enemy.
Sirk was also brave enough,
Poked the spear in the enemy too.

Mard gave a yawn,
Then bit his lower lip tight.
His body had been full of wounds,
He was filled with great fury.
He braced himself up again and charged ahead,
The vigor was more ferocious than before.

Mard wanted to kill the heroes all,
But each of his poke was dodged.
Heroes charged in turn,
Did not give Mard a chance to take a breath.

He did not move when Almanbet poked toward him,
He did not move when Chuwak stabbed at him,
He did not make a noise when Sirk poked in him.
Three heroes charged together,
But still did not make him move a little.

Heroes were all exhausted with no result,
Arms held spears were sore,
But Mard with extraordinary physical strength,
Was still brave without any tiredness.

Three heroes waved the spears and sabre,
Their arms lost the energy gradually,
Could not wave spears any more,

Both men and horses were tired out.

At this inextricably involved moment,
Hero Sirk thought quietly:
"We charged with our spear again and again,
But still cannot defeat him.

"We wave our spears and fight in turn,
But still cannot cut his head off.
We have been exhausted in the fight,
But we still cannot poke him off the steed.

"We cannot fight recklessly like this,
We must figure out a good idea.
He wears a steel helmet,
Why we do not knock his helmet off first.

"As long as we knock his helmet off,
His melon-like head and neck,
Will expose in front of us completely.

"I will take the chance the poke my spear out,
Stab in his throat and take his life.
'Sirk kills giant Mard!'
I will become famous and leave a good reputation."

He rode on Kukazk steed and galloped ahead,
Pounded severely toward the head of swaggering Mard,
Mard's helmet on his head,
Fell off on the ground immediately.

Hero Sirk achieved his ends,
If he did not have such ability,
What was the meaning of Sirk's fame?

Before Mard wore his helmet again,
Hero Chuwak galloped his steed ahead,

Aimed at the back of the neck,
He poked his spear in severely.

Mard was seriously injured,
He was too surprised to defend himself.
Sirk turned his steed round and lifted the spear,
Aimed at the enemy's throat,
Poked toward it full of his strength.

Chuwak stabbed in his back neck,
Sirk stabbed in his throat,
Almanbet could not control himself,
Charged to the rear flank,
Aimed at the best angle,
Waved the sabre and slashed at the head.
The guy fell off like a dirt wall,
Like a hill collapsed too.

The ferocious Karamark,
Finally lost his life.
Mountain-size Mard,
Lay in the wilderness.

Massive troops following him,
Were all soldiers with no horses.
They used Mard's maroon steed,
Carried their dead hero,
Ran into the deep valley.

Heroes climbed on the mountaintop joyfully,
They saw massive troops gathered in opposite place.
Almanbet lifted his telescope,
He saw the lion's Ackura steed,
Standing on a rock on mountaintop.

He adjusted the telescope and watched carefully,
There was no other sign beside the steed.

There were no troops there,
Only a rock accompanied it.

Almanbet had his heart in his mouth,
Galloped ahead at top speed,
Rushed ahead for an arrow's shooting distance,
He saw a troop at the top of the mountain,
It was a dark mass like waves surged,
He could not see how many troops were there,
But it rolled forward like insects and sand.

As seeing this,
Almanbet's moon-like face changed:
"Brave Chuwak and hero Sirk,
What else can I say except the truth?
Maybe Ketay people have gathered massively,
They will not let even one survive.

"Damned and cunning Kunwuer Bayi,
May have stationed on the mountain.
He may have launched the challenge to the lion,
Plans to kill all of us.

"Ayikoler's wound must have been inflamed,
He must suffered unbearable pain.
Maybe it is hero Sirak,
Who intercept Kangayi at the bottom of the mountain.

"Or it is hero Manas,
Who faces the challenge of Kunwuer Bayi,
Thinks about his future,
Decides to fight out with the enemy.

"Maybe he thought the death is waving at him,
Braces himself up and goes his own way,
Does he insist on staying here?
No matter what situation it is,

We must figure it out clearly."

Almanbet, Chuwak, hero Sirk,
Galloped to their station,
Came to the front of Bakay and Manas,
Greeted them to show the respect.

Heroes shook hands and greeted each other,
Kissed each other's fingertips.
Manas said first:
"Almanbet, Chuwak, you two heroes,
A few days ago,
You and me discussed and let me retreat first,
I led the troops and stepped on the returning journey,
But I am in a rather nervous state.

"In order to see the situation in Begin,
I turned my steed round and went to the ridge,
Sirak helped me dismount,
I lifted my telescope,
Watched carefully to the direction of Begin.

"On the mountaintop in the front,
I saw Kunwuer Bayi chasing after me desperately.
I was worried he would say I fled in a panic,
And boasts how brave he is.
I do not care how many troops do he have,
I will fight out with him.

"I asked the troops stopped and pitched camp,
I will make my idea fulfilled.
In less than one day,
Kunwuer Bayi sent his messenger to me.

"He asked me for fifteen days to prepare,
We will begin the battle in fifteen days.
Since he asked for fifteen days,

My bosom friend,
I had to agree, it is not hard for me…"
Hearing what Manas said,
Almanbet was very upset and annoyed:
"Manas,
You said you have agreed on the fifteen-day appointment,
How you can nod your head on it so recklessly!

"The condition that guy proposed,
Right meets his evil scheme.
The result of it,
Is to send heroes led by Muzburchak,
On the way of death one by one.

"Why did he come suddenly and make appointment,
And ask for fifteen days from you?
You probably do not know the reason,
There is a Kangayi hero called Shipshaydar,
He is my senior fellow apprentice,
We went to Jurenduo and learned skills together.

"I heard my father was seriously sick,
I had to stop my study and go back home,
But Shipshaydar,
Finally got great achievements.

"If a wild animal passed at night,
He would shoot the arrow during the daytime,
No animals could escape his hands.

"Because of his high skills of shooting arrows,
His name of Shipshaydar had been forgotten,
The name 'Goykara'① spread far and wide.

"No matter how cunning Kunwuer Bayi acts,

① Goykara: Kirgiz language, it means black killer.

You should continue going forward.
You want to cut the throat of Kunwuer Bayi,
But almost let Kirgiz meet a disaster.

"You did not go forward as we discussed,
Do you want to send your generals and soldiers,
To the evil hands of our enemies?

"Almanbet, Chuwak will lose lives,
Sirak and Sirk will die too;
Most of forty warriors will sacrifice,
Muzburchak will devote his life,
Till then you will feel sad."

Almanbet finished his words,
He felt anxious,
His face turned pale,
He could not control his emotion.

At the end of his resources,
He continued to express his worry:
"Elders Muzburchak and Bakay,
Kirgiz will suffer disaster,
Will face the destiny of family breaking again.

"No matter how we sigh now,
The destiny will not be retrieved.
Our leader Manas,
Will leave us soon.

"Sirak, my fellow,
You need stay here and watch the enemy,
You need protect Kirgiz closely,
Do not let enemy approach.

"If you go on a patrol,
No one can protect our people;

If you protect the people,
Then no one can patrol on our way.
Erchywuler, Showtu, Bozwuler,
It is better for them three accompany you,
And stay here to lead the troops.

"If we do not prepare at all,
Be wiped out by enemies,
This will be laughed at by the whole world.

"Chuwak, you and me,
Start off right now,
We need whip and urge our steeds fast,
Arrive at Kayirdy river and ambush there at night.

"If we do not seize the time on our journey,
Shipshaydar will pass through there first;
If the heaven blesses us,
We might get there and halt them;
If we can seize the chance,
We will make Karamark fail and cry.

"If we can arrive there in advance,
Intercept and kill him on the way,
How swaggering Kunwuer Bayi,
Still has ability to counterattack!

"If this plan can be fulfilled,
Self-glorified Kunwuer Bayi,
His generals like Niskara,
Will be defeated by us.
And many of his generals,
Will all be our captives,
And be driven to Taras as slaves.

"We seize the time and start off to Kayirdy now,
We have to sacrifice our lives if we have bad luck.

Let's set out now,
My blood friends,
No matter how the fate arranges,
We will put up a desperate fight."

Almanbet leaped on the horseback,
Chuwak followed tight and went with him.
Ayidarhan's son Kokcher,
Galloped toward them suddenly.

When Kirgiz started off to the expedition,
He was appointed to set up defense at the crossing to Kangayi,
Ordered him to stay in home front.
When Khans went back home,
He could not control himself to set out.

He had been full of regret in his heart:
"Khan Manas is my brother-in-law,
Almanbet is my friend,
They went to Begin,
Why cannot I go with them?

"Since the Khan still stays in Begin,
I should start off and go to salute him,
To show my respect to him."
With such a thought,
Led his fifty thousand soldiers,
He galloped ahead without stopping.

Hero Kokcher spouted eloquent speeches,
He would continue if not interrupted.
Almanbet dare not delay even for a second,
He led Chuwak and started off hurriedly,
Whipped and urged their steeds at top speed.

Almanbet, Chuwak went forward,
Did not spare their steeds at all.

Kayirdy river,
Was their destination.
It was a thoroughfare,
And the only way,
Shipshaydar stationed in Dayingan need pass.

Almanbet urged his steed,
Climbed on the top of Kayirdy mountain,
Said to Chuwak by his side:
"My friend, hero Chuwak,
Please listen carefully.
Shipshaydar was not only highly skilled,
But also cunning and crafty,
He was even trickier than a demon.

"Fellows he brings,
Are sixty all the time,
Neither more nor less,
This is his unchangeable habit.

"Places Shipshaydar passed,
May be very quiet with no movement.
You only can see breeze blows over the ground,
You only can feel drizzle falls down,
These signs are the evidence he passed.

"Dust will raise up sometimes,
It is clear in the sky but the earth was misty.
His spells and tricks,
How I can tell clearly and completely,
His twelve forms of transformation.

"There is no movement on Kangayi side,
The bastard may not have been started off.
You just keep watching in this yellow wilderness,
Lion Chuwak, my hero.
I will go to the little stream over there,

Ambush there and keep watching.

"You need find a secret place,
To observe enemy's track secretly,
Do not expose yourself.
If he appears near you,
You must take the chance and take his life.

"If he crosses the stream cautiously,
I, Almanbet, will wait there,
I cannot let him escape from my hand."

They divided the work and acted separately,
Told clearly all the dos and don'ts.
Almanbet arrived at the stream,
Chuwak stayed in the wilderness.

Almanbet took the action very carefully,
Did not raise dust at all.
He went along the stream,
Crossed the stream soon,
Ambushed on the opposite bank quietly.

Almanbet opened his eyes wide,
Waited for Shipshaydar's coming.

He kept watching the road in the front,
Swept his eyes to the mountain far away.
He concentrated his attention,
Kept his eyes and ears open.

Shipshaydar was a sly old fish,
He was highly skilled and crafty,
He thought secretly when he arrived at Kayirdy:
"Here is the crossing of the roads,
It leads in all directions.

"Sorandick's son Almanbet,
Is wise and full of cunning tricks,
He is shrewd and deep,
I wish he does not set a trap here,
Make me bleed and die here.

"I'd better not go through that dry road,
Since the rest journey is not much,
I'd better go under water,
And cross the river."

Shipshaydar thought like this,
Gave an order to his attendants:
"You go on the main road,
There are still four-day journey left,
We will gather in Belkorgan."

Shipshaydar gave out his order,
Left the troops and went under water alone.
This crafty guy,
Had a super ability,
Almanbet also did not know what it was.

When Shipshaydar went into water,
There would be a heavy rain,
Which made the river murky,
He would cross the river,
Under the cover of the murky water.

Cunning Shipshaydar,
Cast this spell and dived in the river,
Under the nose of Almanbet,
Went under water easily.

Almanbet watched the surface of the river carefully,
The river turned clear after a while of murky condition,
The river still flew forward.

Worried Almanbet,
Found the hidden fact there.

He was very worried,
Turned his Sariala steed round right away.
Crossed over the river,
Fixed his eyes on the changing of the river.

The murky water,
Flew to a forest where three rivers merged.
Right at this moment,
A figure jumped out from the river,
Hid into the forest quickly,
Disappeared in his eyes suddenly.

"The guy has crossed the river,
I did not meet with him face to face,
Did not stop his action."
He looked around,
Dust had raised to the sky in the wilderness.

Hero Chuwak faced sixty powerful enemies,
Started a fierce battle.
Sixty enemies were matchlessly ferocious,
They surrounded hero Chuwak in the center.

Almanbet was filled with rage as seeing this,
Shouted "Manas" loudly,
Urged his steed to the enemies bravely.

Hearing the voice of Almanbet,
Noble lion Chuwak,
Braced himself up,
Facing sixty powerful enemies,
Launched fierce attacks.

Made the powerful enemies scared out of their wits,

He urged the steed and charged to the enemies.
Lion Chuwak,
Urged his Koktikai steed,
Charged left and right bravely,
In a blink of an eye,
Poked all enemies off their steeds.
Then drove together,
Those sixty steeds.

Two heroes were burning with impatience,
Turned round and climbed on Kayirdy mountain,
In order to return their camp as soon as possible,
They chased at top speed.

Let us put this aside,
Listen to what the situation,
Of heroes in Belkorgan were.

Hero Kokcher Sacrificed His Life in the Battle

Ayidarhan's son hero Kokcher,
Came to greet and support in time;
Two lions Almanbet and Chuwak,
Mounted and charged to the frontline immediately.

The sun hid behind the earth,
The night followed the dusk and came.
Right at this moment,
Two people rushed into Khan's camp,
Talked incoherently in a panic:
"Respected Almanbet and hero Chuwak,
Where do they go?
Hero Sirak had started off,
To ask about the information of Ketay.

"From the hills Karamark stations,
The sound of drum beating comes.
The drum sounds near us,
It seems enemies have arrived near us.
If Kangayi launch an attack,
In such dark night,
How can we make the counterattack?"

As Ayikoler Manas heard these words,
He looked up slowly and clenched his teeth:
"Saddle my Ackura steed now,
Bring my battle gown together.

"I will wear Akolbok battle gown,

Carry all my weapons,
Drive swaggering Ketay people,
Back to their Begin city."

Hero Kokcher proposed his own opinion:
"Lion Manas,
In order to protect our people,
I station the frontier all my life,
I never let enemies invade,
I received the reputation of tiger General Kokcher.

"In the previous battle,
I got a fine steed.
In the bloody battle,
I did not fight with you together all the time.

"It is my line to intercept enemies,
Let me complete the mission,
It can be a proud thing,
I do for Arashi people's achievements."

Kokcher said decisively,
His tone was resolute,
He wore the iron armor,
Charged to the battlefield like a ferocious tiger.

Rode on a blue spotted steed in majesty,
Spear of iron color held in the hand,
The shouting was earthshaking.
"We cannot go back empty handed!"
Kazakh hero was full of confidence.

There was a brave hero in enemy camp,
Called Shakur.
This famous Shakur,
Was a headman in Kunwuer's camp.
He not only was a Khan,

But also had unusual skills of martial arts.

Wore cotton-fabric belt and battle boots,
Karamark leader Kunwuer Bayi,
Sent his attendants to search,
Called Shakur in.

Grey mountain-size Shakur,
Stationed in Botala all the time,
He never left home more than five days,
Never showed his power in the battlefield either.

Kunwuer Bayi sent invitation to him,
In the name of Aisanhan,
Invited this ferocious general to come,
Let him devote his life to the battlefield.

Shakur came and looked down upon everyone,
Scolded Kunwuer Bayi.
He ordered soldiers to beat drums,
Led his eighty thousand soldiers,
Charged ahead hurriedly.

Karamark hero Shakur,
Contested with Kokcher at night.
Shakur led eighty thousand cavalries,
Kokcher led fifty thousand Kazakh soldiers.
Two sides began a bloody battle,
Blood reddened the hill.

Right when they were fighting,
Morning glows showed in the east.
Kazakh soldiers were still strong and lively,
Look at Shakur's soldiers,
More than half of them had been dead and injured.

Seeing his heavy lost,

Shakur exposed his ferocious features.
He pressed the helmet,
Tight over his eyebrows.
The diamond on the top of the helmet,
Was beautifully shining.

Brave hero Kokcher,
Fought fiercely in the battlefield,
Against this ferocious enemy.
This boar broke in in full fury,
Attempted to poke hero Kokcher off the steed,
Like a felt hat.

The spear glittered in Shakur's hand,
Like wife was plundered by others,
Like lackeys all betrayed together,
His face was overclouded,
He poked toward Kokcher without the least hesitation.

Handsome and wise Khan Kokcher,
Had an unusual blue battle robe on him,
Arrows could not shoot through,
Spear could not pierce through.
He waved the blue-handle spear in the hand,
Raised his head proudly,
Sat steadily on his blue spotted steed.

Shakur aimed at Kokcher's stomach,
Poked his spear out severely,
Deadly spear went straight to his bladder.
Kokcher was agile and very smart,
Leaned to one side of the steed,
Dodged Shakur's spear.

Shakur missed the target,
Ran forward by the inertia of the steed.
Kokcher seized the chance,

Turned his steed round and chased after Shakur.

Kokcher's blue spotted steed,
Was a well known fine steed.
Even wind could not catch up with it,
No animals could compare with its agility.

The fierce boar,
Had not adjusted his body,
Hero Kokcher came up quickly,
Poked in his right waist.
Even if Kokcher used full of his energy,
That guy had no response at all.

Khan Kokcher like an eagle,
Was highly skilled and smart.
He adjusted himself quickly,
Lifted his spear and attacked again,
Shakur's left waist was stabbed.

Right at this critical moment,
Kokcher had many warriors,
But he did not ask them to help him.
Kokcher did in his full strength,
Angry flames burned in his chest.

He launched continuous attacks,
Poked sixteen times in succession.
Shakur was unable to withstand,
He had to flee in a panic.

Kokcher was a real hero,
He showed his great braveness in the battlefield.
Battleax hung on his waist,
Galloped his steed and seized Shakur's clothes hem,
He grasped his rival's clothes tight,
Tried to press it under his stirrups.

Shakur did not give any impression of weakness,
Turned round and fought against Kokcher.
This Karamark hero,
Lived up to his brave reputation.

Two heroes went down the hill,
Pulled and pushed each other fiercely;
Two heroes went on the gentle slopes,
Fought against each other severely.

Buttons had been torn off,
Head knocked head like billy goats,
Tore each other's clothes,
Bumped muscles exposed.

They pulled and pushed without giving up,
Their steeds had been sweated and exhausted,
But they were still not tired at all,
Bean-size sweat splashed everywhere.

They two separated for a few seconds,
Gazed at each other fiercely,
Angry flames spouted out of their eyes.
After breathing for a while,
They began to fight again.

Angry flames billowed to the sky,
Two hearts got refined in this flame.
Launched attacks in turn,
Waving spears went straight to chests.

Pulled the other's arms,
Pounded to the other's head with battle hammer.
Skin was split and flesh broke,
Badly mutilated face was hard to be recognized.

Blood reddened their bodies,

Blue veins stood up and bones exposed.
In this fierce battle,
Their ears were torn and broken.

Right at this life-or-death moment,
Kunwuer Bayi showed up in the battlefield.
He gave out the order to Botala people,
Ordered all troops to turn out,
Launched the attack toward lonely Kokcher.

They surrounded Kokcher in the center,
Cast iron nets from all directions.
Kokcher's attendants only sighed aside,
None of them dared to go up and help.

"What a cruel world!
It is so unfair to me.
If Karamark captures me,
They must cut my belly open.

"Even if they roast my liver and eat it,
It is all up to them;
Heroes never fear about the death,
Today let me witness it."

Brave Kokcher,
Was perfectly calm and thought quietly.
Enemies wrapped him in nets,
Drove him together with the steed.
Enemies turned their steeds round,
Swarmed to the camp down the mountain.

Right at this critical moment,
Khan Jagurp's son hero Sirak,
Right returned from his patrol to Kara Ketay,
Met with enemies head-on on the way.

The lion scanned enemies,
Then rushed ahead like an arrow from a bow.
He waved the spear and poked forward severely,
Stabbed Kunwuer Bayi off his steed.

Soldiers saw the figure of Sirak,
Braced themselves up and charged ahead.
Heroic Sirak,
Took the chance and saved Kokcher.

Just escaped from the iron nets,
Kokcher was like a hungry eagle.
He opened his eyes wide and searched around,
Recognized giant Shakur at one glance,
Who wore the fur coat inside out and fled away.

He shouted the name "Manas" loudly,
Galloped to the side of Shakur.
The spear went out as he arrived,
Poked that mountain-size body,
Off on the ground.

Shakur was stabbed and fell,
Before he could support his body,
Kokcher had turned the steed round,
His golden sword was sharp to cut anything,
Slashed at Shakur's back neck,
The enemy's head flew away right away.

He was like an eagle seeing the prey,
Chased hard after the enemy.
Waved the spear with blue tassel in his hand,
Poked enemies off their steeds one after one.

Enemies poked off by him all died.
Enemies failed and ran around like sparrows,
Kokcher pursued and attacked them fiercely,

They went to die one by one.

Hero Kokcher undertook it at ease,
Battleax, sword and spear point in the hand,
Were all soaked with blood.
Once he saw enemies well dressed,
And rode on fine steeds,
He never let them off but slashed bravely.

Enemies with sabre were killed,
Enemies with spears were poked off,
Enemies with hammers were reddened with blood.
Kokcher slashed all the way ahead,
Killed numerous powerful enemies.

Enemies cast iron nets to him continuously,
Because they lost heroes like Shakur,
They had no way to shake him.
Botala who lost their headman,
Fled away like chickens with their heads cut off.

Swaggering Kunwuer Bayi,
Lost his former dignity.
Enemies had to flee desperately,
Dare not look back.
Eighty thousand soldiers were wiped out in one night,
Kokcher continued chasing enemies regardless of his safety.
Before the evening came,
Botala people were almost routed.

Kokcher vented his anger,
Ordered his troops to return,
He stayed there alone by himself,
Walked back and forth and looked around,
Observed the track of Kangayi people.

The dawn was breaking in the east,

Hero Kokcher stepped the morning glow,
Raised his head up proudly,
Went toward the direction of Kayirdy.

Kokcher went forward on his way,
Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara found him.
Khan Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
Kermuzsha's son hero Muradiler,
Because Shipshaydar came too late,
They went forward and complained.

Cunning Kunwuer Bayi lowered his voice,
Said to the heroes around him:
"Ayidarhan's son Kokcher,
Is going across the slope.
We need attack him off guard,
Capture him alive.

"Almanbet and Chuwak are very ferocious,
If Sirak and Kokcher join together,
No matter how great our vigor is,
We will be wiped out.

"Sirak, Chuwak and Almanbet,
Each of them is all-conquering lion,
Arashi headman Manas,
Considered them as his backbones.

"Generals except these three,
Are just their shadows and foils.
Now we have seen,
Kokcher is really a matchless hero.

"If we can capture Kokcher alive,
These self-glorified Brute people,
These roaring cowards,
Even if we do not break their backbones,

At least they will be panic-stricken."

All others quite approved of the plan,
Put their heads together and discussed.
They bent and hid themselves,
Watched the movement of Kokcher quietly.

Ayidarhan's son hero Kokcher,
Was not alert at all.
It was absolutely dangerous,
To act alone during the wartime.

Muradiler ambushed in lower reaches,
Niskara hid in upper reaches,
Kunwuer Bayi came to their aid in the middle.
They formed a bastion of iron,
Surrounded Kokcher in the center secretly.

Kokcher whipped his steed,
Swayed and bumped,
Raised dust billowed into the sky.

When he went by Muradiler,
Just approached Kunwuer Bayi,
This ferocious guy,
Shouted "Mendy" loudly,
From aside,
Launched an attack to Kokcher suddenly.

Hearing the enemy general's shout,
Seeing Alekala steed pranced,
Eagle Kokcher, in a leisurely manner,
Did not shrink back a little.

He warded off the deadly spear,
Began the fierce counterattack,
Poked impressive Kunwuer Bayi,

Off Alekala steed on the ground.

Seeing Kunwuer Bayi falling off the steed,
Niskara galloped ahead.
He rode on a maroon stallion,
Rushed ahead to Kokcher.
The sound of shouting roared to the sky,
Made mountains shaken and seas overturned.

Hero Kokcher was perfectly calm,
Did not stretch his spear out to fight.
He only leaned to one side,
Lifted his spear and poked to the flank.
Hero Niskara,
Was fallen off from the maroon steed.

Before he drew his spear back,
Muradiler had arrived amuck.
He made an attack suddenly,
Eagle Kokcher's butt left the saddle.

The hero's feet left the stirrups,
His body left the saddle,
Grasped the mane of the steed tight.

Kunwuer Bayi arrived soon,
Poked toward his shoulder severely.
"He had embraced the earth,
We must capture him alive;
The hero drove Almanbet away,
Famous Kokcher is here.
We will report to Aisanhan,
The good news in time."

Muradiler shouted worriedly,
Galloped ahead hurriedly,
Tried to tie the hero's hands.

Ayidarhan's son Kokcher,
Had felt hopeless to his life,
He stood up with the support of the ax.
Since the life was ending,
What could stop him to fight?

His hand lifted and the ax fell,
Cut one of Muradiler's arms off.
Muradiler lost one of his arms,
Blood ran down from the sleeve.

Kunwuer Bayi urged Alekala steed,
Launched an fierce attack again,
Kokcher standing on the ground,
Was poked down again.

Niskara jumped off the steed,
Took the chance and tied the hero's hands.
Right at the moment,
Almanbet climbed on the mountaintop and watched.
He was the condition of Kokcher,
The boiling blood made him throw his sense away.

If he did not see this,
He must make the attack quietly,
Rescue hero Kokcher,
And kill Kunwuer Bayi.

Almanbet was devastated by the anxiety,
The battle cry roared to the sky.
Hearing Almanbet's shouting,
Kunwuer Bayi felt flustered,
Drew the sabre out of the sheath,
Cut kokcher's head off,
Tied the head behind his saddle and ran away.

There was a secret cliff behind the battlefield,

There was no road or path under it.
Three enemy generals were blocked,
They were angry and disconcerted:
"We cut Kokcher's head off,
The fled lackey and Chuwak together,
Will not let us off easily."

Arrogant three enemy generals,
Felt extremely hopeless,
They looked around with fear,
Led their steeds and looked for the roads,
Tried to flee from the danger.

Almanbet galloped ahead,
Kokcher's body was still warm,
The life was still running in his body.

"You and me are sworn friends,
But I am unable to rescue your life,
I cannot have a heart-to-heart talk with you,
Can I bury the hatred in the heart?"

Almanbet dismounted his yellow steed,
Cast his identity of Khan aside:
Knelt down, hugged the corpse and broke out in tears.

Hero Chuwak,
Came after Almanbet.
He climbed on the mountaintop and looked around,
He saw the blue spotted steed dragging the halter,
The yellow steed accompanied it nearby.

Hero Almanbet,
Embraced Kokcher's mountain-size body and cried.
Chuwak broke out in tears,
His heartbroken voice could pierce through rocks.

When they were shedding their grief,
Three defeated Karamark generals,
Found a path in a hurry,
Fled along the path desperately without looking back.

Heroes led the blue spotted steed,
Carried Kokcher's corpse on the steed,
Drove flocks of horses,
Wasted no time and returned to the camp.

As seeing their figures,
All generals and soldiers turned out.
Almanbet could not control his grief,
Said in a tearful voice:
"You devoted his life for my sake,
I cannot take your body back completely,
I look like dying together with you.

"Manas did not listen to my advice,
Insisted on pitching camp on this slope.
Such of his action,
Must put an end to Muzburchak and all of us.

"Most of forty warriors will die in the battle,
Heroes led by Aji Bayi are also hard to keep their lives,
Albayi, Gulidur and Kutunay,
Heroes Chuwak and Sirak,
And many spear-men will all die.

"Only uncle Bakay leads our troops,
Our defeated troops, to go back Taras.
Wounds inflame, blood and pus ooze,
Ayikoler himself will sleep his eternal sleep.

"I will carry your corpse on the horseback,
Let Almubye convoy the horse,
And hand to madam Ark Eirkechy,

Let her bury you with her own hands.

"At the last moment of your life,
I cannot break down the knot in your heart.
Your bright and wise eyes,
I cannot see the last of your look.
Maybe before I can revenge for you,
I will sleep my eternal sleep."

Almanbet sang dirges in tears,
Continuing cry made people sad.
He asked to cut the belly open and pull dirty things out,
Washed the blood off with water,
Put hardening medicine in the belly.
In the lament of Manas,
Let respected Bakay stand at the head position,
Washed Kokcher's body with his own hands.

The corpse was wrapped with shroud,
Tied it up tight at three places.
Almanbet conducted the chanting and praying,
Sent the long-sleep hero away the same night.

He ordered Kokcher's attendants to accompany,
Sent the corpse of the noble hero,
To his wife Ark Eirkechy.
He sent Kokcher's corpse away,
His eyes were inflamed as big as fists.

Almanbet regretted and grieved:
"The hero has no head on his body,
It was all my fault and responsibility."
He blamed himself again and again,
For the death of his friend,
He could not make himself calm down.

He swayed back and forth on the back of Sariala steed,

Brown beard swayed with wind,
He broke into cries from time to time,
He could not make his grief calm down.

The lion witnessed what happened,
Heard the cry of Almanbet,
Sadness and grief filled the heart.
People stood aside there,
Bitter tears they shed wetted their clothes.

"Hero Almanbet of prophecy,
Never leak the secret of death easily,
The moment of life-or-death was like blinking an eye."
People put their heads together and discussed,
Almanbet said the following words:

"Lion, you are heavily injured,
I need make clear my attitude.
This time when we begin the fight,
We cannot spare our lives.
No matter you are young or old,
Please think carefully of your funeral things.
We will begin the battle tomorrow morning,
Red blood surged as waves,
Like water flowed gully and river rapids."

Right at this moment,
Deafening noise came from the east:
The sound of drums from the distant to the close,
The noise of firelocks was heartshaking;
Arrows whistled through the air,
Bullets of Baran firelock① swished in the air.

Shells were like a ball of fire,
Like yurt-size burning charcoal flew over the sky.

① Baran firelock: The name of one kind of firelock.

The earth shook in the noise,
Earthshaking battle would start soon.

Sabre knocked together with splashing sparks,
Waved battleaxes brought a clamor,
Poked spears made shirring noise.
As hearing the noise,
People wetted their pants in panic.

Warriors acted with escorts in front and behind,
They mounted together.
Almanbet raised his head up,
Gave such a speech:
"When the dawn comes,
You begin to mount and set out.
Now all of you please dismount,
Cook and eat.
Ayikoler made an unwise decision,
Gave Kunwuer Bayi fifteen days,
Entered into a blind agreement.

"Kunwuer Bayi had invited from Dayingan mountain,
The marksman, hero Shipshaydar.
The strange noise we heard just now,
It was Shipshaydar casting the spell.

"He is a domineering and arrogant guy,
He is eloquent and good at sorcery.

"Shipshaydar has come,
I have detected signs of his movements,
You all should make preparation of sacrifice,
It is not a shocking statement.

"You will know when the battle starts,
What on earth will happen,
Now you'd better rest quietly.

You should watch and check carefully the stirrups,
Do not fall off your steeds because of it,
And lost your life innocently.

"Dry the saddle cushions under the sun,
Make your steeds comfortable,
Do not make them stagger.
Spear point should be polished sharp and shining,
Blade of sabre should be shining,
Battleax should not be rusty and blunt.
Only when you go to the battlefield,
You will understand weapons are as important as life.

"Battle robes should be checked in time,
Armors should be repaired in time, too.
Make best use of time to prepare everything carefully,
Be never careless and negligent.

"When the battle starts tomorrow,
Shipshaydar must go together with his troops,
He will never let any chance off,
No one could escape with the life from his hand.

"Fight from the dawn to the dark,
Alkali oozes with sweat and congeals on the back of your clothes.
You all need turn out,
I will stay in the back to bring up the rear,
I need tell you clearly about this.

"I will put another clothing for Sariala steed,
Grasp arrows tight and draw the bow,
Pray continuously to the god.

"If I can seize the chance,
I must shoot the boar's artery;
If I have no chance to take action,
I cannot stay in the troops.

"If Shipshaydar find I am not there,
He will not come and fight easily.
In the cut-throat battle,
If I go together with our troops,
I must descend endless disaster to them.

"Forty warriors led by Kergelchal,
You all need go ahead to fight without shrinking back.
Ayikoler Manas, lion Chuwak,
Uncle Bakay, Muzburchak,
We will fight shoulder to shoulder,
Undertake smiles and tears together.

"The battle is approaching,
Face the enemy valiantly and shun no dangers,
Hero Sirak,
Aji Bayi, head of forty warriors,
My fate is connecting together with yours.

"The bastard, Kunwuer Bayi,
Invited marksman Shipshaydar.
Only Khuda knows,
Whether we are facing crowning calamity.
Because we will part forever,
I then open my mind to you all.

"Your words are as sweet as honey,
You look vital and healthy,
Your eyes are shining as candlelight.
If the death wants to take our lives,
Who in this world can escape from it?

"The most shameless action,
Is to run away from the battlefield.
Since your boyhood,
You all know heroes are noble,
You are all proud of reddening the battlefield with blood.

"Bow to the death for living,
Shrink back and dare not charge ahead,
It is the basest action of losing the will to fight.
As long as we can reciprocate our people's kindness,
To protect their property with our lives,
It is what a real hero should do!
Your reputation will be praised by all forever.

"Tiger Ayikoler Manas,
Forty warriors need try your best to protect him,
Ten days in succession from tomorrow,
You all need devote every effort to the battle.

"I am only a warrior from Kangayi,
For the sake of Kirgiz interest, I ask nothing for myself;
You do not shrink back at the sight of danger,
And leave such bad reputation behind you.

"We have lost hero Kokcher,
But who will forget he is an immortal hero.
The bloody and cruel battle,
Has lasted for six months.
The rest ten days,
Will be the cruelest moment.

"Erchywuler, you do not go to the battle,
You need grasp your pen tight,
Cannot let people forget,
The reputation of Ayikoler Manas.

"The history from Khan Mamay till now,
You have heard all of it.
Since the lion mounted and began to fight,
You went thick and thin together with him,
Through all these years till now.

"Remember the hero's great achievements,

Not a single detail should be omitted,
Write every word into the epic.
The career he has not achieved,
You do not need exaggerate and shame the hero,
You should record the truth, both the right and the wrong,
You should be a singer with a conscience.

"The things I have done,
Have been recorded,
You can ask Arukai for it,
Then add it into what you are writing suitably.

"From now on,
Uncle Bakay,
Let him be your servant.
If the death is tolerant to me,
Does not let my tongue lose the function,
I have more words to say."

Almanbet finished these words,
Stood up from his seat,
Shook hands and parted Khan Bakay.

When he came to the lion,
Valiant Almanbet,
His eyes glistened with tears,
Facing lion Ayikoler,
He expressed his heart:
"We are not brothers,
Even if we are not brothers,
But we were fed with the same breasts.

"Though we do not have same father and mother,
But we sucked the same mother's milk.
My respected lion,
You are two years older than me,
You are nobler than me,

Mother's white milk,
You enjoyed it a few years earlier than me…"

He stopped here,
Because he could not control his feeling,
He threw his arms round the lion's neck,
They embraced and cried,
Kissed each others' cheeks.

Chuwak and Almanbet,
Opened their arms,
Embraced each other tight.

Famous hero Sirak,
Watched Almanbet quietly:
"Khan Almanbet,
Where is your courage and strong will?
You said the unpredicted death,
Will descend on us,
You demoralize our soldiers.

"Make Kirgiz lose confidence,
Are you meant to make us depressed?
It is not appropriate for you to do this,
It will make the steel blade rusty and blunt.

"Though you said smoothly and calmly,
You may not notice,
Your words are like needles sticking our hearts."

Sirak walked to the face of Almanbet,
And embraced him;
Necks crossed, cheeks rubbed,
Eyes gazed for a long time,
Said goodbye and parted each other.

Kergelchal and Aji Bayi,

Gulidur and Albayi,
Bozwuler and Sirk,
Majik and Kutunay,
Came up one by one and shook to part.
Numerous generals and warriors,
Swarmed up and parted.

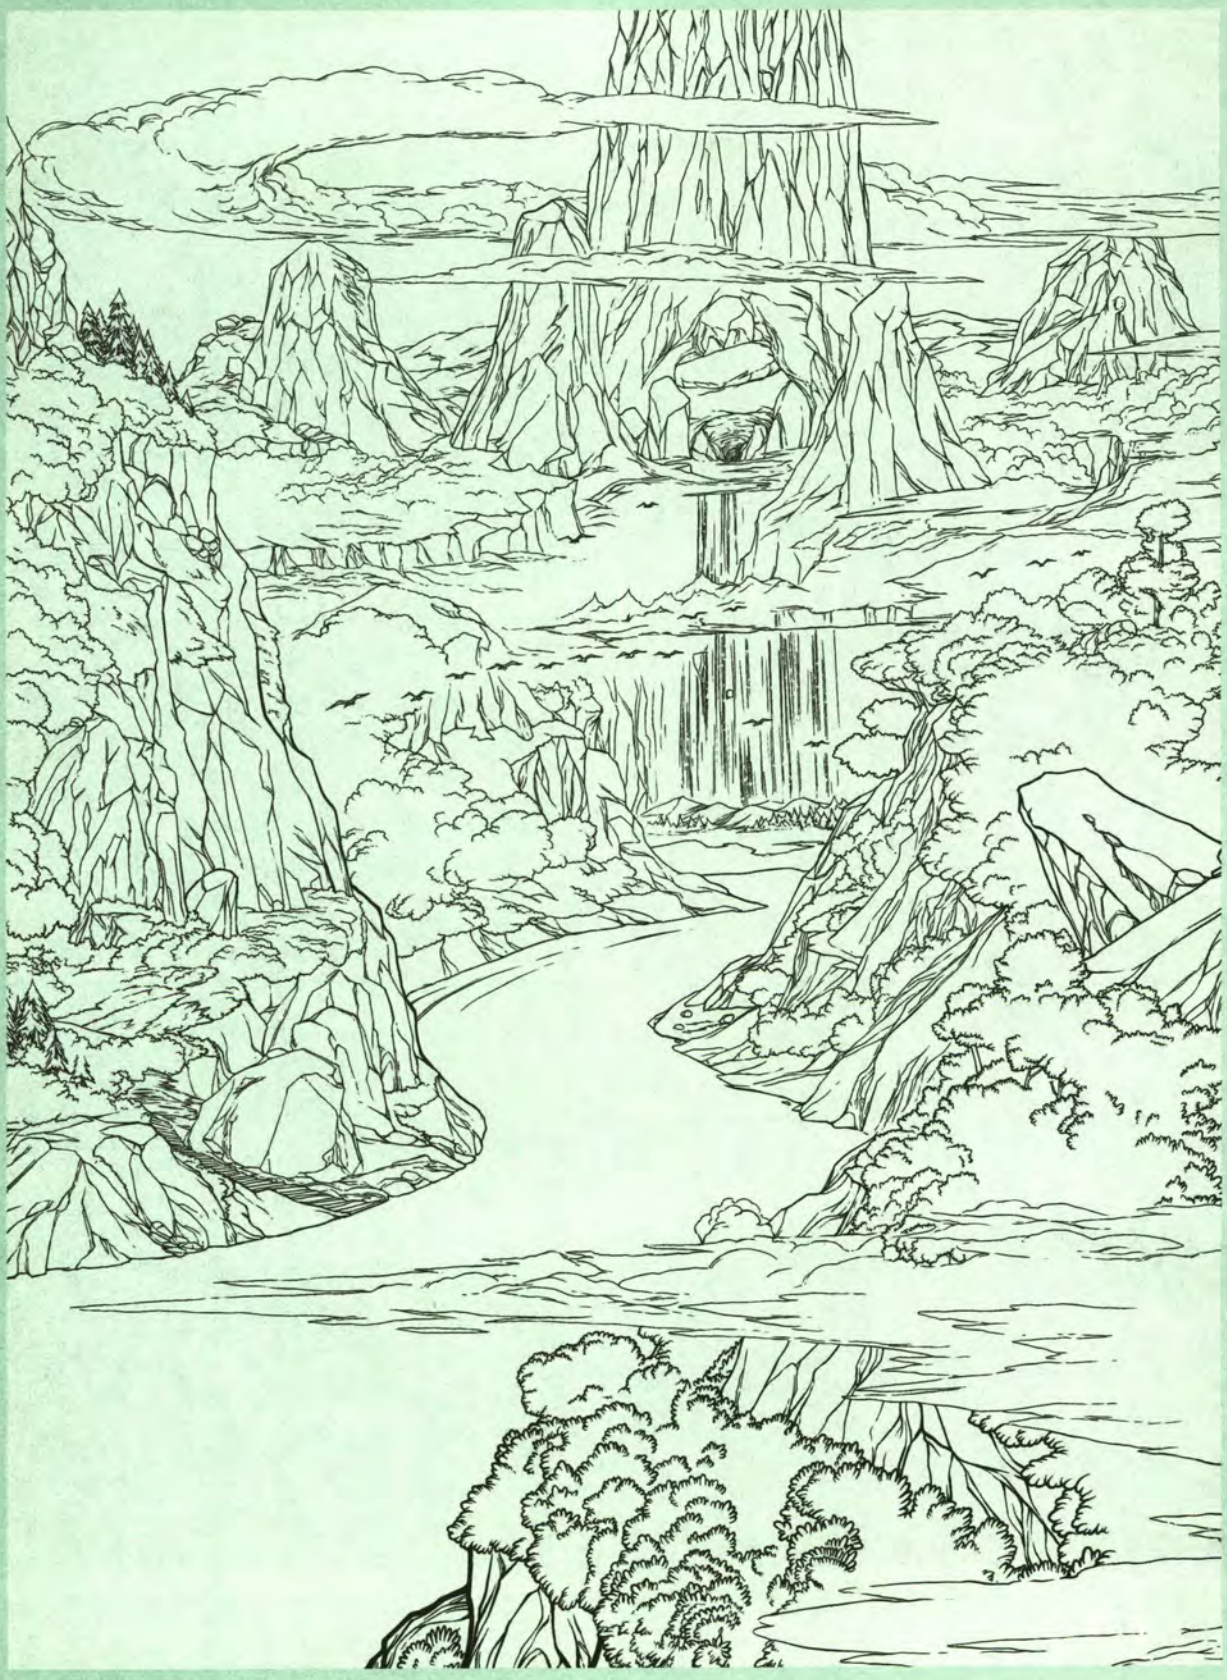
Watching scapula to predict the future,
Arakai could predict too,
And augur Toliek,
They also predicted,
They put their heads together and murmured:
"Almanbet is a warrior who can predict the future,
No one can compare with his foresight."

Waited for them all saying goodbye,
Almanbet gave out an order:
"Enemies as dense as sand,
Surround us from all directions.
Heroes Kader and Tuman, please mount and set out now,
Patrol the crossing of every road carefully,
Monitor enemies' movement close."

Seeing all generals and soldiers off,
Almanbet began to pull the halter tight,
Went forward slowly from the flank of the troops.
Right at this moment,
The night passed, morning glow took over the stars.

Let us put this aside,
Describe how all heroes,
Devoted their lives to the cruel battle.

The Death of Hero Manas



Heroes Sacrificed Their Lives in the Battlefield

Drums and gongs beat together,
Morning mist raised from the earth,
Kangayi all over the mountain thronged forward,
Flags spread all over the mountaintop.

Shouting soldiers and neighing horses swarmed ahead,
Like flood came suddenly,
Spear points glittered under the sun,
Every inch of mountains and plains was thronged.

Under the countless hooves' trampling,
The mountain was peeled off layer after layer.

Kirgiz people stood on mountains,
Watched carefully the movement of the enemies:
Waved flags, lifted banners,
Kangayi troops swarmed forward as beetles.

Hero Niskara and Wushan,
Gave out the order of launching an attack together:
"All turn out, do not delay!
Kill all Kirgiz.
There is great difference between our troops and theirs,
Their troops are only one percent of ours."
They tried to bolster up the morale of their troops,
And encourage themselves at the same time.

Ketay hero Georoy,
Led his spreading soldiers.

They did not dare to disobey the order,
But had to sway weapons in hands and dash ahead.
Kara Ketay, Karamark soldiers,
And all Kangayi went forward shoulder to shoulder.

Spears waved in their hands,
Generals and soldiers all looked fierce,
Commanders led by Kunwuer Bayi,
All charged ahead bravely.
They charged like flood regardless of their safety,
Every corner of the battlefield was thronged with soldiers.

Almanbet stayed on the periphery to search,
In order to find Shipshaydar;
Manas was heavily injured and rested in the temporary palace,
Old Bakay was taking care of him.

Erchywuler guarded them,
There were no other people in the huge palace,
All Arashi soldiers,
Went into the battle.
Ketay and Kirgiz troops,
Were locked in the fierce battle.

Highly skilled broadsword-men,
Neatly lined spear-men,
Ax groups who waved the axes,
All groups rushed to the battle.

Warriors lifted battle hammers high,
Agile soldiers,
Rushed into the battle bravely,
Fought against enemies ferociously and bravely.

Blood ran everywhere, reddened the earth,
Heads slashed open, limbs broken,
The cruel battle continued.

"Why cannot I see you?"
"Wish I can survive in the fierce field,
Never give up a chance to keep alive."
"I am under enemies' converging attack!"
"Where are you? We need fight together!"
Soldiers' loud shouting was everywhere.

Lifted the sabre, eyeballs flew out of eye sockets,
Men lost their eyes crawled everywhere;
Broken arms and legs were badly mutilated,
Soldiers lost their arms were extremely sad.

Legs were cut off,
Could not stand up without feet;
Lumbar vertebrae was broken,
Groaned on the ground.
It was in a moment that a life ended,
Even did not have time to cry out.

Some passed out with bad injury,
Only had a life of last breath;
Some turned into mince under horse hooves,
Blood reddened all over their bodies,
Countless soldiers were impossible to be recognized.

In this death-or-life battle,
The tragic situations could be seen everywhere.
Shipshaydar hid in the crowd,
No one could recognize him,
He was afraid of being found by Almanbet,
He was very cautious and careful.

He did not see Almanbet in the crowd,
So he said to himself:
"If I leave for the periphery,
I must not escape Almanbet's eyes,
Then I will be plotted and killed,

My blood will run like a river.

"It is so easy to lose life in such a tangled battle,
I cannot involve in it nervously;
My purpose and intention,
Almanbet had already predicted long ago;
Only heroes and warriors of Manas are killed,
I will be consoled."

Shipshaydar reminded himself again and again,
Bent and hid among his troops.
He lay on his back on the horseback,
Lowered his body and did not let rivals find him.

In the tangled battle,
Shoot arrows in the back,
To kill all warriors of Manas,
To end the hatred buried deep in his heart.

Alam Bayi who was never absent in battle discussion,
Drove Kangayi out bravely,
Kutunay, one of forty warriors,
Aji Bayi, Began of all warriors,
Gulidur and Jayisan who could predict the future,
Shipshaydar drew the bow full of his energy,
None of the arrows missed its mark,
Shot these five Kirgiz warriors to death.

Karamark soldiers rushed ahead,
Captured Aji Bayi's Kartkulan steed:
"Put the splendid silk cushion on it,
It is right a find steed for Aisanhan.

"This magical steed is in its prime age,
It is the right age to tie by the door and drive,
Even you ride on for six months,
It will not feel exhausted and pant heavily."

They felt cheerful and confident,
Gave the steed to Wushan to lead.
As seeing the magical steed,
Wushan held the halter immediately,
Handed it to a Karamark called Keytur.

Keytur was a prominent warrior,
He was self-glorified and arrogant;
He had the imposing manner of one thousand soldiers,
He felt very excited as he got the steed.

"Finally I got a steed as I wish!"
He leaped on the horseback,
Full of proud and pleasant look.

Right at this critical moment,
Sirak urged his steed ahead.
He saw Kartkulan under a Karamark,
He was worried about the safety of Aji Bayi:

"Kartkulan steed is captured by Karamark,
Is Aji Bayi safe now?
The enemies captured Kartkulan steed,
Can Aji Bayi escape from the danger?

"Does Almanbet's prophecy,
Come true without any suspense?
That matchless magical steed,
I will keep it safe even lose my life,
Matchlessly magical steed Kartkulan,
How can it fall into Karamark's hands?"

He loosed the halter of Tilkezler steed,
Charged ahead regardless of his safety.
Waved his battleax and slashed left and right,
Made enemies blood run like water.

Facing his towering vigor,
Karamark soldiers covered their faces and fled away.
The troops of high morale,
Were defeated in an instant.

Sirak was like an arrow,
Rushed by the side of Keytur in a flash.
The clop of Tilkzler steed,
Was hair-raising and earthshaking.

Kartkulan steed heard the sound of hooves,
It raised its head and neighed ceaselessly.
Heard the melancholy neigh of the steed,
Saw the steed missing Aji Bayi so much,
Hero Sirak burst into tears immediately.

Sirak could not control his anger,
Like a mad bull camel,
Aimed at mountain-size shoulder of Keytur,
Poked his spear out severely.

The spear pierced through the lung and the liver,
And went out from the other side of the body.
Kartkulan took the chance and turned round,
Galloped away at top speed.

Sirak followed it tight and galloped.
The poor but loyal steed,
Dashed by the side of Aji Bayi's corpse,
Stopped its hooves suddenly.

Hero Sirak was busy both with hands and feet,
He carried the corpse onto the back of the steed,
Took out the rope,
Tied the corpse tight on the saddle.
Kartkulan steed carried its master's corpse,
Dashed toward Chechydoby like wind.

Prestigious hero Koshaoyi,
Untied Aji Bayi's corpse sadly.
He believed Manas would return after him,
So he went to Taras ahead of Manas.

Hero Sirak rode on Tilkezler steed,
Turned round and rushed to the battlefield.
He waved the sabre and slashed left and right,
Blood ran down along the blade.
Kangayi soldiers' corpses,
Piled up as hills.

The places where people were dense
Were slashed open by him like a valley.
Lion Sirak slashed all the way ahead,
Without regarding his safety,
His figure was like an eagle hunting a sparrow.

Budayik's son Muzburchak,
His white beard swayed on the chest.
He rode on a maroon steed with white mane,
Shouted loudly and rushed forward.
Enemies he met head-on,
Were all killed by him,
Like wild wind blew sand away.

Muzburchak met Muradiler,
The hero urged his steed like wild wind,
Poked the spear in the waist of the enemy.

Got a sudden stab in the waist,
Arrogant Muradiler,
Fell off on the ground from the brown steed.
Respected old hero Muzburchak,
Turned round and planned to return the battlefield.

Right at this critical moment,

It was Karamark hero Wushan stood in front of him.
Before Muzburchak could launch an attack,
He was poked off on the ground.
Karamark soldiers came soon afterwards,
Surrounded the old hero in the center.

No one showed interest in the hero's mount,
Did not care about the Muzburchak's status,
Beat the poor old man severely on the ground.

Dragged the old man's collar,
Lashed him with leather whip severely,
Red mark of the whip left on his face,
Red blood wetted his clothes.

Muzburchak was all on his own,
He fell in Karamark's hands unfortunately,
Suffered merciless torment and attack.

At this critical moment,
Sirk, Kergelchal and Majik,
Urged their steeds and came in time.

Kergelchal shouted loudly,
The name "Manas",
Urged his Akborchok steed,
Faced teeming enemies,
Waved his sabre without any fear,
Like the demon killed enemies.

Though Kergelchal was matchlessly powerful,
How he could compare with hero Batak,
He galloped among massive troops,
No one could defeat him.

He waved his spear and attacked,
Poked Kergelchal down in one round,

He turned round his steed aggressively.
Kergelchal fell off the horseback,
And was surrounded by Karamark.

Enemies divided in two groups,
Surrounded Muzburchak and Kergelchal,
Many kinds of weapons were on their body.
Hero Sirk was burning with anxiety,
Unlashed the halter of Kukazk① steed,
Turned round and faced Majik,
Expressed his opinion to Majik:

"Lion Majik, you are a warrior,
You are well known and very brave,
Muzburchak and Kergelchal,
Suffered from enemies' torture.
We cannot let enemies kill them,
Like Kokcher with body and head apart,
Make us regret for our whole life.

"I will rush ahead to fight Batak,
Use his blood to redden my sabre;
I will fight against enemies full of my strength,
Wipe Karamark out,
Rescue hero Muzburchak and Kergelchal.
Lion Majik, you should make every attempt,
To prepare two steeds."

Karamark hero Batak,
Saw Sirk coming to fight.
He whipped his steed,
Waved his spear and rushed ahead.

Batak and Sirk met head-on,
Hero Sirk showed superior ability,

① Kukazk: Kirgiz language. It was a noun, means white timber pile. Here it is used to describe white warhorse.

He warded the enemy's spear off,
Took the chance to attack.

The spear point poked in the enemy's heart,
Inspired Sirk was high in spirit,
Poked Batak off the horseback on the ground.
Majik grasped the time and came,
Cut Batak's head and threw it aside.

Sirk turned round,
Threw all his tiredness away,
He was eager to save his fellows,
Made an attack to Kakramark surrounded Muzburchak.

He rushed into the dense enemies,
Countless Karamark soldiers,
Turned into meat pie under Kukazk's hooves.
He took a look at Muzburchak,
The old man kept on the ground unmoved,
Covered all over with blood.
He glared with his last gasp,
Had no strength to resist.

Sirk rushed into wall-like Karamark troops,
Slashed left and right ceaselessly,
Like a hungry wolf broke into a sheep pen,
Killed Karamark people one after one.

The spear point was stained with blood,
Urged the steed forward,
Enemies met face to face,
Like pigeons in the sky,
Were poked in the air.
If he had no such ability,
Who would know the illustrious name of Sirk?

"I will tear enemies on both sides apart,

Let hero Muzburchak and Kergelchal,
Join us in a place."
In order to rescue these two elders,
Hero Sirk pushed his way in the battlefield.

"It depends on me now,
It is most important to find steeds for them."
Hero Majik urged his steed,
Galloped ahead,
Muzburchak's Arkjal① steed,
Appeared in his sight suddenly.

Karamark guarded there,
Were right one thousand.
Majik brushed aside any difficulties,
Pushed ahead bravely to the enemies.

Long spear had blue tassel swayed on it,
Majik's Totoru steed galloped ahead bravely,
Raised its hooves and stamped on enemies.
Lines of enemies,
Their heads rolled on the ground,
Killed three to four enemies in one poke.

Karamark soldiers rushed left and right,
Sleeves and hems swayed with wind:
"Fight against this guy,
Our only destiny is to be killed."

Majik was like entering an uninhabited land,
Enemies wetted their pants and fled in terror.
Majik rushed left and right bravely,
White mane steed and grey violent horse were as fast as wind,
The halters of these two steeds were in his hands.
Two elders and hero Sirk stood there,

① Arkjal: It means white mane.

Majik handed the halters to them breathlessly.

Muzburchak, Kergelchal got away safely,
Two young men, Sirk and Majik,
They were inexperienced but made remarkable moves,
Rushed in the battlefield bravely.

They could have been got away,
But they urged their steeds freely,
Rushed to the depth of Karamark and Kangayi.
Poor Majik,
Was shot to death in the battlefield.

Hero Majik lay in the battlefield,
Sirk alone fought in the battlefield.
Five thousand Karamark soldiers,
Surrounded him in the center.

Young Sirk faced the powerful enemies,
Did not show hesitation and unease:
"Why don't I face calmly if the death is coming,
I have to bear bravely if the disaster descends.
Everyone only has one father and one mother,
My brother Sirak,
Is alone in this world,
I will die with nothing to regret if I can meet him again."

Sirk was filled with rage,
Eyes were like two fireballs.
He urged his Kukazk steed,
Waved his spear and rushed into enemies.

Continued to kill enemies on the slope,
Enemies were poked down once he poked the spear out.
Kukazk steed went by like the wind,
Lines of enemies fell off on the ground.

Sirk's anger surged to the sky,
The spear point pierced through the enemies' chests:
Like falling leather hats,
Sirk poked enemies off the steeds.

Daggers were stained with blood,
Battleaxes sent countless enemies to kingdom come.
Karamark soldiers witnessed Sirk's great achievement,
They were surprised with eyes and mouths fixed:

"What a super hero he is,
Corpses lie and the earth was reddened with blood,
Wherever the hooves of his steed step on.
We are all white-haired and silver-beard old men,
We have never seen heroes like Sirak and Sirk,
Warriors like Almanbet and Chuwak,
We do not know which of you can fight against them.
Do not know how the earth can support them."

Karamark were worried about their lives,
Cursed secretly the commander who led them on an expedition,
Especially to Kunwuer Bayi,
They cursed him and hated him very much.
They hid themselves in tears,
Shed tears and fled for their lives.

Jagurp's son hero Sirk,
Rushed into enemies and slashed.
His shouting roared to the sky,
Revenging flames were burning in his heart.

No one dare fight him head-on,
No one could stop him;
Numerous enemies there,
None of them dare come up to fight.
Made enemies witness his braveness,
Sirk felt at ease.

Kukazk steed was like an arrow,
Pranced forward.
Young and spirited Sirk,
Made enemies have no place to hide.

As giant Kunwuer Bayi saw this,
He made the scheme secretly:
"Jagurp Bayi's offspring,
All of them become headmen.
Manas becomes their commander,
Look at them carefully,
They are brothers Sirak and Sirk.

"Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
Are known far and wide,
Accomplished great achievements for Brutes,
I can never imagine,
Sirk can be so brave and ferocious like this.

"We fight against these four heroes,
Our army has collapsed.
My respected Shipshaydar,
The lion could not defeat them,
Numerous giants and warriors die in their hands,
Revenging flames are burning in our hearts.

"Brutes come to Kakan,
Kill countless of out giants and soldiers.
I had sixty lion giants,
Now most of them are dead or heavily injured.

"Among heroes who have been killed,
The following heroes are most respected:
Ketay hero giant Georoy,
Black mane Bolanchu is very brave,
Kangayi hero Aoronko,
Hero Bozkertek from Tonsha.

They are all warriors hard to find in the world,
It makes us sad to lose them.

"Among the giants, Makeler, Solokai,
And Beshkulak are all-conquering heroes.
When enemies hear their names,
Enemies would be scared out of their wits.

"Administer people in one area,
Famous with their great achievements,
General Ayi and General Kun,
Also devoted their lives in the battlefield.
Countless officials and governors,
Also shed their blood in the battlefield.

"Solaba's son Sorandick,
Is a general famous in one area,
Troops of sixty cities are under his administration,
Numerous cavalries, dense soldiers,
He is swaggering and well known.

"Let us think carefully,
Headmen could compare with him,
Most of them died under the sabre of Almanbet and Chuwak,
Under the spear of Sirak.
Look, hero Shipshaydar,
How arrogant and merciless Brute people are.

"Fourteen Khans are all well known,
There are also many highly skilled generals.
Among those Khans,
Kokcher is the best and brightest.
All other heroes except him,
Seemed to be safe and sound.

"Plunder everything in Begin,
Carry all plundered jewelry, gold and silver on camels,

Kirgiz Khans were leisurely and carefree,
They went back to their homeland.

"Shipshaydar, please think carefully,
Hear the clang of those gold and silver,
How can you bear our enemies get them?
The fled lackey with Chuwak, Sirak,
Descend the disaster on us.

"You have witnessed today,
Sirk have made us taste the bitterness.
Manas is really an invincible giant,
His generals are all brave.
They are all safe and sound,
No one died in the battlefield.

"The splendid throne,
Even the god never sits on it,
No one dare take the liberty of sitting on it,
How we bear low bald Yurbi occupy it.

"My respected hero Shipshaydar,
My hatred is as large as a steed,
My anger is even larger than a camel.
My responsibility asks me not to retreat,
I have to bury the hatred in the heart.

"I visited all Ketay people,
Asked marksman Erlama for help,
As long as they have abilities,
I tried my best to invite them,
But till now none of them,
Could revenge for me.

"I could not bear any more,
So I tied my belt and hid.
In order to find a chance to attack,

I opened my eyes wide and waited,
Swallowed the hatred in endless sleepless nights.

"Please take a careful look,
Hero Shipshaydar,
My ax cut in the head of Manas,
I did not pull the ax out,
But he escaped for his life.

"Because of the above annoyed things,
I asked Manas for fifteen-day limit.
I invited you to come out from the mountain,
Shipshaydar,
You must revenge for me.

"Shipshaydar,
You must kill the forty warriors of Manas for me;
Shipshaydar,
You must help,
Deflate Chuwak and Sirak's arrogance;
Shipshaydar,
Especially that fled lackey,
You must cut his neck off."

Kunwuer Bayi exhausted himself by talking,
Asked Shipshaydar for a favor.
He expressed his grief,
Tears ran down like springs.

Shipshaydar heard his complaint,
Then responded in this way:
"Once you rode on Alekala steed,
Looked down upon everyone,
Always talked big,
Considered yourself the only hero in the world,
But break into cries today,
Complained the regret in your heart.

"Surrounded by your attendants, I came yesterday,
To look for the chance to attack in the battlefield,
Fixed the eyes from the dawn to the dark,
No matter how hard I was looking for,
I could not find Almanbet everywhere.

"I have chosen some warriors,
Arranged them to the positions of ambushing.
How can you know my secret?
From now on,
I will not go into battle with you,
Never go into battle with soldiers fight hand-to-hand,
Never put my fate into enemies' hands.

"If I show up in the battlefield tomorrow,
I must die in Almanbet's hands.
He had already set a trap,
Waited for me to jump in quietly.

"The tangled fight should be stopped immediately,
Mist all over the sky will scatter.
We can send our heroes to challenge one after one,
If the enemy wins in the one-on-one fight,
Wide clothes hem sways with wind,
Soldiers can rush into the battlefield ceaselessly,
Rescue our falling heroes back to our camp.

"Maybe at such moment,
I will meet Almanbet in the battlefield.
He is a great hero too,
I will try to show my ability,
Try to find his crack then take his life.

"We learned skills with same master,
I learned three months more than him.
In the aspects of others skills,
Almanbet is equal with me.

In the one-on-one fight,
No one can compete with him."

Shipshaydar,
Consoled Kunwuer Bayi,
Let him make up his mind,
Try to wipe Arashi people out.

Kunwuer Bayi was attacked by Sirk,
And was almost killed.
"Hero Sirk I met today,
Is a hero as brave as Almanbet."
He complained and asked for help again and again,
Sighed he was not as powerful as previous years.
He continued to complain to all heroes,
Full of terror in his heart.

Hero Sirk still fought in the battlefield,
Rushed and fought braver and braver.
Kunwuer Bayi gave out the order,
To beat the drum and retreat.

Drums beat, bugles sounded,
Kangayi and Arashi people,
Parted to two sides.

From the previous battle,
From the bloody battlefield,
For the sake of dignity of Manas,
In order to support the supreme Khan,
Generals retreated from the battlefield.
Kergelchal led forty warriors,
Came to the palace of lion Manas,
Worshiped the eagle to express their desires.

Manas asked carefully,
About the casualty of his warriors,

Door-size front teeth,
Were shown in front of people.

As usual,
Warriors came to the camp of Manas,
Saluted noble Khan.

Aji Bayi, the head of forty warriors,
Alam Bayi, participating in administration,
Agile eagle Arabye,
Kutunay, one of forty warriors,
Humorous Jayisan,
Brave lion Majik brothers,
These six warriors did not show up.

"Six brave generals do not come,
Are they heavily injured?"
Before the lion finished his words,
Sirak continued the talk right away:
"A breathtaking battle just started,
Kara Ketay and Karamark people were like ants,
From Begin city of sixty gates,
Turned out like flood.

"Kunwuer Bayi is their headman,
Swaggering and irresistible,
Launched fierce attack to us.

"Ayikoler, our Khan,
Your forty warriors are all brave,
Rushed to the battlefield and fought bravely,
Fear no sacrifice,
Slashed at enemies severely and resisted enemies' attack.

"In the hand-to-hand fight,
I stepped on blood and dashed ahead,
But I saw Kartkulan steed falling into enemy's hand,

Our rivals rode on it.

"I cannot control myself to fight against them,
Tried to kill all enemies,
To take Aji Bayi's Kartkulan steed back.
When I was poking the enemy off his steed,
Cutting his head off,
I saw the magical steed dashing ahead,
So I galloped to chase it.
I saw the loyal steed,
Guarding its dead master.

"I held the halter of Kartkulan steed,
Put Aji Bayi's corpse on its back.
'Carry him back to Chechydobe ridge!'
I gave the order to it,
Like the steed could understand my words.

"How the other five warriors' situation is,
Whether they have suffered from misfortune,
Lion, I really do not know."

The face of Manas was clouded right away.
He said to Sirak sadly:
"Sirak, your words are not comfortable to the ears!
There are six absent from forty warriors,
I have been an eagle with broken wings.
Those falcons' corpses,
Are in the wilderness without being buried.

"My lion Majik,
We are fellows played together when we were young;
No matter on the way or at home,
We are always closely united.

"We sow seeds and harvest together,
We accompany each other after leaving parents,

He accompanied me loyally.
Majik, you are my heart,
Now your corpse lies in the wilderness,
I can imagine you have no white cloth to cover body.

"Magical Kartkulan steed,
Will send Aji Bayi's corpse back to the palace;
Five heroes lying in the wilderness,
Cannot let them be the diner of ferocious condors.

"Magpies will peck their eyes,
White teeth will be stained with crow droppings,
Condors will peck their chests open and eat their guts.
This hateful and false world,
Who can escape from your door?

"I have to bury the regret and grief deep in my heart,
My life-long friend Almanbet,
Why did not I listen to advice in the beginning?

"You all mount and launch a general offensive,
If we do not revenge for our warriors,
How can we feel comfortable?

"As long as we are alive,
We must accomplish our heroes' desire,
If we all sacrifice our lives,
We have to accompany heroes' spirits in the wilderness."

Heroes ate and drank to their satisfaction,
Hung sharp sabre on them,
Pulled the halters and mounted their steeds.

After one-night preparation,
Kangayi made everything ready.
They did not launch the attack at night,
But lined up and watched the rivals' movement quietly.

Kirgiz soldiers lined up,
Rushed to the battlefield without hesitation.

There was a general in Kangayi,
Called Sakatay.
He waved the sabre and urged his steed ahead.

Muzburchak just escaped with bare life,
Regardless of his badly injured body,
Urged his steed and insisted on going to fight,
Did not care advices at all.

Led by Sakatay,
Fifteen generals rushed out.
Brave Muzburchak,
Killed all these guys.

No one from enemy camp dare attack him again,
Old hero Muzburchak showed a heroic spirit,
Swallowed enemies as a boa constrictor,
Blood reddened his battle robe.

Karamark hero Wushan felt ashamed as seeing this:
"Though I poked Muzburchak off the steed yesterday,
I did not take this old guy's life away,
Which leads him to come and fight again,
And kill fifty of our fellows,
It is a shame of my life."
Blood of hatred boiled in Wushan's heart,
He swayed his body as usual,
Waved the whip and charged ahead bravely.

Old but vigorous Muzburchak,
Braced up and met head-on,
Poked Wushan off the steed,
Made him fall on the ground with eyes open.

The old hero seized the chance,
Turned the steed round and adjusted his body,
He wanted to press on,
And cut Wushan's head off.

Right when he was going to attack,
Muradiler launched an attack bravely,
He poked the spear in the hand out,
Poked Muzburchak off on the ground.

The old hero's helmet leaned to one side,
The death was approaching him.
What it was if it was not the death.
The arrow Shipshaydar shot out,
Went in the side of his forehead directly,
Enemy soldiers swarmed up and surrounded him.

Lion Chuwak galloped out to attack,
Poked Muradiler off the steed,
Carried Muzburchak's corpse,
Left the battlefield fast and galloped away.

Brave Chuwak carried the old hero's corpse,
Returned to the camp with extreme grief,
Gave the old hero's corpse to Bakay:
"Please accept it, this is our bosom friend,
If it is in our power,
We'd better bury him in homeland."

When he turned round and returned to the battlefield,
He saw Ayikoler's warriors,
All charging to the battlefield with great rage.
They were regardless of their safety,
Launched attacks to enemies shoulder to shoulder,
Blood formed into rivers and flowed.

Swaggering Karamark soldiers,

Were utterly routed.
Warriors fought in solemn order,
Every warrior could be matchless.
Two armies started the bloody battle,
Kirgiz warriors had locked the victory to their side.

"Our last day has come,
Our blood has reddened the earth,
The warriors of Manas,
May wipe us out."
Right at the moment,
The earthshaking drums beat,
Karamark soldiers fled away everywhere.

Troops divided in two lines with a narrow passage,
The finished battle had been forgotten.
Lion Chuwak, hero Sirak,
In the eyes of famous Kakan people,
There were like a pair of dragons.

Troops lined up on both sides and pitched camps,
Assigned sentries to guard.
The morning glow showed up,
Stars disappeared gradually,
The sun rose and brightened the earth.

As long as a person could walk,
He would not relax his vigilance,
They all prepared for the next expedition.
Saddles of steeds had been ready,
The belts of the rolled breeching were pulled tight,
Leather belts of stirrups were extended,
They checked carefully all over the steeds.

Right at this moment,
Ketay beat drums,
A new round of fight was coming.

Hearing the rumbling drum,
Soldiers and generals all mounted,
Flags waved with wind,
Mountains of both sides were crowded.

Hero Niskara,
Swaggered on horseback,
Held up a long spear,
Dashed to the center of the battlefield.

As seeing this,
Almanbet praised quietly the coming chance,
Urged his Sariala steed forward at top speed.

Mountain-size hero Chuwak,
Shouted ferociously like a wolf:
"What is hero Almanbet doing?
Where is he doing as he turns the steed round suddenly?
What should I do,
To stay behind you?

"If I die after you,
What does it mean to me?
No person will bury me in the wilderness.
Almanbet,
Please retreat and let me go first.

"Your noisily twittering fellow townsmen,
Who knows their measure?
I have long observed,
The situation of Niskara and Muradiler.

"Hero, let me go and fight,
I still have a lot to tell you.
For these five days,
I tossed and turned restlessly till the morning comes,
Heart beat accelerated, cannot calm down,

A lot of terrible things appeared in my mind.

"I feel it is hard to predict,
We might not escape from the death.
If I die,
If I die after you,
Who will come and bury me?

"If I fall into Karamark's hands,
They must take my skull as a water ladle,
They will pull all my hair off the head,
Cut my body in numerous pieces,
Chop it and throw to condors.

"How I cannot tell you,
The secret in my heart.
Let me go, Arakai,
If my feet leave the stirrups,
I will fall off from Koktikai steed,
Close my eyes and leave you,
Please bury me in the dirt.
I was careless in the past,
Black mane wolf, I hurt you many times…"

Almanbet continued the talk:
"My friend, the world does not go this way,
People alive should always remember the death,
Who know the time of the death coming?

"As long as I am alive,
Life is still in my chest,
I will not forget your body.
I must take care of your corpse,
But who will take care of mine?

"Everything is destined,
I will go to fight before you.

If I die in the battlefield,
Chuwak,
My corpse will be up to your decision.

" 'Kirgiz know his nobility.'
Let Kirgiz say such praising words and see me off."

Chuwak was very excited,
The words of his friend excited his nerve:
"Arakai, you said a lot,
But you do not consider the reality at present.
I must go to fight first,
Uncle Bakay, please allow me to go to fight."
After Chuwak's importuning,
Finally he got Bakay's permission to go.

Niskara rode on a maroon stallion,
Showed off in the battlefield.
Hero Chuwak ran out about three meters,
Turned the steed round and returned to the camp:
"My bosom friend Almanbet,
All the words I wanted to tell you,
Now there is still a little in my heart.

"If I am shot by Shipshaydar,
Close my eyes and leave this world;
If Ketay launch a new round of attack,
Do not forget my corpse,
In the battlefield.
I still want you to tell me,
Then I will feel at ease."

"Chuwak, you did not listen to my suggestion,
Insist on going but do not let me go,
If the death is approaching you,
You die in the battlefield;
If I go without taking care of you,

Let me lose my dignity of a man.
When I go to the other world,
Get tried in front of sages,
Let my guilt never be washed off."

After hearing Almanbet's pledge,
Chuwak felt free from anxiety,
Urged his steed,
Rushed to the enemies lightly.

When Niskara saw Chuwak,
His face turned with great fury.
He held the spear aggressively,
It seemed he wanted to swallow Chuwak.

Chuwak waved the spear and rushed ahead,
Poked his spear out and wanted to win at once.
This guy did not show his weakness,
Came head-on like a rutting camel.

Akberita's son Chuwak,
Was not a reckless man,
Facing ferocious Niskara,
He did not feel surprised at all.

He was full of energy and of healthy look,
Angry sparks slashed out of his eyes,
Owned the power to destroy everything.
He was on the alert as facing the enemy,
He had been full of confidence to defeat the enemy.

He had cutlass nose and deep eyes,
Wide forehead and tall figure,
Went on expeditions whole of his life,
Anything alive could not make him scared.

He urged his Koktikai steed,

Blue spear waved in his hand,
Koktikai moved its huge hooves forward,
Kicked dust up into the sky.

Powerful lion Chuwak,
His vigor pressed over Niskara.
He warded the rival's spear off,
Poked the enemy off the steed.

Before he could turn the steed round,
Karamark Wushan had rushed in front of him.
Wushan attacked from the right,
He leaned to the left,
The spear missed the target and the steed dashed far ahead.

Before Wushan turned himself round,
Chuwak shouted the name "Manas" loudly.
Aimed at the right shoulder of Wushan,
Poked his spear out severely.
Wushan fell off the horseback miserably,
Quivered all over like a ball of straw.

There was a very ferocious hero called Tonkonai,
He was from Kangayi.
He and giant Duodur were relatives of the same clan,
He always said like this:
"Niskara has power in his hand,
Actually I am braver than him."

This guy dashed ahead,
Poked brave hero Chuwak,
Off the steed in one poke.

Chuwak supported himself on the earth with his hands,
The helmet fell on the ground.
When he picked his helmet up,
A deadly arrow came,

Broken bones stuck between the eyebrows.
Hero Chuwak staggered,
Leaned backward and fell flat on his back.

Tonkonai urged his steed and came as seeing this,
He whipped and urged his steed forward.
Hero Almanbet was burning with fury,
A sharp arrow is fixed on the bow,
Another arrow was bit in his mouth.

"We can not let enemies cut the hero's head off."
Almanbet aimed at Tonkonai,
Shot the angry arrow.

Anyone shot by Almanbet would not be alive,
Enenmies got shot would never stand up again.
Like collapsed mountains,
Tonkonai fell off his steed,
Did not move at all with face down to the earth.

If Almanbet did not consider Chuwak,
Did not shot Tonkonai first,
But decided on the moment to aim at Shipshaydar,
He can kill that guy immediately.

In this abominable world,
Who could master his fate,
Everything was destined,
Common people could not change it.

Almanbet urged his Sariala steed,
Galloped ahead hurriedly,
Before he got there,
Kunwuer Bayi arrived before him.

Chuwak's Koktikai steed,
Turned round and covered the body of the hero,

The sabre Kunwuer Bayi slashed,
Did not get Chuwak,
But cut Koktikai steed's neck off.
This lively and magical steed,
Sacrificed itself and kept the hero's body complete.

Almanbet rushed up,
Poked intoxicated Kunwuer Bayi off,
Took Alekala and returned immediately.
In order to keep his promise,
Bent over and stretched out his hands,
Seized Chuwak's belt,
Picked him up onto the horseback,
Was ready to turn the steed round and return.

Right at this critical moment,
The steed did not get tired even ran six months,
Did not show a little tiredness,
Running on rocks was as easily as on firm earth,
It seemed to have connected with Almanbet,
But it got tired,
And striped and fell on its knees.

The hero's helmet,
Skidded to one side of his head.
Almanbet grasped the helmet with his hand,
Straightened the helmet on the head.

In a blink of an eye,
The sharp arrow Shipshaydar shot out,
Went in from one side of his temple,
And out from the other side of his temple.

Almanbet bore the sharp pain,
Put Chuwak's corpse on the horseback,
Urged their steeds ahead as flying.
Blood on the head was running,

Down on Chuwak's body,
Soaked hero Chuwak's clothes.

Almanbet arrived at the camp,
Said in weak voice:
"Brave uncle Bakay,
Please take my halter.

"Where is my bosom friend Sirak?
Please come to me now,
Please take the corpse of Chuwak,
Hand the spear to me in my right hand as a cane,
Take my left hand and help me into the camp.

"It seems my life is going to end,
I cannot live in this world any more.
Where is my brother Ayikoler?
Please call him in and I need talk to him."

Got the news from the messenger,
The lion came in a hurry,
Embraced his bosom brother tight.

Almanbet opened his eyes,
Blood on his temples continued running.
He stretched his hands out to Ayikoler slowly,
Said in feeble voice:
"From the black hill of Kangayi,
Went around Kakan,
Who climbed over the mountains in the history?
Who walked through these places?

"Only Wuludastan once climbed over,
He did not accomplish his mission,
He had to give up and return to the homeland.

"Amirtimir is a Khan of wisdom,

In this world,
He is unique and matchless.
In this Begin city,
He spends rest of his life.

"Yiskandir did not leave any hoofprints,
No one occupied this place from ancient times.
Ancestors in ancient times
Called this place 'Koykap mountain',
Said ferocious demons lived here,
No one dare approach it.
Sacred sage Aler had never come,
Human beings dare not come here.

"In order to resist Kunwuer's invading,
I came here and lit the flames of battle,
You came and followed me tight.
We found Kopkay's house,
Then you occupied Begin city.

"It is not made-up but all truth,
Your achievement which is a new chapter of the history,
Will be praised forever.

"You went over mountains,
Crossed rivers,
You defeated numerous powerful enemies,
Showed your strength in this sacred place.

"Lands of sixty cities,
Now you are their Khan,
You get the blooming gardens,
Get beautiful girls.
Though you do not share the same belief with them,
They are really a state of etiquette.

"All these disputes,

Will not end like this,
It will spread in the future.

"All that you have done,
Will be spread and praised,
One person's action will influence thousands of people,
All your movements will be judged by common people.

"Where are you, Ayikoler Manas?
Please listen to me carefully.
If you do not do as what I tell you,
Maybe there will be no single Arashi,
Can arrive in the homeland Taras safely.
Do not say your soldiers,
Even you cannot keep yourself alive.

"Please listen to me carefully, my king,
You need seize time and work out a way,
Try to kill all the powerful enemies.
You take Acketilty firelock along with you,
Please hold it in the hand right now,
Pledge and pray and then load the powder.

"When the sun comes out,
You watch the movements with your telescope.
Kangayi people surged like flood,
They will be more ferocious tomorrow than today.

"They will transform into twelve formations,
After the watching and analyzing for some time,
You will see the figure of Shipshaydar.

"Anger is the demon, reason is the friend,
You can succeed when the reason becomes the wisdom.

"At one side of enemy camp,
A pile of bonfire was burning,

Enemy soldiers seven at most three at least,
Will guard the bonfire.

"Among these soldiers,
All kinds of weapons were on them.
Smoke and mist raised,
Detailed information cannot be seen clearly.

"Please adjust the front sight of your firelock,
Wipe your eyes sharp and do not make mistake,
Then aim at the target carefully,
Shoot the bullet into the enemy camp.

"Wish all bullets you shoot out,
Can get enemies.
If you shoot Shipshaydar to death,
You need make clearly one sign:
Enemies will be in great panic,
Flee for their lives like clouds.

"If you do not shoot Shipshaydar to death,
Enemies as dense as bull hair,
Will besiege you like flood.
It means Shipshaydar is dead if enemies flee,
It means Kirgiz will have disaster if enemies charge.

"If they part to all directions,
You just shout the name 'Manas' loudly and attack.
Lion Manas, giant Bakay and Erchywuler,
You three should stay in the camp,
All others turn out to beat enemies back.

"Except this,
My hero Sirak,
I have something to tell you.
You urge your Tilkzler steed,
Must chase enemies regardless of your safety,

Your sabre will be stained with blood.

"Please listen to me carefully,
Keep firmly my words in your mind.
The rolling Karato mountain in the front,
It is zigzag gullies at its back,
Careless people go there,
He must break waist.

"Huge number of Ketay live there,
They reproduce from generation to generation,
They move toward prosperity gradually.
Since Karamark invaded,
Karamark occupied there by force.
Khan Kunwuer was born there,
He is farsighted and prudent.

"He is likely to pretend to flee,
Tie his mount aside,
But he ambushes by the road side.
Loads the firelock with bullets,
Try to intercept you on the way.

"You need take care of yourself, my lion,
Do not fall into their trap.
You cannot climb over that ridge,
Do not pass that line even a step.

"All others return to Taras,
Do everything possible to,
Make Ayikoler Manas recover to health.

"Hero Sirk, listen to me,
You are Sirak's brother,
If there is no affection to take care of each other,
How you are qualified to have brothers.

"You should accompany Sirak by his side,
Concentrate on watching all directions.
The sin will never bring wisdom,
The information of the death will never come in advance.

"If your brother,
Is going to chase Kunwuer Bayi,
You should be more careful,
Take care of each other and march ahead together.

"If you hear the sound of the firelock,
You should run by his side as soon as possible.
Sirak must have been shot,
Fall off on the ground like a hat.
You need carry him onto Tilkzler steed,
You should take care of his corpse carefully.

"Kunwuer Bayi must be frightened,
He will ride on Alekala steed and run away.
You can shout the name 'Manas' loudly,
Chase after him tight.

"The enemy headman led his troops,
Will flee for his life desperately,
He simply runs forward without looking back.
When he runs down the slope of the other side,
You must pull the halter of your steed.

"When you shout and march ahead,
Tilkzler was right passing the mountain:
Kunwuer Bayi will feel blurred in panic,
He will think you, Sirk have been dead;
And think Sirak is still fighting,
'If I do not seize the time to flee,
My head will leave me forever.'

"They will pass this news down to everyone,

It will make them worried and scared.
Kangayi troops will lose their confidence in battle,
It will be impossible for them to launch attacks again.

"My eagle Manas,
You cross mountains and rivers,
You will meet more dangers on your way.

"You'd better go forward along Titersu river,
If the steed gets exhausted and cannot move a step,
You just bury Muzburchak's corpse in the mountain.
You divide the troops into several groups and march ahead,
Give my corpse to Bozwuler to escort,
And warn him the following things.

"When he gets to the first snow peak,
Hang my bag on the cliff,
With this apparent sign,
He can bury my corpse in a secret place,
Do not let anyone know the place where I am buried.

"Give Sirak's corpse to Sirk to escort,
Do not need to climb over the towering mountain,
Just bury him at any place,
In order to find him easily in the wilderness,
Make a sign there and remember it clearly.

"Give Chuwak's corpse to Erchywuler to escort,
It is better to let Ackura carry him,
It will suffer hardships and bitterness.
As long as you seize the time and go day and night,
He can meet with Kanikai.

"If only the fate reverses,
Let you recover to health.
Such thing only can happen by accident,
Please keep these words in mind.

"If you cannot get there on time,
Your neck will rot,
Your heart will stop beating."

Almanbet warned slowly,
He stopped talking from time to time,
It seemed his life would end soon.
A pair of eyes as bright as glass,
Flashed the attachment to the life,
Tears glistened in eyes,
His voice choked and quivered gently:

"After I leave this world,
Please keep quiet and do not be sad.
'Almanbet has died.'
Kara Ketay will get the oral message immediately.
Ketay who came to fight are formed with a hundred tribes,
They will turn out and make a general attack.
If they scatter you and destroy you one by one,
You can only be captured without putting up a fight,
It will be a dream to return to Taras.

"Ayikoler Manas, giant Bakay,
Please take the short sword on my waist off,
Carry it along with you all the time,
Give it to my offspring in the future,
Gulistan, who stays in the rear area.

"Showtu reported to me my son once,
The baby have not seen his father yet,
Have not tasted the sweet love of his father…"

He stopped saying at the moment,
And his head leaned to one side slowly.

Almanbet sat upright on the horseback,
Held his last gasp,

Then exhaled slowly and relaxed himself.
A gust of smoke blew out his mouth,
Almanbet shrank his body suddenly.

Clouds covered the sky in an instant,
The sun lost its light,
The day turned into the night,
The world was blurred.
Life expectancy had done,
Almanbet left all his heroes.

Ayikoler Manas bore his sadness,
Helped the hero off the yellow steed.
The grief of losing his companion,
Made his face sallow and sullen.

Gold belt made of pure gold,
Tied tight in the waist.
Moonlight face lost its light,
Four finger-thick yellow hair was dense on his cheeks.

The burden heavier than the mountains,
Pressed on the head of the black mane wolf heavily.
Did not know how much time had passed,
"The dawn" Manas waited finally came.

Hero lion Manas,
Held Ackelty firelock in the hand,
Took the bullets out from bags.
The hero stretched his hand hurriedly to the powder cask,
But in the evil cask,
There was no bullet for one more shot.
Manas was burning with anxiety,
Considered the firelock as a living person,
He talked to it:

"You are my beloved Ackelty firelock,

As long as you are in my hand,
I am full of confidence,
I will wipe out all the invading enemies.

"Your gunpowder and bullets,
Your shining gun barrel,
Your trigger and front sight,
If I do not put my whole heart,
Into aiming the horrible enemies,
How I can let my late relatives and friends down.

"If it is really like this, Ackelty firelock,
Then let the blue sky punish me,
Let the wilderness full of weeds punish me.

"If you are afraid of enemies in front of you,
The bullets missed the target and went forward,
Ackelty firelock, it is your fault.

"If you do not work at the critical moment,
My beloved Ackelty firelock,
Let hot Gobi desert punish you,
Let the silent lake punish you.

"I will throw you in Gobi desert,
Let you rust and rot and lose all your functions,
Disappear completely from this world.
"If you cannot get the target,
I will throw you into the lake as scrap iron.
I will throw the fuse in the corner and let mice eat it all.

"If I pull the trigger,
You do not hit the target enemy,
If I cannot keep my promise,
I just enjoy undeserved fame of Manas.

"If with a deafeningly loud sound,

The bullet is shot and a cloud of smoke follows,
You do not shoot Shipshaydar to death,
It will damage the good reputation of Ackelty firelock.

"If you cannot hit the target,
Make me extremely desperate,
Make me have no face to wear the helmet and armor again,
It is better to let the elder Bakay who made you,
Go to die together with you!

"Almanbet told about his last wish,
Let me fight enemies with Ackelty firelock.
I always address him Sultan respectfully,
He is knowledgeable and highly skilled,
He knew everything from ancient times to now."

Lion Manas said to the firelock these words,
Then lifted the telescope hanging on his chest:
"The eternal hero warned me,
The lion of wide shoulders and chests expected.
From the six-day journey distance,
To watch enemies in the battle.

"You are the telescope Momenjan presented,
In every battle,
I cannot leave your bright eyes.
I will use you to watch carefully,
According to Almanbet's warning,
Lock the target in my sight.

"If I do not aim the target,
I will resign myself to destiny;
If I cannot pierce the clouds,
Make the target show clearly,
Then you need to take the guilt."

Hero Ayikoler Manas,

Took an oath with Ackelty firelock and the telescope.
Before the bullets were loaded,
Clenched the teeth and made the oath.

Held the telescope in the hand,
Paced up and down.
Adjusted the telescope and cleaned it,
Aimed at Kangayi.
Hero lion Manas,
Faced the dark enemy camp,
Watched the movements of enemies carefully.

Kakan soldiers as many as sand in Hen river,
Divided into twelve columns to march forward.
A gully opened in the middle,
High peaks appeared on both sides.

Red showed for a while,
Then black appeared;
It turned into blue for a while,
Suddenly it became white;
Then it turned into yellow,
Like rolling wild wind,
Swayed left and right and raised up.

The formation changed to different colors,
Raising dust covered the sky.
Kakan people were ready to meet the challenge,
Soldiers used twelve weapons,
Divided into twelve formations.
The troops were in good order,
Parted and joined like clouds moved.

Watched toward the farther place,
On the edge of the troops,
Five people gathered and sat on the ground,
A pile of bonfire burned in the center,

Firelocks and bullets were by the bonfire.

If what Almanbet said was right,
Shipshaydar must be among these five people.
"Which one is Shipshaydar?"
The lion observed and searched carefully,
One person among those five looked very special.

Like mercury flowed on level ground,
He suddenly turned into long strip,
Then turned into a ball and continued rolling,
He was elusive and changeable,
Glittered and flashed under the sun.

Manas put the telescope into his pocket,
Lifted Ackelty firelock and aimed.
He recalled Almanbet's warning,
Hid himself behind a rock,
Stretched the front sight of Ackelty out.
He shaded his eyes because of the reflection of light,
Smeared a layer of mud on the front sight.

He concentrated on aiming,
Five enemies around the bonfire,
Right touched the front sight.
He aimed carefully,
Locked the target in the front sight.
Put the gunstock against his shoulder,
Grasped the stock and pulled the fuse out gently.

Fire broke out from Ackelty firelock,
It made a red flash,
Over the head of black mane wolf Manas,
Five enemy headmen sat together,
And were blasted off into air immediately.

Before the smoke of gunpowder dispersed,

The spot was surrounded with soldiers.
Right at this critical moment,
Lion Sirak urged his steed forward,
"Arashi people, why are you still waiting?"
He shouted and dashed ahead.

Warriors came to themselves suddenly,
Followed Sirak and began the attack.
Tilkzler steed conserved its energy,
Pranced ahead bravely;
Prestigious hero Sirak,
The shouting of "Manas, Manas!" was continuous.

Heard the earthshaking shouting,
Kangayi soldiers were scared out of their wits,
Put their heads together and discussed:
"When Chuwak was shot to death,
We jumped for joy.
Almanbet returned with injury,
Once we believed firmly,
He would die soon.

"Did Chuwak pretend to be dead at that moment?
Almanbet put him on the horseback.
Before they shoot Shipshaydar to death,
Is this their trick to deceive us?

"Does hero Sirak,
Rush into the battlefield alone?
And let them rest and heal their wounds?
Who can defeat Brute people?
Sirak is like a demon,
He is armed to the teeth with arrogant manner.

"Chuwak will come and fight after him,
Who can go and fight against him?
Then Almanbet will go to the battle,

Who can go and compete against him?

"In yesterday's battle,
Sirk showed his power.
Since Shipshaydar came here,
We got some peace for a short while."

Karamark stayed in the battlefield,
Troops led by forty warriors,
Had fled away desperately.

Right at this moment,
Hero Sirak launched an attack from the flank.
Muradiler could not control the situation,
Led his troops and fled away hurriedly.

Took a look at black mane wolf Sirak,
His cool face was like falling full of ice,
Much ice was on his beard.
On his cheeks,
Hair which stood up was like dense spears.

As remembering Almanbet, Chuwak,
The grief in the heart could not be controlled,
Eyes were filled with tears,
Flames of hatred were burning in the chest.

Tilkzler steed under him,
Met cliff in the front,
Jumped over it easily;
Faced rows of gullies,
It leaped over easily without obstacle;
No matter went up the slope or down the slope,
There was no influence to its speed.

Warriors who stood aside watched carefully,
The steed was the same as its master.

No matter who saw Sirak's heroic bearing,
He would be frightened out of his wits;
A person, a fairy, or a demon,
People could not imagine about this.

Kunwuer Bayi was unable to resist,
He waved the flag and commanded the troops,
Fled toward Begin city in panic.
No one dare look back,
Kakan people fled desperately,
Did not consider the safety of their fellows,
Ran all the way to dodge the spears.

Hero lion Sirak,
Showed his power like a tiger,
Enemy generals met with him,
All failed to escape from his hands.

He waved his Zhoybolot sword,
Slashed left and right ferociously.
As long as someone ran across him,
He must die beside the road.

Continued chasing after he got to the sloping fields,
Forty to fifty enemies,
Were all killed by him at one time.
Kunwuer Bayi who ran in the front,
Finally met with Sirak.
Opened eyes blinked,
Two legs were quivering:
"I beg for the god's blessing,
Do not let me fall in Sirak's hands.

"I must be caught if I run upward,
He will cut my head off;
I will be caught if I run downward,
He will seize my collar,

He will drag me to death in the battlefield.

"I need flee along the slope,
If I still cannot escape in that way,
I have to leave Alekala steed,
Hide among rocks,
Use the deadly Ochokor firelock,
To take the life of arrogant Sirak away."

Cunning Kunwuer Bayi planned carefully,
Galloped ahead around the zigzag mountain path,
He disappeared and showed up from time to time,
Fled not far ahead.

When he entered the col of black mountain,
His feet left the stirrups,
Grasped the halter tight in the hand,
Led the steed and walked on the hill,
Take shelter from the wind in a level ground,
Put up the firelock and aimed at the chaser.

Careless hero Sirak,
Had forgotten what Almanbet warned,
In a far distance;
Seeing the figure of the black spotted steed,
How could he remember the coming death?

"The Bastard left Alekala steed,
But he himself has disappeared."
Sirak thought in a simple way,
He dashed ahead regardless of his safety.

When he was going to pull the halter,
Well-prepared Kunwuer Bayi,
Aimed at Sirak and pulled the trigger.
Did not capture Alekala steed,
Hero Sirak lost his life instead.

Kunwuer Bayi ran ahead with staggering steps,
Drew the sword out of the sheath,
He was ready to cut the eagle's head off.
Right at this critical moment,
Hero Sirk rushed down the hill,
With earthshaking shouting.

Sirk's deafening voice,
Made Kunwuer Bayi feel puzzled:
"Ride on the same iron-color steed,
Yellow face, blue eyes,
They are really brothers.
Is the dead one Sirk?
Is the one coming now hero Sirak?"

Kunwuer Bayi dare not think more,
Did not have time to cut the hero's head off,
Did not turn round and look either,
Just jumped on the back of his steed,
Along the winding valley,
Fled and disappeared right away.

The edges of the clothes waved with wind
Like whipping the butts of the steed.

Sirk came by the side of Sirak,
Tears gushed forth in floods,
Almanbet's warning,
Was printed clearly in Sirk's mind.

He put Sirak's corpse,
On the back of Tilkzler;
Held the halter of the steed,
And went to look for Kunwuer Bayi.

Kunwuer Bayi ran out of the valley,
Composed himself and thought over and over:

"If it is Sirk who came,
He must carry the corpse and return.

"If I go after him,
I must find him behind the mountain,
Sirk and Manas,
Might both be killed by me."

When he felt confused,
Rode on the iron-color steed,
Led the other iron-color steed,
Two brace steeds,
With hurried hoof sound.

"It actually is Sirak who comes,
There is no bullet left.
I am exhausted,
I have no energy to fight against Sirak any more.

"His body cannot be pierced with spear,
His body cannot be cut with sabre,
His body cannot be hurt with battleax,
Not only me,
Even Bolanchu is not in his eyes."

Kunwuer Bayi thought over and over,
Urged his Alekala steed and fled,
Wide Brum leather pants,
Swayed on both sides of the steed.

He shouted continuously as meeting his attendants:
"Do not look back,
Scatter and do not stay together,
Try to run back to Begin city,
Close the city gate and keep you all alive."

Giant Kunwuer Bayi took the lead,

Karamark and Ketay soldiers,
Fled for their lives in a panic.
Numerous generals and soldiers,
Did not dare to fight against Sirk.
The lion's younger brother Sirk showed his power,
Drove powerful enemies away;
Captured more than one thousand horses,
Drove the horse flock back to his camp.

Aisanhan lost his power of a Khan,
Kakan people fled in two groups;
Kara Ketay and Karamark,
Were divided into two groups and marched toward two Yingan;
Famous forty warriors,
Left Kunwuer Bayi and went forward by themselves.

Let us put this aside,
Talk about lion Ayikoler Manas,
His miserable life in his latest hour.

Hero Manas Bade Farewell to the World

"Almanbet, Chuwak died too early,
Sirk, Sirak disappear,
I need urge the steed,
Go to look for them carefully."
The lion led Ackura steed,
He was ready to start off.

Drove more than a thousand horses,
Carried the corpse of Sirak,
Hero Sirk returned to the camp,
Mournful crying shook the universe.
People carried Sirak's corpse off the steed,
They were all extremely sorrowful.

When the next morning came,
Manas asked to count the number of rest troops.
Almanbet's troops were given to Bozwuler to lead,
Chuwak's troops were leading by Erchywuler,
Jargurp's were leading by Sirk,
Bakay's soldiers were divided into those groups.

Warriors and soldiers were divided up,
Lions walked to the eternal life,
Their corpses with their steeds were arranged together.

The troops started off from the east slowly,
Marched to the west.
The troops echoed from afar,

They checked every three days and delivered the news.

Manas cleared the way in the front with the injury,
Ackura dragged the sleigh forward slowly,
It was Tazbaymart who drove the steed,
Muzburchak's corpse,
Was carried on the steed and went together with troops.

After several days' journey,
Manas lay on the sleigh and thought:
"The earth turns warm again,
It is the time of spring,
Why cannot I smell anything sweet of spring?
Take the cover away immediately,
I want to see the scenery here."

Tazbaymart called Ackura to stop,
Took the cover on the face of Manas away gently.
Sixteen days had passed,
But Manas held back and did not go to pee.

When it was the time to pee,
The lion opened his blurred eyes,
Looked around and spoke with deep emotion:
"Hey, hey, Bakay, my Khan,
Are you dim-sighted because of your old age?
Part with numerous heroes and fall into misery,
Are you losing your sense?
Are you exhausted and have no memory?

"Go around from the flank of Turpan,
Go through Hami town,
Go over the ridge of Balikun,
Go forward along Yili river,
We should have arrived at our hometown and seen our families.

"But we waded across Kumarik river valley,

Waded across Titersu river,
Went around Barita mountain,
We seek far and neglect what lies close at hand,
To cross Gobi sebkha of Chylan.

"Will I die before I return to the homeland?
Cannot I see beautiful Taras any more?
Cannot I kill my only son any more?
Do I die in such despair?

"Urge the steed and turn the troops round,
Face the west, direct the north on the right,
Go upward along Titersu river."

The troops went forward along Titersu river,
Manas ordered to pitch the camps and rest on the way.
That place is still there today,
It is called Jilkchydoby peak.

Manas ordered the troops to rest,
Put up the pots and prepared the meal.
Sent soldiers to look around the prairie,
Searched for the herdsmen and fat herds.

Traded three steeds for a fat sheep,
Made herdsmen happy and satisfied.
One herdsman gave them two fat sheep,
In the time of less than smoking a pipe,
Hero Manas,
Made the herdsman become the master of six steeds.

Next morning,
Hero Manas sat on a rock,
Pulled the cover on his face off,
Called Erchywuler, Bozwuler and Sirk,
By his side and asked them to sit:
"Famous noble heroes,

Many of our generals have sacrificed their lives.
We only have not many heroes left,
We are just like a small hill in their eyes.

"The north is right on our right,
The towering snow mountain in the front,
Is Kermeto with endless rising peaks,
Tianshan Mountain is piercing into the sky.
Those zigzag places are all cols,
We can see Yisek lake as long as we climb over the peaks.

"Almanbet's troops need climb over Ayiri mountain,
All need obey Bozwuler's order.
It is a far and dangerous distance,
Take Almanbet's bag as a souvenir,
Hang it on the cliff and let others not approach.

"Almanbet's corpse,
Should be buried in a place in mountain nobody knows.
You can go forward along Yisek lake,
Finally return to Taras palace.

"Chuwak's troops will be led by Erchywuler,
Chuwak's corpse,
Is better to be buried in a secret place.
You go along Jetoguz hill at upper reaches of Yisek lake,
Go straight ahead and do not make a detour,
Return to Taras safely.

"Sirak's troops go along the river bank,
Because of the long distance journey,
Tilkzler steed will have sores all over its back,
It cannot go a step with the pain.

"You need cut a hole in the rock,
Put Tilkzler's head, beautiful tail and long mane,
Together with its master Sirak in the cave.

Pile pebbles as a mark at the foot of the mountain.
You are his brother,
You should show most sincere respect to him.

"One more thing I need explain,
I need warn all generals and soldiers,
You should be strict in discipline on the way.
Do not butcher any livestock,
And disturb people on the way,
Only for a meal.
If anyone breaks the discipline,
He must be punished severely later.

"Bakay should stay with me,
Kergelchal also stays and drives horses.
We have arrived in our territory,
We must urge our steeds and rush ahead.
If the death slows its paces,
We should look for Kanikai as soon as possible."

The lion said to everyone like this,
Then said goodbye to generals one by one and started off.
The rock he was sitting on at the moment,
Was named as "Jayata①" by later generations.

Almanbet's troops led by Bozwuler,
Climbed over Ayiri mountain.
On a cliff in the front of the mountain,
Almanbet's bag was hanging high there.

Not long after it,
Ayiri became a Mazar and was worshiped by later generations.
"Almanbet's bag rock",
The name of that place keeps using till now.

① Jayata: Kirgiz language, "Jay" means a place, "Ata" means father. It means the rock or the place once father sat.

Chuwak's troops led by Erchywuler,
Climbed over Zendany ridge.
Chuwak's noble corpse,
The exact place where he was buried,
No one knew and it has been an eternal mystery.

Sirk marched ahead along Titersu river,
Climbed over Tishikchap ridge.
Hero Sirak's corpse,
Slept eternally under Titersu riverbank.

Rocks piled like a mountain by generals and soldiers,
Became a place people came to worship Sirak.
The legend went down among people for thousand years,
Piled-rocks graveyard was right beside the river,
It was the symbol of Sirak's grave,
It handed down to generations.

Once people witnessed,
A huge rock exactly like a horse head was in the mountain.
A lot of people then deduced according to this,
It was transformed by Tilkzler steed's head.
The legend relevant to it,
Handed down to generations from then on.

Lion Ayikoler Manas,
Was painfully sad.
Along the rolling mountains,
He went forward along the riverbank.

Muzburchak's corpse,
Was on the back of Ackura steed.
The steed was exhausted in the long journey,
Cut a cave in the rock,
The cliff was dry since ancient times,
A spring began to splash from then on.

A black mane wolf lay there,
Then the place got a name of "Kokunshik[1]".
For graves of Muzburchak and Chuwak,
There were too many opinions;
The legend of "Kokunshik Mazar",
Passed down to generations till now.

Troops went past Wushturfan,
Through Malaltohey forest.
Steeds hoof prints left on Kuntibes grassland,
Then went forward along broad valley floor.

Ayikoler went forward slowly,
There were a few attendants by his side.
By the side of Karasu river of Bulitu,
He pulled the halter and let the steed drink.

Climbed over Keliboto mountain ridge,
Went across Karikela and Chalka,
Along vast sebkha flat,
Toward the direction of Dunjidai,
Urged the steed with loud clops.

One afternoon,
A spring jumped into the hero's sight,
Generals all dismounted and rested,
Put up the stoves and cooking smoke raised up.
People drank, ate naan and dates,
Left dense date nuts by the side of the spring.

During the hard journey,
Tazbaymart urged his steed ahead day and night,
He was groggy because of the tiredness,
He did not tie the bag full of dates tight,
Dates in the bag scattered everywhere,

1 Kokunshik: Kirgiz language, the name of a place.

A wood of date trees grew in Gobi desert and by the spring,
The good name of Chylan① mountain,
Passed down from then on.

Went through Saritikan and Tiz,
Across Tigermiet and Gaiz,
A lot of Gobi deserts were between them.
Paths there were dangerously steep and zigzag,
A lot were Gobi deserts and a few were sebkha lands.
It was rolling Mayidan and Tirik,
The sand land was dry with few rains and had no animals.

Ayikoler went all the way forward,
In a valley of Chakmark mountain,
He met hero Toshtuk.

The place was called "Jelinenkeru",
There was towering mountain in its upper reaches,
Green pasture spread to all directions,
It was the best place to have games of catching sheep and horserace.

There was a hill right in the center of the pasture,
Toshtuk always sat on the hill.
The famous hill,
Left a name "Toyundoby hill②" and passed down.

Karmatikai, Chontoyun,
Suyuek and Chakmark were four beautiful valley lands,
As beautiful as a painting.
White yurts lined neatly,
People there lived happily and peacefully.

Toshtuk was a powerful general to guard the land,

① Chylan: Kirgiz language, it means date. Chylan mountain, now is in Halajun town of Atushi city. There are dense date trees on the mountain.

② Toyundoby hill, Chakmark hill, Suyuek hill are all in Wusha county of Kizil-su Kirgiz Autonomous prefecture.

Even mouse could not steal a grain from his hand.
Lion Ayikoler parted with him not long ago,
But specially made a detour to his place.
It was still a half-day distance to the camp,
The news of hero Manas was coming,
Made Toshtuk overjoy.

"Ayikoler Manas is coming to visit us."
Giant Toshtuk got the good news,
He sent attendants to set out immediately,
To go everywhere in the Ayinla.

Invited venerable people,
White-beard old people,
Knowledgeable sages,
Gathered them all and discussed how to welcome Manas.

Youths began the game of catching sheep,
Teenagers arranged the agenda of colt race.
People found yellow goat kid,
Held a grand Sadaha exorcising ceremony.

Gleaming silver, glittering gold,
Was thrown to the crowd to bless the safety of Manas.

The hero was helped off his steed carefully,
Was led into broad yurt.
Treated with delicious lamb to a dinner on his arriving,
To next noon,
Fresh baby camel meat was treated to respected guests.

In order to show the admiration to Manas,
They butchered mares to treat guests everyday.
In order to see the appearance of Manas,
Common people crowded to come and salute.

Madam Kanjekai was busy with everything,

Spread tablecloth to treat noble guests.
All kinds of foods were full on the tablecloth,
The strong tea smelled really good.

Sugar and honey were put on the tablecloth,
Cubic sugar and naan were in rich patterns,
Horse milk was glittering in big bowls,
Horse intestines and horse necks were abundant,
Fresh butter was attractive.

Sausages were cut in pieces,
Good wine added to the fun to generals and soldiers.
Whether young or older,
Winebowls were raised as a rule.

Exqume and Maksem,
Refreshed to drink and cooled heart.
Toshtuk was in his prime time,
Horse milk was running like rivers,
Good wine was as clear as lakes.

Excellent cuisine was beyond count,
It was the good fortune the heaven bestowed them.
Yurts put up as the camp,
Were right six hundred in number.

Ayikoler Manas was fully satisfied,
Said to Toshtuk like this:
"My respectable giant Toshtuk,
Is there an eagle on your frame?
Is there an eagle on your arm?
Are there fine steeds in your stable?
Is cuckoo singing in the tree?

"With the eagle jumping on your arm,
With the beautiful singing of larks,
You will be in a happy mood,

With full of energy."

Hearing what Manas said,
Toshtuk responded in this way:
"The lion, please listen carefully,
There is no eagle on my frame,
There is no eagle on my arm,
There are no steeds in my stable,
There are no singing larks outside my door.

"I have no well trained steeds,
Have no singing nightingale,
You brought out my regret,
Make me ashamed and worried.

"Years roll on,
The world turns ceaselessly,
The false world is like this,
It is destined in my life.

"I have no concubine except my wife Kanjekai,
She suffered from habitual abortion miserably,
But it is not her fault.

"I have no eagle on the frame,
I have no heir to inherit my property,
I even have no daughter,
I feel hurt every time I thought about this.

"My heart and liver are like a live charcoal,
No matter how I suffered,
My wish and prayer of having an offspring,
Wumai goddess never makes it happened."

Hearing Toshtuk's complaints,
Ayikoler warned Tazbaymart:
"Tazbaymart, come here quickly,

Please move my Ackelty firelock.

"Search carefully in the bullet bag,
Gather all gunpowder together,
Even the incomplete bullets are ok,
You take all to me as long as it is a bullet."

Baymart searched carefully,
There was enough gunpowder but bullets were incomplete.
"Come on, Baymart,
Put the incomplete bullets in the shovel,
Heat it and melt it in the fire."

Broken bullets melted in the fire,
Then poured out and cast again,
Broken bullets melted into crystal clear liquid,
Complete bullets were made immediately.

"Respected Kanjekai Ayasi,
Please hide the bullets and eat the gunpowder.
In order to bear a healthy baby in the future,
Please sign an agreement with me.
Magical Ackelty gunpowder,
Please let Kanjekai get pregnant soon.
Broken bullets have been rebuilt,
I wish they bring you a baby boy.

"Protect common people with his blessings,
Khan Koshaoyi blessed Kanikai,
It was right in an afternoon.
Times roll on ceaselessly,
My mother Qierdy,
Used this way to bear me.
After Kanikai taking it,
Semtaiy was born soon after that.

"If you get pregnant this summer,

Maybe the miracle will appear.
You act according to the previous rules,
You must give birth to a boy."

Hearing what Ayikoler said,
Kanjekai felt comfortable and excited,
Like she had been pregnant,
And had given birth to a healthy boy.

Everything the ancient people did,
Had its magical function.
"If you bear a boy,
Just name him Geodarbeshim①."
It was the name lion Manas gave the boy.

Ten years passed,
Kanjekai finally got pregnant and bore a boy,
Geodarbeshim was born solemnly.
The magical story,
Passed down generations to generations.

These stories handed down from ancient times,
Folk artisans of retentive memory,
Told stories repeatedly and engraved them on people's minds.

Frank black mane wolf,
Told his last wish personally,
Which was carved in people's hearts,
Passed down till today.

My fellow men, please remember,
It is not fabricated casually,
It is not make-up lies.
The ceremony related to pray for a son,
Ayikoler did them all strictly.

① Geodarbeshim: Kirgiz folk epic Hero Toshtuk and Edarbeshim named after Toshtuk and his son have published in Kirgiz language.

The hero heavier than a mountain,
Told Toshtuk his last wish:
"Before I was born,
My father Jagurp lived by Buruleto sea;
Your father Khan Elaman,
Stationed in Kebetao mountain.

"In its north and south,
There are rolling mountains.
You were born in Kashgar,
I came to this world in Altay.

"Since I was young,
You had become well known far and wide.
I went on a long journey and asked about,
Came to your Ayinla to see you specially.

"Sage Koshaoyi is old,
His wisdom and brain are not good as before.
After seeing his son Chuwak off,
Akberita has pinned away dreadfully.

"Even if they say wise words,
How many people can still accept their opinion?
Garmgirchy is a well-known hero in the world,
When he gets his later years,
My two cousins Abukai and Kobosh,
Must treat him coldly and not listen to him.

"Though Bakay is a Khan,
Heroes Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
Left this human world gradually,
He will be made a mere figurehead.

"Tirkechy and Shihay are not reliable,
Especially Shihay's two sons,
Bastards Chinkogeo, Chabak,

They cherish evil designs.

"Ageshi, Yurbi, Kerkokuler,
You master their more comprehensive information.
Once they contended for supremacy against me,
They sent messengers to arrange to see you,
But you blamed and drove them away.

"Beauties Nakelai and Karaboruk,
Were the war trophies I captured.
But I did not know at all,
Kulitan and Shawruk,
Kandir Bayi and Duohan,
Had already had the engagement before that.

"I did not make the mistake on purpose,
Did not have evil intents toward them,
Did not break their engagement on purpose.

"I have been injured severely,
The wounds are inflaming and aching.
I have been dragged tight by the death,
The plot Kunwuer Bayi made,
Might come true in the near future.

"If I really go to die,
You need start off immediately and go day and night,
Preside over the funeral personally,
Bury my corpse carefully.

"Please make full preparation,
All people who help clean my body,
Must be presented with my fifteen clothes.
Let Bakay wash my head in person,
All my fellow men should participate in it.

"My steed should be saddled and wait,

My eternal friend,
Kezil Aristan Moldo,
Let him chant for me.

"Prepare ninety steeds as gifts,
I need pure light grey steeds.
'This is the ceremony Toshtuk hosts!'
Let your fame live eternally in the world.

"Ayihan's son Kokboru,
Need participate in washing my feet,
I treat him like my own brother,
We share profound friendship.

"Each comer is with his own axe to grind,
Someone will take the chance and make the trouble;
'Two beauties, Nakelai and Karaboruk,
They should have been your wives,
But they are forcibly occupied by Manas.'
They must make rumors to confuse the public.

"If Ageshi and Kergokuler,
Do not let Nakelai and Karaboruk cry for my corpse,
And insist on taking them away.
Then order Bokmulon,
To kill them four at my feet,
To warn others and let enemy's hope be futile.
As witnessing Kerkokuler and Ageshi's result,
Little men of sinister motives will flee or restrain.

"I hope Kunwuer Bayi and Niskara,
Do not come and fish in troubled waters,
And descend huge disaster to Ayinla.

"My fellow Toshtuk,
You should be very careful.
Kartkalan's daughter Sayikali,

Must come to the funeral.

"You must ask her more questions,
She knows a lot about enemy's information.
You need ride on the steed and patrol constantly,
Observe enemy's movement carefully.

"Invite giant Ark Beriban who can lift a camel,
Let him carry my corpse on his back,
Take two elders Bakay and Koshaoyi,
And madam Kanikai,
And Toshtuk and Kokboru,
Go out of the city at night secretly.

"You six go together,
Bury my corpse in the graveyard,
You should cut Ark Beriban's head off immediately,
Push him into the grave,
Let him embrace my feet,
Guard my corpse in the grave forever.

"Old men have a saying,
It is said 'cut it down if you need a tree.'
Hero Bakay, please cut the tree trunk down,
Carve a 'Manas' with the wood.
I will build my grave in advance,
Please bury the woodman in the grave.

"Hold a horserace for the funeral,
Ackura steed will win the race,
Blood will splash out of its nostril.
Though it is only an animal,
It will sacrifice its life for me.

"The first vertebra of the steed,
Should be buried under my threshold.
Draw fourteen Khans' pictures,

In my grave.

"My bosom friend Toshtuk,
You should listen carefully.
Please call people in now,
You should personally,
Pull the enemy's axe out,
From my swelling back neck.

"Send messengers to Koshaoyi immediately,
Report him the news of Manas' coming.
Kirgiz people of white felt hat,
You need protect our homeland from other tribes' invading.

"This is what I need warn you,
If anything else need to be discussed,
You can discuss with others."

Hero Manas finished his words,
He felt thirsty and exhausted,
He summoned up when he was going to pass out.

"If the black mane wolf leaves the world,
How will the fate of all Kirgiz be?"
As witnessing this,
People there were all extremely grieved.

Toshtuk asked others to open the wound,
He managed to find the axe hole,
Rotten flesh became sticky,
The pus continued running down.
Like rotted lake was rolling,
It made a noise like ice.
Bad smell wafted from the wound,
Spread all over the yurt.

People were busy rushing from one to another,

Poured basins of pus,
In the wilderness continuously.
They could not pull the axe out quickly,
Tried a lot of ways but did not work at all,
Finally they threaded the ax hole with a rope,
Let Ackura steed pull it out.

The battleax the bastard used,
Was not normal.
Bakay, Toshtuk,
Lowered their heads and watched carefully:

The ax was as wide as a door sheet,
It inserted deep in the neck.
Manas was a real hero in the world,
He even did not feel the pain at all.

After saying goodbye to hero Toshtuk,
Manas mounted and started off again.
Leopard Manas went around Arpa,
Passed by Atbash and went on toward Taras.

Koshaoyi had got the news,
So he waited on the way to welcome the hero.
Manas requested Koshaoyi to go with him,
Koshaoyi did not accept it.

Manas had to tell the words in his deep heart,
To Koshaoyi reasonably:
"You are my noblest uncle Koshaoyi,
Your blessing can bring good fortunes to our homeland.

"From my childhood,
I, Manas, never yield to enemies,
I fell into enemy's trap carelessly,
And made my neck cut by the poison ax.

"You, Khan Kata and my father are brothers,
You are my uncle and I respect you very much.
I said a lot to Toshtuk,
There is one thing important,
You should keep it firm in your mind.
My father Jagurp is your older brother,
You can unite Kanikai, Bakay,
And invite Kokboru to join you."

He parted from sage Koshaoyi,
Did not send message to Jagurp,
Returned to homeland Taras quietly.
He did not enter the Ayinla,
But pitched camp in a place of two-day journey far.
He sent Kergelchal out,
To welcome Kanikai.

"The news of Almanbet and Chuwak's death,
You should keep your mouth shut to Arukai and Korboyan.
You need explain to Kanikai,
People are complicated on the way,
Let her be on the alert,
Do not let the kid fall into other's trap.
Ask her to bring Semtaiy,
Let me see my son's lovely face."

Kergelchal urged Acborchok steed,
Galloped ahead with dust raised high behind.

When the dawn was coming,
Rash Kergelchal,
Came to Kanikai's door.

Kanikai could predict the future,
Right on the day before,
She sent sttendants to the pasture,
Led her the black steed with white forehead,

Tied in front of her door.

Kergelchal urged his steed and came,
Tied his steed beside that grey steed,
He walked with heavy steps,
Toward Kanikai's yurt.

Kanikai sat in the yurt,
She had noticed the noise outside.
Someone came on a steed hurriedly,
Dismounted and tied the steed,
Sneaked toward her yurt,
Nothing escaped Kanikai's eyes.

Kanikai was smart full of wisdom,
She lit a candle and watched the movements.
When the person came by her door,
She took out the sharp knife,
Grasped it tight in the hand:

"Does someone hatch a sinister plot?
Does he try to kill my son?
Unscrupulous Kobosh,
Harbors an evil intention of killing Semtaiy."
When Kanikai thought about this,
No matter who came with evil intention,
She would not fear to face them.

Since the lion went on the expedition,
Khan's daughter, heroine Kanikai,
Never took her clothes off,
She was always half-awake when she slept.
For quite some time,
She did not have even one good sleep.

Kergelchal lifted the door curtain and walked in,
His respected sister-in-law Kanikai,

Grasped the dagger tight,
Was ready to attack the person invaded.
Kergelchal greeted as he walked in:
"My sister-in-law, are you all right?
Does your Semtaiy sleep well?
The candle is still on at this time,
Why do you guard the door nervously?"

Kanikai continued the talk:
"Uncle Kergelchal, it is you,
Semtaiy is growing up,
During the war time,
How can I sleep sound?

"Respected Kergelchal,
Are you safe and sound now?
All Kirgiz people of white felt hat,
Great commander Ayikoler Manas,
Elders Muzburchak and Bakay,
Are they still safe?

"Kergelchal,
Forty warriors you lead,
Does any of them sacrifice the life?
Heroes Almanbet and Chuwak,
They are capable assistants of lion Manas,
Kergelchal,
What are their situations?

"Half-brothers of the lion,
Keep loyal to the lion,
The backbones the lion could depend on,
Kergelchal,
How are Sirak and Sirk?

"Sharp-tongued Aji Bayi,
Alabye who is absolutely necessary in making plans,

Aram Bayi who is responsible for trade caravan,
Humorous Jayisan.

"Fighting together with the hero since he was young,
Accompanied by the hero all the time,
Kergelchal,
Is Majik still safe?
Kutunay from Alajan tribe,
Kergelchal,
Is he safe and sound now?"

Like she was together with the expedition troops,
Or she led troops and went on expedition personally,
Or Kanikai could predict the future,
She had felt the bad news in the battlefield,
She asked carefully one after one.

Seeing Kanikai's nervous expression,
Kergelchal could not control his feeling,
Burst into a loud cry,
How his weak body,
Could bear such grief.

As madam Kanikai saw this,
She seemed to have known everything.
She grasped tight the handle of the dagger,
Drew it out from the sheath forcibly,
Prepared to end her life.

Kergelchal seized her wrist quickly,
Tears ran down along his beard,
He choked and said to Kanikai:
"Please listen carefully,
All information from the battlefield.
Since your mount has been saddled,
Please start off right now with me,
Go and welcome hero lion Manas.

"Our Khan Ayikoler Manas,
He is still alive though he is injured.
Noble elder Bakay,
Takes good care of Manas.

"Your kergelchal comes,
To tell you the details specially.
All the minor details of other things,
You will know clearly later.
Please take Semtaiy with you,
Let him see his own father."

Heard what Kergelchal said,
Knew that Ayikoler was returning,
She got busy and anxious,
Asked Kergelchal to saddle the steed immediately.

She walked out of the door hurriedly,
Turned round and went into Saritaz's room.
Saritaz tossed and turned restlessly,
Opened his eyes and could not fall asleep.

Kanikai said to him gently:
"I come to you personally,
Please do not be sad after my words,
You picked a baby from the wilderness,
Took care of him like your heart.

"Now I will give Semtaiy to you,
Please exchange your son with mine.
The lion is on the way back home,
I will say the boy is Semtaiy,
I will tell the secret later.

"The lion's eyes are glowing,
Not only the living people,
Even he gazes at an animal,

It will not feel at ease.

"Until Semtaiy can ride a steed and go on expedition,
I will not ask for him.
Today I will present him to you,
Do not think too much,
Just give your son to me.

"Your kid has a dark face,
Has skewed eyes,
No matter how the hero looks at him,
He will not be hurt by the hero's eyes."

Saritaz responded to Kanikai in this way:
"If you really do not want Semtaiy,
Respected Kanikai,
Do not take the word exchange as an excuse."

The boy Saritaz picked from the wilderness,
Kanikai carried him on the steed,
Innocent Semtaiy,
Stayed at home with Saritaz.

Before the lion went on expedition,
Semtaiy was still lying in the cradle,
His father returned three years later,
At this time,
Semtaiy had been three years old.

Qierdy and Kanikai,
Raised the boy Semtaiy carefully,
Did not let him walk out of the Ayinla;
Awekai, Kobosh and Jagurp,
Had never seen his real appearance.

Who had ever,
Got to Saritaz's door?

The baby Saritaz picked,
No one knew the secret,
Who could come and ask?

The boy was with round face and wide shoulders,
He was very sturdy,
His cheeks bulged out,
His face was round and fat.

Kanikai held the boy in her arms,
Warned Saritaz:
"The lion returns from the battlefield with bad injury,
I am full of grief.
Today you need move out from here,
It is dangerous for the boy to stay here.
If he sees people familiar,
He must cry loudly and disturb neighbors.

"Till we raise head and shoulders above others,
You will be the manager of the palace,
All that I said is true.
You can move in Yechykelik mountain,
Herd goats to maintain your livelihood,
Just wait for the day to come.

"You should always remember my warning,
Keep in touch and do not stop,
Everything you need in life,
I can supply you.

"You are a man and I am a woman,
We can shake hands for it,
At last it is our agreement."

Wise sister-in-law Kanikai,
Held the strange boy,
Rode on the steed and went with Kergelchal,

No one noticed her at night.

On next morning,
Smart Kanikai,
Saw the figures in the distance.
She dismounted and loosed the halter,
Let the steed run freely.
Her long dress dragged on the ground,
She was of neat figure and with light steps,
Like a peacock danced on the pasture.

After Kergelchal started off,
Koshaoyi also caught up with the troops,
Joined the troops and welcomed the hero.

Seeing sage Koshaoyi,
Kanikai bent and bowed to him;
After saluting Bakay,
Gave warm greetings to the lion Ayikoler.

They shook hands and gazed at each other,
Kanikai's eyes swam with tears.
The black mane wolf, hard to find in the world,
His face turned pale:

"Kanikai, my wife,
Bring me my son and let me kiss him.
The boy has not grown up yet,
He does not get the age to shake hands and greet.
Does he grow gradually,
And make us feel his sturdy figure?"

The lion felt excited,
Eagering eyes looked into Kanikai's eyes.
Kanikai did not take the boy to the front of the lion,
But turned the boy round,
Showed the boy's back neck,

Looked at the lion quietly.

"If I hand the boy over to him,
He must kiss the boy warmly,
Then knows the secret through the smell,
He will think he has lost his son,
Then he will blaze with anger."

Kanikai thought and responded in this way:
"My dear lion,
Do not blame my innocent thought,
Your own son,
Should be held in your arms.
No one gets good luck once you look at him,
No one could be alive once you gaze at him,
I am just worried about this.

"You have suffered hardships from enemy,
Now return home through hard times,
As long as you are safe,
You will see your son anyway.

"The lion, I beg you,
We'd better start off right now,
Your son is in my arms,
We do not delay on the way."

"My wife, do not be so cruel,
Just let me kiss his neck,
Even if I cannot see his face,
I just want to kiss his back neck."

Kanikai held the kid tight in his arms,
For a long time,
Let her smell penetrate into the boy's body,
Then handed the lion over to the lion.

The hero held the kid in his hands,
Lowered his head and tried to kiss the boy's back neck,
Before his beard touched the kid,
He raised his head right away and asked:

"Kanikai, it is not good,
The kid smells so bad,
How you can make the kid so dirty."
Kanikai showed an upset expression,
Lowered her head quietly.

People all mounted,
The troops started off toward Ayinla again.
Hearing the news of the hero's returning,
People rushed about telling the news,
Gathered in the huge yard.

Fellow villagers all came up,
To help the hero.
Crowd stood on both sides,
Witnessed the lion's wounds clearly.

They did not dare to ask,
Discussed secretly with grief:
"Manas and Bakay,
Baymart and Kergelchal,
Are there only them four alive?

"Heroes Almanbet and Chuwak,
Powerful forty warriors,
Do they all fall into enemy's hands?
Or steeds are all exhausted,
Do they bring up the rear?"

People puzzled their brains to find the answer,
But they had no idea about the answer.
Right at this moment,

Lion Ayikoler opened his eyes,
Looked around at his fellows:

"Please put up the felt yurt right now,
To support Almanbet and Chuwak's yurts.
In ten days,
The troops will arrive then."
The lion told them the simple words,
Closed his mouth and kept quiet.

Kergelchal and Baymart,
Were arranged by eagle Bakay,
Bakay was commanding there,
Everyone would obey his order.

People came in a continuous stream,
Kanikai helped the lion take off his armor.
Seeing the lion's wound,
Which tugged at her heartstring:
"When was the axe pulled out?
If you come back without pulling the axe out,
That will be the best chance to cure you."

Kanikai felt sorry for him,
Asked the hero to take the good medicine,
Washed the wound with magical medicine Kunu.
She did everything possible to cure the wound,
Encouraged and comforted the great hero.

Rotted flesh on the wound was cut off,
Flesh inflamed also was cut off,
Two magical medicines, Ebep and Sebep,
Were applied on the wound several times a day.

She asked to find fox's gall,
Smeared it on the hero's wound everyday carefully;
She asked to find condor's gall,

Ground it and applied on the wound.

She asked to capture flying condor,
Took its crop out and held in the hand,
Applied it on the surface of the wound when it was still warm.
Pus ran out of the wound,
She cleaned it in time,
Did not let any pus and blood stain the wound.

Eight days passed,
The lion felt comfortable all over,
He staggered up.
In order to cure Khan's injury,
Kanikai had tasked her mind.

When the tenth day came,
Hero Kergelchal, the headman of forty warriors,
Asked people to bring a lot of tents.
The news of Almanbet and Chuwak's death,
Should be publicized as soon as possible.

The lion asked to lead him Ackura steed,
Saddled the steed with gold saddle and silver stirrups.
Bakay, Koshaoyi started off shoulder to shoulder,
They all started off from Tortikoler prairie slowly.

They sent a messenger out for the occasion,
Let Arukai and Korboyan,
Wear black mourning apparel.
Not far from Ayinla,
They put the whip against their waists.

Black mane wolf Manas,
Burst into tears:
"Heroes Almanbet and Chuwak,
You make us tear by grief.

"It is my honor guard standing in front of me,
Behind me are my massive troops;
You are all warriors in the battlefield,
You are all brave in every battle.

"Ayasi Arukai, Borkoyan,
I march my troops to remote Kangayi,
But I lost Almanbet and Chuwak,
And my brother Sirak,
The miserable scene still makes my heart pain!

"Aji Bayi is eloquent and smart,
Kutunay is a capable general,
They sacrifice their lives in the battlefield without hesitation!

"Jayisan, Majik are my capable warriors,
They go to battles with me since they were young,
They go through thick and thin with me,
Now they both left this world,
Only let me live in the world lonely.

"Ayidarhan's son hero Kokcher,
Was powerful and impressive;
Kunwuer Bayi cut his head off mercilessly,
Only left a body of no head in the battlefield.

"Khan Budayk's son Muzburchak,
Sacrificed his life bravely in the battlefield.
I cannot face such grief,
It is god's will to let me bear the pain.
In this false world,
We can neither be alive together nor die together,
It is worthless for me to live in this world.

"When Almanbet and Chuwak were alive,
I could conquer the world impressively,
As long as they two and hero Sirak are by my side,

I can dash ahead without hesitation.

"I made an expedition to Kangayi,
Fought against them for the whole year,
The lions sacrificed one after another,
That's our pain forever.

"Now I have my wings broken,
Like an eagle fall on the ground.
My wings have been destroyed,
I cannot fly freely again like before.

"Left my fellows and brothers,
I become a lonely and helpless man.
Those arrogant grey eagles,
Those noble but ferocious grey and white hawks,
Are my fellows in this world,
And are my patron saint after I die.

"Charge ahead as ferocious lion,
Pounce and leap as agile leopard,
Gnash the teeth as wolf.
Every hero in them,
Can subdue enemies bravely,
Finally I lost them.

"Now I become a lamb steed,
The death is approaching,
My life has lost its vital force,
Has lost its past glorious days
Like fading stars in the sky."

Manas cried with extreme grief,
He had uncontrollable sadness in his heart.
Wise madam Kanikai,
Had heavy burden of sadness and grief,
She responded black mane wolf with sad voice:

"Our tiger hero, do not be sad,
Your fellow heroes Almanbet and Chuwak,
Left whole their brave life in the battlefield;
Your brother Sirak,
Also sacrifice in the battlefield without hesitation,
You still do not need to be too sad.

"As long as you can return safely,
It is the good fortune of Kirgiz.
Heroes left us in the battle,
We cannot bring them back to life no matter how sad we are.

"Almanbet, Chuwak and Sirak,
They fought against enemies bravely,
They sacrifice their noble lives,
For Kirgiz of white felt hat.

"People respect their death,
It is nobler than die at home.
Die in the battlefield for the interest of common people,
It is more respected than die at home.

"If a man dies at home,
He will get no status.
Heroes sacrificed for their people,
Will be praised by all generations,
And become the example of future generations.
Even the time flies,
They will live in people's heart forever.

"Corpses of a lot of warriors,
Are left in remote Begin,
Warriors' achievements,
Will be praised forever.

"Generals and soldiers return,
If they do anything hurt our people,

People will blame them and consider them as bad guys.
Evil actions will be cast aside,
They will earn eternal infamy even they die."

Kanikai said a lot,
Consoled the hero sincerely.
"Your injury is dangerous,
Please go back and rest."
After repeated exhortations,
Kanikai took the lion back to home.

Wise Kanikai,
Discussed with Bakay carefully:
"Manas is heavily injured,
There is little hope to recover.
We cannot just sit by and watch,
We'd better prepare for his funeral affairs."

Our wise sister-in-law,
Prepared enough tools and food,
Together with giant Ark Beriban who can lift a camel,
Came to a place called Yechykerlik.

There were two valleys there,
Rivers flowed in the valley,
The cliff under it,
Was a place no one would notice.

Kanikai asked Ark Beriban to cut a hole in the cliff,
Then went into the hole,
Extended to all directions and cut it into a huge hole.
The hole was very broad,
It was big enough to hold five hundred people.
Dirt and rocks cut off piled in the hole first,
Then let Ark Beriban,
Move it out secretly at night,
Pour into the running river.

Let him choose different part of the river to pour,
Dirt and rocks disappeared immediately in the rapid river.
Without being noticed,
Finished the secret grave of the lion,
Then Kanikai felt a sense of relief.

In the process of digging the grave,
Madam Kanikai showed great talent.
The grave dug out from the cliff,
Looked the same with the original cliff:

Running crystal clear river,
Flowed in the valley all the time,
Craftsmen built a wood flume at the mouth of the grave,
Made the river form a waterfall there.

They took the flume away at night,
Moved dirt and rocks in the grave out;
Put the flume on during the day time,
Let the waterfall totally cover the grave.

The river ran outside of the grave,
People dug the grave inside.
The entrance of the grave,
Was cut flat and smoothly;
Piled rocks outside it,
It was natural and hard to be distinguished.

On the edge inside of the grave,
They installed spring on.
The other side of the spring,
Was fastened on an erect post.

Wise madam Kanikai,
Avoided Awekai, Kobosh and Jagurp,
Did not let any one know it.
She invited sage Koshaoyi and Khan Bakay,

To her home to discuss the funeral affairs:
"Bakay, you are the lion's bosom friend,
You are a fairy alive,
In order to hold a good funeral for the lion,
I have some ideas and need your opinions.

"I will build the grave for the hero,
How can I win more support of people?
His father is a miser,
He could sell his soul for money.

"Awekai and Kobosh,
Are his half-brothers,
You know the details of their relationship."

Uncle Koshaoyi could not control his feeling,
Tears ran down along his beard;
His tongue was out of control,
What he said was hard to hear clearly.

Uncle Bakay was very wise,
He was a treasure of wisdom,
His words were reasonable and appropriate:

"Ayasi, I think in this way,
At the time to make weapon for leopard Manas,
Lame blacksmith Bolik Bayi,
Once said like this:
'A lot places in the world,
Have reserved Keliboto iron ore and Choho red clay.
Smelted them to iron,
But it cannot be as hard as you imagine.
Only Keliboto iron ore in Oboler and Choho red clay,
Can make fine weapons.'

"Sage Koshaoyi,
I was close by the side of Bakay at the moment.

Koshaoyi called people in,
Drove the camel group to Oboler in person,
Moved back to the homeland,.
Keliboto iron ore and Choho red clay.

"Lame craftsman Bolik Bayi,
Is a skilled craftsman of Kirgiz,
He knocked rocks to choose iron ore,
Built furnace and smelted iron.
Ackelty firelock and Sire spear,
Achy Abaris sword and battleax,
Were all made by this highly skilled man.

"We send him messengers right now,
Lead tall dromedaries,
Move Choho red clay from Oboler,
Mix the clay and oil together,
Build that grand cemetery."

Heard what Bakay said,
In order to keep the lion's dignity,
Madam Kanikai tried her best,
Gave full play to her talent,
Arranged everything well secretly.

She asked to lead her one thousand camels,
Prepared bags and ropes well,
Sent camels to Oboler,
Began to carry the clay back to their homeland.

Made square dirt bricks,
Butchered eighty thousand goats and extracted oil,
Fired the dirt bricks into fine bricks,
Built the grand and solid grave.

Even nine centuries passed,
The grave would not be corroded.

In order to enhance the value of the grave,
They invited famous calligrapher,
Carved every word of the achievements of Manas,
On the wall of the grave.

Lion Khan Manas,
Almanbet, hero Chuwak,
Muzburchak and Kokcher,
Brave Sirak,
Heroes had their bodies separated with their heads,
And numerous Kirgiz warriors.
Venerable sages alive,
Koshaoyi and Bakay,
Their heroic lives,
Were all drawn on the wall of the grave.

Chose fine clay,
To carve the statue of Manas,
These statues were buried secretly,
Only old Bakay kept the secret in the mind.
Wise Kanikai,
Did all these things appropriately.

The sun of Arashi was going to set,
The heart of Manas beat slower and slower,
The wound was hurt and inflammation spread,
The death was approaching.

Ayihan's son Kokboru,
Led hero Koyonaler,
Came a long distance to visit the lion.
Kanikai told him:
"My respected Ayasi,
I will tell you the details now.

"Your eternal bosom friend,
Has already had no strength to support himself.

The pitch dark night,
Is gradually covering us under it.

"If he shuts his eyes suddenly,
Who can deliver the news to the public?
The lion's two brothers,
Instead of sending someone to deliver news,
They will be happy about this,
They will focus on dividing the livestock and property.

"Buhara and Yurkenichy's relatives by marriage,
Are all most honorable close relatives,
They did not come and visit,
There is no need to send the news to them,
You should know the secret in it.

"Karahan is old and weak now,
He lives on his brother's expression,
He has little use in this matter.
Timirhan and Shatimir,
They two hardly ride their steeds and go out,
Cannot come and visit the hero,
We do not need to send them news.

"Elaman's son Toshtuk,
You must send him the news.
Before the lion passes away,
For Kerkokuler, Ageshi and Yurbi,
We cannot reveal the secret to them.

"After the lion leave the world,
Then we will announce the death to them.
Senchybek administers Andijan,
Malabek stations Badak mountain,
Arabek in Balerk,
Kozbek in Dushanbe,
My Ayasi,

You administer Betbakt.

"Murzhakmart in Huloshan,
Dawutay in Keyiba,
Tabalder in Yarkant,
Nalahon stations Hotan,
Alahon in Kashgar,
Karacha on the bank of Lop Nor.

"If we tell them the news,
Before the hero passes away,
They will come and visit the hero for the last time,
Maybe they cannot catch up the last time,
They can only see the hero off in the funeral.

"Kelichy and Nishapur,
It is a far distance from Kashmir to here,
So there is no need to bother them.

"Andijan, Tashkent, Namangan,
People there live a poor life.
We have limited poor people,
Presents of the funeral have no people to claim,
They are also not interested in it.
So we should bring some people from that side,
To accept the presents.

"Kazakh people in Alma-Ata,
They have broad pasture around the city,
They are not far from Altay,
Two places are contiguous and contact frequently.

"We'd better choose two messengers,
Among our troops,
Let them deliver the news to everywhere.
Are there fiery horses that never stops when climb mountains?
Are there steeds that never feel tired when cross Gobi desert?

We can take the chance and test them."

Two elders Koshaoyi and Bakay,
Kanikai and warrior Kokboru,
They were well-considered.
Ayihan's son Kokboru,
Expressed his opinion:

"My mount is Timirkok steed,
It is a swift steed and never sweats.
It does not fear the hot and the dry in Gobi desert,
Even it runs for ten days in the desert,
It does not even give a glance to the dirty dead water.

"My fellow Koyonaler came together with me,
He is a famous warrior.
Ayikoler and I are bosom friends,
I will show the affection between us.
I will let my warrior ride on my mount,
Let him wear the battle robe,
Start off now and send the letter of the lion's terminal sickness.

"Let him go to the southwest first,
Then go to the northeast,
To Karacha of Lop Nor,
Must deliver the news as soon as possible."

"The news to the northwest and the east,
Who can go and deliver the letter?"
People looked all around,
To choose appropriate generals and steeds.

Right when people were reluctant,
In order to greet the lion,
Bokmulon arrived in time,
His fellow Karachunak followed him.

Kanikai led him aside,
Said to him sincerely:
"You held the ceremony for your father,
Made a lot of troubles for our people.

"You acted on your own way recklessly,
Your thinking was flawed all over,
You invited guests from all directions,
Kara Ketay and Karamark enemies,
Turned out and invaded us.

"Your brother Manas showed his power,
Made enemy's plot fail.
The plot came to nothing in the ceremony,
Kunwuer Bayi fled to Kangayi,
Plundered away,
All horses out of Kapaler.

"Arashi people were plundered,
Complained to us about it.
Hero lion Manas,
Could not bear the humiliation,
Then decided to go on expedition to Begin.

"Every man who can ride a horse,
Went with him to the expedition.
They thought you are a spoiled boy since you were little,
You never go to a battle,
In order to protect you,
They let you stay at home.

"We were discussing the person to deliver the letter,
You just come in time.
The west and the southwest,
We have sent Koyonaler to deliver the letter;
The northwest and the east,
We still do not find a suitable person.

"For your father's ceremony,
Manas put his heart and soul into it,
Now it is about his matter,
Bokmulon, is there anyone else except you?"

Hearing what the madam said,
Naughty Bokmulon resoponded quickly:
"What you said is totally true,
You are worried about it,
Why don't you tell me earlier?

"Wise sister-in-law,
I come at the right time.
I will give my magical steed Manikar,
To Karachunak to ride.

"He is like me,
He won the family's favor since he was little.
I will let him go everywhere,
Spread your words to all places."

Kanikai responded after hearing it:
"Hero Jedigair stations Jetsu,
Is one branch of Kirgiz,
Their headman is Khan Baersh.

"Muzburchak's younger brother,
Kozchak stations Alma-Ata.
Between Kirgiz and Kazakh in Kapaler,
There is a famous hero called Sakchak,
He always socializes among Arashi people.

"Venerable Ayidarhan,
Is a noble Khan,
Lost famous hero Kokcher,
His throat is fishy and lips are dry.

"There are numerous Arashi in Yili,
We must send the news to them.
In Yuchykarkela and Kemin,
Khan Yurbi is brave and wise.

"Stations Jetoguz,
Administers Yisek lake and its peripheral areas,
It is famous Khan Ageshi.
In Hami and Turpan,
People of seven tribes,
Are all tied of blood with Kirgiz Arashi.

"People of famous Balikun, Manas city,
And Beshbalk,
We should send the news to them too."

Ayidar's son Chuwak,
Accepted the order and prepared well,
Started off under the cover of the night.

Clever Koyonaler,
Delivered the news to everywhere,
Only two places, Buhara and Yurkenichy,
He did not get there.
Two Khans, Karahan and Akunhan,
No one sent them the letter.

Koyonaler headed back from Lop Nor,
Went around the edge of Andijan,
Came to the front of Namangan city,
An old man called Oliyachaler,
Met with him there.

He pulled the halter and dismounted,
Walked up and saluted the old man.
He saw the elder, Oliyachaler,
His words made the old man very unpleasant:

"For the sake of hero Ayikoler Manas,
For the sake of people's will,
I deliver the news.
If your incantation has its magical power,
Please help hero Manas get rid of the pain.

"If he really goes to heaven,
That is the calling from Khuda.
Please let me finish my words,
Then go to Taras to visit him immediately."

After hearing the words,
Oliyachaler got angry right away.
He was short but agile,
His words were all unpleasant to ears:

"Where are you coming and going?
No matter when and where,
We are prosperous with adequate food and clothes.
Who wants to go that Taras?

"Manas gathered is evil property,
Who wishes to get his presents?
Only for a few funeral presents.
We do not want to suffer the hardships on the way,

"If you invite us sincerely,
You'd better bring us fine steeds,
Which can run thousand miles a day.
Provide delicacies for lunch,
Butcher and cook sheep for supper.
If you cannot do any of them,
We will not be satisfied,
You just go back by the way you came quietly."

As Koyonaler heard this,
He responded immediately:

"Put up white felt yurt at where you spend lunch break,
That is also the yurt you sleep at night.

"Give you high grade cloak to wear,
Give you fine steed with gold saddle and silver stirrups,
I invite you to go with such courtesy,
It is the best respect to you.
When we get there,
If hero Manas has passed away,
Do you have the ability to bring him back from death?"

As Oliyachaler heard these words,
He blazed with anger immediately:
"Let me use my magical power,
Bring the dead back to life;
Where are you coming from?
How can you ask me to bring Manas back from death?

"Have you ever witnessed the death?
Did anyone dead come back to life?
Do not make me angry and let me curse,
Lose your life when you are young.
You are still a young man,
Do not sacrifice your life innocently here."

Impetuous hero Koyonaler,
Was filled with fury after those words:
"Since you love the heath so much,
You should have been in the grave."

He drew his Buldur whip out,
Lashed this guy spoke insolently severely.
Short Oliyachaler,
Rolled on the ground under the whip.

About ninety people lived there,
He rushed ahead and forced these people,

Whipped them like driving cow flocks.
People could not bear it,
Ran away to all directions.

He did not care the begging of the people,
Whipped them more and more severe:
"Just curse me if you have the ability!"
He lifted the stick and chased and beat,
Ninety people led by Oliyachaler,
Were all punished by Koyonaler.

They took off Slai on their heads,
Complained to him:
"We are willing to go with you on our own mounts,
We cannot go on foot…"

Koyonaler was violently tempered,
He wanted to bury these people alive:
"You said you are all sages,
Now you can fly in the sky.

"Since you are sages who can fly,
How do I have steeds for you to ride?
As long as you can fly there,
Then you do not need worry to walk back."
Koyonaler did not give in at all,
Drove them forward on foot.

The headman here called Janadler,
He led his people and came in succession.
Janadler interceded with him on behalf of them,
Presented everyone a steed.

Koyonaler chased after them,
Did not allow them to stop during the daytime,
Did not allow them to rest during the night.
Koyonaler was iron-hearted,

Drove all the people there,
Dashed toward Taras.

Koyonaler was young and impetuous,
These people cursed him a criminal should be cut to pieces.
People got the news,
And all came.

Arashi of sixty tribes,
Led by Kirgiz of white felt hat,
Kankoler basin was crowded.
The full moon was hanging in the sky,
It was right the lucky Friday.

Two elders, Koshaoyi and Bakay,
Giant Toshtuk and Kokboru,
Came to the tent the lion rested.

Seeing the lion's expression,
They felt desperate and shed their tears.
Khuda's beloved soul,
Hero Ayikoler Manas,
Has approached the time to say goodbye to the world.

The hero looked around,
Gazed at Koshaoyi for a while,
Then looked at Bakay,
Stretched his hand out as seeing Toshtuk,
And gazed at Kokboru.

Looking at Kanikai's beautiful face,
The noble hero said goodbye to the world.
From his gently opened mouth,
A gust of smoke ran to the sky,
People were all soaked with grief.

On fifteenth, the full moon night,

On Friday evening,
At this sacred moment,
He finished his rough but extraordinary life,
The noble hero left the human world.

People would leave the world anyway,
What was worthy of recalling in the world?

According to Kirgiz customs,
Spread full of grass under the corpse,
Covered the corpse with high grade white Supu cloth.
Moved the hero's corpse,
To the left of the yurt.
All kinds of curtains blocked people's view.

Nakelai and Karaboruk,
Khan's daughter Kanikai,
Unplaited their hair,
Wore black cloak,
Bowed on the top with their backs against people.

They sang the lament with sad voice,
People sat around them,
Echoed with them with grief.

Ageshi and Kerkokuler,
Came by the side of Nakelai and Karaboruk,
Lowered their voice and discussed with them secretly.
They expressed their wishes,
Said they would marry them soon.
Said they were the slaves of Manas,
They did not need to sing the lament for Manas.

These two stupid lackeys,
Did not listen to others' advices,
Stood up and left hand in hand,
Walked straight to the outside.

Eir Toshtuk could not bear any more,
Waved to Bokmulon secretly,
Called him by his side,
Said to him without restraint.

"You are the offspring of Khan Kokotoy,
Intelligent and brave.
Ageshi and Kerkokuler,
Took the chance and confessed their love to the two lackeys,
Want to occupy them.
Why they act so rashly,
Why don't they put the private things aside for a while?

"They walked in the yurt quietly,
Stopped these two lackeys to sing laments for the lion.
Those two stupid lackeys,
Did not put forward dissenting opinion.
You think carefully, such a bad behavior,
How cannot it make people furious?"

Honest and upright Bokmulon,
Would act immediately as he had ideas.
He was a famous warrior,
He was young and staunch.
He had been in high favor his family since he was little,
And was an unyielding and arrogant hero.

He once listened to Kanikai's words,
He was sincerely convinced by her words.
Now he heard what Toshtuk said,
A gust of anger raised in his heart.

He looked back and saw two men and two women,
They walked out hand in hand.
Bokmulon followed them,
Met with them by the door:

"Ageshi and Kerkokuler,
You two misbehave.
You pull two widows' arms,
It is really undignified to do this!"

Kerkokuler got very angry,
Ageshi argued irrationally with insulting words:
"Manas acted like overlords,
Once he occupied them forcibly.
Nakelai and Karaboruk,
Now they can remove the yoke on them."

Bokmulon tried his best to suggest them,
But they did not change their mind at all.
For these two women,
Bokmulon said to them like this:

"When you were suffering hardships,
Manas married you and took you in the palace,
Even it is only for your dignity,
You need sing the lament to express your feeling?

"It is said: the whole country is sad if a good man die,
No one will step in the threshold if a bad man die.
Ageshi and Nakelai,
Kerkokuler and Karaboruk,
You should know the sense of propriety,
Such conduct will derogate the dignity of the palace."

Hearing Bokmulon's suggestion,
None of them changed their mind.
Ageshi and Kerkokuler,
Burst into a storm of abuse;
Karaboruk and Nakelai,
Were like two mad bitches,
Talked wildly with threatening gestures.

Kokotoy's son Bokmulon,
Was a real hero.
Since he rode on the steed to the battlefield,
Few people could defeat him.

He got extremely angry,
Grasped Kerkokuler and Ageshi,
Pushed them on the ground and pressed with is knees,
Lifted the sword and cut their heads off,
Two bastards became the sacrifice of hero Manas.

Numerous general at present,
No one dare come up and discourage him from doing this.
Karaboruk and Nakelai,
Did not escape from the death either.
"Go to the hell,
Go to meet your lovers in the life thereafter."

Ageshi and Kerkokuler's corpses,
Were picked by their attendants,
Nakelai and Karaboruk's corpses,
Had no one to pick,
Flies gathered in groups on their corpses,
Shihay people rode on mules,
Dragged their corpses to the cliff,
Pushed them down the bottomless cliff.

Right at this moment,
Heroine Sayikali appeared suddenly.
She wore a red cloak,
Walked as if on wings,
Into the camp of Manas.
She knelt by the corpse of the hero,
Sang the lament loudly and sadly:

"Onuzdu's ten children,
Jagurp has you, such a hero.

Katkarlan's offspring is Karacha,
Karacha is right my father.

"You administer the whole Arashi,
Never put me into your heart,
In order to show my discontent to you,
Tiger, I live with Kangayi over a long period of time.

"Once I went to fight against you,
Waved my spear and competed with you.
These all showed the hero's behavior,
The lion, please keep it in your mind firmly!

"Knotted rope finally will be untied,
The same root finally will unite.
We are blood-connected relatives,
I come especially from Kangayi,
To express my grief to your death!

"I heard unconsciously in enemy camp,
Your old enemy has planned new scheme.
They are going to gather capable troops,
Launch a second attack to you.
In order to deliver you the message,
The lion, I gallop here without resting!

"When you were alive,
Your people lived in happiness and good fortune.
You guarded your homeland and loved your people,
Brought peace and harmony to your people.
Got no chance to see your appearance,
Your beloved people all cry aloud!

"At this critical moment,
How you can leave your people.
Kirgiz people of white felt hat,
Famous land Taras,

To make your life continue by your offspring,
Your virtuous wife Kanikai,
The lion, wish you bless them!

"I just say so much as your relative,
I do not want to disturb your soul too much."

Kanikai sobbed her heart out,
Expressed herself with sad words:
"Wear the fur coat with collar turned down,
Two sleeved sway with wind.
You depart from the world without looking back,
I cry for you, tears run like a river!

"The lion of Kirgiz people,
Your achievements will live in their hearts forever.
You open the city gate of Ketay,
You will be praised forever!

"The lion of Arashi people,
The praise to you will last forever.
Your great achievement of defeating Karamark,
Will be remembered forever!

"You left the young and innocent kids,
They have no chance to listen to your instruction.
Grasped tight by the death,
Who can escape its hand?
The death has falling on the head,
Even sage Ezritaly cannot resist it,
It takes the lion to the other world on time.

"Lion, thought you are dead,
There are still Kirgiz of white felt hat in the world,
And famous homeland Taras!
You exercised your people as hard as steel,
You united your people as one person.

"People enslaved by Bektay and Karamark separately,
Got a new life in your hands;
The name of sixty tribes' Arashi,
Then was known far and wide.

"Enemies lost their prestige in front of you,
From when you were a child,
You had been the commander.
Your partner for life Kanikai,
My tears plash like a spring.

"The heir inherits your career is still young and ignorant,
Traitors go against us secretly,
Now they are ready to make troubles.
I feel threatened by growing crisis around me,
Offspring you left behind you,
The lion, they need your soul to bless them at all time!"

"Ayasi, please take care of yourself!"
Kokboru and Bakay stood up and walked out of the door.

Wise sister-in-law Kanikai,
Wiped her tears and composed herself,
Sent messengers secretly to look for Awekai,
Koboshi was also invited.

"Sirk is exhausted and cannot go on a journey,
He is arranged to rest.
Uncles Awekai and Koboshi,
Your brother has left us,
You two need take in charge of everything.
You do not just hide as strangers,
You should take the responsibility with me together.

"In our homeland Taras,
There are totally seven Khans,
Two of them have sacrificed their lives in the battlefield,

How do I distribute and treat people of these five Khans,
Please show clearly to me.

"You need call venerable elders in,
Discuss it under the cover of the night.
Arrange a banquet for the funeral,
Everything should be arranged well.

"You have five brothers and sisters,
A daughter only can marry one person.
You had three brothers at first,
Two of them died in their beds,
The only one alive is healing the wound at home.

"Please use your wisdom,
Hold the funeral and horserace,
To please the soul of the dead,
Let your brothers sleep eternally and peacefully."

Hearing what Kanikai said,
Kindhearted Awekai,
Began to act busily,
Did not dare to delay at all.

While Koboshi frawned,
Without an expression on his face,
Turned his eyes and fell in thinking,
It was difficult to ascertain his thought.

Awekai called in people,
Divided the guests into groups quickly,
To butcher mares and treat guests respectively.

The elders led by Jagurp,
Were invited by Kanikai to her home,
To discuss the process of the funeral.

Held the banquet of the funeral on the second day,
Eir Toshtuk made a speech during the banquet,
His reasonable words were praised by all.
All people were sad,
Bakay was ready to clean the hero's body.

Wise Kanikai,
Prepared everything well.

The elders washed the hero's body,
Got fifteen clothes as a reward.
Chose ninety lines of fine steeds,
Pure light grey steeds lined up.

Prepared another strong steed,
Saddled with gold saddle and silver stirrups.
Invited the hero's bosom friend Kezler Aristan,
He chanted for the hero solemnly.

The elders Bakay and Koshaoyi,
Kokboru, Toshtuk and Kanikai,
They had made well arrangements for the funeral.

For the respect to the will of Manas,
They discussed and made such a plan:
"We'd better send the hero,
To the grave during the daytime.

"Now it is almost at dusk,
We'd better let the corpse stay for a day.
During the time,
We can hold the horserace."

Horses for the race arrived at the starting point soon,
People concentrated on the result of the race.
Hero's mount Ackura,
Ran in front of all horses.

At the moment it was approaching the finishing line,
The poor steed began to bleed in nose,
Crouched on the ground and faced to the north,
Left the world to chase his master.

Hero Toshtuk came by its side,
Took the steed's body as a sacrifice of the hero.
The steed died for Manas,
Its head was put on the top of Mazar as a symbol.

The corpse was carried to the entrance of the grave,
His neck should be headed to the entrance,
In order to keep the grave ventilation,
Iron nets were cast over the entrance.

In the stillness of night,
People in Ayinla all fell asleep.
Koshaoyi, Bakay and Kokboru,
Noble sister-in-law Kanikai,
Without knowing by anyone,
They invited hero Arkberiban.

Let him carry the hero's corpse,
Came to the cave they had dug secretly.
Inserted the wood flume,
Made the river changed the direction.
Under the glare of the lantern of Banus,
Checked the condition of the grave carefully.

Sage Koshaoyi, giant Bakay,
Hero Toshtuk and Kokboru,
Nodded their heads,
Praised Kanikai's arrangement.

Ornaments and articles were all complete,
They could not find any fault in it.
The cave could hold five hundred people,

It was made with exquisite workmanship.

Black Bidana leather cushions,
Were spread layer by layer,
Splendid carpet with bright patterns,
Was a rare treasure in the world.

In order to let it keep more than a hundred years,
Kanikai made it in person.
Her fellow Arukai offered advices,
All the things were made secretly.

On the splendid carpet,
Pure gold throne was put on it,
On the gorgeous throne,
White silk cushion was shining as silver.

The lion's corpse was set in the throne,
Relatives came to mourn in succession.
"Midnight has passed and the morning is coming,
We must leave this place earlier."

Magical Bakay led those people,
Walked out of the cave,
Giant Arkberiban who could lift up a camel,
Was cut off the head and put in the cave.

Installed a stone door with trigger,
Closed it tight without any crack.
They took the flume away,
Let the river flow as its original way.

Kokboru, Toshtuk,
Bakay and Koshaoyi,
They four wrapped with white winding sheet,
The wood statue had been carved,
Put it on the Tabtelin bed aside.

Dawn gleam shimmered in the east in an instant,
Tabtelin bed was carried on the black camel's back,
Came to the solemn grave.
Giant Toshtuk and Kokboru,
Put the "corpse" in the grave carefully.

Saritaz's adopted son,
Was dressed up as Semtaiy,
Threw the first hand of dirt onto the grave.

People all turned out,
Sad cries made the earth and the sky shaking,
Haunted in the valley and on the prairie long.

Sage Koshaoyi, giant Toshtuk,
Kokboru and Bokmulon,
Uncle Bakay and Kanikai,
All came and gathered in front of the grave,
Soaked their hands in blood and vowed:
"Offspring of the lion,
Who dare develop evil intentions to them,
We will kill him mercilessly,
We will bury him alive,
Make him never see the light again.

"The anniversary of lion Manas's death,
Will be a grand ceremony.
If enemies ready to make trouble dare to come,
We will show our power and braveness in the battlefield."

Kirgiz showed their wishes,
People broke willows, bit arrows in two and vowed,
Made iron pledge.

Hero Bakay said goodbye to the fellows,
Consoled madam Kanikai sincerely,
Mounted the stepped on his returning journey.

The story of lion Manas ends like this,
Next time let us listen to the life story,
Of Manas's son Semtaiy.

Postscript

Manas is one of the three biggest epics in China. It is an epic of national heroes that is famous around the world and it is equally famous with Homer's Epic as the World Intangible Cultural Heritage. As the important books supported by National Publishing Fund program, finally it comes to readers after a long time hard work. It is a big event of Chinese nation and cultural life of Kirgiz. It is also a big event of excellent Chinese traditional culture marching to the forest of world literature and a substantive achievement of protection of Chinese intangible cultural heritage.

Manas is a national folk singing literature that enjoys the popularity among people. It is a national oral folk literature that numerous Manaschy sing. It has different singing varieties of forms and styles. It is a classical folk encyclopedia that is accumulated by generations of Manaschy and spreads in areas of Kirgiz in China, Kyrgyzstan and central west Asia for thousand years. Manas in China, represented by eight books 232 thousand lines sung by Jusup Mamay, takes fancy of Kirgiz people, has a brilliant history and is the essence of wisdom of the Chinese nation and culture and art treasures created by Kirgiz people.

Manas, published in Kirgiz, Chinese and English language, is sorted and translated according to the singing of Jusup Mamay, who is the great singer of Manas, the inheritor of the National Intangible Cultural Heritage, the modern Homer called by epic world at home and abroad, the national treasure called by leaders of the nation and the only master who can sing eight books, namely more than 232 thousand lines of the heroic epic.

Thanks to the reform and opening up of China, the great attention from the Party Committee and People's Government of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, the great support from Kirgiz people, and the unremitting pursuit and hard work of three-generation experts, scholars and many cadres of Party and Government, Xinjiang People's Publishing Group and Xinjiang People's Publishing House applied for the National Publishing Fund project to publish Manas into Kirgiz, Chinese and English language by stages.

Since Manas was found in 1960s, the Party Committees and Governments at all levels paid high attention to it, aided it and supported it. From the Nation, to Autonomous Region, to Autonomous Prefecture, they all treated the sorting, translating and publishing of Manas as a very important ethnic culture protection project. Though going through hardships, in the first ten years of 21st century, protection of Manas ethic culture reached a new level. Different version, different style and different format of Manas got published gradually and collected edition of Kirgiz, Chinese and English Manas aided by National Publishing Fund will be published soon.

During the process of the sorting, translation and publication of Manas, leaders of the State Press and Publication Administration and the National Publishing Fund Office greatly supported the collected edition of Kirgiz, Chinese and English Manas. Chunxian Zhang, member of Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee and Party Secretary of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, and Nur Baikley, Chairman of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region made important comments on and demanded several times to carry out the sorting, translation and publication of Manas. In order to carry out the spirit of Xinjiang Working Conference and make greater efforts for helping Xinjiang on culture and publication, Tilwardi Abuduresity, Vice Chairman of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, went to Beijing personally to discuss the working of helping Xinjiang on culture and Publication with leaders of International Press Publication Administration. Memety Aishan, former Vice Chairman of Committee of CPPCC of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, and Yorguli Japar, Vice Director of People's Congress of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region, Gave long-term attention and guide on the sorting, translation and publication, and emphasized many times to turn Manas into classics, competitive works and masterpiece. Past and present leaders of the Party Committee and Government of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture attached great importance to the sorting, translation and publication of Manas, and carried out on manpower, material resources, financial resources and energy. Past and present leaders of Literary Federation of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region attached great importance to the sorting, translation and publication of Manas, devoted great energy on collecting, sorting and compiling of Manas. Department of Culture of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region paid highly attention to protection of intangible cultural heritage Manas, and gave financial support actively on the protection. During the process of the sorting, translation and publication of Manas, Manas Chinese Translation Committee, Manas Researching and Protecting Center of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture and Manas Researching and Protecting Center of intangible cultural heritage of Xinjiang Normal University provided great and selfless support.

During the process of the sorting, translation and publication of Manas, from topic planning to report, from manuscript revising to polishing, from fund raising to implementing the project, Xintai Zhang, Party Secretary, Chief Editor and Full Senior Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing Group, treated the translation and publication of Manas as a major topic, devoted great efforts and pains. From the topic choosing to the approval of the project, Abudurehman Aibai, Director and Full Senior Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing Group, devoted great efforts and attention, pushed ahead all the work selflessly. As experts of Evaluation group, Ping Kang (Vice Party Secretary and Vice Chief Editor of XinJiang People's Publishing Group), Bin Liu (Former Party Secretary of Literary Federation of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region), Hongchao Zhang (Vice Chairman of Association of Social Sciences of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region and Chief Editor of Xinjiang Social Science Forum), Yingfu Luo (Former Deputy Chairman of Xinjiang Literary Federation and the Critic of Folklore), Maklek (Editor of Language and Translation of Language Committee of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region), Man-bet (Professor of Xinjiang Normal University), Yanhu Cui (Professor and Master's Supervisor of Humanities School of Xinjiang Normal University), Jumark Kader (Former Deputy Director of People's Congress and Chairman of Literary Federation of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture), and Jihong He (Former Director and Editor of Chronicles Compilation Office of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture) read and approved the manuscript.

During the process of the sorting, translation and publication Kirgiz Edition of Manas, Jumark Kader (Former Deputy Director of People's Congress and Chairman of Literary Federation of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture), Maklek (Editor of Language and Translation of Language Committee of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region), Adili (Researcher of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences), Manbet (Professor of Xinjiang Normal University), Abudulay (Director and Editor of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Language Publishing House), Dolkun Turdi (The Chief Editor of Xinjiang Kirgiz Literature of Literary Federation of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region), Nurouz (Associate Full Senior Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing House), Memetihari (Associate Full Senior Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing House), Yisakbek (Associate Researcher of Manas Researching Office of Literary Federation of Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region), Shabirjan (Associate Full Senior Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing House) and Tohetouly (The Vice President of Experimental Middle School of Wuqia County of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture) reviewed the manuscript. Memetihari did the first review, Nurouz and Abudulay did the second review and Shalifuhan did the final review.

During the process of the sorting, translation and publication of Chinese edition of Manas, Jumark Kader made the check and comparison, Jihong He did the polishing and addendum, Ming Li did the work of editing, Xiguo Liu did the second review, Xintai Zhang did the final review and Qing Chao did the proofreading. Yingfu Luo (Former Deputy Chairman of Xinjiang Literary Federation and the Critic of Folklore), Manbet (Professor of Xinjiang Normal University), Yanhu Cui (Professor and Master's Supervisor of Humanities School of Xinjiang Normal University), Jumark

Kader (Former Deputy Director of People's Congress and Chairman of Literary Federation of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture), Jihong He (Former Director and Editor of Chronicles Compilation Office of Kirzilsu Kirgiz Autonomous Prefecture) and Nurouz (Former Director of Kirgiz Language Department of Xinjiang People's Publishing House) attended the conference of checking and approving of the manuscript and gave very positive evaluation.

During the process of the sorting, translation and publication English edition of Manas, Hongyan Li, Gary Chou, Greg Meeks, who under pressure, pushing aside all obstacles and difficulties, the English translation work is completed on time. Professor Yanhu Cui examined it, Dr. Zhenhui Liang polished on words and compared and sorted the verses. Shan Gao and Qing Chao did the first review. Chinese American Zhenting Wu, Jingting Wu, Yanyong Zhao and Juan Li did the proofreading.

Kanhai Liu, Associate Senior Art Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing House, designed the cover and the format. The painter Ruijiang Luo meticulously created illustrations. Qing Chao did a lot of editing work. Under the guide of Xintai Zhang, Party Secretary and Chief Editor of Xinjiang People's Publishing Group, Abudurehman Aibai, Director of Xinjiang People's Publishing Group, Project Manager Ming Li of Kirgiz, Chinese and English edition of Manas Successfully accomplished the first-term publishing project of National Publishing Fund, and have applied for the second-term project. Now he is under the preparation of manuscript for the third-term project.

The proofreading, revision and review group of English:

Adili Jumatuerdi (Director and researcher of the Northern Literature Research of the Minority Literature Research Institute of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences)

Yanhu Cui (Professor and Master's Supervisor of Humanities School of Xinjiang Normal University)

Xinrong Wu (American Doctor, Senior Manager of the American Intrexon)

Zhenhui Liang (Doctor of the Xinjiang Normal University)

Shan Gao, Qing Chao, Yanyong Zhao, Juan Li

The English edition group:

The Final Review: Xintai Zhang

Review: Xinrong Wu (American Doctor, Senior Manager of the American Intrexon), Yanhu Cui (Professor and Master's Supervisor of Humanities School of Xinjiang Normal University), Zhenhui Liang (Doctor of the Xinjiang Normal University)

The First Review: Shan Gao, Qing Chao

Proofreading: Zhenting Wu (External teacher from America), Yanyong Zhao, Juan Li

The contacts of the project:

Memetihari (Kirgiz), Ming Li (Chinese and English), Qing Chao (compilation)

Cataloging – In – Publication (CIP) Data

The Kirgiz ' s Heroic Epic of China : Manas . Book One/Hongyan Li translated . —— Urumqi : Xinjiang People ' s Publishing House , 2013 . 12
ISBN 978-7-228-16998-6
I . The … II . Li … III . Kirgiz — Epic — China — English IV . ① I222 . 7

Archives Library of China Cataloging-In-Publication Data 228762 (2013)

Copyright@2009 Kirgiz Edition Manas of Xinjiang People ' s Publishing House sung by Jusup Mamay

Responsible Editor : Shan Gao
Qing Chao
Designer : Kanhai Liu
Painter : Ruijiang Luo

The Kirgiz ' s Heroic Epic of China : Manas

(Book One , Volume One to Four)

Singing : Jusup Mamay

Editing : Manas Translation Editing and Publication Committee

Translating : Hongyan Li , Gary Chou , Greg Meeks

Published : Xinjiang People ' s Publishing Group , Xinjiang People ' s Publishing House
Issued : Xinjiang People ' s Publishing House
Address : No . 348 Jiefang South Road Urumqi
Zip Code : 830001
Tel : (0991) 2823172
Platemaking : Xingjiayi Graphic Design Co . Ltd Urumqi
Printed : Beijing Shuncheng Printing Co . Ltd
Format : 787 × 1092 1/16
Sheet : 112.75
Edition No . : First Edition in December 2013
Print No . : First print in December 2013
Print run : 1-3 000
Price : 300 . 00RMB

图书在版编目(CIP)数据

中国柯尔克孜族英雄史诗玛纳斯：插图本. 第1部：英文 / 李红燕编译. —— 乌鲁木齐：新疆人民出版社,2013.12
ISBN 978-7-228-16998-6

Ⅰ. ①中… Ⅱ. ①李… Ⅲ. ①柯尔克孜族-史诗-中国-英文 Ⅳ. ①I222.7

中国版本图书馆 CIP 数据核字(2013)第 228762 号

译本的版权依据新疆人民出版社 2009 年出版的《玛纳斯》居素普·玛玛依演唱、《玛纳斯》汉译工作委员会编译、阿地里·居玛吐尔地翻译本

责任编辑　高　珊　晁　清
整体设计　刘堪海
插　　图　罗瑞江

中国柯尔克孜族英雄史诗玛纳斯：插图本

第一部 玛纳斯 1-4 卷

居素普·玛玛依　演唱
《玛纳斯》翻译编辑出版委员会　编译
李红燕、盖瑞、格里高利·B·米克斯　翻译

出 版　新疆人民出版总社
发 行　新疆人民出版社
地 址　乌鲁木齐市解放南路 348 号
邮 编　830001
电 话　(0991)2823172
制 版　乌鲁木齐形加意图文设计有限公司
印 刷　北京顺诚彩色印刷有限公司
开 本　787 × 1092　1/16
印 张　112.75
版 次　2013 年 12 月第 1 版
印 次　2013 年 12 月第 1 次印刷
印 数　1-3 000 册
定 价　300.00 元

（版权所有　违者必究）